KIWANIS CLUB TO OBSERVE LADIES NIGHT

First Meeting Of New Year Will Be Gala Affair; Observed Annually

The annual "Ladies' Night" will be observed by the members of the Clanton Kiwanis Club when they gather for their weekly meeting and luncheon at the Thomason Hotel tonight (Thursday), at 7:30 o'clock.

"Ladies' Night" is observed annually by the Club at the first meeting of the new year, and is anticipated eagerly by the Club as one of the most entertaining gatherings during the year. At this time each member has as his guest his wife, or if unmarried, his lady friend.

At the meeting tonight the Club's new President, J. C. Page, will preside. A most interesting program has been arranged by the Program Committee, and consists of a musical program furnished and directed by Miss Katherine Foss, Mrs. Percy Pitts, Percy Pitts, Jr., and Dr. C. O. Lawrence. A short talk will be rendered by the Rev. J. L. Daniel, new pastor ofthe Clanton Methodist Church. The Rev. Daniel is just recovering from an attack of influenza, and definite assurance that he would be there could not be given.

"Ladies' Night", to say the least, is a gala night for members of the Kiwanis Club and their guests, and President Page has expressed the hope that every member will attend in company with the wife or lady friend.

At the last meeting of the Club, installation of the year's new officers was made and a general discussion of the year's work—past and present, was held.

Clanton Elmore Store Plans Expansion Soon

According to an announcement by V. J. Elmore, President of the V. J. Elmore 5c, 10c & $1.00 Stores, Inc., plans for the expansion of the Clanton store, which is also the home office of the organization, have recently been completed and work will get underway this week.

Mr. Elmore stated that the Company had leased the entire Dr. Sam Johnson Building, which a part is now occupied by them and the rest by the J. D. Boardhead Market. All division walls will be removed in this building and the rear wall between the present store, making it and the new leased building into one store, which, when completed, will give a frontage of sixty feet on the Birmingham & Montgomery Highway and a frontage of thirty-one feet on Second Avenue, with a floor space of approximately 7,000 square feet, and approximately 1 thousand lineal feet of counter space. New fronts, floors, ceilings and fixtures will be installed. The entire space will be redecorated.

In addition to the above improvement to original buildings, a new two-

CITY MAY GET SWIMMING POOL SOON

City Officials Will Consider Erection Of Much Needed Pool This Year

Plans for an up-to-date swimming pool for the City of Clanton will be given consideration by City officials, it was learned the early part of this week.

A need for some recreation center for the City has been noted for several years, and the apparent solution of the water problem brings this enterprise nearer reality.

Mayor C. Fenn Jones stated the early part of this week that due consideration would be given the plan by the City Council just as soon as possible, and details worked out regarding cost, location, etc. A swimming pool was not included in the application for Federal funds for the waterworks project, but it is hoped that a new application might bring financial assistance for the plan.

Although the project has not been discussed by officials yet, Mayor Jones stated that the City owns quite a bit of property surrounding the present City wells, on which the pool might be located. This would place it near the water tanks, and close in.

It has been noted that for several years residents of Clanton, mostly, of course, the younger set, have made it a practice of going to distant towns, where swimming pools are located, to indulge in this recreational pastime during the summer months. A pool in Clanton would eliminate this practice and make it more convenient for this group.

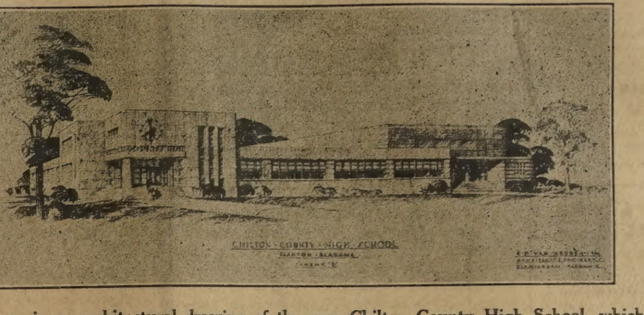
Architect's Drawing Of New Chilton County High School



Above is an architectural drawing of the new Chilton County High School, which will replace the one which burned some time ago. This drawing was made by E. B. VanKeuren, head of the E. B. VanKeuren, Inc., Architectural Engineers, whose services have been employed by the Board of Education. The building will be most modern, as may be seen. It will be of Monolithic Concrete construction and will be fire proof.

This proposed plant will be erected to accommodate 550 students, which the school survey points out will be the enrollment here during the next few years. The old building was erected to house 150 students, but at the time it burned it was serving as quarters for approxmately 400.

The auditorium of the new plant will seat 950 people. The classrooms will be standard size. The building will probably be erected on the site of the one destroyed by fire, and Assistant Superintendent Luther E. Little, who has been retained to handle the plans, etc., states that favorable progress is being made toward securing a Federal allotment to help finance the project, estimated to cost near $100,000.00.

Resolutions Passed By Co. Board Of Education

Following is a copy of resolutions passed recently by the Chilton County Board of Education regarding the recent change of Superintendents at the office:

Whereas Luther E. Little has ended his term as Superintendent of Education of Chilton County.

Be it resolved that the Board of Education of Chilton County express to Mr. Little the great pleasure and satisfaction they have had in working with him, and their regret that his term has ended;

Be it further resolved that they express their appreciation of the fine efficient service he has given the schools as Superintendent of Education;

Be it further resolved that we pledge to the New Superintendent of Education, Rascoe Maddox, our fullest cooperation and support.

Be it further resolved that a copy of these resolutions be given to both the County newspapers.

Gaines Silas Succumbs Following Brief Illness

On last Wednesday, December 28, death came to Mr. Gaines Silas, one of Chilton County's most reliable and responsible citizens. Mr. Silas died at the age of 68 years, and lived in the Enterprise Community, in this county, where he was loved and respected by all of those who knew him.

At the age of twenty-one years Mr. Silas married Miss Ida Askins and to these good people were born thirteen children, three boys and nine girls survive their deceased father, one child dying at a very young age.

Mr. Silas left his widow, twelve children and a great host of friends to mourn his loss. He had been in bad health for more than a year and his death was not so unexpected.

Funeral for Mr. Silas was held Thursday afternoon, December 29, at 2:00 P.M. from the Mt. Pisgah Church with the Rev. J. D. Hughes in charge of services and Spigener Funeral Home in charge of burial, which was in the nearby cemetery.

BIRMINGHAM DOCTOR INJURED IN WRECK NEAR COUNTY LINE

Dr. McSneedy, of Birmingham, was painfully injured in an auto accident near the Chilton-Shelby County line below Calera one day last week. According to Patrolman Earl Henley, who investigated the accident, Dr. McSneedy's car left the highway and struck the end of a bridge, damaging the car considerably and painfully injuring him. He was carried to a Birmingham hospital by a Montevallo ambulance.

Another wreck near the Chilton-Autauga line injured no one. An overloaded truck of beer overturned and damaged the truck considerably. The driver was uninjured.

Another automobile accident occurred on the highway near Verbena on Monday morning of this week. Mrs. Ella Armstrong of Ariton, Ala., was slightly injured when the car in which she was riding overturned when a truck attempted to pass the car. She was brought to the Central Alabama Hospital by a Spigener ambulance. Several other occupants of the car were uninjured.

FIREMEN HERE HAVE ANNUAL BANQUET SAT

Enjoyable Gathering Held At Nell's Eat Shoppe; Gift Presented

Last Saturday night, December 31st, members of the Clanton Volunteer Fire Department gathered at the Nell's Eat Shoppe for their annual banquet, which is looked forward to each year, and is always a gala affair.

This banquet was sponsored by Loren Smith, Fire Chief, and to say the boys enjoyed the affair would be putting it mildly.

Ottis Miller acted as toastmaster, and one of the highlights of the evening was the presentation to Chief Loren Smith by the members of the Department, of twenty-five dollars in recognition and as a token of appreciation for the splendid service he has rendered as their chief.

Members of the Clanton Volunteer Fire Department are as follows:

Loren Smith, Chief, Ted Littlejohn, Elwyn (Doodle) Gore, Ottis Miller, Odis Miller, Gene Gore, Edwin (Doonie) Wagoner, Red Wagoner, Manuel Littlefield, Ress Driver, Earl Gore, Luther Culpepper, James (Gabby) Tiffin, Charles Wade, Robert Sumner and Wilbur Scarborough.

Health Workers To Attend Conference

Chilton County will be represented at a State Conference of Health workers in Montgomery on January 9th and 10th, by Dr S. D. Sturkie, County Health Officer, Miss Margaret Rumbley, County Health Nurse and Mr. Fred H. Buckelew, County Sanitation officer, a weekly bulletin revealed this week. Health workers from the 67 counties of the State are to convene and hear addresses from outstanding health authorities. Dr. Thomas N. Parran, United States Surgeon General and head of the Public Health Service, will be among the notables present expected to take part in the program.

Meanwhile the local County health staff is busy formulating its plans for the year 1939. An outstanding feature of the new program is the department's plan to encourage the examination of more food-handlers and servant working in private homes for the purpose of discovering persons infected with communicable diseases especially tuberculosis and syphilis. Free examinations can be obtained by food handlers and servants at the office of the County Health Department, Dr. Sturkie announced. Health certificates signed by the Health Officer will be issued those who are free of communicable diseases.

A Recreation Center For Clanton

Now that the water problem for the City of Clanton appears to be solved, and the project expected to be completed within the next few months, what about a swimming pool for the City?

Heretofore whenever the subject of a swimming pool came up, there was the problem of water to be considered, and, naturally, that was a stopping point. Work on the water project will go forward from here at a rapid pace, and will be completed before many of us really know the work is underway.

So why not strike while the iron is hot and begin making plans right now for that modern swimming pool of which has been a dire need for Clanton for several years. We feel that Clanton can enjoy this pool this summer if some action will be taken immediately. And we have every reason to believe that action will be taken before Mayor C. Fenn Jones. Mr. Jones stated that he and the City Council have this project on the list for consideration just as soon as possible.

The News feels that this idea of a swimming pool should receive the cooperation of everyone interested in the welfare of Clanton and especially the younger people. We have long felt a need for just this one thing. The City owns property which would be ideal for the location of a pool, and conveniently near the water tanks. So everyone—not only the City officials—should start thinking seriously about a swimming pool for the City's use—a recreation center for the younger set of Clanton.

Reaping The Whirlwind

The nations have long been sowing the wind, and reaping and likely to continue reaping the whirlwind for an indefinite time to come. What else than the rise of a Hitler could have been the natural consequence of the allied policy toward the German people throughout the life of the German Republic.

Was it not the steadfast refusal of the allies to grànt concessions that would have strengthened the moderate and conciliatory elements in Germany which at last drove that nation in desperation to the leadership of a man who promised relief from the impossible terms of the Versailles treaty of vengeance, the man who has redeemed this promise, and who now stands clothed with power such as no mortal man ever held before, though no man knows how he will yet use that power?

It is not too late to save what is good and true in our civilization if the nations are ready to sacrifice what is bad and false, but they show no readiness to make that sacrifice—indeed, they show no ability to distinguish between what is bad and false and what is good and true.

Economic freedom means economic justice, a free field for all and no advantage or privilege for any. It is to be attained by tearing down the maze of economic obstacles and restrains which have accumulated thru the ages and are strangling the economic life of the world. Witness the countless millions who possess not even the freedom to earn an honest livlihood, and must choose between death, dependence on charity, or resort to crime!—B'ham News-Age-Herald.

Advertising Is A Vital Public Institution

The Hearst newspapers give a good lecture to certain unnamed Federal officials and economic philosophers who regard advertising as "waste".

"With their heads in the clouds or rather in the fog of confused thinking," says these papers, "these visionaries do not realize that advertising is not waste—it is a necessity of modern civilization—as much of a necessity as news."

As a matter of fact, "advertising is news—news about things that people buy and want to buy—news about things that people need in their work or in their business or in their homes or in their daily existence and endeavor. Advertising is often more valuable to them than other news, and it is often more read than ordinary news."

Continuing the interesting discourse The Hearst papers says in an editorial:

"News about events at a distance or even in nearby localities—news about war and murders and divorces and dog-fights—is not always as important to individuals and to the nation as news about standard supplies or new inventions—news about developments in industry and advantages to labor that are related in the advertising columns of the public press or in other media of publicity.

"The freedom of the press guaranteed by the Constitution means and should mean not only freedom of opinion but freedom for the publication of useful news, both in the text columns and in the advertising columns.

"This American policy of freedom of publication was evolved for the protection and benefit of the public—for the fullest information of the public concerning all the things that the public properly desire to be informed about. And it is stupidity—a characteristic form of Dull Deal stupidity—to think that people don't want to be informed about the goods and chattels and foods and furnishings and mechanisms and materials that they use in their daily occupations and daily domestic existence.

"Advertising is an institution needed by the people, demanded by the people, and created by the people to the end that the people might know what is best and buy what is best.

"The people desire to have a product advertised in order that they can know its merits, know what it costs, and know where it can be bought.

"They compel the manufacturer, the distributor and the retailer to put their products up for public information and inspection.

"By this means, they buy their food, clothe themselves, furnish their homes, provide themselves with all things necessary to their existence and all useful and enjoyable things that augment the comfort and happiness of living.

"Advertising is their most trusted market place.

"It enables them to buy wisely and shrewdly.

"It gets them the most possible for the least outlay of money.

"They hold to it rigid standards.

"No advertised product unworthy of public usage can possibly survive the pitiless scrutiny of the peole.

"Before it is advertised, a product must be put to every test.

"Its materials must be trustworthy. Its workmanship must be competent. Its price must be right.

"Advertising makes it suicidal to put a shoddy product before the people.

"Advertising is for the protection of the poeple, not their exploitation.

"This is the people's system of inspection and investigation.

"When economic tinkerers call advertising wasteful and seek to restrict it or suppress it or control it for their own selfish purposes, they are tinkering with a vital public institution, one which has made jobs for millions of people, which has helped to make American living standards the best on earth, and which has made the American public the master of its own informed and intelligent spending."

OUR CCC CAMP—

We are impressed wth the splendid progress enrollees at the local CCC Camp are making. This Company, No. 3481, "Clanchila", is made up largely of Chilton County youths. A splendid group of officers are in charge and Clanton can boast of one of the neatest and most modern camps in the country. When this camp was first set up, enrollees were from surrounding States and very few were Chilton County boys, but there has been a steady effort on the part of officials to place as many Chiilton County boys as possible in this Camp, and now "Clanchila" can boast of havng many local youths as enrollees. "Clanchila" has a splendid Soil Conservation Department, and good work in the control of erosion is being done. And then, the environment which surrounds these boys in this camp is first rate. Their educational department is rendering a splendid service to these boys. Training in various trades is offered, and experience in several lines of work is available. Several of the boys have recently secured jobs elsewhere at good salaries, and are now on their own. Clanton is fortunate in having a camp of this type located here. Visitors to the camp receive a most cordial welcome.

THE SWIMMING POOL—

Four or five months ago we commented through this column about the necessity of a recreation center for Clanton and surroundings. We are pleased to note that the City officials are considering the building of a swimming pool, now that definite arrangements have been made for an adequate supply of water. We understand that there is a possibility of a Federal grant to help finance the project. We think it is time for everybody to place their shoulders to the wheel and back this proposed project that will give us a much-needed swimming pool. Towns in Alabama much smaller than Clanton enjoy this recreation facility, so why not Clanton?

AFTER THE FIRST—

Now that the New Year has been officially ushered in, and all football games are over, it's time for Chilton County to come back to earth and really get to work. 'Round town this week we took note of the number of stores in which the clerks are busily engaged at the task of taking inventory—a job which is seldom envied by anybody. So, it's "forward march" in Clanton and Chilton County during the year 1939, with paved streets for the City, plenty of water and a swimming pool (we hope) and good business and prosperty for the County as a whole (we hope).

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

The old squire in a rural court made a ruling that was so unfair and so unjust that three young lawyers leaped to their feet and protested vigorously. The man with authority stroked his beard and said, "Each of you young gentlemen will pay the Clerk five dollars for contempt of court." When the money was collected an old lawyer present arose and walked deliberately down to the table and spread out four five-dollar bills, saying, "Your Honor, I wish to say that I have four times more contempt for this court than either of these young lawyers." Not many of us are willing to express ourselves when we know it will cost us hard cash, but we still carry with us deep contempt for certain things.

A young graduate of a law school in Alabama wrote to a prominent lawyer out West and asked what the outlook would be out there for an honest lawyer and one who was a Republican. Ths young man stated that he had never practiced law and only had these qualities that he could use as a recommendation for himself. In a few days he received this reply, "My dear young friend, if you are a Republican, the game laws here will protect you. If you are honest, you will have no competition." While visiting in a certain home the man of the house made this statement about his neighbors and friends, "Parson, you will find the folks in this section like lawyers going to Heaven." Ofcourse I wanted to know what he meant and he gave this explanation, "I mean just this—few and far between." There are many gibes thrust at the law profession, but some of God's noblest and best are to be found among them.

A client sat before his lawyer and made this inquiry, "How much will your opinion be worth in this case?" He must have been an honest lawyer for he made this reply: "I am too modest to say, but I am prepared to tell you what I am going to charge for it." We have all learned that trere is quite a difference in the worth of things and the price that we sometimes have to pay for them. Sometimes poor advice comes mighty high.

On Monday I made a visit to see an absent member from church the day before. I listened to what he had to say as his alibi for not being at church on Sunday and then I said politely, "Brother you have a clear case of 'Morbus Sabbaticus'." He looked a bit alarmed and wanted to know more of that disease. I told him that it was more dangerous to church life than it was to physical life. That it was a disease that was peculiar to church members. It comes on after breakfast on Sunday mornings. There are no symptoms Saturday night. The patient sleeps well, eat heartily, but as the bell for church rings out, it comes over the patient almost like heart trouble, and in a fit of cramps he declares that he cannot go to church that day. The first attack continues until about noon and then the sickness leaves until church time that night when the paient suffers another short relapse. Sunday sickness is an awful disease, and can be treated only by the one who has it. I am asking you to treat yourself with a lot of will power.

A traveler was passing through one of these dead country towns where the inhabitants drag around with no animation, no life and seeing an old darkey sitting by a post on the side walk, he asked him this question: "What do you folks do here in this dried up little town?" The old man replied, "Boss, in winter we mostly sot on the east side of the post in de mornin', we sot on the north side at noon and in de evening we sot on the west side." "Well," said the traveler, "what do you do during the summer?" Without showing any animation the old darkey replied, "In de summer we sot on the west side in the mornin', on de nawth side at noon and on de east side in the evening." It takes a real philosopher to get up a better answer to a lazy man's life.

"A PRIVATE AGENCY FOR THE PUBLIC GOOD"
What It Means To You

"A Private Agency for the Public Good."

That is not merely a catchy phrase conceived by our Advertising Department. It reflects the belief of many Alabama citizens who have expressed that belief—thinking citizens not easily mislead by baseless criticism and accusations. Perhaps you are one of those citizens. If you are, you already know why Alabama Power Company is "A Private Agency for the Public Good."

You know how, in the face of discouragements and at times what seemed to be insurmountable difficulties, Alabama Power Company has built for Alabama an electrical grid of power plants and transmission lines which supply service which you know to be dependable, and which you buy at rates much lower than the national average.

You know that Alabama Power Company was one of the two electric utility companies which pioneered the extension of electric service to rural communities as far back as 1923.

You know that for fifteen years Alabama Power Company has been active and successful in its effort toward persuading expanding industry to locate its plants in Alabama, so that there might be greater opportunities for employment of Alabama people.

You know that Alabama Power Company encourages its employees to take active part in many worthwhile civic affairs.

You know that of the more than three million dollars paid by Alabama Power Company for taxes, 2¼ millions are paid annually within the State of Alabama. Perhaps you can't visualize just how much money that is. Perhaps you don't know that it is enough to pay—

About 1½ times the State's share of expense of operating Alabama's institutions of higher learning, or

Nearly 1½ times the cost of the State's extension, vocational and miscellaneous education work, or

More than 1/5 of the State's share of elementary and high school expense, or

Nearly 1/5 of State highway expenses, or

More than 1/2 of the expense of State charities, or

More than 6 times the amount spent on health and sanitation by the State, or

Almost 4 times the amount necessary for debt service on the Alabama State Docks, or

About 3/4 of the amount needed to pay interest on the State's bonds.

If you are one of those Alabama citizens who consider Alabama Power Company "A Private Agency for the Public Good," we are grateful for your trust.

If you hold an opposite opinion, that is your right, but we sincerely feel that, because you are a fair-minded person, you, too, will come to consider us "A Private Agency for the Public Good" when time reveals many of the falsities of the political propaganda against us.

FACTS FROM THE RECORD

Written by
F. G. Stephens, Publisher of The Southern Democrat, Oneonta

In traveling over Alabama you will find many things that did not exist four years ago.

You will find that you can now reach nearly all county seats over paved roads.

You will find that the toll bridges which were built during the first administration of Graves are now free of tolls.

You will find the Cochran Bridge across Mobile Bay, which was built with private capital and operated as a toll bridge, is now owned by the State and is free of tolls.

You will find a new one and a half million dollar bridge being built across the Tennessee Rver near Muscle Shoals Connectng Florence and Sheffield.

You will find new school houses have been built and the schools running for seven and nine months with the teachers being paid in cash instead of being handed warrants to be discounted.

You will find new waterworks systems and sewerage systems now in operation that did not exist four years ago.

You will find the aged, feeble and the blind better cared for and the alms houses closed.

Coming into Montgomery you see a new highway building that was not there four years ago.

You will see the new memorial building that is being erected to house the Department of Archives and History and some of the other departments of the State Government.

Out near Kilby you will see being built a tuberculosis hospital to care for prisoners afflicted with this dreaded disease.

On the Kilby reservation you will find an abatoir and cold storage plant where livestock are converted into food for the prisoners.

At Spiegner you will see a new prison camp erected with convict labor from materials produced on State land.

Out on the Atlanta Highway you will see preparations being made to erect a million dollar veterans hospital.

Down at Mobile you will find a freeport where foreign countries may assemble their products and prepare them for the markets.

At this same time you will find a cold storage plant erected during the past three years where all kinds of perishable products may be stored while waiting for shipment.

In nearly every town you visit you find public improvement that have been made with Federal, State, County and Municipal funds.

But this is not all. Private funds have been busy erecting new buildings. You will see this not only in the towns and villages but in the rural sections. New farm houses are in evidence. Old ones have been repaired and painted.

It is evidence that somebody has been making money or they could not spend it in making these improvements and erecting these new buildings. It is not government money that is doing all this.

You will fnd evidence of progress in every part of the State .

These changes have not been brought about by accident. Master minds have been thinking. Master hands have been working. Cooperation on the part of local, State and Federal authorities have had much to do with the changes that have taken place in tis State during these years.

FAMOUS DOG DIES— CONTRIBUTED MUCH TO FEEDING SCIENCE

"Red" Spent Twelve Years as Aid to Scientists in Nutritional Work.

A noble dog is dead! His pedigree was unknown—he could never boast of a purebred background—he never saw the inside of a show ring—he never entered a field trial nor won a blue ribbon. Since early puppyhood he was never outside his small pen, yet thousands of visitors came each year to pay tribute to him and his work.

His name was "Red." No one knew anything about his mother or father. Twelve years ago he was brought to the newly founded dog kennels of the Purina Experimental Farm at Gray Summit, Missouri, to become a first-line "hunger fighter" in dog nutrition. For twelve years Red served as a laboratory to verify the opinion of scientists on what should be in a complete dog food.

Helps Find Dog Health

Until his recent death, Red's condition was fine. His rich red-brown coat was glossy and smooth, although gray hairs were beginning to appear. His gums and teeth were sound and clean and his eyes sparkled like a young puppy's. He never tasted any feed but Purina Dog Chow and water from the day he was brought to the farm. Year after year this dog, who could neither read, write nor speak, worked alongside scientists, nutritional specialists and dog experts, verifying their theories of what should be in a complete dog food.

His Work Will Live

Red is gone—but the work he did in dog nutrition will live after him. He did what the scientists could not do. He ate, digested, and through his health and condition reported his findings. He never whined nor complained of his lot. Isolated and apart from other dogs, he served faithfully and well. He is keenly missed by those who worked with him. He will continue to be asked for by his friends visiting the Purina Kennels.

The World's Fair Personality

The voice of Grover A. Whalen, best known as "America's greatest salesman" will be brought to the people of the South in a personal message through the medium of the New York World's Fair 1939 Pre-View on Wheels and Southern Motorcade.

Officially approved by the New York World's Fair, and sponsored by the distributors of Arcadian Nitrate, the American Soda, the Motorcade will consist of a tractor, and trailers, with sound truck and executive motorcar. When assembled for view, the exhibit will present a large-scale diorama of the Fair animated with light, color and movement. It will give a dramatic and vivid impression of how this huge enterprise will appear to those who visit it.

The New York World's Fair represents an investment of some $150,000,000. The promotion of the Fair and the scale of expenditure bear the imprint of the personality of the man who heads it—Grover Whalen. That the Fair will be completed on schedule is a foregone conclusion. Mr. Whalen is seeing to that. The Fair's calendars and inter-office memoranda sheets are marked with the warning, "Time Tears On."

Game & Fish News

Annual Report Ready

Tracing the progress of wildlife conservation in Alabama for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1938, the annual report of the Department of Conservation of Game, Fish and Seafoods was ready for distribution on January 2, it was announced by Commissioner I. T. Quinn. Among other things, the report will show that over 3,000,000 young fish were planted in the waters of Alabama during the year; that nearly 4,000 Bobwhite quail were distributed to the various county conservation clubs and councils for restocking depleted areas; that nearly 2,500,000 pounds of shrimp and 55,254 barrels of oysters were harvested from Alabama coastal waters. It will also reveal that 105,767 persons bought resident hunting and fishing licenses in the state that year. The bulk of the report is written in narrative style with many illustrations, and it is believed that it wl lappeal to all sportmen-conservationists as interesting reading matter. Copies may be obtained by writing the Conservation Department at Montgomery.

Conservation Commissioner I. T. Quinn was the recipient of one of the most unusual Christmas gifts reported on Capitol Hill this season. It was in the form of one acre of land in Arizona, and the donor was Tom Beck, editor of Collier's Magazine, and a good friend of the commissioner. According to the attached blueprint and photograph, the acre is "16 miles from any running water and 20 miles from Yuma." Commissioner Quinn also received greetings from persons in every state in the Union and several foreign countries.

FARMERS MAKE PROFIT

That there is profit in growing soybeans is best confirmed by the fact that the 1938 crop was America's largest, and brought new money to many farmers who had never before touchel this crop. In many districts where oats had been grown at a loss, a largee number of farmers had turned their soil to soybeans at commendably high prices compared with other crops .

According to Lamar Kishlar, a research authority, production of soybean oilmeal from the current crop may exceed 920,000 tons, although this spectacular new cash crop is but 16 years old. Production figures in the four leading states of Illinois, Iowa, Indiana and Ohio were surprisingly large.

More than 95 per cent of the soybean oil meal produced in the United states is used in feeds for livestock, pet stock, and poultry. Many of the best commercial feeds contain this highly nutritious and palatable protein ingredent, which is relished by all animals. A leading stock feeding expert recently said:

"Soybean oil meal, while the newest important feed ingredient we have today, is here to stay, and its importance in both manufactured and home mixed feeds is destined to increase by leaps and bounds during the next few years."

Because of the increasing demand for soybean products farmers who have not already done so might profit by investigating the possibilites of this new cash crop.

Business Guides

By C. E. Johnston

Director, Business Training Schools, International Correspondence Schools

MODERN business is largely conducted on credit. The manufacturer allows wholesalers and jobbers time in which to pay for what they buy, the latter in turn ordinarily do not demand immediate payment from retailers. The extension of credit allows many business transactions to take place that would not otherwise occur. It, therefore, increases the number of sales and thus makes possible a greater production of commodities.

In spite of the frequency of credit transactions there is a widespread misunderstanding of the nature of credit. Credit passes from the debtor to the creditor, from the buyer to the seller, and never in the opposite direction. Few people realize this. We frequently hear such statements as "Mrs. Blank found it annoying to pay cash for her daily purchases, so the grocer gave her credit", or, "Mr. Citizen asked for credit at his clothier's and the clothier was glad to give it to him".

As a matter of fact Mrs. Blank and Mr. Citizen did not receive credit. They possessed it to begin with, otherwise they could not have purchased goods without paying cash. They parted with a portion of their credit when they bought goods from merchants with promises to pay in the future. The customer offers credit, and the seller accepts or declines to accept credit. This is true in all credit transactions, large or small. The debtor redeems his credit, or that part of it with which he has parted, when he pays his bill.

If a dealer realizes clearly that credit is an attribute of the buyer he will be more able to size up the credit standing of a customer and he will, therefore, have fewer losses from bad debts.

Planned Feed Program For Your Sow And Pigs

Auburn—J. P. Wilson, superintendent of the Wiregrass Substation of the Alabama Experiment Station, said this week in a conference at Auburn that Alabama farmers can plan the feed requiremens of each sow and her two litters per year. By planning this feed needed by sow and pigs they can but can sell them in better condtion. not only grow hogs more economically,

Mr. Wilson said experiment at Headland show that a sow with two litters a year (12 pigs) would require not over 10 bushels of corn and 150 pounds of supplement, one acre of green oats, 1 acre of permanent pasture, one acre of soybeans, one acre of Spanish peanuts and 3 and 1-2 to 5 acre of runner peanuts. This forage crop ration saves the expense of commercial feed almost entirely.

Talladega—Mrs. J. W. Surret, Talladega, Route 2, has a new pressure cooker and a good canning plan.

She says:

"I started canning by putting up a few quarts each day. I soon found my food budget shelf growing. I have canned 57 quarts tomatoes, 80 quarts of beans, 33 quarts kraut, 7 quarts of soup mixture, 4 quarts of okra, 47 quarts of peaches, 41 quarts berries, 24 pears, 20 of apples, 57 pickles, 27 meats, 40 of juices 15 of preserves, 8 of jams, and 8 quarts of jellies. I have a year-round garden, chickens, milk, butter, eggs, meat and syrup."

Mrs. Surret estimates that the 458 quarts meant a saving of $137.06 during the year.

REPORT SHOWS ASTOUNDING TUBERCULOSIS COST IN ALA.

Tuberculosis cases were reported to the State Department of Health during 1937 at the average rate of a new case approximately every three hours, the Department announced recently, explaining that reported cases totaled 3,021 for the year.

A study was conducted some time ago of a group of tuberculosis employees of a large NewYork manufacturing firm and this revealed that the cases cost the patients, their friends and relatives and society generally approximately $4,000 each. On this basis, it was pointed out, presumably new cases of tuberculosis are costing the people of Alabama approximately $32,000 a day.

IN MEMORY

When Jesus carried Odis into the Great Beyond,
Mamma said she wouldn't worry long.
Just thirteen days later at the close of day
The angel returned and carried Mamma away.

I prayed and pleaded that Mamma might live.
But it's God's power to take away,
As it is His to give.

It was lonely without Odis
And she suffered so long
But I can hardly stay here
Since Mamma is gone.

I know they're in Heaven
Their suffering is o'er.
Their tears are all dried
On that peaceful shore.

We begin our first year without her
What Fate has stored is unknown.
But some day I trust I will meet them
Up there in their beautiful home.

And I have a precious little baby
A life that depends on me.
I want to be a patient mother
Like Mamma taught me to be.

Odis has two little children
That depend on someone for a home
We must discharge our duty
And keep them from going wrong

Soil Heating With Electricity Is Both Profitable and Simple

Ease of construction is only one advantage of the electric hotbed.

By IRA MILLER

Rural Electrification Bureau

TRUCK gardeners, florists and commercial growers who wish to "hit" the market when prices are highest do not have to place their entire dependence on nature and natural means alone for the early germination and growth of their seedlings. Instead, more and more each season they are turning to the electrical heating of hotbeds—a method used in Norway and Sweden for 20 years but which came into prominence in this country only about eight years ago with the development of special metallic-sheathed cable.

Although steam, hot water and hot air are used to some extent to heat hotbeds, manure long has been the common heating medium. However, all of those methods lack some of the following advantages of electricity: Less labor required to construct and operate; temperature automatically controlled within narrow limits; cheaper, if labor and supervision costs are included; free from harmful and obnoxious fumes; less danger of soil contamination; beds need not be recharged each time they are used, only a turn of a switch being necessary to start each run; plants are produced in less time; temperatures easily changed to force or retard plant growth as conditions require; may be used to produce garden truck for out-of-season home markets; equipment lasts for years; and clean and agreeable to work.

For growing truck garden plants, electric hotbeds are superior to greenhouses because their initial cost is much less; extra cold frames are not needed for hardening plants for transplanting; it is not necessary to use "flats"; less labor is required; and they are cheaper to operate unless the greenhouse is used for other purposes.

When used to furnish bottom heat in propagating benches in greenhouses, electricity has the following advantages: Maintenance of constant soil temperature best suited for the cuttings being rooted; soil easily maintained at temperatures higher than the air—a condition conducive to rooting of cuttings; higher percentage of cuttings take root; they root in much shorter time; and no danger of overheating.

Full information on the construction, installation, operation and cost of electric hotbeds may be obtained without charge from your state college or university, or from the manufacturers of such equipment. As an indication of the reasonable first cost of such an installation, it may be pointed out that all the cable and controls necessary for four 6' x 3' frames can be purchased for $20 or less.

Operating costs vary widely with the type and construction of the hotbed, its insulation and exposure, and many other factors. However, when outside temperatures average around freezing, it will require from 1½ to 2½ kw.-hr. per frame per day to maintain the bed at 60 degrees. At the three-cent rate (a lower one often is available), this amounts to from $1.35 to $2.25 per frame per month, with the average over the entire heating season approaching the lower figure.

Miss Duke And Miss Foss Entertain

One of the most enjoyable affairs of the season was held on December 31st, when Miss Katherine Foss and Miss Mary Frances Duke entertained at a New Year's Eve Dance at the City Auditorium for their many friends. The guests were met by hostesses and ushered into the hall, which was appropriately decorated for the New Year idea, carrying out the colors of blue and silver, lighted with blue lights. During intermission sandwiches, cake and coffee was served from tables attractively decorated, placed upon the stage. Miss Foss, assisted by her sister, Miss Ruth Foss, presided at one table, with Miss Duke, assisted by Mrs. Grady Heflin, presided over the coffee table. At midnight, favors of horns and fancy caps were given wth the good wishes of the hostesses, and all made merry for the New Year.

IN MEMORY, MRS. WILLIE DOBBS

We miss you, dearest auntie,
We miss your face so dear.
We miss your smile, your tender words,
That were ours when you were here.

Your place down here is vacant,
And never can be filled.
But we pray that Jesus will make us
Submissive to His will.

We know that you have left us
But for just a little while.
We pray that we will meet you
Upon the Heavenly Isle.

Where all is peace and happiness
Made beautiful by Jesus' love
We know you are resting peacefully
In presence of the Heavenly Dove.

Weep not for her, dear lover ones,
She has gone to live with God
Let us all strive to meet her
As here alone we plod.

Business Guides

By C. E. Johnston

Director, Business Training Schools, International Correspondence Schools

A MAN who plans to open a business for himself, if he wishes to have a reasonable assurance of success, should be a student of business and possess some business experience. He should also have specific knowledge of the field he plans to enter. Many persons who do not have these qualifications attempt to compensate for their deficiencies by employing trained and experienced managers. While it is possible to succeed by this method, hired brains rarely take the place of knowledge on the part of the business owner. This is a good point to keep in mind.

Any man who is starting a business should realize the great importance of a good name. He must decide how his business can best be sold to the public. If the enterprise has to do with the manufacture of a product, a reputation can be established through reliability of the product. The reputation of a business that has only a service to market, however, may depend solely upon the quality of the work performed by its employees for customers. Some of America's great businesses were founded by men who had little business knowledge to begin with, but not one such house was built on a doubtful reputation.

It is obvious that today the success of a new business depends on three essentials: A knowledge of business principles, an understanding of the field in which the enterprise is started, and a reputation for honest dealing.

All Members are urged To Attend.

Pig Crop Report For December 1 Is Given

The estimated increase in farrowings rowng this fall (June 1 to December 1) in Alabama is 28 percent above the farrowings for the same period last year, according to a report released recently by the Crop Reporting Board of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. This report is based upon information secured through the rural carriers.

Teh estimated increase in farrowings this fall is the largest on record and continues the upswing in hog production which began in Alabama in 1934. The number of sows farrowing this fall is estimated at 111,000 compared to an 87,000 last year for the same period.

The average number of pigs saved per litter is estimated at 5.70. This is the same number per litter as for the same period last year, but is well above the average for the last five years. The number of pigs saved is estimated at 663,000 compared to 496,000 in the fall of 1937 and a 5-year (193-37) average of 441,000. The total number of pigs saved for the year, both spring and fall, is estimated at 1,341,000 compared to 1118,000 in 1937 and the 5-year average of 1,010,000.

The forecast of the number of sows to farrow in the spring of 1939 is 145,000 head. This is an increase over 1938 of 19 percent. This forecast is based upon breeding intentions reported to the department as of December 1, and upon teh assumption that the relationship between breeding intentions and subsequent farrowings will be about the same as for previous years.

IMPROVEMENT IN QUALITY OF COTTON CONTINUES IN ALA.

Auburn—A prediction that continued interest and work of farmers in cotton improvement will, wthin another four years, place Alabama at the top in the quality of lint produced, was made recently by J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist.

Cotton improvement work, begun several years ago in the state, is now at a critical stage according to Mr. Lowery. Foundation stock needs replenishing in many localities and many additional communities need improved variety seed. To grow good varieties of cotton next spring will require that the farmers make every effort to get good seed between now and planting time.

"Some farmers have been discouraged by the price differential between shor and long staples," Mr. Lowery stated. "However, a determined effort by farmers, extension service workers, vocational teachers, and the business groups interested in cotton can make it possible to reach the top within a four-year drive.

Cotton improvement work in Alabama has become more established and producton of a better staple cotton has become a generally followed farm practice. The fact that 61.5 percent of the crop in 1938 averaged 15-16 inches and longer indicates the progress that has been made, when this percentage is compared to the 6.1 percent in 1930.

The summer of 1938 was favorable to development of good staple. However, Mr. Lowery points out, the crop has averaged around 36 percent of the 15-16 or longer fiber during recent years as compared with 5 to 6 percent in the earlier years before the improvement work was begun.

"I wish I was daid," said the lazy old darkey as the whistle blew for him to resume his work at one o'clock. He yawned, wiped his sleepy eyes, and with snail pace he walked toward his wheel barrow. Just then a workman on the second story above his head dropped a brick and it landed on the old man's head. Dazed he staggered aside and said, "Bless my life, de Lawd can stand no jokes. He just takes everything in yearnest." I sometimes think that it would pay some of us to get just what we ask for. We complain that it is work and work all the time and we want to get away from it. If God should give us what we wish to have, we would be like the old lazy darkey, we would be saying, "De Lawd can stand no joking."

It Pays To Trade In Clanton!

Mature hens will stand considerable cold if they are dry, so should not be shut in too tightly to conserve animal heat. Instead, protect them by insulating the walls and ceiling of the poultry house. Insulating will keep the house warmer in winter; and cooler in summer.

A high feed intake is essential for best egg production. A laying bird normally eats from six to seven pounds of feed per month—four to five pounds of which goes to maintain her body. If she can be made to eat an extra half pound per month by the use of electric lights, wet mashes, or Layena checker feeding, it goes into extra egg production.

A new dust spray for the treatment of colds and roup is rapidly becoming popular with flock owners. Called Chlorena, it's sprayed over the birds while on the roosts at night. It causes sneezing, which expels the accumulations of mucous from the upper respiratory tract. It's obtainable at any store handling Purina feeds.

Invariably, houses with high ceilings are cold, damp houses. Lowering them with a layer of insulation about 6½ feet above the floor is recommended.

Five to six gallons of drinking water daily to each 100 birds is essential to a flock of layers. In summer, the water should be cool and fresh; in winter the drinking fountains should never be allowed to freeze.

Usually it's best to have some sort of rack on which to set the drinking fountains. This gives the birds a place to stand while they drink. Also, it provides drainage for the water that drops from their wattles and beaks.

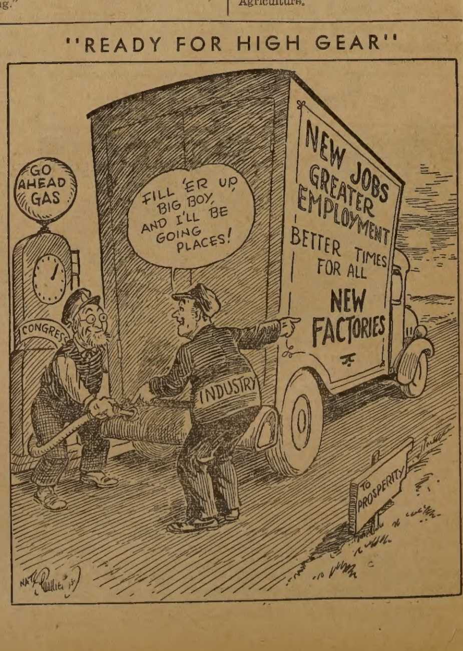
The number of eggs a hen lays is largely determined by the feed she gets. When she gets grain alone she lays only a few eggs. But when that grain is helped out by a carefully blended, balanced laying mash or when a complete all-mash laying ration that's fortified with the necessary vitamins and minerals is fed, she lays many eggs.

Proof of this is the average of the figures sent to Purina Mills last year by the owners of over a half-million hens fed Purina laying mashes. These hens averaged 185 eggs per year, which is more than double the national 82-egg average estimated for the country as a whole by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

"READY FOR HIGH GEAR"



STANTON

Sunday is the first singing Sunday of the new year, to be held at the Methodist Church. It will begin at 2:00 o'clock. We hope to have new books to sing out of. Everybody is invited to attend. We hope to make this year the greatest singing year ever seen at Stanton.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Harrison of Plantersville have occupied the house near her parents, which they will make their home.

Miss Ethel Gregg of Mars Hill left Sunday to go back to school. She has been spending the Christmas holidays with her relatives and friends of Stanton.

Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Rush, granddaughter, Mary Ellen, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Will D. Rush Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Harrison were the guests of Rev. and Mrs. John Lee Davis Sunday.

Miss Marvereen Grover and friend, Richard McDaugh, of God's Bible School, spent Christmas with her parents ,Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Grover.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Rush and family and Mr. and Mrs. Lee Davis of Stanton, spent several days during the Christmas week with relatives in Panhandle

Saturday night and Sunday are the regular times for services at the Baptist Church. Rev. Nail will deliver both the messages. All members be sure to come.

All children and teachers of Stanton were happy to get back in school Monday, after enjoying Chrstmas holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Vardie Hamm of this place announced the birth of a baby boy Saturday, December 31. Both mother and baby are doing nicely.

There was quite a number of boys and girls in and around Stanton, who attended a "watch" party at Mildred Rush's home Saturday night.

MR. COX SOLVES A PROBLEM

More accidents occur on the Montgomery Highway near Clanton than on any stretch of highway in Alabama, Charlie Cox, legislator from Clanton, decided. For a long time it worried him.

It worried him because he couldn't figure out why this should be. The stretch of road near Clanton was a very straight.

He gave considerable thought to this problem.

The other day he announced that he believed he had arrived at the reason.

Most motorists traveling along there Montgomery or h aeRo____ had either come from Birmingham and were bound for Montgomery, or had left Montgomery and were bound for Birmingham. Clanton was just about halfway between and if they had taken two or three drinks, it would just about really begin to take effect near Clanton.

So Legislator Cox has decided to console himself with the fact that the blame isn't Clanton's bad road, but Birmingham and Montgomery's bad liquor.—Harold Helfin In Birmingham Post.

IN MEMORY

Many hearts were saddened on December 21, when the death angel visited the home of Mr. W. M. Heath and carried away his loving wife. She was a faithful wife and a loving mother and no one knows how hard it was to give her up, but I have heard her say many times that she was ready to die and was going to meet Jesus when she died and I know my mother is at rest.

She leaves to mourn her husband, Mr. W. M. Heath, of Clanton, and two children, Mrs. J. W. Heath of Clanton and Mrs. G. C. Vance of Clanton, Rte Six, and a host of other relatives and friends.

A precious one from us has gone
A voice we loved is still
A place is vacant in our home
That never can be filled.

Though we hate to give her up
We know she was so good and kind
But Jesus will call us one by one
And we never know what time.

So cheer up, now, dear ones
And try to do your best
For some day God will begin to call
And then he'll get the rest.

—Mr. W. M. Heath And Children.

IN MEMORY

On December 20, the death angel visited the home of Mrs. J. H. Jones an dtook away her dear husband. He was sick only 12 days with pneumonia, although he had been in bad health for the past two years.

He was 63 years old. Funeral services were held at Collins Chapel Church, wth the Rev. Carroll in charge.

Pallbearers were Messrs. Vernon Robinson, Vaughn McKee, Leon Keen, George Cobb, Jr., Charlie Cox and Austin Maddox.

He leaves to mourn his loss his wife, one son, daughter and one granddaughter. Also a great host of other relatives and friends.

Our home is so lonesome without papa, but we look forward to the great resurrection day when we shall meet again, for it's only a little while that we must say goodbye to papa. It won't be long til we meet again. He is not dead, only asleep. They have builded him a home not made with hands and he has gone to fill his mission there Some day we are going to join him where there is no pain or sorrow, and where the streets are paved with pure gold. We grieve for his absence but we feel that God has carried him to a better home, where we can go, when our race is run.

Papa has gone on beckoning us to follow to a land where we can all gather n the great choir to sing God's praises throughout eternity. It was so hard to say goodbye to him and there is a place in our home that can never be filled, but he suffered so and he wanted to go home because he could not get well. All was done that could be, but all in vain. Jesus whispered and said "Your mission here on earth is finished. Come home." And we must prepare to meet Him on the other shore for he is not dead, only sleeping.

He was faithful and had no fears. He had a smile and didn't seem to mind his misfortune, because he knew it was only a little while.

CARD OF THANKS

As God has seen fit to take from our midst our precious wife and mother, we again take this means to thank our friends for their help and kindness.

We appreciate every deed and every word that has lifted us up. Especially do we thank Dr. Golden for his efforts to save her life. God bless you all.

We also thank Mr. Martin & Sons and employees for the flowers.

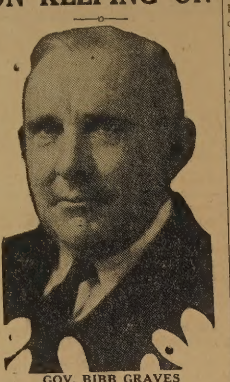
ALA.'S RETIRING GOV TO 'KEEP ON KEEPING ON'



GOV. BIBB GRAVES

Montgomery Advertiser

Jan. 1—A New Year resolution to "keep on keeping on, to bring the South into its own" was voiced by Gov. Bibb Graves yesterday as he worked on Capitol Hill to clear his desk and make way for a new executive January 16.

The Governor resolved above all "to see the freight rate fight through."

While many other State officials took a new year holiday that begun Friday, Gov. Graves busied himself with the job of preparing to write finis to his second four-year term as Alabama's chief executive. One task before him was the writing of his final message to the Legislature that convenes January 10.

Today, he plans to "rest, go to church, sleep and eat," possibly taking time out to vist his farm. He will attend the Blue and Gray Football game at Crampton Bowl tomorrow.

He was "too busy" to grant an interview on what he considers the chief accomplishments of his administration, saying "it will all be in my message to the Legislature, which I am now working on."

A casual review of the doings of the last four years convinced capitol observers that the governor's report of his stewardship would be a voluminous one; there has been much activity during that period, with the executive being both praised and censured.

There were three sessions of the Legislature—the regular and two special. All were marked by bitter fights between the administration and its opponents—with the Governor claiming victory in a majority of things he had asked for.

Gov. Graves is proud of the inscription, "the builder" on a bronze bust of him which stands in front of the new State Highway Building. The bust was purchased with funds contributed by State employees and other friends of the executive.

Other buildings constructed or placed under way during his administration included one for the history department, a new Spiegner Prison, and a new tuberculosis hospital at Kilby.

Two other were purchased one to house the Judiciary and Attorney General's Department, the other for Social Security agencies also established during the current administration—Welfare Department, with its old age pensions; Labor Department and Unemployment Insurance Commission.

Friends of the governor also gave him much credit for his "success" in obtaining a large share of Federal works funds for school and college buildings. Others blamed him for "extravagance".

Opponents of the administration pointed to the sales tax token as a "monument" to Graves. The two percent sales tax was enacted in 1937, after the bitterest legislative fght of the quadrennium, with funds allocated to schools and other actvities which had been suffering from the depression.

Other hard fights occurred over the liquor question, culminating in passage of the Alabama Beverage Control Act—not, however, an administration measure—under which the State controls traffic in legalized alcoholic beverages in wet counties and turns the profts into health, welfare and other activities.

Gov. Graves has often claimed a record for highway and bridge consumption. All toll bridges were freed during his current term. The State Docks system was expanded and placed on a paying basis, and a foreign trade zone established.

Homestead taxes were reduced by taking off the State's share of the ad valorem tax levy. A State Highway Patrol was organized. A widespread electrification program was placed under way under one of a series of "new deal" acts passed early in the quadrennium.

Those were some of the highlights for the four years.

Elected Chairman of a Southeastern Governor's Conference, Gov. Graves took a leading part in a campaign against North-South freight rate differential, aimed at the elimination of what the governors termed "discriminations", against the section.

Another case involving commodities was pending before the Interstate Commerce Commission as the administration entered its final two weeks. Graves has indicated he will continue actively in the battle, but has not commented on reports he would become a high salaried employee of the governors' conference.

All he would say yesterday regarding future plans was embraced in his new years' resolution to "keep on keeping on to bring the South to its own."

Deaths, resignations and other emergencies created many vacancies in county offices resulting in what veteran capitol attaches said was opportunity for the governor to make possible an unprecedented number of important appointments.

The most important of all was that of Mrs. Dixie Bibb Graves, wife of the executive, to the United States Senate. She succeeded Hugo Black when the latter was named to the U. S. Supreme Court and served briefly until Senator Lister Hill was elected.

Kudzu Value May Come To $100,000

Auburn—Prospects for a $100,000 hay crop from land too severely eroded for further row-crop production are seen by Soil Conservation Service workers from 4,000 acres of kudzu planted by farmers in the erosion control demonstration area near Dadeville.

During the 1938 season, 400 acres were havested with an average yield of 1 1-2 tons of excellent quality hay per acre. Within the next two years the entire 4,000 acres will come into production. Farmers in the area are planning to plant another 1,000 acres during the 1938-39 season.

With an application of phosphate to every two years the average yield can be increased to two tons per acre, or a total of 8,000 tons from the 4,000 acres already planted, according to C.E. Newman, project manager. Figuring the income on a basis of $15 per ton, which is the average price of legume hay on the farm, the value of the hay crop would thus be around $100,000 a year, he points out.

The hay, however, will be used largely to feed work animals kept on the farms and for the production of meat and dairy products for local consumption, Soil Conservation Service workers say.

Brief Farm News

Farmers have wondered about the low acre yield of corn in Alabama. The tests show that the old practice of interplanting with summer legumes, like velvet beans, soybeans, cowpeas and in many cases peanuts always reduce the yield of corn. However, the question is whether the farmer wants the legumes for increased cotton next year the feed these legumes offer or whether he wants increased yields of corn. Some farmers prefer the advantage of the legumes over increased yields of corn.

Experiments at the Wiregrass Experiment Station show that the addition of 150 pounds of nitrogen to corn will mean an increase of around 14 bushels per acre, states J.P. Wilson, superintendent of the Headland sub-station of the Alabama Experiment Station at Auburn.

Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia of New York said before the American Farm Bureau Federation Convention in New Orleans recently that industry needs stability, labor needs security and agriculture needs parity. Can anyone else tell the trouble so clearly, so concisely and so absolutely truthfully?

For the country as a whole both farm and non-farm income should be somewhat higher in 1939 than 1938.

How "BIG"..."RICH"... "POWERFUL" is this Company?

You have no doubt heard the telephone company referred to or thought of it yourself as a big, rich and powerful company.

The Southern Bell Telephone Company has to be big in order to properly serve you and more than a million other telephone subscribers in the South. It has an obligation to meet your demands for adequate and dependable telephone service, no matter how big they may be. Big, and able too, is the army of telephone workers. More than nineteen thousand of them are required to serve the South efficiently, day and night.

The riches of the telephone company consist of switchboards buildings, wires, cables and instruments—modern telephone plant and equipment to serve more than a million subscribers. Most of this property would be valueless if the public need for service should cease.

The money received by the telephone company is continually paid out for wages, for materials, for taxes, and to bond and stockholders for the use of their savings with which the company has bought the equipment and tools needed for the service.

Every penny received by the telephone company must be accounted for. Its books are kept in accordance with the regulations prescribed by federal and state authorities. They must be kept open at all times for governmental inspection. They are audited regularly by accredited outside accountants.

All the power the company possesses is granted to it by state and federal governments. But it cannot choose its customers and its rates and practices are regulated and controlled by governmental agencies.

The telephone company is powerful, however, in some things. It is powerful in its unity of purpose and loyalty of workers. It possesses the power of the best minds in research, invention and manufacture. It has the power of the highest ideals of service and the courage to go forward, giving the public the most service and the best at the least cost consistent with financial stability

First Baptist Church

Oscar A. Davis, Pastor
Clanton, Alabama

A special State Sunday School Conference for Baptists of Alabama will be held in Birmingham on January 12 and 13. The program will be based on the theme, "Enlargement And Bible Teaching For Evangelism", in keeping with the Southwide emphasis on Evangelism and Enlistment throughout the Southern Baptist Convention for 1939. See Pastor Davis, if you can go.

We have chosen as our local Sunday School attendance on next Sunday the goal of 300. Come and enroll and attend regularly. You are always welcome.

Special W. M. U. Announcement

The Baptist W. M. S. will have a very important meeting at the Church on Monday at 2:00 P.M. Names will be drawn for the Circles at this time and their Circle Officers elected for 1939. There will also be a general business and social period, and one of the most largely attended meetings of the year is expected. Every resident Baptist woman should be present.

Sunday's Services

story brick stockroom will be added to the east wall of the building, approximately sixteen by fifty feet in size, the announcement stated.

When improvement is completed, Clanton can boast of having just about as fine and large Ten Cent Store as her suburban cities, such as Birmingham and Montgomery.

Recent changes in the personnel of the organization have been announced by O. M. Webb, Assistant General Manager. These changes will affect the local store to some extent, as well as branch stores over the State. Changes affecting the local store are as follows:

E. N. Hester, former manager of the store at Andalusia, is being promoted to buyer and will be located in the General office. He is moving into the home formerly occupied by Mr. J. T. Searcy.

C. O. Hester, former manager at Brewton, is being transferred to Andalusia. L. T. Crenshaw, former manager of the Clanton store, has been transferred to Brewton as manager and J. T. King has been promoted from Assistant manager to manager of the Clanton store. L. L. Van Houten is the new assistant manager of the Clanton store.

J. D. Robinson, former Assistant Manager at Clanton, has been transferred to Brewton as Assistant manager there.

C. A. McSpadden has recently moved to Clanton as Assistant Manager to John W. Powers, Jr., in the Construction Department. Mr. McSpadden has an apartment with Mrs. G. T. Wilbanks.

Work Of Local CCC Youth Is Commended Highly By Officials In Clanton Compa

Visitors to the wood work shop of Company 3481 here, are viewing an unusual piece of woodcraft. This piece of furniture is a massive Cedar bed and is of a very beautiful design.

Enrollee Vernon Miller made this bed in the Company shop, and is very proud of it. In fact, he has rejected several attractive offers for it.

Miller is nineteen years old and has spent fifteen months in the C.C.C. He took a special course under Dr. C. W. Gamble at the Moundville, Ala., Camp, in Woodcraft.

This man, as a football coach might say, "sparked" the word working classes. He has made two cedar beds, thirty or forty modern porch chairs, tables of various types, desks and cedar chests Furniture he helped build took first place at the Chilton County Fair this year.

A valuable assistant to the Educational advisor, and the woodcraft inst tor, he proves his interest in all t of work, and gives credit to the C. for developing his natural ability craftsman. All of the Army and U Service Staffs admire Miller, and work, and speak highly of him.

LEADERSHIP SCHOOL HELD HERE MONDAY

County, Home Demonstration Agents Sponsor Meeting Of Club Leaders

Home Demonstration Agent, Miss Barber and County Agent J. W. Fant sponsored a joint meeting Monday of Project Leaders from Home Demonstration Clubs in the County and outstanding farmers. Miss Barber and Mr. Fant are trying to gain the interest of the farmers in this work as well as the women and to show the farmers that they are interested in their work, too. It is a great undertaking, one that has never been tried before in this County and, of course, will take the cooperation of each an deveryone interested.

The morning session of this meeting began at 9:30 and some very interesting people were introduced. Mrs. H.K. Christiansen, President of The Chilton County Council of Home Demonstration Clubs, presided over the meeting.

Charles Breedlove, 4-H Club Agent, was introduced.

A very interesting talk was given by Miss Lavada Curtis, specialist in food preservation from Auburn, on the family food supply.

W. A. Ruffin, extension entomologist, also gave interesting talks on all Year Home Gardens, its importance to the family and its health importance. These talks concluded the morning session.

YELLOW FRONT STORE IS VICTIM OF VANDALS MONDAY

Several weeks ago the Yellow Front Store here was burglarized and several dollars in cash and merchandise was taken, but Monday night the store was the victim of what appeared to be vandalism.

Manager D. L. Blackketter stated he found the glass in the front door broken out when he opened up last Tuesday morning. A check up of the store could reveal no merchandise taken. The glass was shattered over a large area of the store, but no missle that might have been thrown, could be located.

Kiwanis "Ladies Night" Termed Huge Success

When members of the Clanton Kiwanis Club assembled for their weekly luncheon last Thursday night at the Thomason Hotel, at 7:30, they had as their guests their wives and lady friends and throughout the luncheon there prevailed an air of good cheer and friendliness, during which a splendid program was rendered by talented musicians of the City.

This "Ladies' Night" is an annual affair, looked forward to by members of the Club with eagerness, as one of the real enjoyable meetings of the Club. This was the first meeting of the new year, presided over by the new President, John C. Page.

Prior to the musical part of the program a talk was made by Retiring President Patterson Hicks, who scanned briefly the activities of the Club during the past year. Secretary-Treasurer J. Mell Martin presented Mr. Hicks with a pin, which signified that he was once more a regular member of the Club instead of its President.

The Club's guest artist of the evening, charming Miss Kathryn Foss, rendered several numbers, accompanied by Mrs. Percy Pitts at the piano. Percy Pitts, Jr., rendered two violin numbers, accompanied by Mrs. Pitts, and Kiwanian Percy Pitts sang two numbers.

The meeting of the Club this week was scheduled to be held on Wednesday night instead of the usual Thursday night due to the fact that the honor guest and speaker of the evening could not be on hand Thursday. He is John L. Clark, of the Better Business Bureau, Cleveland, Ohio, who was to address the Club on the subject of his choice.

A meeting of the Directors of the Club and chairmen of the various standing committee was held last Monday night at which time matters to face the Club during the coming year was discussed.

Pilot Club Adds New Objectives For 1939

The Pilot Club seems to be wide awake this year in working out some new objectives to carry out with their others, which seem to be well under way at this time.

Definite steps are to be taken to secure markers for streets and avenues and numbers for houses within the City limits of Clanton which is one of the major objectives for 1938-39. Since the City has grown in population, as well as area, this is a very important objective to work on.

Work is also underway for the remodeling of the Pilot Room at the Central Alabama Hospital. This room has been adopted by the Clanton Pilots and is named Pilot Club Room.

The Club met last night at their regular meeting place with Sophia Jones in charge of the following program:

Musical Contest in which the Club participated.

Two musical numbers rendered by Mrs. Percy M. Pitts; "Polonaise In A major" by F. Chopin, and "Clair Delune" by Claude Debussy.

Due to the fact that the Finance Committte has served their six months term a new committee was appointed by Olive Fiquette, President: Gertie Fiquette, chairman, Mattie Jo Barber, and Ethel Mae Jones as assistants. They are going to begin work right away on some plans to make money to their treasurer and in order for them to be successful will need the cooperation of the entire city.

The Pilot Club will hold its annual joint meeting with the Kiwanis Club on Thursday evening, January 26th at the Thomason Hotel. All members of the Pilot Club are requested to attend and make this meeting a one hundred percent attendance.

PEOPLE ARE URGED TO PAY TAXES

Failure Of Property Owners To Assess And Pay By January 16 Expensive

Property owners of Chilton County have only three days left in which to assess and pay their taxes, according to statements from Tax Assessor A. D. Martin and Tax Collector T. L. McKee. January 16 is the deadline, the law points out, and there are many owners of property in the County who have yet to attend to this important matter.

Messrs. McKee and Martin stated that unless this matter is attended to before January 16, property owners will have to pay a ten percent penalty and owners of homesteads will lose their exemption, to which they are entitled if taxes are assessed and paid before the 16th.

Mr. Martin has stressed the importance of owners of property and especially owners of business establishments, having the property assessed as soon as possible. It is not the wish of these two gentlemen that citizens of the County pay the penalty or lose their exemption, but the law plainly says that this important matter must be attended to by a specified time, and they have endeavored to aid property owners an give them as much time as possible.

JOE HALL JOHNSON LISTED ON HONOR ROLL AT VANDY

Joe Hall Johnson of Clanton, Alabama has just been listed on the Sophomore Honor Roll at Vanderbilt University, where he is a member of the Junior Class. Mr. Johnson is the son of Mrs. Arthur Johnson, of Clanton and attended Gulf Coast Military Acedemy before going to Vanderbilt.

Each year the Sophomore Honor Roll is announced by the Registrar, and lists the names of those students in the Junior Class who, during their sophomore and freshman years, made Phi Beta Kappa grades. These students are acclaimed prospective members of Phi Beta Kappa, the highest scholastic honor obtainable at Vanderbilt. Recognition of the outstanding scholarship of students from the time they are enrolled as freshman in Vanderbilt is a part of the University's policy in maintaining its high scholastic standing.

Mrs. Grady Heflin was brought home in a Martin ambulance Monday of this week from the Central Alabama Hospital, where she was carried several days ago. Her many friends are glad to see her improved to this point.

Retiring Governor Graves Sounds Optimistic Note

GOV. BIBB GRAVES

Says Alabama Is On A More Sound Economic Basis Than Any Government, State Or National, In The World

(See full text of the Governor's Message to the Legislature, in News Supplement)

Highlights of Governor Bibb Graves' address Tuesday to the Legislature:

"The supreme need of Alabama of America and of the world right now is more faith and confidence—more boosting and building—more peace and prosperity. These will insure a continuance of our present recovery, of our present program and prosperity.

"We are paying 100 cents on the dollar on all of our appropriations, we are amortizing practically all of our bonded debt and reducing it by paying it off each year in installments . . . We are going into the open markets and buying bonds not due for a generation—buying them and cancelling them.

"The only state obligations that we have that are not being amortized are the old carpetbag bonds that cannot be well refinanced until they shall become due, but these cover only a small percentage of our obligation.

"Our State comptroller's books show that upon the opening of business this morning . . . there was a net balance in our State treasury of $8,117,309.88. That is a net balance after deducting all outstanding darrants.

"Our highway records of accomplishment exceeded every dream . . . The pavement that has been done, together with that now in process of completion, is 64 percent of all the paving in all the history of Alabama, notwithstanding other Governors, including myself, had bond issues for that purpose.

"The total number of illiterates from 10 to 20 years of age has been reduced 41.4 percent during the past four years.

"In 1933-34, the State of Alabama provided $1,033.059 for the institutions of higher learning. This has been increased to $1,939,962.

"In my judgement beginning with the new quadrennium, the public elementary and high schools will need more funds of a minimum of $2,000,000 annually in order to carry on an adequately functioning seven months minimum term and pay teachers reasonable salaries.

"The Federal government should provide the next step to extend the eight month program to a nine months program. We have every right to expect federal support for public education in this State.

"Today there are three states in Amtrica that have all time health service in every county and community—Delaware and Maryland, which are not rural states—and Alabama.

"In Alabama executive clemency is vested in the Governor. So completely is this so that it has been held that our courts could not be authorized to suspend sentences. This should be changed."

Many Gallons Of Whiskey Flow Freely From Chilton County Jail Last Tuesday Morning

An estimated 580 gallons of intoxicating beverages flowed down the alley from the Chilton County Jail last Tuesday morning, as Sheriff J. R. Hardy and his deputies smashed bottles of every description, containing beverages from home-made wine to the most expensive bottled-in-bond.

This is a job for every outgoing Sheriff, who, at the termination of his administration, is required by law to destroy all confiscated illegal beverages accumulated during the four years.

The store room for this illegal beverage was piled high Tuesday morning when unlocked by the Sheriff. The City of Clanton's trash truck was backed up to the jail door, and the two-hour task of smashing every container was begun. A large crowd gathered to watch the procedure, and comments from several persons was that Sheriff Hardy had not been idle when it came to rounding up this illegal traffic in Chilton County.

Following is a list of what was destroyed: 465 pints whiskey, 106 quarts whiskey, 228 gallons whiskey, 45 cases beer, 15 pints home brew, 24 pints sloe gin, 220 pints dry gin, 5 pints cocktail.

A goodly amount of the whiskey and gin was in cases, and was of the most expensive brands. Many gallons of 'home-made' corn was in five and ten gallon kegs. A hot water bottle of corn was brought out. The former possessor of this evidently thought officers would never suspect its identity.

Waterworks Project Goes Forward Rapidly

Work on the water line to Yellow Leaf, which was started recently, is going forward rapidly. The line follows the Birmingham-Montgomery Highway north of the City for some distance, and will terminate at the creek at the spot nearest the City.

Meanwhile the large storage tank on the hill north of here is taking shape. The tank is located on what is perhaps the highest point of the City.

Work will get underway at an early date on the extension of the sanitary sewer lines to the territory not heretofore served.

Dr. and Mrs. Sam Johnson of Pensacola, Florida, arrived in Clanton last Monday night to spend several weeks.

Know Alabama Better

Roe Greer, of the Sylacauga News, one of the really bright newspaper men of the State, and president of the Alabama Exchange Clubs, made one of the most interesting and timely speeches heard of the Press Convention in Montgomery Friday. His subject was "Know Alabama Better". If every weekly newspaper will begin running some attractive feature in each issue, calling attention to Alabama's advantages and attractions, and cut out some of the 'free news" that is being furnished, the State will be greatly benefitted, and also will Alabama's Fourth Estate.

Beginning with this issue Chilton County News intends to carry such a feature and starts off with "Cradle of the Confederacy" —than which there is no more interesting spot in the whole Southland.

Taxes And Transportation

Data furnished by the Alabama Railroad Association, shows that railroads, express companies and other transportation concerns for the year 1937 paid taxes in Chilton County as follows: Railroad and express companies, for all purposes, $29,247.11; trucks and buses, $2,439.00; Steamboats and barges, none; airplanes, $50.00.

o-o-o

Others Tell Us

If many of us Alabamians do not bestir ourselves on this subject, it is likely that the national government will get far ahead of us in appreciation of the possibilities of a direct waterway from the Tennessee River through the Warrior to the gulf. Chairman Mansfield, of the House Rivers and Harbors Committee, discussing prospective legislation, declared that such a waterway would be "clearly an improvement of great national importance whose benefits would surely exceed by large amounts its relatively small cost."

Regarding the project to build a canal connecting the rivers, Mr. Mansfield, who, by the way, comes from Texas, makes observations that should be impressed upon all citizens of this area. It is only reasonable to assume that unless an active public opinion supports this project, its realization will be greatly delayed. Said Mr. Mansfield:

"The narrow divide that separates the watershed of the Tennessee from that of the Tombigbee and Warrior Rivers, together with the availability of an ample water supply, are natural factors favorable to such an undertaking. The surveys and studies for the project have been underway for several years and the plan contemplates modern nine-foot barge navigation through a lock canal . . . .

"The canal would serve a nearby area embracing over 100 counties in Mississippi, Alabama, Tennessee, and Kentucky and connect Knoxville and Chattanooga in Tennessee with Birmingham and Mobile in Alabama . . . .

"The benefits of the cheap water transportation afforded by this canal would accrue not only to the nearby areas, but also to the more distant territories of the Great Ohio River basin. Producing and consuming areas in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, West Virginia, Kentucky, and Tennessee would have an improved waterway connecting them, with producing territory in Alabama, Mississippi and other Gulf States.

There has been some question whether the canal would connect the Tennessee with the Warrior north of Birmingham, or with the Tombigbee in Northern Mississippi. While we believe this case in favor of the Warrior connection, with its accessibility to this great industrial district, is overwhelmingly the stronger, still the people of this area should take nothing for granted and lose no opportunities to make the advantages of this route known.—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Long Live The Governors

". . . upon delving into our state records we find that not since Thomas Bibb, the second state executve, stepped out of office in 1821 has this state been without an ex-governor. In 149 years, the nation has had 31 presidents, in 119 years, the State has had 40 Governors, and we can explain these latter figures by the shorter terms to which the governors were elected in the early days of Alabama. We were hardly prepared, however, to find the ex-governor such a prolific creature, and to learn that at times in the history of Alabama, four, five or six ex-governors have been alive. We were astonished, moreover, to learn that when Robert Miller Patton of Lauderdale County took office on December 20, 1865, there were then alive no less than nine men who had served Alabama in the executive's chair! Nine—and if you don't believe it, we can name them: Clement Comer Clay, Benjamin Fitzpatrick, Joshua L. Martin (who lived in Tuscaloosa), Reuben Chapman, Anthony Winston, Andrew Barry Moore, John Gill Shorter, Thomas H. Watts and Lewis E. Parsons. (At that time, we had only 19 governors; in other words, virtually half of them were still living.)—Tuscaloosa News.

The Legislature will not be called upon to do anything more patriotic, appropriate or timely.

THE NEW ROAD—

'The shortest distance between two points is a straight line', it has been said, and have you ever noticed how a new road, surveyed and built by modern engineers, makes an old road running in the same general direction look ridiculous? That is what's taking place on the new road to Lay Dam. Was out looking the situation over a few days ago, and was just wondering how many combined miles vehicles going to Lay Dam had traveled that the new road will eliminate. Although only a portion of the way will be built under the present project, we're looking forward to the day—in the not-to-distant future, we hope, when this road will be a super one, complete in every detail.

DOWN THE GUTTER—

Good whiskey, bad whiskey, corn whiskey, rye and gin—all went down the gutter last Tuesday morning when Sheriff J. R. Hardy cleaned out the jail store house for confiscated beverages, and made room for the next administration accumulations. Not one bottle of the intoxicating fluid was left after the Sherff's deputies finished their task. A virtual river of headaches flowed from the jail house on down the alley. From home brew to the most expensive bottled-in-bond, flowed down from the smashed containers in the City trash truck. Reading the minds of some of the bystanders while officers of the law were at work, we saw regrets at the destruction of the really prime liquor, and some wondering if a few pints might not be spared the hammer. Yes, Sir, Sheriff Hardy filled the stock room during his administration, and there were several gallons sitting around the door—no room inside. The odor of whiskey was in the air around Clanton Tuesday. Out-of-towners cruising about the City at that time could have concluded we had a distilling industry in our fair city. This is a four-year custom, and four years hence, incoming Sheriff W. G. Culp will have the same task on his hand, unless Chilton goes Wet—and we doubt that. We mean legally, of course; for there's whiskey in these parts, Wet or Dry.

"TRUE COURSE EVER"—

The Clanton Pilot Club has a busy year ahead, we note, after reading over the list of objectives set out by the organization for 1939. The erection of street markers over the city heads the list for the Pilots during this year. A much needed improvement in Clanton, and while we're talkng about markers we would suggest somebody sponsor the erection of markers for Chilton County's lateral roads. This, in our estimation, would be a great help to motorists over the County. There are practically no markers on the network of Chilton County roads, and why not? This was called to our attention by a newcomer to the county. It should be given serious consideration by some civic organization that might sponsor the move. Getting back to the Pilot Club, we observe that this organization of Clanton business women is strictly adhering to their motto— "True Course Ever".

Ala. Jobless Checks Are Showing Decline

Washington, Jan. 2—The Social Security Board reported Monday that Alabama paid $517,633 in unemployment compensation in November as compared with $688,091 in October and that payments in Mississippi in November were $150,758 as compared with $138,893 in October.

Twenty of the 29 states paying benefits reported reduction ranging from 2.1 percent in Maryland to 36 percent in Michigan.

The Board said benefits paid by the state agencies in November showed the greatest drop since they began declining in August. Alabama was one of the ones showing a drop in benefits paid.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

While I was in the woods with a Scout Troop I had occasion to admire a fine lad. One of the boys related a story of a rich brother who had just brought and given a nice automobile to his poorer brother. The boys were commenting on this generous act and the most of them were saying, "Gee, I wish that I had a rich brother like that and he would give me a car." One boy listened to what the others were saying and then he remarked, "When I get to be a man I am going to do like that rich brother, I am going to give my brother an automobile." It is a safe guess when we estimate character by the way the individual relates himself to things. This boy was not thinking of having somebody give him a car, but he was thinking of giving a car to his brother. Why do you want money? Is it that you may be generous and helpful with it? Most of us want to be on the receiving side and not on the giving side.

The story is told on Mr. Coolidge that one Sunday he went to church, leaving Mrs. Coolidge at home. On his return his wife asked him, "My Dear, what did the preacher preach about today " The president's jaws dropped apart and she heard, "Sin." His good wife made another effort and this time she inquired, "Well, my dear, what did he have to say about sin?". This time the silent man made an oration when he replied, "He was against it." The president may have remembered more than he related to his wfe, but it was evident that the preacher had made him understand that he was against sin. Doubtless we have heard preachers in recent years who did not impress us very much that they were against sin.

Out of the Oriental past we get this story. A peasant was standing by the roadside and saw Cholera go by on his to Bagdad to kil ltwenty thousand people where Cholera was going and what he intended doing and received this reply, "I am going to Bagdad to kill 20 thousand people." Three months later this peasant of the hills saw Cholera on his return and he addressed him thus, "You vagabond, you went down to Bagdad to kil ltwenty thousand people and you have killed ninety thousand." "No, No,' 'replied Cholera, "I killed twenty thousand, fear killed the rest." Fear is the most destructive enemy of the human race. Worry, anxiety, terror, inferiority complex, pessimism, greed and the like are the children of fear. Christ says, "Fear not."

At the funeral service of Andrew Jackson an interested friend inquired of a Negro servant, "Do you think, Mandy, that the General has gone to Heaven?" She replied, "I don't know, Marsa, but if he wanted to go he went." That is just it. That is what takes place in my case and your case. It is certain that if we want to go to Heaven bad enough, we can go. We keep ourselves from going—no one else.

A six year old boy arose one morning to be told that God had brought him a little brother. This lad tip-toed softly to the crib of his baby brother. His eyes were sparkling and yet there was an expression of seriousness on his face. He bent over the red, wrinkled little face and whispered in one ear, "Now, baby brother, tell me about God before you forget." It is true that many a person in this our day forgets all about God soon after they are babes no longer.

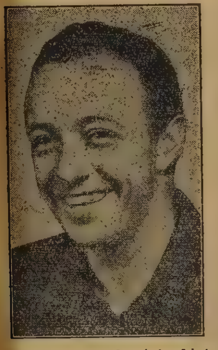
WHO WROTE IT?

"Tea For Two"



His father owned a chain of hat stores in New York, and sent his son to Trinity School in Mamaroneck, New York, and had him "prepped" for Yale at Heathcote Hall, Rye, New York. Everything seemed set for the young man's career as an engineer But he said no to Yale, and started instead in Wall Street, hoping for a career as a financier. One year later, he was in the Navy, and it was at the Great Lakes Training Station that his musical talent was discovered.

Instead of being put into active service, the war for him was just a series of musical shows. In a few years he had qualified for membership in the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, which had just begun to assume an important place in the musical life of America.

His first professional theatrical success was the musical comedy "Two Little Girls In Blue" with the song, "Oh, Me! Oh, My! Oh, You!" as its feature. Two years later came "Wildflower" with 'Bambolina', then "No, No, Nanette" with "Tea For Two" and "I Want To Be Happy" (lyrics for the latter two by Irving Caesar) Other productions that followed included "Hit The Deck" with "Hallelujah" and "Sometimes I'm Happy"; "Great Day," featuring the songs "Great Day" and "Without a Song."

His first movie job was to create the music for the first Astaire-Rogers musical, called "Flying Down To Rio" After several months of intensive work, he broke down and was sent to recover his health in the hills of Colorado.

His friends in ASCAP and in the world of the theatre were happy to learn recently that he had fully recovered and was again preparing to continue his career as a songwriter.

His eastern home is in Westchester County, he fishes in New Jersey, and tries to spend his winters in New Orleans at the Loyola University music school.

His name is

Vincent Youmans

Mt. Pleasant Girls 4-H Club

The 4-H Club girls of Mt. Pleasant met on their regular meeting day, January 3, to start off their new year's work. We hope to make this new year a better one with larger attendance than we ever had before. We had three of our members to move away, five new members to join our club. The meeting was opened with a Bible reading and two songs, followed by the 4-H Club pledge. The secrtary-treasurer read the minutes and called the roll. There were fifty-two present. Miss Barber showed us how to arrange our bedroom in ways that it would be more attractive and useful. Then she showed us some pictures, the kind that would suit the various rooms in the home.

We adjourned until next meeting, hoping each and every one will come back and bring someone with him to join our Club.—Memorie Rush, Reporter.

Cooper Girls 4-H Club

On January 6 the Cooper 4-H Club Girls met for their monthly meeting.

Many good points on the arrangement of furniture were learned. A very interesting program was given which was enoyed very much. The members are showing more and more interest in their work than ever before. It is hoped that before the year is out to have accomplished many worthwhile things. I'm sure we can do so with such a splendid leader.—Murrelle Jones, Reporter.

Verbena Girls Club

The Verbena Girls 4-H Club girls met January 5th for the first meeting in 1939. The meeting was called to order by the president, Marie Robinson.

The general order of business was followed and the pledge was given. The following program was given:

Devotional—Lenora Patterson
Songs—Club members.
Demonstration of furniture arrangement and Home improvement—Miss Barber.

The club members were inspired to hard work and more faithful service for the new year.—Alice Gilmore, Rep.

Why The Governor Paroles Ala. Convicts

—o—

When Governor Graves was inaugurated in 1935 there were 3,800 convicts who were out on temporary parole. These were misdemeanor convicts. In most cases they were persons who had served a short sentence but were unable to pay the cost. In most cases it would have taken them longer to work out the cost than the penalty imposed.

But under the law as it then existed each one would have been entitled to a new suit of clothes, $10 to pay transportation home and $10 in cash for support until he could get a job.

Gov. Graves saw that it would cost the State approximately $100,000 to discharge these convicts after they had had worked out their cost bills, and the State had no place to work them at a profit. So a law was passed which authorized the Governor to grant permanent paroles or pardons in misdemeanor cases with or without the payment of cost, and without the convict making formal application in the usual way, and providing that convict on temporary parole should not be entitled to clothing, transportation and carh as provided in the code. Under this law the Governor paroled all of these 3,800 convicts.

EX-SOLDIERS WANTED

—o—

Colonel Frederick A. Prince, Recruiting Officer, U. S. Army, Montgomery, Alabama anounces that ex-soldiers are wanted for the newly organized Regular Army Reserve.

Requirements for admission to this service are that a man must have served at least one year of continuous service in the Regular Army and be less than 36 years of age. Being married or having dependents and regardless of how long the man has been separated from the service is not a bar to enlistment, providing he is under 36.

This offers former soldiers an opportunity to return to their former branch of service in case of a National emergency, which is the only condition under which they will be recalled to Federal service. No training or summer camps are required of the ex-soldier to interfere with his civil vocation, and other advantages are available, to be explained when the former soldier applies for enlistment.

An enlistment allowance of $2.00 per month, payable every four months, is offered. This means the man will receive every four months a check for $8 from the Government of the United States.

Ful lparticulars concerning this enlistment may be secured from the Army Recruiting Agent, Post Office Building, Montgomery, Dothan, Birmingham, Gadsden and Decatur, Ala., Knoxville, Nashville and Memphis, in Tenn., or at any Regular Army Post.

Veterans Outline A Program To Dixon

—o—

A six-point legislative program adopted by the Alabama department of the Veterans of Foreign Wars at its recent mid-winter conference in Montgomery had been submitted to Governor-elect Frank M. Dixon recently.

The program was laid before Dixon at a conference in Birmingham attended by three department officers of the V.F.W., Charles F. Morgan, of Montgomery, Commander; H. P. Lipscomb, of Bessemer, legislative chairman, and Oran M. Barron, of Bessemer, adjutant.

The six points contained in the program are: (1) location of a new national cemetery in north central Alabama; (2) preference for veterans in any state, city or county civil service laws, with military service records to be recognized and credited in examinations; (3) parity with other veterans' organizations on the state athletic commission; (4) equal representation on the state service commission; (5) vocational exemption from license fees for disabled veterans; and (6) absolute homestead exemption for totally disabled veterans and dependents of deceased veterans.

In urging an upstate national cemetery, the V.F.W. contended that the present cemetery at Mobile is inadequate and also inconvenient to veterans and their relatives in the north and north central part of the state. The V.F.W. indicated it would favor locating a new cemetery between Montgomery and Birmingham.

Asking absolute homestead exemptions in total disability of veterans, the legislative program commented: "We feel that the totally disabled veteran and the dependents of a disabled veteran should at least share in the benefits of exemptions of the state, along with our blind, deaf and dumb citizens."

Commander Morgan announced the incoming Governor listened sympathetically to the outline of the program and assured the veterans he would study it.—Montgomery Journal.

B. N. IVEY, Assistant County Agent in Charge of 4-H Club Work

Statistics

During the month of December the Agent spent 14 days in the field, 8½ day in the office, received 156 telephone calls, made 28 farm visits in connection with project work, gave 2 method demonstrations with 6 attending, gave 5 adult Method Demonstrations with 41 attending, held 15 4-H Club meetings with 500 attending, traveled 703 miles, visited 15 schools, made 18 talks, wrote 2 press articles, wrote 30 letters, gave out 37 USDA Bulletins and 23 Extension Circulars, took 3½ days annual leave, attended 1 miscellaneous meeting with 126 present, attended 13 Extension conferences with 133 attending, and wrote 1 circular letter.

4-H Club Work

During this month the joint meetings of the boys and girls on the cotton program were completed by the 10th. The meetings held during the remainder of the month consisted of checking on project cards, and giving out livestock.

Program Planning Conferenie In Auburn

Three days were spent in Auburn at the Annual Planning meeting. During this time plans were made for the 1939 Program of Extension work. In my opinion this was the best program planning conference held yet by the Extension Service. If this program is carried out as it is planned, there will be less actual work done by the Agent but more effective work will be done as a result of this planning.

Hog Cholera

An epidemic of hog cholera broke out in this county as a result of hogs from South Alabama being sold here. The Assistant Agent in cooperation with the local veterinarian, vaccinated a total of 152 animals. There were opproximately 15 hogs at the beginning of the outbreak, but the disease seems to be on the wane at the present time.

Demonstrations

The following demonstration were given during the month:

1 on terracing
4 on vaccination for hog cholera
1 on de-horning and putting ring in nose of bull
1 on pruning peach trees.

Miscellaneous

One day was spent with AAA. The rest of the month was spent making weekly, monthly, and annual reports, and making plans for program of work for January, 1939.

One hundred hens give off from 6 to 11 quarts of water each day as vapor in their breath. Proper ventilation removes this water from the house by taking the moisture-laden air out above the heads of the birds. The distance the moisture-laden air must travel should be kept to a minimum. If too far the moisture in the air will condense and drop back into the house.

Hens must be comfortably housed and well cared for if they are going to ring up a profit for their owner. Expensive equipment is not necessary, however, and often it is possible to remodel old buildings to make satisfactory laying houses. Plans for the remodeling of old buildings into any one of three types of laying houses are obtainable for the asking by writing Purina Mills, St. Louis, Missouri.

Common red mites are one of the worst enemies of a laying flock. These are found around roosts, in cracks, on dropping boards and in nests. When discovered, the laying house should be cleaned thoroughly and sprayed with a solution of one-half pint of Cresofec and one quart of kerosene in one gallon of water. Every crack where mites are likely to hide should be thoroughly sprayed. The birds should be kept out of the house until the spray is completely dried.

Often a little extra "push" is all that is needed to start a flock of chickens to laying. A stimulating tonic for this purpose has recently been introduced called Nik-Tonik. Six pounds of it are enough for one hundred birds. Where a laying mash and scratch grain are fed, six pounds of Nik-Tonik are mixed in 100 pounds of laying mash; where an all-mash ration is fed, six pounds are mixed in 200 pounds of the mash. As soon as the one hundred birds have consumed the specially prepared mash their regular laying mash is given them.

Nik-Tonik is available at all stores and elevators where Purina feeds are sold.

FOUR GOOD FARM PRACTICES ARE LISTED BY P. O. DAVIS

—o—

Auburn—Four ways for a good farmer to make wise use of all his available land were outlined here this week by P. O. Davis, State Extension Service Director, in discussing the heavy load that cotton has been carrying in the State.

"The 6.5 percent of the State's cropland in cotton has been paying three-fourths of the annual fertilizer bill of $20,000,000 and for mules, implements, food and feed, and even meat," he remarked.

The director said he believes a farmer will be making the wisest use of his land if he does four things:

1. Take his alloted acreage of cotton, peanuts, or tobacco, and make the best use he can of the land. Make it produce the best crops more abundantly by rotation, legumes, terracing and other good practices.

2. Make enough food and feed for the farm needs. When meat, milk, butter, eggs, peas, beans, turnips, fruits and other vegetables are made at home the cash money can go for other needs. Include in the farm plan a pasture and peanuts corn and other feed for livestock.

4. After land for the above purposes is set aside provide pastures and grain and forage crops for cattle, hogs, sheep, chickens, for sale.

4. See that land not suited for growing feed, food or pastures is in trees. By keeping fire out. pruning out undesirable trees, and by cutting wisely, a farmer may double his income from timberland in just a few years.

Baptist W.M.U. Meets

A general meeting of the Baptist W.M.U. was held at the church Monday afternoon. Mrs. Ezell had charge of the meeting, in the absence of Mrs. Hayes, the president. A very lovely Devotional was given by Mrs. Oscar Davis on what we should do this next year to show God how much we love Him. The Devotional was followed by the business session. Many plans were discussed for the following year. Reports were given and awards were given each circle for their work last year.

Names were drawn for the new circles. Each circle elected officers and committee chairmen. After the business session a social hour was enjoyed by everyone.

Here's a Glimpse of 'The World of Tomorrow'

VISITORS to the New York World's Fair in 1939 will be given some indication of what "The World of Tomorrow" may look like. The Trylon and Perisphere, emblematic of the Fair's "The World of Tomorrow" theme, seen in the background, set off "The Road of Tomorrow," which climaxes the Exposition building being erected for Ford Motor Company at the Fair. Demonstrating that the highways of the future are being built today, "The Road of Tomorrow" will carry visitors up the spiral ramp shown here and around the facade of the Ford building in Ford, Mercury and Lincoln-Zephyr cars, giving them an excellent view over the grounds and converting the entire building into a dynamic exhibit.

New Salem

Our Sunday School is doing very well at the present time, but there is room for much improvement. There are members in the community that have not been attending. We urge all of them to start right back to coming, because we need them to help carry on the work.

Everybody remember next Sunday is our regular preaching day. Every one come and bring some one with you.

Next Sunday is our regular singing afternoon, beginning at 2:00 o'clock. We are expecting to have the new Showalter books. We have the promise of some real good singers. Everybody come and bring your book and enjoy the afternoon with us.

COLLINS CHAPEL CITIZEN IS BURIED THERE TUESDAY P.M.

The remains of William M. Benson, age 62, were buried at Collins Cemetery Tuesday afternoon, January 10, with services conducted by Rev. W.P. Lowery and Maurice Hodgens. Arrangements were in charge of Spigener Funeral Home.

Mr. Benson dropped dead at Hillcrest Service Station, just north of Cahaba River Bridge, in Jefferson County Monday morning about 10 o'clock when he stopped there to buy a cold drink. It is reported that Mr. Benson's wife who was going to Birmingham with him, had fainted and he stopped to get her a drink, thinking probably it would help here. He is said to have told the other occupants of the car that he believed he was gong to faint, too, and dropped dead. In the car besides Mr. and Mrs. Benson were their daughter, Miss Estelle Benson; a ourse, Miss Davis of Thorsby, and Burnie Mims, who was driving the car. John's ambulance from Birmingham was summoned which carried the body to their parlors and prepared it. The body was brought to Clanton Monday afternoon by Raymond, of Spigener Funeral Home, who had charge of burial arrangements.

Pallbearers were Varnie Wyatt, Gerald Hubbard, George Murrah, Tom Strand, Akins Collins and Arthur Honeycutt. Honorary pallbearers were S. M. Pate, Judge J. O. Middleton, Judge L. H. Reynolds, Perry Gore, Henry Robinson and Andrew Davis.

Besides the widow, Mrs. Susie Collins Benson, surviving are two daughters, Miss Estelle Benson and Mrs. Arthur (Paul) Davis; two brothers, Matt and John Benson; two sisters, Mrs. G. S. Burnett and Mrs. G. W. Mims.

Bill Benson, who spent his entire life time in Collins Chapel Community, was one of the most favorably and well known citizens of Chilton County, always taking an active part in various community activities.

State Purchases Land Near 'Justice Hall'

Purcase of a 150-foot square of property adjoining the new "hall of justice" on Dexter Avenue was announced recently by the capitol building commission.

Governor Graves said $40,000 was paid for the tract, purchased through two Montgomery real estate concerns. The lot will be landscaped to provide grounds for the justice building,

The building, formerly a Shrine temple, was purchased by the State several months ago and is being remodeled for use by the supreme court, court of appeals, and attorney general's department.—Alabama Journal.

State Employees Who Handle Money Bonded

Every State Office and every state employee who handles State funds of any kind is under bond. The records show that not one cent has been collected from any bonding company because of the discrepancy or shortage of any State employee since the beginning of the present administration although more than three hundred million dollars have been handled, counting some of it two or three times where it had to pass through different hands. During this same period State has collected from County Officials and their bonding companes for discrepancies $738,000.00 and there is still pending cases involving approximately a million dollars. This is largely due to the fact that many of the County officials had not been examined for a number of years and was due to ignorance of the law. Under the present law records of County Officials are examined at least once every two years.

Christian Endeavor

During the Christmas holidays no news of Christian Endeavor was sent in, however, there were some notable activities of the Society. Some of those were: On Christmas Eve some of the endeavorers went to the homes of persons unable to be out and sang carols; on New Year's Eve a watch party was held at the home of Sarah Nell Collins, at which everyone immensely enjoyed himself.

Sunday afternoon, January 8, the Christian Endeavor Executive Committee met. There were very few items of business owing to the fact that some of the members had been back from their vacations only a few days.

Sunday evening the society met in the Fellowship room for its regular open meeting. Inez Duke was in charge of an interesting program entitled, "The Work of God". After the program Mr. Richard Petersen, the former president of the society, spoke a few congratulatory words to the group. This was followed by an inspiring talk by Miss Laverna Jones, the present sponsor, on "Making Our Society A Live Organization".

HIGHLIGHTS OF FDR MESSAGE TO CONGRESS

Washington—Here are some of the things President Roosevelt had to say in his message to Congress on the budget and relief:

We have not been throwing the taxpayers' money out of the window or into the sea. We have been buying real values with it.

Sound progress toward a budget that is formally balanced is not to be made by heavily slashing expenditures or drastically increasing taxes.

A year ago I recommended an increase in work relief, public works and other related expenditures to check the downward spiral of business.

The program undertaken at that time has contributed materially, I believe, to the existing upward movement of business and employment and I feel that the busines men and farmers and workers of the country, no less than the unemployed, are entitled to an assurance that this program will not be curtailed arbitrarily or violently

Another type of expenditure has been forced upon us in increasing volume by the real necessity for expanding our national defense. We are all aware of the grave and unsettling developments in the field of international relations during the past few years.

In the view of the addition to our public expenditures involved in the proposed enlarged national defense program and the program for agricultural parity payments, for which no revenue provision has yet been made, I think we might safely consider moderate tax increases which would approximately meet the increased expenditures on these amounts.

The public has been showing an increased interest in the adoption by the government of a form of budget which would conform more nearly to the practice followed in commercial business.

While I do not advocate that the government capitalize all of its expenditures for physical improvements, it seems to me that such portions of the cost of public projects as are clearly self-liquidating should occupy a separate category in budgetory reporting.

It is believed that sufficient funds should now be appropriated to the the balance of the current fiscal year to employ an average of 3,000,000 workers in February and March, and a diminishing number beginning in April, which would reach a figure of 2,700,000 in June.

To provide the employment set forth above, a deficiency appropriation of $875,000,000 will be required.

It is my belief that improper political practices can be eliminated only by the imposition of rigid statutory regulations and penalties by the Congress, and that this should be done.

No one wishes more sincerely than I do that the program for assisting unemployed workers shall be completely free from political manipulation. However, any one who proposes that this result can be achieved by turning the administration of a work program over to local boards is either insincere or is ignorant of the realities of local American politics.

Soil Building Should Be Year-'round Job

Auburn—A. W. Jones, State AAA head, and J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist, this week urged Alabama farmers to begin 1939 with a study of how they can use the AAA soil building allowance to the best advantage.

The common practice is for the farmer to wait until fall to think of any of the soil-building practices for which he can earn payments under the federal conservation program. However, these practices can be carried out all through the year and the same payment earned.

Soil building provisions of the 1939 program provide some of the most interesting and important changes from that in operation last year. The total Alabama soil building allowance will be increased by $700,000, which will make it possible for the State's farmers to be paid nearly $5,000,000 for practicing soil conservation in 1939, according to Mr. Jones and Mr. Lowery. Last year there were $4,00,000 available for Alabama farmers.

Some of the needed things that can be done during the coming months for which AAA payments will be made are planting pine trees, sowing lespedza, crotalaria and other summer legumes, establishing or improving pastures and pasture lands, using phosphate with pastures or legumes, and the application of lime on land. The planting of kudzu, on which payment has been increased to $6 per acre, can be done within the next few weeks.

Farmers are urged to see their county agents and obtain all information on these practices and others so that soil building work can be put into operation now and continued all through the year. Each farm has a soil building allowance that can be collected and the farm improved greatly.

LIVESTOCK LURE LORE & LOGIC

By Tom McCord
Union Stockyards, Montgomery

From one year to the next little change can be noticed in the kind of livestock, especially cattle, that are produced by the farmers of the nation and marketed through the Central Markets. Yet the models change from year to year just like automobiles but not as noticeably. It is not necessary to go away back to the days of the Texas Longhorn to get a striking comparison. Take the Grand Champion steer at the International Livestock Show at Chicago in 1904 and compare him to the winner of the same award in 1938. In the eearlier show we find a glorious example of cattle perfection as big as a small elephant and balancing the scales at 1870 pounds. This steer in his day was accepted in the hottest competition by packers as being just exactly the kind and weight that was most desired in the meat trade and whose sirloins would cut out as big as a Texas hat and sell for $1.00 per cut over the butcher's counter.

Since that time when a family numbering four or less was marvelled at and even deplored the average American family has diminished to about that figure. At the same tife the average size of the American steak has been pared down accordingly.

So, when we get to the 1938 International Grand Champion we find a neat litle package of beef on the hoof that weighs 1135 pounds, just 735 lighter than the 1904 champion and at the same time carrying the same high quality and finish.

It is not enough that the retail meat dealer should cut smaller portions from the side of a beef loin. The housewife demands the same finish and tastiness in her meat that was demanded a generation ago. Although the meat cuts she desires are smaller, they must be obtained from well-bred, full-grown, finished stock. She still demands the same relative proportion of the whole that she did 30 years ago. The change cannot be made in consumers tastes and in the retail shop, it must be made on the FARM. This it has been made is well borne out in the comparison of the two Grand Champions at the International.

A recent editorial in the Kansas City Daily Drovers Telegram sizes up the livestock situation in the Middle West during the past year and forecasts another good year in 1939. The remarks so fit the South also that I consider them worthy of review in this column.

The editorial in part:

"Livestock Saves The Day"

"At the beginning of 1938 the livestock industry was entering a new year under conditions fraught with considerable uncertainty. Now, looking back with retrospect as the turn of another year rolls around, it appears that old 1938 wasn't such a bad year after all, and that livestock production yielded more satisfactory returns than any other division of agriculture. Year in and year out, this situation generally has been found to prevail.

"True, the Department of Agriculture estimates that after four successive years of rising farm prices and farm income 1938 will mark a decline in total farm income under the proceeding year. All important products share in the decline, with wheat and cotton showing the greatest percentage decrease.

"But livestock and livestock products showed a less drastic and less fatal decrease in total returns for the year than did other leading farm products. A favorable feature of the last year livestock business has been the relative stability of market trends, with an absence of violent fluctuations which make the producers lot a hard one.

"While many factors may have bearing on the livestock business, most important of which probably will be general conditions throughout the country, the outlook as the industry goes into 1939 gives definite promise that the old wish of a happy and prosperous New Year for Stockmen will become a reality.

ACROSS THE BORDER

Dallas County—Canvass of Plantersville has failed to disclose a sufficient number of youths between the ages of 18 and 25 who would be available for a proposed NYA shop program there, it was stated Friday by E. W. Pettus, Chairman of the Dallas County Board of Education, who is eager to see the full benefits of this program in effect in the County.

The possibility of enlisting Autauga and Chilton Counties in the program, under which youths from the section adjacent to Plantersville and neighbor to Selma, would benefit was indicated at a conference between Mr. Pettus and J. A. Lee, County Superintendent of Education. It was thought possible also, that some plan to transport Plantersville boys to a Selma shop center also would come up for consideration.

Autauga County—Mr. Mose Stewart, of Montgomery, owner of the Red Devil Lake propeprty, was in Prattville Tuesday circulating among his friends and receiving a cordial welcome. Mr. Stewart informs The Progress that he is clearing 50 acres of land in the Pine Creek swamp which he intends to transform into gardens with gravity irrigation. Tractors were to be placed at work here clearing the wooded growth. He is advertising in this issue of The Progress for someone who understands surface irrigation, and the problems of reclaiming this land.

Mr. Stewart states that the damage suffered at Red Devil Lake during the recent flood waters is being repaired and that the property will be greatly improved during the next several month.—Prattville Progress.

Elmore County—J. C. Cartwright, 28, of Tallassee, was killed in an automobile accident in Montgomery Sunday morning.

The accident that cost Cartwright his life occurred during the early morning hours on Bell Street near the intersection of Bell and Gordon. He was accompanying Lehman Griffin, 33, also of Tallassee, and Sanford Nelson, 20, of Marbury, cousin of Griffin, in a car, headed north on Bell St. when Griffin who was driving, failed to see another machine parked by the curb, and crashed into it.—Tallassee Tribune.

Shelby County—An attempt to wreck two Central of Georgia Trains, one a freight and the other a pasenger, near Vincent, on December 13 was revealed by railroad special agents. They reported the arrest of two youths on charges of attempted train wrecking and burglary.—Shelby County Reporter.

Macon County—There is something new under the sun and it is news for 1939. Tuskegee which has already become nationally famous will very soon put on the market a new product of the peanut. This product is destined to meet a great need throughout the country and thus bring added fame to the name of Tuskegee and those who have experimented with the peanut.

This new product will be known as "Peano Oil". It will be used for the treatment of the dry scalp as a hair groom for young men, and to bring back health and lustre to any hair that has lost its natural oil and beauty. It will not be claimed that Peano Oil will grow hair on every bald head or cure every disease of the scalp. But, already, good results have been obtained by the proper use of this oil. Local beauty parlors have gotten excellent results in treating the hair with this product.

A small company is being organized locally to market this product. It is hoped that it will expand into a company of national scope and thus create a market for large quantities of peanuts from Alabama and the South. This forward step is in line with the ideals of the State Chamber of Commerce, which is to create small industries in the different sections of Alabama.

At an early date an oil for massaging depleted muscles will be ready for distribution. A similar product has already proven itself to have wonderful tissue building power. This product has already done a wonderful amount of good for individuals suffering with infantile paralysis.

WINTER EGG SLUMP CAN BE AVOIDED, AUTHORITY SAYS

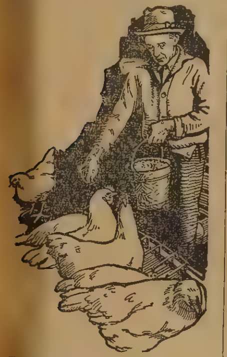
Proper Lighting and Feeding Plan Will Keep Production Up in Cold Weather

The coming of cold weather brings with it the inevitable problem of keeping egg production up as the mercury goes down. That is largely a problem of getting enough feed into the birds, according to C. S. Johnson, Manager of the Poultry Department of Purina Mills.

"Egg production often goes down during a severe cold snap because birds don't eat as much feed as they should," Johnson says. "It takes more feed to maintain heat and energy in the bird's body during cold weather and still produce the same number of eggs. That's why hens must be kept eating if they're going to keep on laying.

Hens Need Longer Days

"Short days and long nights call for special lighting and feeding in order to get increased feed consumption. Hens in heavy production need a 13 to 14-hour day to eat enough feed to maintain their egg output," says Johnson. "At the Purina Experimental Farm we have found that morning lights are more satisfactory than both morning and evening lights or all-night lights.



To get more eggs increase feed consumption by scattering Layena Checkers over laying mash.

"Having provided adequate lighting and sufficient eating time for the birds the next move is to step up their incentive to eat. For this we recommend Layena checkers, moring and evening on top of the regular mash feed. Layena checkers are laying mash pressed into grain-like pellets that are easy to feed.

Keep Mash Hoppers Filled

"The correct procedure is to keep the hoppers filled with mash all day, then mornings and evenings stir the mash well and scatter on top of it Layena checkers. This activity at the hoppers, caused by the mash stirring and checker feeding process attracts the hens and makes them eat more feed.

"Birds in heavy production should also have a feeding of Layena checkers at noon."

S. Bulletins sent, 117; Extension circulars sent, 93; days annual leave, 5; number of miscellaneous meetings attended, 13 attendance, 133.

A. A. A. Activities

A schedule of ten meetings was made over the County taking applications for subsidy payment. All persons who did not cooperate in payment 1937 program were given an opportunity to make application for subsidy paymen. Several hundred subsidy checks for those who did not cooperate in the 1937 Agricultural Conservation program have been received and delivered.

During the month of December notices were mailed for farmers who signed a contract in 1938 and who took the option plan advising them that they would have an additional payment. These farmers called at the County Agent's Office to receive the forms necessary to make this application and to receive help in filling out these forms.

Several days of the County Agent's time were devoted to advising the farmers in reference to the referendum on marketing quotas which was held December 10. Meetings were held in the different communities over the entire county and the Agricultural Conservation program discussed. 80 per cent of the farmers voted in favor of marketing quotas.

All farmers who overplanted their cotton allotment in 1938 were asked to fill out a report for their farms, Form 217, before the first of January. A good number of these farmers called at the County Agent's office to receive help in filling out this form.

The County Agent called and conducted meetings for the purpose of electing community committeemen and delegates to the County convention. The County convention was called for the purpose of electing County Committeemen for 1939.

Rural Electrification Work

The County Agent spent some time working with the farmers and helping them to secure enough electric patrons to justify Rural Electric loan for the purpose of construction of rural electric lines in the county. The required number of customers for fifty miles of lines was secured and the application has been made for a loan for the purpose of constructing this line.

Conferences

On December 13, Mrs. Lyle Brown, Extension Forester, visited the coutny at which time two meetings were held on Commercial Sweet Potato Production. Much helpful information was given to those interested n the production of sweet potatoes at this time.

The County Agent, Assistant County Agent and Home Agent attended a number of conferences in Auburn on December 4 through 6. Programs of work were planned with the various specialists and plans for the coming year's work.

The County Agent, Assistant County Agent and Home Agent had a joint conference with the County Health Department in order that a plan might be worked out to work together in improving living conditions and health of the rural people in the County.

Yesterday-Today Tomorrow

By J. Harrison Miller

Those who yell about revolutions, past or prospective, have two very important things to learn. First: The seeds of revolution are sowed by those in places high and powerful. By those who use the economic power of money, industrial serfdom, landlordism and corrupted government to oppress the lower strata of a class-divided society created by and only because of such action. Second: The seeds of revolution sprout, grow and mature, not among the upper class of society; not among the middle classes. They take root and flourish in the gutters of civilization. In filth laden alleys. In the crowded tenements. In poverty. In squalor. Revolutions do not come down from the top. The come up from the bottom.

Liberals, progressives and radicals—even comunists—do not make revolutions. No individual or small group of agitators makes them. A revolution is merely the "slam-bang" climax of broad, unbearable economic conditions which would crush the bottom layers of society. In the outbreak or progress of any revolution, the liberal or radical group merely organizes and directs the rebels, who, otherwise, would be only a howling, clamoring mob. These leaders are the trusted executives of the class they represent. Invariably they are zealous in their activities and the cause of the revolters.

Only a silly person would think a handful of communists could "make" a revolution in the United States. Even in Russia the communists did not do so. But there they did successfully direct one. With implicit faith in the ballot, this writer does not believe a nationwide violent outbreak will ever come in our country. But the chances of such a calamity would be greatly lessened if certain people will stop sowing seeds of revolution with the one hand, while, with the other, they dig the social gutters in which those seeds are sure to sprout.

Old Mill Symbolizes Once Bright Dream Of Mineral Wealth

Dawes, Ala.—The concrete flooring of an old experimental mill, creating the illusion of eight giant steps down the side of a lonely gulley, stands with a mound of reddish ore to symbolize a once-bright dream of $300,000,000 in gold and platinum.

The eight floors are all that remain today of a roughly-built gravity plant near here in which the late Frederick L. Preston, veteran Colorado mining engineer, sought to unlock the secret of vast deposits of hematite in southern Alabama and Georgia.

Preston, who came to Alabama in 1917, after 40 years in the mining districts o the Rockies, worked for more than a decade on the red-brown ore. Ordinary methods of reducton were unsuccessful and he embarked on a search for new means of freeing the wealth he believed it contained.

Letters found recently near the site of his plant indicate he claimed final success in extricating both gold and platinum in commercial quantities by pulverizing the ore and employing heat of an electric furnace and subsequent treatment.

His death in Chicago in 1936—whence he had gone to arrange for construction of a commercial scale mill—ended theexperiments for all time, for he took his secret with him. Always uncommunicative he refused to disclose even to his associates his chemical formula.

Papers show Preston prospected approximately 2,000 acres in extreme South Alabama. He estimated in excess of 3,300,000 tons of ore lay close enough to the surface to be mined with steam shovels, and predicted the ore would yield at least $1.00 per ton in gold and platinum.

DEAN FUNCHESS NAMES BEST VARIETIES OF CORN IN ALA.

Auburn—It would take about 75,000,000 bushels of corn to supply the requirement of horses and mules, cows, hogs, poultry, and farm families in Alabama. In 1938 the latest estimated production was only 46,792,000 bushels.

A movement to make 1939 a banner year in corn yields is to plant a tested variety that is adapted to the soil conditions of the particular locality, according to M. J. Funchess, director of the Alabama Experiment Station. Corn is a very locally adapted plant and even within Alabama the yields of different varieties will vary a great deal. Tests of the Alabama Experiment Station show that the five leading varieties at different points in Alabama are:

At Alexandria—Mosby (Graham) Locker's Yellow, Douthit, Brooks prolific, and Douthit (Marrett).

At Crossville—Douthit, Mosby (Graham), Locker's Yellow. Indian Chief (S.M.), and Whatley (Hudson).

At Belle Mina—Indian Chief (Kiker). Indian Chief (S.M.), Douthit, Mosby (Graham), and Brook's Prolfic

At LaFayette—Douthit, Hastings' prolific, Whatley (Hudson), Local Whatley, Whatley (Whatley Bros

At Aliceville—Mosby (Graham), Indian Chief (Kiker), Whatley (Hudron), Douthit, and Indian Chief (S.M.)

At Brewton—Local Whatley, Whatley (Whatley Bros.), Douthit, Whatley (Hudson) and Hastings' Prolific.

At Headland—Local Whatley, Douthit, Whatley (Whatley Bros.), Hastings' Prolific, and Douthit (Marrett).

Better yields and more successful growth wil lbe obtained with these varieties in the particular sections, Dan Funchess believes.

FROM J. C. EDWARDS

Beast fears God. He fears to do anything contrary to Jehovah's appointed way. The man who does not believe on nor fear God cannot acquire knowledge of righteousness. For this reason men who possess what is called a worldly wisdom and who are wise in their own conceits are foolish and their so-called wisdom is foolishness in God's sight

Deliberate wrongdoers have no fear of God (Prov. 8:13). Any violations of God's law is evil. Knowledge of the requirements of God's law is necessary for those who desire to please Him.

Fear God and keep his commandments is the whole duty of man (Eccl. 12:13) and we read (Psalms 64:9) and all men shall fear and declare the works of God for they shall wisely consider of His doing.

CLANTON GRAMMAR P.T.A. HAS MEETING AT SCHOOL TUESDAY

The Parent-Teachers Association of the Clanton Grammar School met Tuesday, January 3rd, for its first meeting of the new yeor.

The meeting was called to order on time by the President, Mrs. H. K. Christiansen, who presided during a short but important business session, which resulted in the appointment of a committee, composed of Mrs. Dick Hayes, Mrs. Omar Reynolds and Mrs. Grady Heflin, whose duties are to secure the cooperation of the County Board of Education in sponsoring a renovation and beautification project in our school, which will meet the demands necessary for obtaining the NYA funds available.

The Treasurer reported $23.40 in the treasury. This money, the Association voted to divide equally among the different grades to buy at the teacher's discretion, the most needed teaching helps and materials.

Mrs. Frank Scott presided during the presentation of the program, Mrs. Omar Reynolds conducted the Devotional, reading some verses taken from the first and fourth chapters of Proverbs, showing the beauties and benefits of true wisdom.

Mrs. Scott gave a most interesting and seasonal article on types and cause of failure, offering practical suggestions to parents and teachers for helping children to avoid these failures, and showing the importance of letting our children taste success and feel the security of home and school behind them in their undertakings. That each child is a problem, different, in some respects to every other child, and that the wise parent and teacher must suit the method to the child, changing, experimenting, repeating and watching until the desired results are obtained, were significant points in Mrs. Scott's article. Every parent and teacher present must have gained a new sense of the bigness and importance of his or her job.

A count of members present resulted in the award of the half-holiday to Mrs. C. D. Thomas and her class, the fifth grade, after which the meeting adjourned.

KIWANIS CLUB WILL CONSIDER SPONSORING STOCK TRADE DAY

At a meeting of the Directors and Committeemen of the Clanton Kiwanis Club last Monday night, some discussion was had regarding the sponsoring of a "Stock Trade Day", to be held monthly for the farmers of this County.

A designated place where farmers may bring their stock for sale or trade among themselves, once a month, or oftener, was considered as a possible aid to the farmers in disposing of their stock, or trading one animal for another.

The Club will discuss the idea at a later date.

Have you ever started your New Year of 1939 aright by attending our church services? We have a fine, interesting Church School. Last Sunday our attendance was greater in number than at any time on our records. The attendance the Sunday preceeding was a record up to that time, but last Sunday's record topped that.

Our attendance at the morning worship services was good, but there were a few vacant pews. Let's fill them on next Sunday. God, through his servant, our pastor, will give a blessed message. Then may we come back to the evening service for added blessing. And it is a truth that the whole following week will be a better one.

Some Facts On Clanton Poultry Association

At the beginning of school this year the Clanton Chapter of F.F.A., in making out its program of work, began discussing the thought of a poultry association in the Clanton district. The thought materialized and in December an association was formed.

Morris Duke, a capable person, was elected president; Ed Minor, Jr., vice-president; Morris Taylor, Secretary-Treasurer; and Mr. J. H. Jackson, chairman of the board of directors.

The Association was organized on the basis of cooperative buying and selling for its members.

It is the only pounltry association of its kind in the County. It was something that was badly needed in the Clanton district. When the Assosciaton was formed there were 6,500 chicks among the members, and in six weeks it has grown to 8,500 chicks, an increase of 2,000 chicks. From 700 to 900 broilers and fryers are put on the market each week. Eggs are also sold through the Association.

The Board of Directors does all the buying and selling. Each members turns in his bill to the board and it is in their hands until the goods arrive. Feed is bought in lots from one ton up. The Board makes the orders for chicks, placing this order wherever the member wishes to purchase his bill of goods.

With the idea on which the Association was formed it will be a great benefit to the community.

ST. PAUL FIRE AND MARINE INSURANCE BUYS CITY BONDS

J. C. Page, cashier of the First National Bank of this City, received a letter recently from the St. Paul Fire and Marine Insurance, for which he is local agent, which stated that they had purchased $30,000, of Clanton Waterworks' Revenue Bonds.

The Citizens of this town and County will be pleased to know that this Company, which, while taking money from the community, saw fit to invest some of their own in our town. This is a stock Company, not a mutual.

BROADHEAD MARKET MOVING IN BUILDING. NEXT TO NELL'S

The Broadhead Market, formerly located on the highway below Upchurch Drug Co., is making preparations this week to move to their new location in the building next to Nell's Eat Shoppe, which was formerly occupied by the Bowling Alley.

The building is being reworked, and the one from which the market is moving will be taken in by the Elmore Store expansion.

At the afternoon session Miss Curtis gave a demonstration on standardization of canned foods in an effort to raise standards of Home canned products in our own Chilton County. This demonstration was followed by Miss Ruth Dobyne, district supervisor. At the conclusion of this meeting prizes were awarded to Club winners in Kitchen Improvement Contests sponsored by the County Council of the Home Demonstration Club.

The aim of the Club for the coming year is to have these joint meetings throughout the County. In this way Miss Harber and Mr. Fant believe they can have a better and larger Home Demonstration Club.

recting Chilton County's share of the funds taken in, to any organization he desires, which carries on this type of aid. He has designated the Crippled Children's Clinic of this County to be the recipient of these funds.

The local committee is composed of the following:

Joe Mullins, Chairman; Mrs. N. S. Johnson, Co-Chairman; Alvin B. Foshee, Co-Chairman; Raymond P. Mims, Dr. J. E. Edgar, Dr. H. M. Nix, Mrs. Gladys Deramus, General Committee; Mr. T. E. Wyatt and Mr. R. M. Tucker, Publicity; Omar L. Reynolds, Claudie Pipes, Earl C. Parrish, Entertainment.

Mrs. I. T. Quinn, of Montgomery, former president of the State's Federated Women's Clubs, and vice chairman of the State Democratic Committee, also reports success in organizing women's units over the state fo rthe campaign and especially to carry on the "March of Dimes".

This "March of Dimes" campaign, in connection with this war on "maiming death", is being promoted through button sales in industrial plants, business houses, movies, restaurants, hotels, banks traffic terminals, social fraternal patriotic and church organizations. Special attention is also called to the March of Dimes birthday cards with ten dime units, of which 50 percent will be remitted to the County from which it came. This birthday card takes the place of the former telegraph greeting plan, but it also enables individual donors to send personal birthday greetings to the president at the White House. The actual solicitation of funds in many communities begins January 16, and everyone will be urged to "Give A Dime and Wear A Button".

Sunday, January 22, will be known as "Infantile Paralysis Church Sunday", and on that day in all of the churches appeals will be made in support of the campaign.

State Director Swann urges all citizens who are interested to communicate with State head quarters of this campaign, at 501 Protective Life Building in Birmingham, for any information which will help the success of this campaign, and he declares he is more than ever confident that Alabama will do its full duty to threatened childhood and will not lag behind in this fight on infantile paralysis.

REMAINS OF JIM DUPREE WERE BURIED AT COOPER SATURDADY

James L. Dupress, age 66, well known citizen of Chilton County, passed away at his home near Mt. Creek Friday, January 6th, at 2:00 A.M. Brief Funeral services were held at the home Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock conducted by Rev. B. Lawrence, and the body was removed to Chestnut Creek Cemetery, Cooper, for burial. Spigener Funeral Home had charge.

Pallbearers were J. Dewey Rockett, R. W. Lowe, Aubrey Taylor, Lee Wells' J. N. Dennis and S. M. Yates. Honorary Pallbearers were A. R. Felts, of Montgomery, W. C. Kelly of Pratt City, Brent Champion of Mt. Creek, Carl Nelson of Verbena.

Surviving besides his wife, Mrs. Martha Harris Dupree, are four children, Mrs. W. C. Kelly of Pratt City, Hugh, J. L., Jr., and Magdaline, of Mt. Creek; one grandson; two brothers, J. S. Dupree of Jasper and H. W. Dupree of Natural Bridge, Ala.; two sisters, Miss Luna and Adina Dupree of Natural Bridge, Alabama.

Jim Dupree was born in Winston in 1872. He has been married three times, first to Ella Sparks in Winston County, next to Martha Yates near Cooper, and the third time to Martha Harris of Coosa County. He came to Chilton County some thirty-five years ago.

Up until a few years ago, when his health got bad, Jim Dupree was well known over Chilton County and took prominent parts in his community, county and political activities. He lived two miles south of Clanton for some years up until about five years ago.

morial Building

Memorial Building just street has been financed he general fund of last year. o, we transferred out of the fund to the Highway Department fund $189,000 pursuant to a declaratory judgment we secured through the courts enabling them to sponsor that building without any cost to that department. The money was all transferred during the last fiscal year and is carried in their balances today.

Here let me add that our State Comptroller's books show that upon the opening of business this morning —this, the 10th day of January, 1939 —there was a net balance in our State Treasury of eight million, one hundred and seventeen thousand, three hundred and nine dollars and eighty-eight cents, ($8,117,309.88). That is a net balance after deducting all outstanding warrants.

Our highway record of accomplishment exceeded every dream. In three-way highway program alone, Mr. Harry Hopkin's department gave a statement from Washington that Alabama had constructed more than 18 per cent of all the three-way highway construction in the Union. The pavement that has been done, together with that now in process of completion, is 64 per cent of all the paving in all the history of Alabama, notwithstanding other governors, including myslef, had bond issues for that purpose

We have freed the toll bridges, which together with our improved road system, has increased our gasoline receipts more than 40 per cent. If this is just maintained the next quadrennium will have more than ten million more to spend on highways from State sources than we have had in these four years.

Federal Aid Roads

When our toll bridges were freed our delegation in Congress secured the passage of an act whereby we received back half of the cost of those on Federal aid roads to be used for Federal matching in further road or bridge construction. This had to be done promptly or lost, and we were confronted with the problem of securing the money to finance this additional matching of this unexpected Federal aid. Anticipating it, the special session of the Legislature authorized the governor to use the proceeds of one cent of gasoline over a period of four years, and the counties the same, to secure funds for Federal matching. The State has to finance all of this—has to pay the bills before we can send them to Washington to get our part back. We made agreements with the counties whereby they contributed, or were to contribute, approximately one-fourth. We borrowed from time to time an aggregate total of $2,050,000, but mark you, we never borrowed a penny to go beyond last year. Every penny was to be paid during this administration and the last penny was paid last year, and now the State Highway Department has coming back to it many hundreds of thousands of dollars that it advanced financing these programs. This all in addition to the fact that the comptroller's books show a net credit to that department of about a million dollars.

The last report of the Bureau of Roads of the United States shows that in the year reported on, which is now year before last, there were only two States in America that paved as many miles of road as did Alabama! One of them Colorado, the other Michigan. Colorado had a road bond issue and Michigan devotes a part of its sales tax to its highway building.

Federal Aid Change

I believe it advisable to request a change of the Federal Aid laws because under the present set-up there is less than 600 miles in Alabama yet to be paved, whereas this past year we have paved a great deal more than that number of miles, and unless the system is changed there will not be enough of the Federal Aid system for us to work upon for twelve months, assuming that anything like the amount of construction that has been done will be continued.

Here is as good a place as any to say something of the complaints of the great pay roll of the Highway Department.

When the National Administration, at the beginning of this quadrennium, forwarded drafts of bills thought necessary to adjust Alabama's machinery to the New Deal program, the principal bill provided that the governor should appoint a director of public welfare and that that director should appoint each County Board of Welfare. As you know, that had been the custom when the President appointed Mr. Holt and Mr. Holt appointed all the County and City Boards of Welfare that passed on all relief problems and selected through their machinery all those that should get jobs or help of any kind.

Local Appointments

I changed this to provide that each governing body or city governing body should appoint these boards instead of my appointee appointing them.

So as to all of this pay roll business, where we had many thousands in the Highway Department that we pay, the State together with the cities and counties furnished the pay roll but the State had absolutely nothing to do with the selection of those who draw the pay. The local authorities picked them and I saw that they were paid. That was a part of the agreement that I had made with Washington.

Perhaps some of those relief laborers were not as efficient as would be the employees of a contractor but they didn't cost us anything and we have the roads and the bridges, and our State's economic system has absorbed the money that was paid to them.

Public Education

In giving an account of my stewardship, there is nothing which gives no greater pleasure than to contemplate the progress of public education during the years Alabama has entrusted to me Her Governorship. As I look over this period in retrospect, my heart overflows with gratitude when I contemplate the loyal co-operation of the legislatures which served with me during each administration.

Prior to the quadrennium beginning in 1927, four and five months' terms or less for white schools were common in many of the rural counties of the State. In 1925-26, the State provided only $4,669,859 for the elementery and high schools of the State. In 1929-30, the State of Alabama was providing $7,660,544 annually for the public elementery and high schools of the State. A minimum term of seven months was provided throughout the State.

Prior to the quadrennium beginning in 1927, only three of our public institutions of higher learning were standard colleges accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. The physical plants of our public were totally inadequate for the provision of higher education. The State of Alabama provided in 1925-26 only $682,633 annually for all the public institutions of higher learning in the State. In 1929-30, the State provided $3,346,328 for the support of higher education. By 1929-30, five of our public institutions of higher learning were accredited as standard colleges

During the quadrennium beginning in 1931, public education suffered great reverses largely as a result of the depression. In 1932-33, 50,000 white children or 21 per cent of the children in the white rural schools of Alabama had school terms of three months and less. In that same year, over 129,000 white children or 55 per cent of the children in the white rural schools of Alabama had school terms of five and one-half months and less. During the years 1933-34 and 1934-35, the Federal government provided relief appropriations which enabled the public elementary and high schools of the State to operate on a relief basis. However, beginning with the year 1935-36, the Federal government served notice that no more relief appropriations would be available for the operation of schools and it appeared that the conditions of 1932-33 would again prevail in our public schools. The 1935 Legislature made an emergency appropriation to guarantee a seven month's term for that year.

By 1935, most of our institutions of higher learning were threatened with the loss of their accreditment as standard colleges. Many school teachers of the State, including elementary, high school, and college professors, were teaching on greatly reduced salaries and even these salaries were not paid in many cases.

The 1935 Legislature did not shirk its duty and again public education was rehabilitated in the State of Alabama. A minimum school term of seven months had been provided to all of the schools, and now, for the third successive year, the minimum school term throughout Alabama will be seven months.

Boost In School Money

In 1933-34, the State of Alabama provided $5,528,011 for the public elementary and high school of the State as against $10,000,000 annually provided by the 1935 Legislature. These legislative provisions brought immediate results. The total average attendance in the public schools has increased by more than 32,000. This increase is especially noteworthy in the high school grades, which show an increase from 119,362 in 1934 to 143,621 in 1938, or an increase of 24,259.

Everyone is well aware of the great need for vocational education in a State like Alabama. It is gratifying to note that during the past three years the number of vocational classes has been increased by 71.5 per cent; the number of vocational students enrolled has increased by 74.1 per cent; the number of people rehabilitated and placed annually in gainful occupations has increased by 44 per cent; and the number of crippled children hospitalized and treated annually has increased by 641 per cent.

The total number of illiterates from ten to twenty years of age has been reduced 41.4 per cent during the past four years. Hundreds of the inefficient and expensive one and two room schools have been abolished during the past four years and children transported to larger school centers where richer educational offerings are available to them. At the present time, 90 per cent of all of our white school children are enrolled in schools having three or more teachers. Only 4 per cent are enrolled in one-room schools. Fees in the elementary schools have been abolished and, for the first time in the history of the State, free elementary schools are in operation.

For Higher Learning

In 1933-34, the State of Alabama provided $1,033,059 for the institutions of higher learning. This has been increased to $1,939,962. All of our institutions of higher learning which were on probation have had their probation removed by the accrediting agencies and we now have seven public institutions of higher learning fully accredited as standard colleges. The enrollment in our public colleges has increased more than 30 per cent since the early depression years. The 1935 Legislature enacted legislation enabling these colleges to take advantage of Federal grants for building purposes and buildings are now under construction at most of the colleges in the State, which buildings have been made necessary by the increased enrollments.

The statistics that I have just recited to you demonstrate emphatically that we have done far more than just give lip service to public education. It is one thing to be in favor of public education and it is quite another thing to provide for it. We have been willing to ask for increased taxes for the support of public education because never in the history of mankind has a nation bankrupted itself by educating its children. A State does not spend money for public education. It invests its money and that investment yields the highest income return of any investment a State can make. Sense in children's heads are worth more than dollars in safety vaults.

Education's Development

So important have been our achievements in the development of public education during the past four years that I cannot leave this subject without calling attention to some of the major points of the legislative program we enacted into law. The most important measure was the Minimum Program Law. In brief, this law is equalized educational opportunity on a state-wide basis for the first time in our history. The minimum program appropriation bill consolidated numerous special appropriations into a single equalization fund and increased that fund sufficiently to provide a minimum term of seven months throughout the State. The act governing the administration and distribution of the Minimum Program Fund provided for a fair and equitable calculation of the educational needs of the several school systems of the State for a seven months' term on a scientific basis. The law further provides for a sharing of the cost of that program by the State and by the local school units. Each county is required to apply a uniform local effort of five mills toward the cost of a seven months' program and the remainder of the cost is paid from State funds. Teachers' salaries are given a prior claim in the minimum program but other necessary educational costs are included. Minimum expenditures are allowed for school transportation in order to make possible the consolidation of small and inefficient one and two teacher schools. A small amount has been set aside annually to provide for capital outlay in county school systems. The wisdom of this provision is apparent when one considers that the school building program during the past four years was made possible largely by reason of having this annual outlay allowance available. The amount allotted annually from the Minimum Program fund for capital outlay has averaged $846,000. Because this annual appropriation is available, boards of education have been able to sell long-term securities, without jeopardizing the minimum school term, at low rates of interest and to match the proceeds with Public Works Administration grants on a 55-45 basis. To date not a single public school application has been refused.

School Buildings

Let me again repeat the figures furnished by the State Superintendent of Education. There have been built together with what is already financed and is now being built, buildings for city and county schools $16,213,638.00, —higher institutions $6,483,776, a total of $22,697,414 00

The Minimum Program Act was so drawn as to encourage efficiency in local school administration and to discourage inefficiency and at the same time to provide for local initiative in the determination of the local school programs. Under this program, classrooms are constructed only at school centers recommended by the survey staff under the direction of the State Department of Education. School centers are determined on the basis of scientific investigations, unhampered by politics or local bias.

The survey program inaugurated in my first administration is functioning in full force to the benefit of the children. This work is the immediate and long-time planning of an efficient and economical public school system. Sixty of the sixty-seven counties of the State have had comprehensive surveys, and partial surveys have been made where needed in the other counties.

Since almost no buildings were constructed during the earlier years of the depression, the building program just referred to has been a conservative one. It must be recalled that the average daily attendance in our schools has increased 20 per cent beyond the 1930 attendance. It would take, therefore, 550 buildings of six classrooms each to house the increase in attendance since 1930.

School Warrant Act

The School Warrant Act passed by the 1936 Special Session of the Legislature has also been an important factor in the development of the school program, and was also an economy measure. This act corrected technical defects in the existing school securities laws of the State and requires a conservative borrowing policy. The School Warrant Act prohibits boards of education from incurring indebtedness sufficient to jeopardize the operation of the seven months' minimum program. The principal effect of this act was to enable boards of education to take advantage of prevailing low interest rates. Prior to 1935, boards of education commonly paid from five and one-half to six per cent interest on long-term securities. School warrants are now being sold at an average interest rate of 3 1-4 per cent and in some cases as low as 2 3-4 per cent at par. The net effect of this act is to save taxpayers of the State of Alabama hundreds of thousands of dollars in interest charges.

Prior to 1935, boards of education had full authority to accumulate floating indebtedness and thus jeopardize the educational program of the future. By the School Budget Act the Legislature placed each board of education in the State on a business basis and required each board of education to live within its income. In other words, this act prohibits boards of education from spending more in any year for current expenses than the revenue receipts available for current expenses for that year.

Free Text Books

The Legislature also provided free textbooks for the first three grades of the elementary schools at an annual cost of less than $200,000. This, too, was an economy measure.

It was brought to my attention that the repeaters—that is children who went to the first grade a year and who could not be promoted to the second grade but had to repeat the first grade—was higher among white children in Alabama than in any other State in the Union.—This was appalling—I knew it was not the fault of the children—couldn't believe it was the fault of the teachers.—Investigation proved that less than half had a single book—knowing the cause we provided free textbooks in the three lower grades. The reduction of repeaters has in dollars more than saved the cost of the books. In this wont you "Keep on keeping on?"

Problems Now Solved

As we review these achievements, we cannot conclude that all the problems of public education are now solved. It must be remembered that the minimum program was formulated on a depression basis. It was a program primarily to rehabilitate the schools as we emerged from the worst depression in our history. It is true that the State of Alabama is now providing two and one-half millions of dollars more annually for the support of the public elementary and high schools than ever before in the history of the State. It is also true that the schools are now receiving three millions of dollars annually less funds from county, district, and local sources than in 1929-30. On the other hand, by the end of this year, the average daily attendance will have increased 20 per cent beyond 1929-30.

When the Minimum Program law was enacted in 1935, it was contemplated that the assessed valuation of property would increase sufficiently to take care of the increase in educational need as business conditions improved. However, this expectation has not been realized because the assessed valuation of the State is only slightly above the 1935 level. Teachers have been increasing their training rapidly. During the past four years, the percentage of white teachers with two years or more of college training increased from 66 to 83 per cent. The percentage of teachers who are college graduates increased from 31 per cent to 43 per cent. Thus, we see that the educational system of Alabama is a growing system. We are a growing state industrially and agriculturally and, therefore, we must expect to grow in educational need. An appropriation which may be adequate for a seven months' minimum term at the beginning of a quadrennium may be entirely inadequate for the succeeding quadrennium. In my judgment, beginning with the new quadrennium, the public elementary and high schools will need increased funds of a minimum of $2,000,000 annually in order to carry on an adequately functioning seven months' minimum term and pay teachers reasonable salaries.

To Pre-Depression Level

During this quadrennium, we have been able to bring the schools back to the pre-depression level. That was the first necessary step. We need to take the next step. Most other states average a nine months' school term. Alabama should immediately provide an eight months' program now and provision should be made to take care of increasing attendance and to replace deteriorated buildings. We have one of the most efficient and economical school systems in the nation up to our minimum, but we should increase that minimum.

With present recourses—had appropriations permitted we could easily have run our schools eight months this year—of course we could not also have done all the building that we have done—but the building is done and will not have to be done again. The State is now amply able to make an immediate appropriation to prolong present terms to a minimum of eight months. In 1927 within the first two weeks of the administration such an appropriation was made and paid to carry the then terms to a minimum of seven months. Such should now be done to carry those terms to eight months

Let the things we have done be but earnest of the things that we shall do.

Federal Aid Next

The Federal government should provide the next step to extend the eight months' programs to a nine-months' enriched program. We have every right to expect Federal support for public education in this State. It is conservatively estimated that from 12 to 15 per cent of our educated youths move to some other section of the country. The nation as a whole is the beneficiary of our surplus manpower and should bear its part of the educational expenses. To do so would not be charity but an investment in the welfare of the nation. I recommend that this Legislature, through resolutions, request Federal support for education.

Our government is one of the few great democracies still in existence. The perpetuation of our form of government itself is absolutely dependent upon a broad system of universal public education. Our minimum program law was formulated upon the philosophy that every child in this state, regardless of his place of residence, is entitled to an education at public expense. Whatever changes we make in our educational laws in the future, it is my earnest hope that we shall hold to the fundamental philosophy of equality of educational opportunity. If and when we depart from this philosophy, we cease to be a democratic government.

State Tax Commission

In my opinion our Tax Commission has had the most difficult task that ever confronted an Alabama department in the history of the State. When the Revenue Bill of the special session of two years ago was passed there was to all practical purposes a general strike against the State as to its enforcement. Its opponents by every means of publicity, press, radio and otherwise, proclaimed that it was unconstitutional and void and that their attorneys so advised, and urged none to comply with it until the courts said so.

The inevitable result was innumerable lawsuits. More than a hundred of those were brought and finally were consolidated into some twenty odd that went through the courts. It entailed the greatest expenditure for attorneys' fees that I have known of in the history of the State.

After the cases were won there were hundreds of letters sent to the governor and to the State Tax commission, stating in substance that those affected were not able to make out the returns, were anxious to do so and requesting that some one be sent to them to show them how. When the Tax Commission agents requested payments they were told to prosecute by those that had such letters on file saying they didn't know how to make out the returns.

Army Of Book Men

The result was, of course, we had to put on an army of book men that could go and make out those returns This necessarily entailed a very great expense. After the suits were won and the taxpayers were listed on the books and were making their returns this extra force was reduced. And just like a new ground that has been cleared for the first time, the expense of removing the stumps and roots was great but now all the troubles have been removed, the fields are clear and fertile, of easiest cultivation, and are yielding more returns than we had anticipated.

The activities of this department, in going into former delinquencies, have brought into the treasury many hundreds of thousands of dollars to which the State had been entitled and has added much to the financial condition of our State today.

I commend to your special attention the official report of this department. In my opinion no department under such adverse conditions has ever, anywhere, functioned more efficiently and with less friction.

Health Department

In Public Health Service Alabama again leads the world. In 1927, State appropriations for public health were increased from $150,000 to $640,000 a year, and counties and cities were required to match. It put Alabama the foremost sovereignty in the world in Public Health Service. Alabama was the Mecca to which health savants of the world resorted to see the highest perfection of health service in the world.

We contended that it was cheaper to keep people well than it was to bury them and we have proved it. The census figures of the United States of 1930, after the then system had been in effect four years, showed that there were only two States in America—Vermont and North Carolina—where there were no Negroes to speak of—and only five States in America that had as low a white death rate as Alabama—every one of them west of the Mississippi the Idahos, etc., where there were few children or old people.

Those figures showed that Alabama then had the lowest death rate of any normally populated State in the Union and possibly the lowest in the world. They showed that the human animal responds to sanitary and healthful conditions quicker than does a cow for dipping for ticks or a hog for cholera serum.

We know that this great human progress with others went by the board during the depression which followed that administration, but now we have re-established on even a better basis than that of 1927.

One Of Three States

Today there are only three States in America that have all time health service in every county and community — Delaware and Maryland, which are not rural States—and Alabama. No rich California, New York, Pennsylvania or Massachusetts takes care of the health and life of its citizens as does Alabama

If they be not kept alive what's the use of doing anything in education or any other public service for them.

I read in a newspaper some months ago a statement from the Health Officer of Jefferson County in which he states that had the old mortality percentages prevailed in the closing year there would have been 2,500 more deaths in Jefferson County than had actually occurred. Our health program had saved 2,500 deaths per year in one county. The cost of 2,500 funerals are many times more than all the cost of the health service of that great county. So, of truth, it has been shown that it is cheaper to keep them well than it is to bury them.

I have devoted a long active lifetime to the welfare of those that could not take care of themselves There is not anything, education child welfare, old age pensions, closing poor houses, care of dependents, or any other human welfare effort in which I take the satisfaction that I do from the things that I have helped to bring about in public health —and with all that is within me, I beg you in this matter of keeping our people alive, well, healthy, vigorous and community assets, that you "keep on keeping on."

Convict Department

In Alabama executive clemency is vested in the Governor. So completely is this so that it has been held that our courts could not be authorized to suspend sentences. This should be changed.

The Governor has unlimited power, therefore, unlimited responsibility for the exercise of clemency. He could use no further authority on this important matter than he now has.

I am causing to be submitted to your houses a detailed, itemized, report of every felony case that has received any clemency at the hands of the Governor during the past four years, together with a report on all misdemeanor cases, fines and forfeitures.

Let me point out that when this administration began there were far more than four thousand convicts on temporary parole. Reasons for these could not be known by the incoming Governor. Their terms were expiring —hundreds each day. It placed a great burden upon the Executive Many hundreds of these were returned to the penitentiary and served out their unexpired terms. The report submitted to you shows that of those then out on temporary parole I permanently paroled 3,965

Temporary Paroles

Let me call your further attention to the fact that the report submitted to you shows only ten convicts now on temporary parole as against more than four thousand when I came in There will be no such burden upon my successor. One of the by-products of these conditions is that my parole report shows approximately four thousand who were originally turned out not by me. It is, therefore, the most voluminous report of its kind ever filed.

Eleven years ago there was inaugurated in Alabama a Christmas parole system. In 1927 the warden-general was asked to give the records of every convict, male or female white or black, who had served for more than ten years, for whom no application for clemency had ever been made. As you may know the department keeps monthly records of every convict. Of these that had served more than ten years 163 were found to have perfect records every month for each of the ten years Over protests and warnings that these old hardened convicts would never come back; that there would be an epidemic of crime and that it was a dangerous proceeding, I took the position that any man or woman that could for ten years be so completely a captain of his or her own soul and so demean himself or herself as to get by any and every criticism of every guard or warden put over them was fit to be trusted. I turned them all out for a two weeks parole for Christmas. All but one were back on time. During the succeeding year I worked out of the penitentiary, generally by first submitting to the board of pardons, but where that could not be done, upon the recommendation of the convict department, and turned them loose on good behavior. The next year I brought the limit down to five years for those for whom no applications from the outside had been presented. That year some two hundred and sixty odd with perfect records were turned out. All but two came back. I brought it down to three and two years. I resumed that practice in this administration.

Christmas Paroles

Up to this last Christmas there had been turned out on Christmas parole considerably more than 3,000 men and women. The department lost out of the whole 3,000 or more only 16. This time the returns have not been so satisfactory. There are 22 out of 601 that failed to keep their word of honor This is more in this one time than in all the preceding seven times. I am sorry that so many lost faith that conduct on the inside, together with faithful observance of their Christmas parole would ultimately result in their permanent release.

No Christmas parole was ever gotten in either of my administrations by any outside influence. It has come solely from the inside on the recommendation of the prison authorities based on the record of good behavior and the judgment of those authorities of the trustworthiness of the individual prisoner.

It has been the unvarying custom through the two administrations to let those that have behaved well inside and that have repeatedly behaved well outside and have returned promptly as promised at the expiration of their Christmas parole to work them out of the penitentiary except in most heinous cases. Many have been unable to bring their cases before the board. In those cases the department itself has recommended their parole.

Itemized Statement

If you will examine the detailed, itemized statement showing the name, the county, the crime, the term of conviction and the date of the parole and the recommendations on which it was based you will find the Pardon Board, the trial judge or the Convict Department have recommended all but four cases.

In the last four years, of which report is submitted to you, the executive has not gone over the head of the board, the bureau, the trial judge or the department except as my records show in four cases. These four cases are the only one where I, myself, in the exercise of the supreme authority determined that the convict was entitled to the parole in spite of the fact that those advisers whom it was my duty to consult honestly thought otherwise. As to those four cases my conscience is clear and I will stand upon the records.

The constitution and the law give absolute power to the Governor and it should be so. Our people make him the representative of their sovereignty and clemency is the highest exercise of sovereign power and should never be delegated to any other than the representative of the sovereign majesty of our commonwealth.

Machinery Needed

I favor all proper machinery to aid the chief executive in reaching these most solemn conclusions, but I hope that the power will never be removed from him whom the people elect as their representative, or so complicate it by intervening machinery as to make it impracticable for every citizen high or low to ultimately reach the supreme authority on this most important sovereign power.

I believe that machinery should be instituted to handles delinquencies prior to conviction. There are so many slips not indicative of fundamental delinquency or moral turpitude that should never be tried and convicted.

There should be a machinery whereby our courts could put under surveillance such cases for such time as the judge may deem, and under such restrictions as to him seem best, but they should never be brought to the point where the unfortunate will be stigmatized as a felon or a criminal.

Suspended Sentences

I believe that machinery should be provided whereby our courts can impose suspended sentences under such probations as they deem best.

I believe that a majority of those that find their way in the penitentiaries of Alabama—yes the overwhelming majority that find their way in the jails of Alabama—should never be so stigmatized. All of which should be under the judiciary and should never reach the executive department.

In the former administration there was erected at Wetumpka a special garment factory for male convicts under 21 years. They were segregated, given light work and every effort made to shield them from hardened criminals. In the succeeding administration it chanced that institution was destroyed by fire and segregation ended. Our resources have delayed its reestablishment, which together with the inhibitions on convict labor has delayed a repetition of that segregation until recent provision has been made therefor.

Lesser Offenders

But looking to the segregation of the young and unhardened lesser offenders we have had constructed at Speigner a new, most modern cement-steel penitentiary of the value of more than half a million dollars that is just ready for occupancy and has been devised for the purpose of being available for such segregation if such is the desire of the State in the immediate future

Up to 12 years ago Alabama derived more than a million a year net profit from convicts leased to coal mines, turpentine farms, etc. Knowing that to be fundamentally bad it was discontinued with some financial loss to the State Treasury, but during that quadrennium the convict population was divided about one-third on farms, one-third on road work and one-third in industry, cotton mills, shirt factory, garment factory, tag mill, etc. We are still maintaining approximately that division

The convicts on road work are a contribution out of the general fund to the highway fund because we lease them at actual cost of maintenance less cost of conviction. This has been a very material element in our great highway construction program.

Self-Sustaining

The third on farms have been more than self-sustaining and have returned some but not all of the cost of conviction.

The third in industry are not at all remunerative The laws of Congress limiting the use of convict-made goods has made it necessary that we so curtail our activities in things lake garment making, shirt making etc., and we are required to sell practically all of the output of our cotton mills in foreign trade. This is quite expensive to us and the result has been that the convict population which has increased from about [illegible],000 to about 7,000 in this administration, is difficult to make self-sustaining. We could have made it so had we not built the new penitentiary for segregation purposes, the new tuberculosis hospital, the abattoir plant at Kilby, the refrigeration plant at Speigner and increasing in [illegible] droves, cattle herds and beef h[illegible]

Fee System

The greatest defect in our criminal administration is the fee system. In my messages to every Legislature that it has been my privilege to address I have urged that the fee system is fundamentally wrong and should be abolished. No court officer should have a financial interest in the conviction of the accused being tried in his court. As you know when the accused is convicted and [illegible] sent to the penitentiary, if only 10 days, the State pays the cost of the conviction, which pays all the fees of all the officers having any official-connection therewith. These officers should receive adequate salaries for their services and not [illegible] a financial interest in the conviction of the accused.

This is one of the things I [illegible] striven for more than 40 years [illegible] have in the main failed. Except in my own and one other county I [illegible] never been able to accomplish the destruction of the fee system.

Let me urge that you eliminate it from our criminal administration in Alabama.

I wish to direct your attention to another matter that has been called to the attention of each Legislature that it has been my privilege to address, that is the important matter of reapportionment of representation in the Legislature. Under our constitution, as I read it, this is a mandatory duty of the Legislature.

Public Welfare: 1935-1939

Alabama's State Department of Public Welfare, created at the beginning of this administration, made possible for the State to participate in Social Security benefits for its people; it incorporated into this enlarged Department those functions discharged since 1919 by the State Child Welfare Department. As a result the State Department of Public Welfare now administers all public assistance and child welfare services and is the agency through which need is determined for benefits derived from Federal agencies such as Works Progress Administration, Civilian Conservation Corps, National Youth Administartion, and Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation. Benefits accruing from these services to Alabama's needy people during the last four years total $72,386,82[illegible] The three-way distribution of these benefits is represented in the following amounts:

Federal funds	$66,214,364.
State funds	3,856,757.
Local funds	2,315,707,
Total	$72,386,829.

And mark you those who received these 70 odd millions were selected not by me or my appointees but by boards appointed by Boards of Revenue, Commissioners Courts and City Governments.

Alabama is the only state in the Union which, through the provision of its Old Age Assistance Act, receives Federal funds on pensions to Confederate Veterans and their widows. Through this arrangement and the legislative provision for use of the residue of the Confederate Pension Fund, the State of Alabama has received, since June, 1936, approximately two million dollars in Federal funds for its public assistance program without additional cost to the taxpayers.

Almshouses Closed

Almshouses in fifty-two counties have been closed since the establishment of the State Department of Public Welfare. A survey made by the department in November, 1935, revealed that approximately 63 per cent of the Almshouse population of the State was 65 years of age or over and, therefore, qualified for old age assistance if removed from these insituations. The closing of almshouses enabled counties to divert to the county departments of public welfare appropriations which had been used for almshouse care and to receive two dollars for one local dollar one State dollar and two Federal dollars. For example, one county made its almshouse appropriation of $500.00 a month to the county department of public welfare and received from State and Federal funds for matching these local funds sufficient monies to take care of the almshouse residents who were placed in their own homes or in the homes of relatives and friends and, in addition, to grant financial assistance to 90 aged persons and to 105 dependent children. This progressive action of Alabama in closing its almshouses is an enlightened step which has brought to the State national recognition in the field of public welfare.

Alabama was one of the first states in the Union to have its Old Age Assistance Act and Aid to Dependent Children Act approved by the Federal Social Security Board. Today there are 35,184 persons receiving public assistance in this State, including 15,751 old age pensioners, 16,343 dependent children, and 3,000 blind and other handicapped individuals.

Investment In Welfare

Since the establishment of this new agency of government designed to help people in distress, funds have been made available to the counties which have made possible enlarged participation by these local units in the public welfare progress. This investment is an economy well worth the outlay of tax funds for the preservation of the State's human resources.

Alabama has made a sound beginning in the furtherance of human welfare through the enactment of progressive legislation and by delegating responsibility for administration of these laws. This administrative function is effected through the use of a merit system which is acclaimed throughout the country.

To cite the basis on which the public welfare department was founded and the scope of its present activities is to remind this Legislature of its responsibility to keep the machinery of this department flexible enough to go forward with these Federal agencies with which it is so definitely identified and with which it must keep step if the fullest measure of assistance can come to our people.

Unemployment Insurance

In Unemployment Insurance Alabama has pioneered for the Nation. This keystone of the New Deal met great opposition in courts everywhere when first enacted Of all the laws passed by the various States the Attorney General of the United States selected the law of Alabama as the one that he would present to the Supreme Court of the United States on this all important question

You probably recall that this set-up is supposed to involve some forty billion dollars of resources and many billions annual income, but this lawsuit involved probably more than any other dozen lawsuits combined in the history of the world in magnitude of money involved

It is gratifying to us that the law finally revised and passed by Alabama was thought by the Washington administration the best to submit to the Supreme Court. As you know that Court upheld the law and with it, we may say, the whole Social Security program of the New Deal

Until a few months ago all the payments of this agency were made by warrants of the State, which, of course, cleared through our Comptroller, Auditor, and Treasury Departments. This entailed a great amount of labor and responsibility on those officers, for which the Government gave them some little reimbursement, but not a penny came out of Alabama. There was a great deal of clerical help required that I provided out of the Emergency Fund

7,000 Warrants Daily

To give you an idea of the magnitude of the work of this single department, it averaged more than seven thousand warrants a day for months. You can understand what that means and represents. A few years ago the whole State of Alabama did not issue that many warrants in a year and this was done every day by this one department.

The expenses of this department's administration by some dozen yard sticks the Government uses in measuring ranks second or third lowest in the Nation. This Department, like all other new departments such as the Reemployment and Public Welfare, operates under a merit system which I think is working satisfactorily, and it has efficiently adjusted itself to the frequently varying policies that the National Administration has tried out before it finally settled on an Uniform Program.

State Reemployment

In the Social Security Program the policy is that where an employee of an industry that uses eight or more workers is insured, in case of unemployment receives certain insurance benefits in proportion to the amount that they and their employers have paid into a fund for that purpose. Before an insured receives insurance benefits he or she must first apply to the Reemployment Service to get another job. If that service can place the applicant then there is no insurance benefit paid. If for two weeks the Reemployment Service fails to place the applicant then the insurance benefit is paid.

We made an arrangement with the authorities in Washington whereby our Reemployment Service would do for all of these who are not in the insurable class the same service required for those in the insurable class. I know of no other State that has done this. We are paying $45,000.00 a year extra for this service. The overwhelming majority of Alabama citizens are not in the insurable class. For instance, domestic service, agricultural employment, employees of concerns using less than eight people. We had found that our Welfare Department was beset by applicants for relief that could bring all kinds of proof of their needs, so we made the arrangements with the Government that this Reemployment Service should also extend to all people in Alabama. The result has been that when one not of the insurable class applies for relief he must first go to the Employment Service to get a job. If he gets the job he doesn't need the relief. If he is offered a job and doesn't take it he doesn't get the relief

Reemployment Service

Our Reemployment Service has placed in jobs many thousands more of those not in the insurable class than it has of those who are in the insurable class and the amount of saving to our Welfare Department, in my opinion, is at least a dozen times more than the cost of that extra service.

We have thus eliminated the malingerers and cared for those who were really worthy. This extra service has made our Reemployment relatively high in its aggregate expenses as compared with other States that confine their efforts to the insurable class only.

Rural Electrification

In December of 1934, the National Resources Board reported that, while industries had almost universally adopted electricity, agriculture lagged behind because electric service was frequently not available, and it therefore seemed necessary for the Federal Government to stimulate the extension of electric service in many areas.

The 1935 Legislature created the Rural Electrification Authorty of Alabama "for the purpose of promoting and encouraging the fullest possible use of electricity in the State." This has been done.

Alabama's rural electrification program has met the tests of County, State and Federal Courts. It has emerged victorious in every case.

But, perhaps a few actual figures will better tell the whole story. Rural Electrification first began in Alabama in 1924. From 1924 through 1934, private utilities in Alabama had constructed about 2,300 miles of rural lines, serving approximately 11,000 customers, which was a little over 3 per cent of the farms in Alabama.

9,400 Miles Of Line

Since 1935, at which time the State Authority was organized, approximately 9,400 miles of line have been built or placed under construction, to serve almost 40,000 new customers. Today, instead of 3 per cent of the rural residents of Alabama receiving service, about 20 per cent will have electricity available on their farms. This is an increase of nearly 700 per cent and the surface has barely been scratched.

Everyone of Alabama's 67 counties has received the benefit of the rural electrification program through the united efforts of private utilities, the Tennessee Valley Authority and REA.

In other words, three short years ago about 11,000 farmers in Alabama were receiving electric service, but today, lines have been built, or placed under construction, to reach a total of 50,700 rural homes, an increase in three years of about 40,000.

Up to 1935 there were just 2,300 miles of rural lines in Alabama, and today there have been built or placed under construction, a total of 11,700 miles.

It was after the State got busy that private industry really got busy.—This makes for the good of all.

Electricity Indispensable

To conclude, electricity is indispensable for agriculture, it means a higher income. For farm women, it means release from drudgery. For housewives it means easier and better homemaking. In the last three years about $5,000,000 of Federal funds has been allotted to Alabama for rural electrification. This has meant that millions of dollars have been spent in Alabama since 1935 for labor, for materials and for poles, which have been obtained from our forests.

Taking these millions of dollars of Federal funds to Alabama has cost the State only one per cent of the total and a net profit of 99 per cent in cash and in benefits in making Alabama farms more pleasant places on which to live and work.

To local dealers in every county, this program has opened a virgin market for the sale of labor-saving electrical appliances. Through the electric lines the whole world of entertainment and education is brought to the fireside of every farm.

Probably no recent Alabama legislation has aroused the public interest more than the act creating the Rural Electrification Authority, the first program of its kind in the South, and the State of Alabama owes a tremendous debt to the last Legislature which sponsored this program and to her citizens whose support has made rural electrification in Alabama a success.

Comptroller

Surely there is no more important office department in Alabama than that of the State Comptroller.

Four years ago bonding companies were reluctant to insure our officers because the examinations of their accounts were so many years behind.—The cause of this trouble has been removed and it exists no more.—As a result of the examinations made by these departments in the last four years more than 900 thousand dollars have been collected in cash and paid into proper treasuries because of errors or delinquencies of county officers and employees and more than a million more is still in the hands of the State Attorney General's office for proper settlement.

The total errors or delinquencies found in examinations of State officers and employees is about 600 dollars which has been paid. This is a most efficient and profitable department.

Insurance Department

The State Insurance Department has continuously functioned smoothly and efficiently—yielding a constantly growing revenue to the State.—This is now well over a million dollars.

Board of Adjustment

Our newly created Board of Adjustment has functioned efficiently—has been a great saving to the State and of great benefit tot our citizens—has made remedial justice easily and continuously accessible to all concerned.

Industrial Development Board

I am glad to report the revival of Alabama's Industrial Development Board. Its members are of our greatest captains of industry. The fine services they are giving for a sound development of Alabama are of inestimable benefit.

Highway Patrol

The good that has been done and is being done for Alabama by this new organization is known and appreciated by all and should be strengthened.

Judiciary

Alabama has too many courts, too many judges, too much technicality and circumlocution in its judicial procedure. All of this should be remedied by a simplified procedure and the making of fewer judges with higher pay.

I have said to every Legislature to which I have been privileged to communicate that a poorly paid judiciary is a poor public economy. Let me again reiterate this fundamental truth.

In criminal law our penalties are intensely excessive. We have too many cases punishable capitally. Nothing, save first degree murder and rape, should be so punished. All other penalties should be materially reduced.

Insane Hospitals

Alabama has in its insane hospital setup, including as it does the feeble minded establishment, the best institution of its kind anywhere. The physical plant of this institution has been quite inadequate to meet the demands of the State but this inadequacy is being remedied. There is in construction more than one million dollars worth of buildings for this institution Under the law, the Governor has raised the weekly allowance to inmates from three dollars ($3.00) to three and one-half ($3.50) and has made available one-half million dollars out of the general fund for construction purposes.

I commend to your careful consideration the report of the superintendent of this institution which is being laid before you.

National Guard

September 16, 1938, in an official communication, the Commanding General of the 4th Corps Area reported that the National Guard of Alabama reached its highest state of efficiency during this quadrennium. The Alabama Armories Commission, in cooperation with the Works Progress Administration, has constructed 38 armories and 5 target ranges for rifle, machine gun and pistol.

One million, four hundred and thirty thousand, eight hundred sixty-eight dollars ($1,430,868.00) was approved for armories and thirty-seven thousand, three hundred forty-two dollars ($37,342.00) for rifle ranges. Additional projects supplemental to these constructed have been approved, bringing the total Federal approved appropriation to $2,221,731.22. This is the first time in the history of the State of Alabama that its National Guard units have had armories adequate to their needs. The increase in personnel and property in the National Guard and the high state of efficiency it now enjoys call for additional assistance. I recommend a most careful consideration of the needs of the National Guard and the appropriation of any additional amount necessary to preserve its present high state of efficiency.

Banks and Banking

There are 152 banks and 15 branches under the supervision of the Banking Department of the State. Twenty-nine banks are in process of liquidation. A final settlement has been made in the affairs of fifteen banks in liquidation. There were no suspensions during this fiscal year. I regret that the department was unable to close the affairs of the twenty-nine banks in liquidation.

No annual report has yet been received from the building and loan department for the year ending Dec. 31, 1938.

Liquor

The Alabama Alcoholic Beverage Control Act was passed without my approval. If it is the will of the people that intoxicating liquor be sold legally in Alabama, it is my judgment that the system provided for by the Alabama Alcoholic Beverage Control Act is the best available. From a financial standpoint, the administration of the Act has been an eminent success and I believe that its administration has been as clean as a hound's tooth. Since its creation on the second day of February, 1937, the Alabama Alcoholic Beverage Control Board has disbursed four million, one hundred seventy-six thousand, three hundred seventy-eight dollars and thirty-five cents ($4,176,378.35) in net profits to the State, the counties, and the municipalities of the State for the purposes provided by law. An average of more than two and three-quarter millions per year has been turned over to the designated beneficiaries.

Municipal Government

I feel that I should call your attention to one of the greatest problems facing the State at this time—the problem of providing much-needed relief for our city and town governments. The problem deserves your serious and careful and sympathetic attention. The State and county governments through legislation enacted in my two administrations are enjoying financial improvement, but our municipalities without exception are suffering. There should be no partial government recovery; financial improvement should extend all down the line.

During the depression years public services provided for our citizens by the municipalities did not diminish in number or intensity. None of their functions was ever dropped from the list. In fact, demands for new and expensive services—services which a few years ago were undreamed of—were made and received. This condition was occurring at a time when municipal revenues were either static or diminishing.

Changing social conditions have brought new demands upon municipal governments never before dreamed of—There is no sound reason to expect an early lessening of these demands.—At the same time changing economic conditions have lessened municipal income.—This combination presents an acute situation demanding relief at your hands.

I have examined into the manner in which our municipal affairs are administered, and I can find no quarrel with the results of administration in the past several years. The record is admirable, and city administrations generally, in my judgment, stand far ahead of many other classes of human activity throughout these past trying years. Nowhere in this State has municipal government broken down, although seriously threatened in a number of places. Courageous efforts had to be made to meet the demands placed on municipal services at a time when restricted income and the depression problems of unemployment relief faced municipal administrators. Such a record made under most difficult circumstances is commendable.

Municipal Financing

My analysis of municipal affairs has convinced me that the ability of our municipal officials to finance out of their present revenues the quality and quantity of programs demanded by their constituents has passed the limits of their abilities to meet. To service their program during the depression years they were compelled to postpone the day when their municipal debts must be paid. Further delay in effecting amortization plans will do irreparable damage to the credit rating of the State and county governments.

I realize that to have adhered strictly to their debt retirement program in the past few years would have meant the wholesale elimination of valuable and necessary daily services to our citizens. To have done so would have produced a dangerous result. We can easily imagine what would have been the result of the abandonment of such a service as street lighting. Our highways and streets would have become a haven of criminal activity and reckless driving. If garbage and trash had been collected less frequently, or not at all, disease would have been encouraged. If street repairs had been ignored, expensive pavements would have been ruined long before their bonds had been retired. If police forces had been drastically cut and emergency calls answered less quickly, policemen would have been farther away when crimes were committed. Had the fire department force been diminished fire losses would have mounted, and fire insurance rates would have become prohibitive. Such conditions would have cost our citizens and taxpayers money, and more important than that, they may have cost many of them their lives.

In view of the fact that the ability of municipal government to raise necessary revenue to finance its operations is seriously restricted and limited, the remedy for this growing problem must necessarily come from the State government. I strongly urge you to give favorable consideration to measures designed to correct many of the financial ills of municipal government and I recommend whatever is necessary on the part of the Legislature to bring this needed relief.

Additional Reports

I am causing to be placed at your disposal in addition to the reports that I have touched upon the following:

The Attorney's General Report. In this report you will note that in the last decade there had been a continuous increase in homicides, robberies, rape and carnal knowledge until two years ago. But in these last two years, the increase has stopped and a material decline has set in. It is my opinion that a vigorous enforcement of the major penalties is having the desired deterrent effect.

The State Treasurer, the State Auditor, the Department of Agriculture and Industries, Department of Archives and History, Department of Conservation, the Bridge Commission, State Mine Inspector, Real Estate Board, Aviation Commission, the State Service Commissioner, State Planning Board, Public Works Board the Labor Department and the State Docks Commission.

I direct your attention to the fact that the reports of the Boys Industrial School, State Training School for Girls, Boys Reform School for Negroes show these plants have been largely expanded. The School of Trades at Gadsden has been practically doubled. Also the report of the Vocational Training School for Girls and the School for the Deaf and Blind.

I also call your attention to the reports of the Secretary of State, the Milk Control Board and the Commission of Forestry. Also to the reports of the Parole Bureau, which has made a start on finding places for worthy convicts, the report of the Public Service Attorney and the report of the Public Service Commission. This last report will show a constant regard for the interest of utilities under their administration and of the interest of the people They have reduced telephone charges more than $200,000.00 a year and render many other important services to the public.

Freight Rates

One of the most promising and far reaching developments of the quadrennium closing is the fight led by Alabama for the elimination of freight rate discrimination against our products moving into the major markets of the Nation. We have already won, in what is known as the Coke Case, a fundamental principle, which, when carried through, will remove our disadvantages.

The leadership in this old pending case came to me in April, 1935. We abandoned all sectional arguments and adopted a nationalistic policy, succeeded in showing that the manufacturers north of the Ohio River were losing the international trade of the Country because they could not get their fuel supplies upon a competitive basis because of this arbitrary freight handicap. So we showed that it was to the interest of the consumers of the North itself as well as to the interest of the whole Nation that free interchange of commodities be brought about. We won that case before the Interstate Commerce Commission on that basis by a vote of five to four, and had a strenuous rehearing that we won by the same vote. We won it again in an injunction proceeding in the Federal District Court of the Northern District of Illinois; a fourth time before the United States three-judge Court in Chicago; and the fifth and final time before the Supreme Court of the United States

Let me call attention to the fact that the outstanding champions of this nationalistic—not sectional—contention were Mr. Eastman of Massachusetts and Mr. Lee of Idaho, members of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Effective Action

Now just a word as to its effect Within a few days after the time for rehearing of the Supreme Court decision what is known as "Pittsburgh Plus" inevitably passed out of existence. "Pittsburgh Plus" and freight differentials had not only eliminated the advantage of every natural resource of Alabama in its great mineral districts but it had put a handicap on our Alabama labor, which had to work for wages low enough, as compared with the wages of their competitors, to absorb not only "Pittsburgh Plus" but freight rate differentials too, before the product of their labor could reach competitive markets. This labor handicap was some 70 per cent of what their competitors in rendering like services received in other sections.

Another effect of this victory is shown in the fact that before we won this case the percentage of production of steel in the Birmingham District was in the twenties, the lowest in America. As soon as this handicap was removed and our products began moving north of the Ohio River, Alabama's percentage of production mounted and mounted until it became the leading percentage in the Nation. Instead of now being in the twenties, it is now in the nineties, and in the last increase of miners' wages, which came after this victory, the Alabama miners got the full advance that was given to other like employees in the Appalachian regions, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, etc. Their earning power is now more than enough to keep them even with the commissary and make them an asset to the economic life of the community.

In the present pending cases in which Alabama has the leadership there are other classifications involving the same principles and we are fighting these on the same nationalistic—not sectional—lines.

Victory In Sight

In the cases I have filed before the Interstate Commerce Commission I have clients of record of leading concerns in Chicago, New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore, who have joined in the contention that the consumers of America are entitled to buy whence they can without man-made handicaps. This, of course, carries with it the corollary that we producers can sell where we can without man-made handicaps.

I have every reason to believe and do believe that if this fight is let alone, permitted to pursue its present course on nationalistic and not sectional or political lines, with the support of the consumers of the great northern buying country that we are going to win it because the principals are just the same as laid down in the Coke Case, and when we say "Coke" we mean such things as go in an open gondola like coal, coke, iron bars, pig iron, etc. And when we win these it will have the same effect on all our producers and processors and manufacturers that the "Coke Case" has had on the coal, iron and steel industry.

I believe that in no other way can the South come into its own and reap the full fruition of its natural God-given advantages, material and human, except through the elimination of these discriminations.

Alabama's Resources

No part of the world has combined natural and human resources greater than Alabama. No people should be happier, healthier, richer or more enlightened than this people in Alabama. With all these inducements, we are at the bottom instead of the top in so many of the things that make for the fullness of life. The reason is that we have, through the years, neglected the fundamentals on which all progress must be based—the human welfare of our people.

Statistics tell us that it costs twenty-three times as much to raise a human as it does to raise a horse. If so, it costs over $3,000 to raise a human. Government statistics tell us that there are more than three hundred thousand Alabamians living in other States in excess of the number of people from other States and countries that live in Alabama. We have lost in the interchange more than three hundred thousand humans that cost us more to raise than is the assessed value of all the property, real and personal, in Alabama.

Not only has the production of these people who have gone to develop other sections cost us this billion and odd dollars in production cost but they have carried with them every penny of patrimony that their people had accumulated.

That is why Alabama is poor. Living conditions in rural Alabama have been such that hundreds of thousands of parents were unwilling to raise their children where health conditions jeopardized life, where no educational facilities were available, no roads, none of those governmental agencies like home demonstration agents, home economics, child welfare old age pensions and all the whole gamut that makes for human welfare were missing.

Administration's Accomplishments

Now we have gone to the foundation. In this administration, we have given Alabama the greatest road and bridge program in the Union. We have established public health service in every county of our whole State and mark you, there are only two other States in America, Delaware and Maryland, that have this service We have home demonstration agents home economic service, a complete set-up of welfare department in every county, the fastest expanding rural electrification of any State, and we are, therefore, convinced that this tide of emigration that has made us about the poorest State where we should be the richest has stopped and is already turning the other way.

If we will but "keep on keeping on" taking care of the human resources, realizing that no available wealth comes except from human energy, Alabama will continue onward and upward faster than any other State in the Union.

Among the most important things that have been done to anchor our people to our soil is the exemption of homesteads from all State taxation. This should be immediately extended to complete exemption from all other ad valorem taxation. If we can but make home owners of every worthy family, Alabama will have an anchor to windward that will keep our old ship of State forever from drifting on any shoals of socialism or any other un-Americanism.

Material, Social Benefits

It is known of all that these foundations that have been built have already brought material and social benefits. Our economic conditions are better than since the peak of prosperity ten years ago. Our mercantile interests are showing a healthy continuous increase as is demonstrated in continuous growing receipts of the State from such taxes as luxury tax, tobacco tax, gasoline tax, tonnage tax, freight car equipment and kilowatt tax and by every recognized barometer of prosperity.

Greatest of all of the influences that have brought about our rehabilitation is the New Deal and the New Dealer in Washington. Alabama has cooperated to the utmost in all of its program. We have profited some four hundred million dollars in the last quadrennium thereby.

Let me, above all things, urge that our State "keep on keeping on" keeping step with our Nation and with the Democratic progressive administration of the Nation.

Let me express to you the conclusion of long careful study on the trend of government.

Too Much Government

There is too much government in our Nation and in our States. There is too much concentration of power in few hands. There is too much machinery between those that govern and those that are governed. Every citizen should have a practical access to the officers who exercise authority over him.

There is too much power in the hands of executives throughout America.

In Alabama there is more power in the Governor's hands than is good for him or safe for the people. Their government should be brought closer to the people through local machinery of their selection.

The greatest jeopardy of human liberty, as I see it, is the yielding of representative bodies of powers innately theirs that should be maintained by them and never delegated to any other department, especially not to the executive department.

U. S. Mines Yield Record Gold Total

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—(AP)—The Bureau of the Mint announced tonight that mines in the United States and its possessions had produced a record yield of gold in 1938.

The total of 5,056,308 ounces with a value of $176,970,800 was about $9,000,000 more than in 1937. It was the first time since the revaluation of the dollar, however, that gold production had exceeded the record year of 1915.

Silver production, probably influenced by the treasury's cut from 77.57 cents to 64.64 cents per ounce for domestic silver, slumped last year to 60,796,673 ounces worth $39,302,900, compared with 71,735,268 ounces worth $55,307,892 in 1937. The 64.64 cent price for newly mined domestic silver has been continued by the President until June 30.

Refinery production, dollar value, by States included:

Alabama, $1,600 gold, $5 silver; Georgia $27,400 and $38; North Carolina, $60,900 and $2,934; South Carolina $373,500 and $1,787; Tennessee, $8,900 and $25,479; Virginia, $98,000 and $3,630.

Substitute For Water In Fires Sought

MEMPHIS, TENN., Jan. 10.—(AP)—Firemen get hot under the collar from allegations their methods sometimes cause more damage than the fires they're fighting.

So, says Richard E. Vernor of Chicago, engineers are constantly striving to develop extinguishing agencies which are faster and less damaging than water streams.

Vernor, manager of the Fire Prevention Department of the Western Actuarial Bureau, spoke at the 11th Annual Fire Department Instructors Conference here today. Twenty-five States were represented at the meeting.

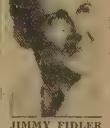
In describing some of the newer methods of fire fighting, he told of a nozzle that will turn a stream of water into a misty, blanketing fog which chokes off the blaze without water damage.

A carbon dioxide preparation which bubbles into a soapy foam, he said, has proved very efficient in use against special kinds of blazes, particularly when oil is burning on top of water.

Still another new wrinkle, he explained, was the use of dry ice in snow form in electrical fires.

JIMMIE FIDLER In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 10.—This is the season when critics everywhere are picking the "best" this and the "best" that of the past year—and, reading their published verdicts, I'm doing my annual burn. For instance, the New York critics have selected Margaret Sullavan's performance in "Three Comrades" and Jimmy Cagney's performance in "Angels With Dirty Faces" as the best acting of 1938. I disagree and I resent the psychology that's apparent in such selections.



JIMMY FIDLER

These critics are too obviously influenced by the fact that Cagney and Sullavan are "big stars." As a matter of fact you, or I, or any one in any audience can count on the fingers of one hand the pictures in which the stars have actually given the best performances. Nine times out of 10, stars merely play themselves. They use the same trick gestures that have been applauded in all their previous pictures. Any semblance of characterization is carefully avoided because their fans do not want them changed The real performances are turned in by the character actors—who are the only actors given a chance to act.

Consider Basil Rathbone as Louis XI in "If I Were King," Minnie Dupree in "The Young in Heart," Fay Bainter in "White Banners," Miles Mander as Disraeli in "Suez," Gloria Holden in "Test Pilot," John Barrymore in "Hold That Co-ed," and Gene Lockhart in "Algiers" to cite a few. None of those actors are popular idols, but if acting—and acting alone—is to be considered, just what price the personality boys and girls?

IDOL CHATTER: Hollywood, according to Jerry Wald, is the place where children have Santa Claus and grown-ups have Santa Anita. Height of something or other: The sun lamp Nat Pendleton has installed for the comfort of his asthmatic dog, Sandow. Claudette Colbert isn't superstitious—but she can cite innumerable instances to prove how unlucky it is to put on your right shoe first. Add finger-nail biters: Katharine Hepburn. The only comment I can coin on Claude Rains's mid-Winter dips in the briny is a shuddersome "br....r....r!"

No matter how hard she tried, Irene Dunne simply couldn't be unladylike. Odd, with all the anti-Nazi furor in Hollywood, the one foreign language heard most often here should be German. Peas in a pod: Joyce Compton and Gladys George. If I were going to take up professional prize fighting, I'd gladly trade my frame for Joan Crawford's—d'ja ever note those shoulders? George Raft's shiny black hair is a perfect compliment to his shiny black patent leather shoes.

The snooziest stars in town are Fred MacMurray, Vic McLaglen and Gary Cooper—between shots they're always in a doze. Improbabilities: Mary Brian without a date....Loretta Young out of love. The new leopard skin furs Elaine Barrie Barrymore is wearing are a bit too suggestive, according to her more catty critics. Charles Boyer's ruffle-proof suavity always makes me wonder how he missed the diplomatic service. Today's philosophy: Stars who complain about the burden of the public's curiosity usually end by lamenting the lack of it.

If you see Republic's "White Fury," please note the close-up of Ben Weldon and Horace McMahon—the one is which Barton MacLane's voice, coming from off-stage, snarls: "Don't move, or I'll kill you!" When that bit of tense melodrama was filmed, Barton was standing just out of camera range. He was wearing a pink shirt and pearl gray spats—and in one hand he held a half-eaten ice cream cone.

Maxie Rosenbloom is very gloomy these days—which just goes to show what superstition can do to an ordinarily sanguine soul. In "The Kid Comes Back," produced nearly two years ago, he was knocked out—a phony K. O., of course—by the hero Wayne Morris. That was the first time the great Maxie had ever reclined on the canvas, but not the last. His next professional fight was with Louis Adamic, and Maxie went down for the count. Now, in "Broadway Cavalier," the script again calls for Wayne Morris to lay Maxie cold—and Maxie has a probable fight coming up with Max Baer. Two and two make four—and Mr. Rosenbloom is worried.

At Universal today, Emma Dunn, the veteran actress-wife of veteran-actor Harry Beresford, told me about an amusing incident. Summoned, for a test—and the casting director, after one look at her, ruled that she was too small for the role. He explained that she was supposed to play a hen-pecked wife. Miss Dunn asked the casting director to see her with the man hired for the husband role. He consented, called the actor, and Miss Dunn took the situation in hand. The man was Harry Beresford.

3 Of 5 Mad Criminals Remain At Large

CLEVELAND, Jan. 10.—(AP)—Three of five criminals maniacs who slugged a guard in their New Year's Day escape from a Lima, Ohio, hospital remained at large tonight.

Frank Haines, 36, Chicago, and William Blatz, 32, native of Maine, were hunted in the West. They staged an abortive, gun-seeking raid last Saturday night on an Omaha, Neb., armory. Haines and Blatz escaped but William Brucks, Ohio slayer, was captured after the trio slashed a National Guard captain.

Also at large is Marion Pierce, negro. Russell Nuckles, the fifth, was recaptured in Cleveland and Jan. 2 Pierce and Nuckles separated from the other three at Fort Wayne, Ind.

Bar Hits Mail Order Divorces

CHICAGO, Jan. 10.—(AP)—The American Bar Association recommended today it be made a crime for lawyers to engage in the mail order divorce business.

Informed that in some States the solicitation of divorce cases by mail had become scandalous, the association's house of delegates voted to sponsor in Congress a bill prohibiting the practice and providing maximum punishment of a year in jail and $1,000 fine.

The measure was recommended by the association's committee on professional ethics and grievances, headed by Dean H. W. Arant, of Ohio State University's low school.

"The solicitation of divorce business by lawyers in one or two States has for some time been almost a scandal," Dean Arant declared. "As divorce laws are made more lenient from State to State, the scope of this form of solicitation widens, first it was Nevada, then Wyoming and most recently Florida."

Arant reiterated the opinion of his committee that "the degree to which such solicitation exists constitute an evil that requires strong action in the public interest."

The association's committee on judicial salaries was instructed to consider and submit to the house proposals for "legislation making proper and adequate increase in the compensation." Federal district judges now receive $10,000 a year. The salary of Federal circuit judges is $12,500 a year.

Out Of Bounds

IDAHO FALLS, IDAHO, Jan. 10.—(AP)—Police Chief C. A. Carlson ordered skiers today to "stop using the city cemetery a Winter playground." The chief said tombstones had been used for "obstacles" in slalom events and shrubbery for "hurdles."

VOL. XVII CLANTON, ALABAMA, THURSDAY JANUARY 19, 1939 EIGHT PAGES NUMBER 15

W. A. KEMP IS ROBBED AND CLUBBED MON.

Prominent Clanton Merchant Is Victim Of Robbers For Second Time

Two men entered the Kemp Dry Goods Store here last Monday night about 6:30 flourished guns and took between thirty-five and forty dollars from W. A. Kemp, owner of the store, then climaxed the whole affair by striking Mr. Kemp over the head with a gun, inflicting a painful scalp wound. They fled through a rear entrance.

Mr. Kemp told a representative of the News that he was about to close the store for the night when two middle-aged men entered and asked to look at a pair of shoes. He stated that he was a little suspicious of the pair, but turned to secure the shoes, after one of the men asked to see a size eight and one-half.

Mr. Kemp stated that when he again faced the two, both had guns and ordered him to face the wall, and roughly pushed him around. One of the thugs took a wallet from his (Mr. Kemp's) pocket and the other proceeded to try to open the cash register. Unsuccessful in the attempt to open the register he called the one holding the gun on Mr. Kemp to open it which he did with little effort. The two asked if there was any money in the safe, and Mr. Kemp informed them there was not. "We'll take your word for it", Mr. Kemp said they stated.

Just before they fled, Mr. Kemp stated that one of them struck him over the head, and left him in a dazed condition. He finally gained his bearing enough to get to the telephone and summon aid.

Mr. Kemp described the two men as about thirty-five years of age, roughly dressed, with dirty appearances as if they might have been riding a freight train. He said they took no articles of clothing from the store, just the contents of the register and what money he had in his wallet.

The Kemp Dry Good Store was brokento before Christmas, and several articles of clothing were taken.

Mr. Kemp was confined to his bed early Tuesday morning, but Dr. V. J. Gragg, who dressed the wound, expressed the belief that it would not prove serious.

Sheriff Hardy stated that he and his deputies worked on the case until late Monday night but failed to uncover any clue that might lead to the arrest of the guilty parties.

AUTO WRECK SERIOUSLY INJURES TWO

2 Men Bound For Inaugural Injured When Auto Collides With Bridge

An automoble wreck, occurring in Shelby County, two miles south of Calera, early last Monday morning resulted in the serious injury of one man and the painfully injury of another.

The two men, E. R. Davis, of 1559 N. 20th St. Birmingham, and G. C. Humber, of the same address, were enroute to the inauguration of Governor Dixon in Montgomery, according to information reaching the News. They were riding in a coupe, and Humber is said to have stated they met a car with one light just before they came to a narrow bridge. Humber was driving, and stated he became confused by the one light and collided with the side post of the bridge, which is much narrower than the highway.

Davis was the most seriously injured of the two, receiving a fractured skull, as best could be determined when carried to a Birmingham Hospital by a Martin & Sons ambulance. Humber received painful cuts and bruises about the head and body. The car was badly damaged. The accident occurred just before daylight.

LOCAL CCC FURNISHING ENGINE DRIVE PUMP FOR CITY WATER

Mayor C. Fenn Jones stated this week that he wanted to publicly express his appreciation to the local CCC Camp for their splendid show of cooperation in loaning the Cty of Clanton a gasolne engine pump being used to pump water from the Black Snake Creek for the City's supply.

Mayor Jones stated that he has found the CCC willng to cooperate in every undertaking having as its aim the betterment of Clanton.

Increase In Accidental Deaths In Chilton, '38

Deaths from accidents increased in Chilton County from 27 in 1937 to 29 in 1938, according to a weekly health department report. Accidents during 1938 ranked second among the ten of the leading causes of death, heart disease heading the list with 40 deaths. The number of deaths from other principal causes for 1938 were cerebral hemorrhage, 23; diseases of early infancy, 11; diseases of circulatory system, 10; tuberculosis, 10; and senility, 8.

According to sex and color white men were more affected by accidental deaths than any other group, there being 1 deaths in this group. There were 5 accidental deaths among white woman, two among colored men and one among colored women. According to the type of accident, automobile accidents led with 16 deaths. Accidents involving trains accounted for 3 deaths and gun shot wounds also brought 3 deaths. Two persons were drowned and accidental suffocaton claimed two lives. Falls accounted for two deaths, and one infant burned to death by an open fireplace.

HOMEMAKERS SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS TO MEET ON FRIDAY

The News has been requested to announce that the Homemakers Class of the Clanton Baptist Church will meet next Friday afternoon at 2:30 at the home of Mrs. Dewey Rockett, with Mrs. Rockett as hostess.

All members are urged to attend.

MISS DOROTHY WAITE HONORED AT HUNTINGDON COLLEGE

Everyone will be gla dto know that Clanton goes on the honor roll again One of Canton's own girls, Miss Dorothy Waite, is one of the three outstanding students at Huntingdon College.

She is house president of Pratt Dormitory. Miss Waite is a very lovely girl and Clanton is proud of her. May she always stay on the honor roll.

SUPPORT OF 'MARCH OF DIMES' URGED

President's Birthday Ball Will Climax Campaign In Behalf Of Cripples

The Chilton County Committee in charge of the campaign in behalf of "Child's Enemy No. 1", sponsored by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis and which emphasizes "The March of Dimes", has announced that the work in this County is well underway.

Fifty percent of tre funds raised during the campaign will go to aid the stricken children right here in Chilton County, while the rest will go to National research work.

The campaign features the sale of buttons—"Give A Dime And Wear A Button"—and are being placed on sale throughout the County. Placards which touchingly depict the plight of two young victims of "maiming death" along with cylinder dime banks have been placed in business establishments over the County. Buttons will be given those contributing to the cause.

Joe Mullins attorney of Clanton, is Chairman of the Chilton County Committee, and is this week urging the wholehearted support of the campaign by residents of Clanton and the entire County. Next Sunday, January 22, has been designated "Infantile Paralysis Church Sunday" and on that day in all churches an appeal will go out to all to support the campaign.

The campaign will come to a climax on the President's birthday anniversary, January 30, with grand balls being held throughout the Nation.

It is hoped that Chilton County will go over the top for this cause, a most worthy one. The Chilton County Crippled Children's Clinic will receive our share of the funds, with chidren affected with this dreaded disease right here at home, the beneficiaries.

VISITING IN FLORIDA

Dr. and Mrs. J. Hance Alred and Judge and Mrs. J. Lee Smith left the first part of this week for an extended visit to points in Florida. They expect to be gone for two weeks, and will visit Mr. and Mrs. J. Q. Wade in Ft. Myers, Fla., and from there will go down to Miami and Key West. They will return up the east coast of Florida.

Few Arrests Are Made By Officers Past Week

A visit to the office of the Sheriff and City Court last Monday morning showed that as far as arrests go, things were unusually quiet during the week of January 9-16.

There were only four arrestss recorded in the Sheriff's office. They were for the following offenses: Assault and Battery, 1; Public Drunkeness 1; Assault to murder, 1; Issuing fraudulent check, 1.

Mayor C. Fenn Jones stated there were no cases coming before him Monday morning of this week.

GATHERING AT BLUE CREEK FRIDAY HONORS RUFUS GANN

A party of Clanton young people gathered at Blue Creek Lodge on the Coosa River last Friday night in honor of Rufus Gann, well known young man who has been connected with the Billingsley Service Store for several months. Mr. Gann left Sunday for Nashville Tenn., where he will make his home in the future.

This little get-together was a gathering of his friends as a going-away party, and to wish him well on departure from Clanton, where he has made many friends.

Poultry Car Brings $1,864.22 To Farmers

314 Chilton County farmers sold 14,787 pounds of culled hens and other poultry for $1,864.22 to a cooperative poultry car January 11, 12, and 13, according to a release from the office of County Agent J. W. Fant.

This poultry brought to the farmers $551.48 more than the local market would have paid.

This cooperative poultry sale is one of the many services rendered Chilton County farmers by the Chilton County Exchange.

SEVERAL DIXON BILLS ARE ON THEIR WAY THROUGH MILLS

Several Measures Calling For General Shake-Up Of Various Departments Of Government Introduced

STATE CAPITOL—

The following administration bills have been introduced in both branches of the Legislature and are now on their way through the Legislative hopper:

Senator Emmett Hildreth, of Greene introduced a measure empowering the Governor to fix salaries of his appointees up to $6,000. Most department heads now draw no more than $3,600.

Other administration bills introduced contemplated:

1. Civil service merit system for the State employees.

2. Reapportioning House and Senate representation upon a population basis.

3. Reorganization of the Highway Commission with a one-member director at its head.

4. Establishment of new tax boards in all counties with State given power to apportion tax payments to counties on the basis of propery assessments.

5. Taxing proceeds of U.S. bonds, making Federal employees subject to State income taxation; and taxing U.S. Properties, such as power and other plants at Muscle Shoals, if and when Federal laws so permitting are enacted.

6. Abolition of all State land agens' offices, several of whch now earn for the incumbent up to a reputed $50,000 a year in fees.

7. Creating a State Department of Finance, headed by one commissioner in lieu of the present three-member tax commission.

8. Establishment of a department of Commerce in lieu of the State Insurance, Banking and Building and Loan Departments.

9. A strong budget and financial control act under which the comptroller's department would be transferred to jurisdiction of the new Finance Department.

10. Repealing present requirement for numbering ballots.

11. Creating an Industrial Relations Department in lieu of the State's Fish, Game and Seafoods Department and the State Oyster Commission.

12. Regulating the hours and working conditons for women in industry.

13. Establishment of full time county health units in all counties.

14. Empowering the Governor to remove, with or without cause, officials in the State Executive branch.

15. Reorganization of the state Docks Commission with one man at its head, subject to an advisory board.

16. Authorizing retirement of circuit and higher court judges at 70, provided they have been on the bench ten years and wish to retire.

18. Allowing the Governor to make expenditures for upkeep of the executive mansion.

Kiwanis Club Hears Interesting Speaker

The Clanton Kiwanis Club had a most interesting speaker in the person of Dr. Harry N. Clarke director of the Cleveland Institute of Industry and Human Relations of Cleveland O., at their meeting last week at the Thomason Hotel. Dr. Clarke spoke on leadership and its relationship to business and general community welfare. Among the many excellent ideas brought out by him were the following:

"The world is not changing, it has already changed. The challegne today is to furnish adequate leadership for the welfare of the community as a whole.

"Bigger and better business is built when all the community is prosperous. Government census figures show that 81 percent of the people have less than $1,500.00 per year to spend. If business leadership would turn its attention to increasing the income of this 81 percent of our people it is quite clear as to what this additional money would mean to American business.

"If this country is to have efficient business leadership then business must furnish it. The Government cannot furnish efficient business leadership, because business men are not elected to governmental position on election days. It has been rather clearly shown during the past few years that the government cannot run business successfully. The government took over the leadership in business, because business failed to put forward efficient leader-

"The welfare of the masses is more important than the individual success of any one person. Successful business can be built on whole community progress and prosperity. No establishment can build permanent success by tearing down some other enterprise in the community. The function of business is community service and not individual, selfish gain."

Little Miss Suann Powers delightfully entertained the Club with two readings.

The program this week will be on Kiwanis education, directed by John Hollis.

NEW SHERIFF, COMMIS'NERS TAKE OFFICE

W. G. Culp Replaces Hardy; Cobb And Davis Go In Last Tuesday

Three new County officials took the oath of office at the courthouse last Tuesday morning, and began adjusting themselves for their respective duties for the next four years.

W. G. Culp, who was elected on the Republican ticket for Sheriff, succeeded Sheriff J. R. Hardy, who has served for the past four years. This is not the first time Mr. Culp has held public office in Chilton County. He served one term as Tax Collector, and has served twelve years as chief deputy sheriff.

Mr. Culp has announced his deputy help as follows: first deputy, Edgar P. Littlejohn; second deputy, George W. Murrah, who has served as deputy during a previous administration; jail guard for night duty, Jess Moatts.

Two Commssioners took office Tuesday, They are, First District, J. E. Cobb, who succeeds himself. A. J. Davis succeeds Howard Oden as Commissioner of the Second District. Both of these men were elected on the Republican ticket.

Tax Assessor Elect J. D. Rockett and Tax Collector T. M. Taylor will not take office until October. Both were eected on the Republican ticket. Mr. Rockett will succeed incumbent A. D. Martin and Mr. Taylor will succeed incumbent T. L. McKee.

MRS. EMELINE WRIGHT, AGE 90, DIED LAST TUESDAY MORNING

Mrs. Emeline Wright, age 90, died at the home of her son, L. H. Wright, in the Maple Springs Community, last Tuesday morning at eleven o'clock. She was one of the County's oldest residents.

Funeral for Mrs. Wright was held last Wednesday morning at eleven o'clock from the Chestnut Creek church with the Rev. A. T. Davis, assisted by the Rev. E. B. Tucker, in charge. She was laid to rest in the adjoining cemetery with J. Mell Martin and Sons in charge.

Mrs. Wright is survived by 2 daughters, Mrs. Etta Miller, and Mrs. Dora Devaughn; one son, L. H. Wright. Pallbearers were her grandsons.

LOMAX YOUTH FOUND DEAD ON HIGHWAY

Lloyd Traywick Apparently Victim Of Hit-And-Run Driver Friday Night

James Lee Lloyd Traywick, age 21, of Lomax, grandson of J. H. Jackson, who is well known in this County, was found by a relative last Friday night about 11:00 o'clock, by the side of the highway at Lomax with a crushed skull. He had been dead only a short while, according to investigating authorities.

Young Traywck attended a basketball game in Clanton, according to statement given a representative of the News, and had returned to the D. D. Atkinson Store, in Lomax, about 10:30, where he lingered for several minutes. Leaving the store he apparently started to his home, which was not far. His body was found some time later by a relative, lying halfway on the pavement, with his head hanging over the embankment.

The only marks on the body was a badly crushed skull. Investigating officers are of the belief that he was struck by a car or truck as he was crossing the highway. No real evidence of foul play could be uncovered, however, officers are still investigating.

Young Traywick's father, Lee Traywick, was killed in an election affray at the courthouse here, when Herbert Hoover was elected. His mother died several months ago He was making his home with his grandfather, J. H. Jackson, of Lomax

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at 12:15 from the New Harmony Church, Lomax, with the Rev. Aaron Parker conducting and J. Mell Martin & Sons in charge of burial, which was in the nearby cemetery.

He is survived by three brothers, Lee, Carl, Aubrey; one sister, Elsie. He is also survived by his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Jackson, of Lomax.

Honorary pallbearers were Lamar Edwards, Clarence Price, Arthur Bussey, Johnnie Bussey, Will Porter Rush, and Junior Edwards. Active pallbearers were Ottis Miller, Marvin, Edwin, Earl, Cecil and Clifford Traywick.

Flower girls were Eleanor Sanders, Annie Rea Wilson, Myrtice Traywick, Memorie Rush, Katherine Bussey and Eulene Scott.

APPLICATION IS MADE FOR RURAL LOAN

Loan To Finance Rural Electrification In Chilton Is Sought

Fant has been working steadily with Chairman of the Rural Electrification Authority ,spoke at the courthouse here in behalf of extending rural electric lines in this County. Mr. Persons explained what the farmers of the County would have to do in order to secure a government loan to finance the project.

Since that time, County Agent J. W. Fant has been working steadily with the farmers of the County who have been interested in securing electric power on their farms. In order to secure a loan to finance the project a corporation embodying the counties of Chilton, Autauga, Shelby and Elmore was formed, and named the Central Alabama Electric Membership Corporation. A total of approximately 500 miles of lines were necessary for the four counties.

Recently County Agent J. W. Fant announced that enough citizens in the rural districts of the county who wanted the power had signed up to merit the erection of fifty miles of the power lines. Application has been made to the proper authorities in Washington, and whether or not the application for the loan was approved has not been learned.

Rural electrification in the State of Alabama has been going forward steadily, and it is hoped that Chilton County will come in for its share of the electric facilities.

A minimum charge of two dollars per month is made for the electric service, it is understood. A portion of the money goes to pay for the power, which will be purchased from the Alabama Power Company, and the remainder will go to pay on the Government loan, it was explained.

Ex-Governor Bibb Graves

Alabama has another ex-Governor!

He is acclaimed by many the greatest Governor Alabama has ever had. Certain it is that he has done more constructive work for the public weal than any who have gone before. The record is indelibly written—time will not erase it.

The only one who has ever served the State as Governor for so long a time as eight years, he retires, leaving the governmental machinery in perfect running order, and the state in a strictly sound financial condition.

He has wrought well—aided by the brainy and talented former Senator Graves—known and loved by all Alabamians as "Miss Dixie".

Twice-Ex-Governor Graves, goodbye, but not farewell.

Governor Frank M. Dixon

Alabama has a new Governor!

He is young, clean, courageous, forceful. He has emphatically pledged that economy will be the mud-sill on which his administration will rest. He has also pledged many governmental reforms, and changes in antiquated political practices. The future will record his success or failure.

He is a family man—carrying to the mansion the ideal American family circle—a lovely First Lady, and two fine children—a young lady and a young gentleman.

No man has ever taken the reigns of the State Government under more favorable circumstances.

Governor Dixon, we salute you!

Why Not Use The Churches?

If one-tenth of the time, energy and money that is being spent for armaments and preparedness against an anticipated world wide war were used to organize the churches (spiritual forces) of the nation, in a world-wide campaign for peace and harmony among all peoples of the earth, far better results woul be obtained.

If America is to escape this impending cataclysm, it will be due to the activities of the spiritually minded men and women who want peace, and not through the activities of armament makers and international money lenders.

--"Unto The Least Of These"

Some day, in a quiet laboratory someone will discover some method of defeating the maiming death of infantile paralysis.

Beginning this week there is to be waged in this County a campaign to raise money to carry on this great work and you are urged now to do your part and assist in all ways possible, this committee chosen to lead this fight. As you know, the climax of the campaign is a President's Ball to be held the latter part of Jan., at the City Hall. Tickets will sell for one dollar; fifty cents of every one of these dollars goes to the Crippled Children's Clinic and in turn can be matched dollar for dollar with the State, thereby doubling the good that you can do by buying a ticket.

Of course, the other fifty cents in that dollar goes for research, without which there could be no progress in the stamping out of this dread disease. Last year Chilton County contributed five dollars to this worthy cause. This year let's give twenty times that five—you will be glad that you contributed in even a small way in making some boy or girl's road just a wee bit easier and their load just a wee bit lighter, for, : Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, my brethren, ye have done it unto me".

A tip to Chilton County Farmers: The Government is spending millions for "Preparedness". Bread and meat are the two first items in any preparedness program, when war is anticipated.

The Poll Tax Is Not Selective In Operation

"Poll tax receipts, which are prerequisite to voting by persons between the ages of 21 and 60 years, were frequently purchased in bulk by friends of candidates for offices on both sides for the purpose of influencing votes and voting . . ."

The foregoing in from the Senate campaign expenditures committee report on the last election in Tennessee. Those who contend that the poll tax results in a selected electorate ignore the fact that frequently it has the opposite results in practice.

The unscrupulous politician can sometimes purchase votes of the less fit of the electorate; the honest voters who do not have the price of the poll tax prefer to stay at home. Removal of the cumulative features of Alabama's poll tax law would at least give encouragement to the thousands of honest voters of the state who are unable to pay years of back taxes.

The greater the number of voters, the more difficult it is for elections to be purchased by dishonest aspirants for office—Birmingham News.

What Must We Defend?

There is perhaps no subject concerning which the people of the United States are more in accord than that of national defense. Every true American wants to see his country made safe from invasion.

But the question most pertinent just now concerns the scope defensivs measures should include. The question might be divided somewhat like this:

Should we be prepared to defend only the continental United States and the possessions which are indisputably our territory, such as Hawaii, Peurto Rico, Alaska and the Panama Canal?

Should we go to war to defend the Philippines, which by their own request have been granted entire indepenence to become fully effective after a transition period of a few years? And what about other republics in this hemisphere?

Should we go to war if necessary to defend commercial or personal interests of Americans throughout the whole world?

Should we go to war to aid Great Britain and France, for example, as we did in the World War—and for what?

The answers to these questions must have a definite and vital bearing on the nature, extent and cost of the proposed new defense program.

But the answers cannot be given until it is known to what extent we intend to involve ourselves with other nations over matters which are of little importance to our own people as a whole.—Georgiana News.

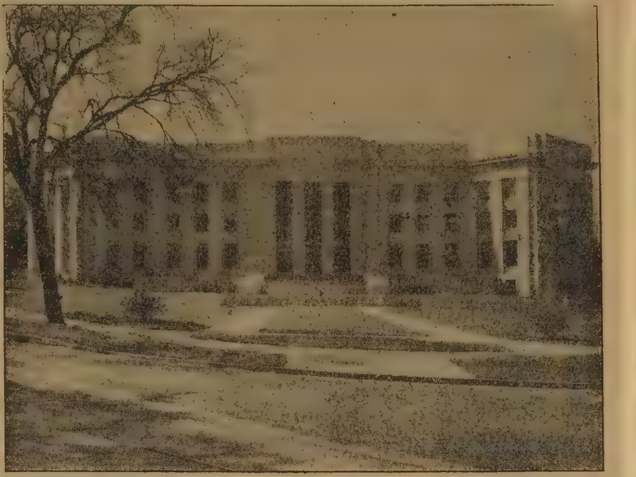
KNOW ALABAMA BETTER



With impressive ceremonies held in the large entrance lobby of the structure, beginning at noon, Alabama's new $450,000 State Highway Building was formally dedicated recently with Chief State Highway Engineer C. J. Sherlock, Jr., serving as master of ceremonies, and the portraits of three notable leaders in highway building and development in Alabama, were unveiled.

Governor Graves, who was the principal speaker, after declaring the Department was the finest road constructing machine in the world paid tribute for their contribhtions to the development of the State's highway system, to the late State Senator John A. Rogers, of Gainesville, former chairman of the Highway Commission; the late Col. W. A. McCalla, former State Highway Engineer, and Col. Woolsey Finnell. Governor's first administration.

The Chief Executive's address was made after Chairman Gaston Scott of the Highway Commission, formally turned the building over to him for the State, following a brief talk in which he reviewed the history of the capitol buildng and pointed out the Highway Department Building is the first new governmental structure to be added since the capitol was built.

Associate Highway Commissioner, L. L. Herzberg, credited Gov. Graves with originating and perfecting plans for the creation of the new building, declaring he will go down in history of his native state as one of the greatest "builders" it has ever produced. Associate Commissioner H D. Burnam said the structure would stand as a memorial to the State's road builders "who have gone before" and an inspiration to those who follow.

State Administrator W. G. Henderson of the Works Progress Administration, said the construction of such buildings "don't just happen", but require careful, detailed planning and expalined how the Highway Building had been planned and eventually completed.

The three portraits unveiled were of Gov. Graves painted by J. R. Bozeman, formerly of Montgomery, now of Shreveport, La.; Col. W. A. McCalla, painted by Miss Hannah Elliot of Birmingham and Senator Rogers, painted by Mrs. Wiley Gayle Martin of Shorter.

Mrs. Dixie Graves, wife of the Governor, unveiled the picture of her h band, voicing her appreciation, sta every member of the Highway partment is due the Chief Executi personal thanks for their "splen work" during the past four years.

Unveiling the portrait of Sena Rogers was by Mrs. John C. Anders wife of Supreme Justice Anderson the Alabama Supreme Court. The justice was unable, on account of te porary indisposition, to officiate as had been scheduled to do, but Anderson read the eulogy prepared him of the work of the late Senator the development of Alabama's H ways from the beginning of the "g roads" movement up to the time of death, in the official capacities member of the Legislature and head the Highway Commission and as a vate citizen.

Mrs. W. A. McCalla, widow of late Col. McCalla, and Mrs. John Curry, his daughter, Inveiled the li ness of the late State Highway gineer expressing in a few words th appreciation of the honor paid to h his work and his memory.

ROBBERIES IN CLANTON—

During the past several weeks there has prevailed in Clanton a wave of burglaries, which came to a climax on Monday night with the robbery and assault of one of our most prominent merchants, Mr. W. A. Kemp. Two hoodlums, certainly not products of Chilton County, showed their ruthlessness and utter disregard for humanity and respectability when they committed this dastardly act. We are of the opinion that the law enforcement department of Clanton and Chilton have been doing all within their power to curb, them, and, as a result of good work on their part, three men, and we are sorry to say, Chilton County men, were captured while burglarizing the Peoples' Cash Store here several days ago. But this latest act is the worst so far and from description given by Mr. Kemp, the men were no amateurs. Speedy and just punishment should be meted out to the guilty two, if caught, and efforts to run them down should be redoubled. The sooner Clanton shows proof that it has had enough of this sort of thing, the sooner it will come to an end.

THE BIG EVENT—

The one big event of the week, month and year, perhaps—and we missed it. We speak of the inauguration of Governor Frank Murray Dixon which took place in Montgomery last Monday. Although busy trying to eke out a livlihood during the day, we planned to attend the Inaugural Ball at the City Auditorium Monday night. Failed to do that, however, we learned from the daily press that even dignataries had a good deal of trouble getting through the mob of people who attended the affair, to shake hands with the new Gov, so maybe we were just saved a trip after all.

NEW GOVERNOR, NEW COUNTY OFFICIALS—

At the hour of midnght Monday, Alabama had a new Governor, but so did Chilton County have new officials. Sheriff W. G. Culp replaced retiring Sheriff J. R. Hardy. And by the way, Sheriff Culp had a little job on his hands the very first thing when he arose Tuesday morning. That job was to carry on the efforts begun by Sherff Hardy to run down the two thugs who robbed and assaulted Mr. W. A. Kemp, early last Monday night. Other new County officials taking office Tuesday were Commissioners Cobb and Davis, representing Districts One and Two, respectively. Our very best wishes for smooth sailing during their administration.

Anderson's World-Famous Indians To Play Mitchell Dam

Clanton fans will see one of the world's greatest basketball teams Monday night, January 23, when Anderson's World-Famous Oklahoma Indians come here to play Mitchell Dam at the Chilton County High School Gym.

The game starts at 8:00 o'clock.

Foremost among the Oklahoma Indians is Tony Wapp, six feet, five inches tall. Wapp is remembered for his great playing on such teams as the New York Giants, the Earle Cardinals, Alsen's Terrible Swedes, the House of David and other teams.

Now Wapp is in his familiar place in basketball, back with his fellow redskins. He knows them better and he is having his greatest season. Wapp threatened to retire from the cage game this year, but when signed by the Indians, he readily agreed to continue playing.

Other members of the World Famous Indians are Andy Curley, Clifford McIntosh, Frank Boss and Garland King. The Indians all have their own native names, such as Flying Duck, Fleet Foot, Heap 'O Birds, Old Crow and Thunder Bull, but they much prefer to be called by their English names. The modern Indian is touchy about such matters.

But, regardless of what they are called, the Oklahoma World Famous Indians give the fans a basketball show, a war dance, plenty of war whoops and all the things they do between basketball seasons out at Caddo, Okla. This is a treat for any basketball fan and one the fans won't want to miss.

The Cardinals were victorious in another game played against Maxwell Field Friday night by a score of 28-34.

This was a hard fought game with the Dammers coming from behind in the last half to overcome a 5-point lead. The following are games scheduled for the Cardinals.

January 16—Sycamore at Sycamore.

January 19—Selma "Y" at Mitchell Dam.

January 23—World Famous Indians at Clanton.

January 28—Sylacauga at Sylacauga.

February 1—Calera at Mitchell Dam.

Februry 3—Selma "Y" at Selma.

February 10—Bessemer "Y" at Mitchell Dam.

WHO, WROTE IT?

"The Sunshine of Paradise Alley"

HE has been writing songs for more than fifty years, and last year produced another hit when "Sweetheart, Let's Grow Old Together" captured the sympathies of England and America.

Born in Wilmington, Del., he began his musical life as a choir singer, delved in amateur theatricals and became a singer in Broadway productions. His life has been divided between the writing of songs and his theatrical career.

He wrote the songs for the famous musical shows, "Hodge Podge & Co.", "The Pearl and the Pumpkin", "The Star and Garter" and "The Man from China." Among the celebrities who sang his songs were Edna May, Hattie Williams, Francis Wilson, Adele Ritchie, Marie Cahill, Joe Coyne, Charles Bigelow, Stella Mayhew and Frank Daniels.

He toured with over one hundred productions, playing most of the principal cities throughout the country, until motion pictures practically ended road shows. He was a close friend of Victor Herbert and was among the first to be associated with Herbert in 1914 in the organization of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, and is also a life member of the Lambs Club. He lives in Brooklyn, N. Y., with his wife and daughter.

GOV. FRANK M. DIXON'S INAUGURAL ADDRESS

STATE CAPITOL—

To me as I stand facing this great throng of my friends on this my inaugural day there comes, more definitely than any other, the realization of a tremendous responsibility. The satisfaction of a long and hard fight won, of course, is there. But I find that satisfaction secondary, unimportant, as compared to that other feeling. For as your Governor I follow a long line of able men, representative of the best there is in our people, and the heritage left to me is one of duty done.

My obligations are to all of our people, not to any class or group or creed. To none more than to any other is this inaugural due. The rich and the poor, employer and employee, those who live on our farms and the dwellers in our cities, all can come with the assurance that there shall be no preference or favoritism shown, and the doors of the Governor's office will swing as wide open to the humble toiler as to those who sit in the seats of the mighty. For even had there been any other thought in the mind of anyone, any thought of any obligation owed to this or that broup for political help that thought must disappear in the face of the overwhelming vote by which our people, from every walk of life, chose me as their Governor.

The problems which face us are many and varied.

In the operation of our state, none of us want to go backward. None of us want our schools to be closed, our roads to remain unpaved, our welfare work to cease, our essential governmental services to our people to falter for lack of funds. All of us are willing to pay, and pay unti it hurts, for a modern state and all that that term means to a people. For we are proud of this great state of ours, proud of its heritage, proud of the banners our people have carried in peace and in war, and we want it always to face the rising sun.

We want, always, for the world to think of us as enlightened people, sensitive, kindly and tolerant; to think of our state as one in which humanitarian principles are placed first in the category of things, in which there is a deep-seated recognition that we who live today are trustees of an inheritance given to us by our fathers, temporarily ours, to be passed by us unsullied to our sons and daughters. We want our state to be known as one giving to its citizens all that we can of those governmental services, essential in the modern relationship of a forward-looking state to its people. This we are in large measure doing today.

But our people are paying heavily, out of their meager resources for those services. They have the right to demand that their hard-earned money shall be carefuly sspent, that their government be efficiently run, that for each dolar spent there shall be a dolar's return in benefit to them. The oad of taxation, whatever form that load may take, whether income, license, sales or any other taxes, rests in the last analysis on the shoulders of the poor, and in a state with low per capita wealth, by the very nature of things, the obligation to conserve the resources of the peoes is rendered more binding, the trusts more sacred. The resources available must be wisely, efficiently used. It shall be my aim to see that this is done. To that end I shall propose certain changes in governmental forms, a modernization of our machinery, not with the idea of change alone, not with the purpose or effect of uprooting the good things of the past, but with intent to recognize the growing burden of taxation and to render the umost of return for the taxes asked and received.

Our problem is not only statewide. Since 1865 there have been burdens unfairly placed upon the Southern state. The discrimination of the tariff is well known, with its failure to protect our products of farm and factory. We have been taxed for many years to pay the pensions of the soldiers who defeated us. The system of freight rate discrimination, which has received the able attention of our retiring governor, was installed and has operated to prevent the economic expansion and prosperity of our region.. Now we face the operation of a wages and hours bill which, if it be unfairly administered, can destroy our industries. All who have studied the problem of the welfare of our people recognize a primary necessity of bringing industry to our state, thereby achieving a better balanced economy, increasing our taxable wealth, lessening our tax load, increasing the income of the citizens of our state. Prevention of the coming of industry to Alabama, possibly under the present law, presents a danger of which we must always be keenly aware.

It is necessary, if we are to prosper, on only to attend to our local affairs, but to keep our eyes firmly fixed on Washington.

Where can we be effective? Only in the national Democratic convention. Once the party has chosen its nominee, we in Alabama must follow its lead. How can we be effectve in the convention? Only by acting in combination and in concert with other Southern states. Divided, we fall, as divided we fell when the two-thirds rule was abolished. A united stand would have prevented that disaster. But what is done is done. By a united stand we can in the day to come be heard in the councils of the nation, and only in that way can we remove these economic barriers to the prosperity of our people. And I am speakins of what we be in 1940; of the future, not of the past; of the quick, not of the dead, and I am drawing lessons from the past solely to chart our course in the days to come.

GOVERNOR FRANK M. DIXON

Much work has already been done toward bringing about a concert of action by Southern states in defense of the South. We must prevent any division. We must commit ourselves to no candidate in advance, since then we would be powerless to help in the fight. And if in this we stand in the way of any man ambitious for his own advancement, then he must yield to the common good. For the future of the people of Alabama is of infinitely more importance than that of any man.

A great and good man stood in this place in 1861, in this fine old Southern city, and took his oath of office as leader of the Confederacy. Our people, yours and mine, followed him through years of struggle and sacrifice, through a bitter and hopeless war. In him there came to be personified the hopes of a great people. That lost, and we, their children, are still paying the bill for their defeat.

Today we have no thought of anything save playing our part, loyally, within the structure of these United States. We represent a generation blooded in the fields of France in the armies of our country. All that we ask, all that we demand, is that there be a cessation of unfair attacks upon us—that we be allowed to live and to prosper in the degree allotted to us by a beneficient Providence, without the artificial barriers placed in our way by partisan politics or sectional interests.

Barrier To Prosperity

Why should I interest myself in this, and consider it of sufficient importance to record in this address? As your Governor, I can do much to help in bringing our house in order. But if I can be of help in removing these discriminations against us which have kept our people poor these many years, I will be contributing to a cause even more effective for our ultimate prosperity than can come from any administration of the affairs of our state. Remove the load we unfairly carry and I will guarantee prosperity to Alabama.

Alabama is going forward. God has been good to us. He has blessed us with those great rivers, with an abundant rainfall, with fertile lands, with a long growing season, with a great mineral wealth; with homogenous people and with the tools out of which can be forged every element of a worthwhile life.

Industry seeks to come. We welcome it, since it will give us the balanced agriculture and industry with which our wealth will increase. Industry now here seeks to prosper; it shall be given every fair encouragement. Our rural schools for the first time in our history, are running their full seven months' terms without further debt; we will increase that term .Our wid life and valuabesti that term. Our wild life and valuable timber resources will be conserved. Insofar as we are able, we will increase our help to the unfortunate. The road-building program will continue. All of those varied activities of our government which means services to our people, will continue, strengthened. The planned development of our state, materially as well as spiritually, is going on, to the end that this wonderful heritage temporarily entrusted to us, shall be accounted for 10-fold to our children.

In the adminstration of the affairs of a state there can be no meeting of minds and agreements on all points. Men and women are human, with minds of their own, with hopes and ambitions and convictions the result of the thought and environments of a lifetime. In all that I do or try to do there will be the purpose to serve our people—from you my friends and neighbors, I ask an objective point of view. Where we disagree let it be in friendliness; where we agree, let us unite with redoubled vigor, gird up our loins and follow with singleness of purpose the straight road into the future, making the good of our people the pillar of cloud by day and of fire by night to guide us out of the wilderness into happiness and peace.

SOME OF THE THINGS GRAVES ACCOMPLISHED

Following are listed some of the things which Bibb Graves, as Governor of Alabama, accomplished for the benefit of all the people:

On the battle the general is given credit for the success of his army, although he may be far in the rear in a safety zone.

Bibb Graves, during his two terms as Governor has not been content to stay in the rear and direct those who are serving the State but he has taken his place at the front and said, "Come on boys, this is the way to victory". He has had the cooperation of the State Legislature and State officials, Alabama's United States Senators and the members of Congress, and when we tell you of the accomplishments of his administration we means the things that have been done under his leadership, and in most cases the ideals that have originated in the mind of the credit for their part in the program but as in the game of war we are giving credit to the general without whose vision and leadership nothing would have been accomplished.

It was under the leadership of Bibb Graves that toll bridges were built to take the place of the slow and dangerous ferries, and it was under the same leadership that the tolls were lifted.

The bonded debt has been reduced more than eight million dollars under the present administration and the interest rate on other bonds has been greatly reduced. The State is living in its income and retiring these bonds long before they are due.

By cooperating wit President Roosevelt he has gotten for Alabama out of the emergency relief appropriations a total of approximately $400,000,000

Grade crossings have been eliminated and bridges have been built and asphalt and concrete roads have been extended into every County.

More than twenty million dollars of educational buildings were erected during his first administration with ten millions or more already spent for this purpose during this present administration and plans are being mapped for several millions more during the next months.

It was Bibb Graves who started the movement and is leading the fight of Southern Governors to abolish the unfair freight rate differentials that have stifled the industrial development of Alabama. It is admitted by Northern Governors and industrialists that if Governor Graves is successful in his fight for parity rates the industries of that section will have to move to the South if they meet competition.

It was Bibb Graves who relieved the homesteads in Alabama of all State ad valorem taxes.

It was Bibb Graves who sponsored a law reducing the legal rate of interest from 8 to 6 percent.

It was through Bibb Graves that we have the Public Welfare Department caring for the unfortunate and the forgotten among our population. .

It was Bibb Graves who said in his campaign that we should have a Department of Labor and it was created.

It was Bibb Graves who advanced the idea that the people should be represented by an attorney when their rights are being contested before the Public Service Commission sitting in a judicial capacity. The office of People's Service Attorney was created.

It was Bibb Graves who said that automobile tags were too high. The reduction he advocated saved the motorist of Alabama last year more than a million and a half dollars.

A just claim against the State should not have to wait for the Legislature to meet for a settlement. Bibb Graves said it should be settled without delay. The State Board of Adjustment was created for this purpose.

Bibb Graves started the movement in 1927 to give every white child an equal eucational opportunity. This was accomplished in the passage of the Minimum Program Law.

It was Bibb Graves who, when he saw that the schools could not run for seven and nine months without more money suggested to the Legislature that we should have a gross receipt tax and such a law was enacted.

It was Bibb Graves who secured the passage of a law-giving children in the lower grades free textbooks.

It was Bibb Graves who brought the light and power into farm homes when he induced the legislature to create the Rural Electrification Authority.

He didn't take the convicts out of the mines and terminate the iniquitous lease system during his first term but he told the legislature how it could be done. He planned the maintenance of these convicts by putting some of them on the farm to produce feed for others that were producing clothing for all the convicts, while some of them were put in road camps to build and maintain ourhighways.

Bibb Graves gave us health laws in 1927 that have been used as a model by other states. Alabama was the first state in the Union to have a health unit in every county.

To enumerate all the achievements of this administration would consume more space than most weekly newspapers have at their disposal.

Has Bibb Graves done anything for Alabama that the people of one state should honor and respect him Has he furnished the vision and the leadership that brought about the enactment of these laws and many others that have caused the people of the Union to stop and take notice.

His administration has come to a close and what he has accomplished during the two terms that he has been Governor will live on the minds and the hearts of those whose thinking has not been warped with envy and prejudice?

Cent - And - A - Half Fares Are Back Here

This Good News Effective On L&N Lines Effective January 15th

Cent and a half a mile coach fares are back on the lines of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad and those of the majority of the other railroads operating in the southeast territory, and, according to the January 1939 issue of the L&N Employee's Magazine, it is believed they are back to stay.

This good news for travelers becomes effective January 15 and will mean a substantial saving for those who use the railroads' lines. The saving will, of course, be in direct proportion to the distance traveled. Pullman fares will remain the same, i.e, two and one-half cents per mile for round trip tickets with six months' return lmit, 3 cents a mile for one-way travel.

Prior to the reduction, coach fares had been two cents a mile, having been raised to this figure on November 16, 1937, after a previous experimental period with one-and-one-half cent fares, extending from January 1934 to November 15, 1937.

The trend of passenger revenue on the Louisville & Nashville Railroad since September 1937 has been downward and it is hoped that the inauguration of the lower coach fare will be just the thing to make this revenue do an about face, though attracting a constantly increasing number of travelers.

End wash day work ELECTRICALLY

ASK for a demonstration of one of the 1938--or new 1939--electric washers and see for yourself how well, how easily and how quickly the washing is done. And how clean the clothes are! Cost for electricity for families of average size only about a nickel a week.

And if "ironing day" wears you out, perhaps you'll want a demonstration of the electric ironer too. You can sit down at ironing--you superintend the machine while it does most of the work.

HAVE you ever tried chilled drained canned Hawaiian pineapple gems — those delicious juicy, cut to fit the spoon pieces of golden fruit — atop shredded wheat biscuits or crisp corn flakes? Try this combination one of these fine winter mornings. It will boost the popularity of cereal at least fifty points. And don't limit the idea to the children's breakfast because father will like it also.

Here is a new and appetite whetting thought for the starter course. Zip up tomato catsup with lemon juice, horseradish, Worcestershire sauce, and celery salt, and serve it over well chilled canned Hawaiian pineapple gems. The combination is as good as it is unusual.

Baptist Installation Of Officers

The Baptist W.M.U. met Monday afternoon at 3:0 0o'clock for the installation of new officers. Hymns were sung and a very lovely devotional was conducted by Mrs. Oscar Davis. A short business meeting was held for old reports to be made. After these reports and discussions the new officers for this year were installed by Rev. Oscar Davis. This service was very interesting and at the close of the service a lovely duet was rendered by Mrs. Grady Heflin and Mrs. Arthur Willis. Immediately following the installation a demonstration was given by members of the W.M.U. to explain the new way of making out the quarterly reports. There was a very good attendance at this meeting and everyone seemed to enjoy it very much. Everyone present pladged themselves to let nothing get in their way to keep them from cooperating with each other in every way to do God's work this next year and every year.

CHEVROLET CAR SALES SHOW BIG INCREASE IN NATION

Continuing the sharp upward trend established in November, Chevrolet dealers sold 66,832 new passenger cars and trucks in December, W. E. Holler, general sales manager, announced recently. This is an increase of 13,299 units, or 24.7 percent over sales for December, 1937.

Used car sales during this period were increased 3,845 units, or 3.7 percent, over those for December, 1937. The figures were 107,231 in December 1938 and 103,386 in December, 1937.

Total units, new and used, sold during the month were 174,063 Mr. Holler stated, as compared with 156,989 in December of the previous year. This is an increase of 17,074 units, or 10.8 percent.

"Especially significant", Mr. Holler stated, "is December's sharp increase over even November's fine record. November sales were up 4,455 units, or six percent over the previous November's. The December percentage of increase was more than four times as great as the increase recorded in November".

Y. W. A. MET WITH MRS. BEN IVEY ON MONDAY, JANUARY 16

The Y.W.A. met with Mrs. Ben Ivey at her home on January 16. Mary Frances Duke, the new president, took charge of the program, assisted by Mrs. Oscar Davis.

Business was attend to and then the members enjoyed an impressive ceremony, the installation of officers. Two large candles cast a soft glow over the room, while officers went through the procedure of faithfully taking office charges. Those in the ceremony were Mrs. Davis, Mary Frances Duke, President; Gertie Fiquette, vice-Presdent; Helen Moore, Secretary-Treasurer; Martha Jule Blackshear, who was substituting for Una Powell, as vice-president of last year. At the close of this ceremony, all the members were given a small candle and as they lighted these from the large ones, they formed a circle to sing a song and repeat their club pledge.

A brief contest was sponsored in which Mrs. Chester Wingard won the prize for having completed her contest with all answers correct.

The meeting was adjourned, after which Mrs. Ivey served delghtful refreshments.

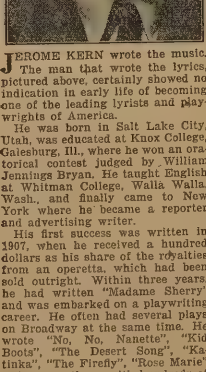
WHO WROTE IT?

"When Your Heart's on Fire, Smoke Gets in Your Eyes"

They asked me how I knew



JEROME KERN wrote the music. The man that wrote the lyrics, pictured above, certainly showed no indication in early life of becoming one of the leading lyrists and playwrights of America.

He was born in Salt Lake City, Utah, was educated at Knox College, Galesburg, Ill., where he won an oratorical contest judged by William Jennings Bryan. He taught English at Whitman College, Walla Walla, Wash., and finally came to New York where he became a reporter and advertising writer.

His first success was written in 1907, when he received a hundred dollars as his share of the royalties from an operetta, which had been sold outright. Within three years, he had written "Madame Sherry" and was embarked on a playwriting career. He often had several plays on Broadway at the same time. He wrote "No, No, Nanette", "Kid Boots", "The Desert Song", "Katinka", "The Firefly", "Rose Marie" and many others, with hundreds of songs.

He became a member of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, and is now its vice president. He received the degree of Doctor of Literature at Knox College. These and other honors only spurred him on, and later came "Roberta" in which "Smoke Gets In Your Eyes" was featured. Even now at least one new production is in work in his home at Mamaroneck, N. Y.

His name is

Otto A. Harbach

Local Auxiliary Members Attend Conference

The annual mid-winter conference of the American Legion Auxiliary was held in Montgomery last Sunday. The Legion convened at the City Auditorium and Auxiliary at the Jefferson Davis Hotel.

The purpose of this conference each year is to discuss the year's program and to stimulate interest and enthusiasm by meeting together and becoming better acquainted both with our mutual objectives and with each other.

The meeting was called to order at 10 A.M.

The national guests of honor were Mrs. P. L. Dixon, of Georgia, who is the National Vice President for the Southern Division of the Auxiliary and Homer Chaillaux, who was instrumental in gathering information of un-american activities placed before the Dies Committee this past year. Mrs. Dixon spoke to the Auxiliary on the splendid programs being carried out in Alabama. She mentioned Alabama as being the little state with the big hospital program. At 3 o'clock Mr. Chaillaux spoke to both Legion and Auxiliary at the City Auditorium.

The morning session of the Auxiliary was opened with the usual Auxiliary ceremonies and Department officers extending their greetings. Reports of Chairmen on different phases of the works of the organization was very interesting. Mrs. O. L. Upshaw, the state Music Director, gave an interesting talk on "Music In The Auxiliary" and reported Alabama won the National award for the fifth consecutive ti in Los Angeles this fall. Each distr director gave their reports. Mrs. Ha by, fifth district director, gave the r port that the most outstanding a promising unit was the Clanton unit being the newest in the district. M W. H. Klinner, President, of the Cl ton Unit, received two awards for t Unit. Mr. George Lewis Bailes spo on National Defense.

At 1 o'clock a luncheon was serv at the Jefferson Davis Hotel for Auxiliary members and their husban Some of the interesting features the day were presented at the lunc eon. Present at the luncheon were b the out-going and in-coming Gover ors and their wives, all of whom outstanding Legionnaires and Auxili members.

Attending the conference from Cl ton County were Mr. and Mrs. W Klinner and Mr. and Mrs. Joe A. M cus.

Congressman And Mrs. Pete Jarman Attend State Dinner For Vice Pres. At White House

Due to the fact that Congressman Pete Jarman, representing the Sixth District, which includes Chilton, has been in Congress only three years, the invitation to he and Mrs. Jarman to attend the Annual State Dinner given by the President of the United States honoring the Vice-President John Nance Garner, is looked upon as a rare honor indeed. The affair, one of the three outstanding occasions of the year in Washington, was held at the White House January 10.

Only a few Representatives in Congress were invited to attend this outstanding social function, and these have served many years more than Congressman Jarman. Representative Caroline O'Day, of New York, Chairman of Election of President, and very close to Mrs. Roosevelt, was invited. She has served five years in Congress.

Following is a list of Representatives who attended the dinner, Committees on which they served and the number of years they have been in Congress:

Adolph J. Sabbath, Ill.—33 years in Congress—Dean of the House—Chairman of Rules.

Sam Rayburn, Tex.—27 years in Congress—House Majority Leader.

Joseph W. Martin, Mass.—15 years in Congress—House Minority Leader.

Wilburn Cartwright, Okla.—13 years in Congress—Chairman of Roads.

Melvin J. Maas, Minn.—13 years in Congress—Ranking Republican on Naval Affairs.

Patrick J. Boland, Penn.—9 years in Congress—Democratic Whip—Ways and Means Committee.

Question: Are home-canned tomatoes a good source of vitamin C?

Answer: Home canned tomatoes are a good source of vitamin C if they are canned in the right way. The acid of the tomato helps protect its vitamin C against destruction by heat and air in canning, as in cooking. Practically none of the vitamin C (ascoric acid) is lost in home-canning if you use the hot or cold pack method. Probably more vitamin C is destroyed in the open-kettle method because the tomatoes are exposed to the air for a longer time while they are hot. But even tomatoes canned from the open kettle still retain considerable ascorbic acid.

But home-canned tomatoes do gradually lose some of their vitamin C after they have been stored for some time. Canned tomatoes may lose from one-third to one- half of their vitamin C if stored for six months at room temperature. But even tomatoes stored for this long a time will contain enough vitamin C to make them a noteworthy addition to the winter menu.

Question: My new recipe book says searing does not help to hold in the juices when you roast meats. Is this true?

Answer: Your new recipe book is absolutely correct on this point. Instead of holding the juice in meat ,searing actually drives it out. If you want to retain all the juice possible in a tender roast keep your roasting oven at a moderate, even temperature from the start to finish, say about 300 degrees. And do not overcook the meat. Well done beef is bound to shrink and lose more juice than a roast cooked only to the "rare" stage.

Question: Should you roast a leg of lamb or ribs of beef in a covered or an open pan?

Answer: All tender meats with a good covering of fat are better roasted in an open pan. Strangely enough your tender roast will be more juicy if you keep the oven temperature moderate and follow the excellent motto of "use no cover", add no water". A cover on the roaster and added water both make steam an dsteam draws out the juices. They are lost from the meat, though they may be saved in the gravy.

But if the roast is tough there is a different answer. Steam if necessary to help soften the tough tissues. But don't steam jacket a tender roast unless you want to make a pot roast out of it.

Question: Why does the meringue on my lemon pie shrink and get watery when I take it out of the oven? It is always so high and so nice and brown when I first take it out.

Answer: Probably you bake your meringue in too hot an oven, so that it browns over the top before the egg foam has cooked through. Meringues will usually be cooked enough to hold their shapes if you bake them in a very moderate oven for 20 minutes. But if your meringue is piled high on the pie you will be wise to bake it more slowly and for a longer time.

Add a few grains of salt to the egg white when you start beating. The salt will help make the foam stand up better. And be sure to use the correct amount of sugar. About two table- the usual custom—add the sugar when best.

If you beat the egg whites by hand—the usual custom—add the suger when the foam is stiff enough to stand in peaks. A wire whisk makes for more fluffiness than a dover beater. But if you use a power beater, add the suger before beating the egg white, then the foam will be sure to stand up .

Another help in getting a foam that stays high and fluffy is borrowed from angel food recipes. That is the use of cream of tartar or lemon juice. The addition of a small amount of acid in this way makes more foam, and a foam that will both stand up better and be more tender than it would without the added acid. Good proportions are 1 teaspoon of lemon juice or one fourth teaspoon of cream of tartar to three egg whites.

Question: What caused the chocolate in the mint candies I dipped to have light and dark streaks? It was also much too thin on the candies.

Answer: Probably you melted the chocolate at too high a temperature, and dipped the mints while the chocolate was still quite warm. For the best dipped chocolates you should buy the kind of chocolate especially designed for this purpose. It should be melted over lukewarm water, not over hot water, so that the chocolate will never really warm to the touch. This low melting temperature is necessary for two reasons. It prevents the starch from thickening and causing the objectionable streaks. Also dipping chocolate contains a very large percentage of cocoa butter that melts at a low temperature and scorches easily.

Before dipping mints, or any kind of candies, the chocolate should be cooled still further or until it is just as cool as you can get it without it becoming solid. Then it will leave a rich, heavy coat on the candies. But if the chocolate is warm—and thin— if will "slide" right off.

Question: Does the color of the shell of an egg make any difference in its food value?

Answer: No, the color of the shell of an egg is determined by the breed of the hen, and as far as can be learned has no influence on the flavor or food value. as either pale or deeper colored yolks may be rich in important vitamins and minerals.

Tested Seed Potatoes Are Now Available

Farmers are urged to request and insist on getting "Alabama approved" seed when buying seed Irish Potatoes, and dealers are asked to provide them, advises Prof. L. M. Ware, head professor horticulture and forestry, Alabama Experiment Station.

"The State of Alabama, through the cooperation of the Department of Agriculture, the Extension Service and the Alabama Experiment Staton, has gone to much trouble to test Irish potato seed for the benefit of Alabama growers," says Professor Ware, who adds "tremendous differences have been found in the yields of potatoes even though they have been certified in the State where they have been grown."

Alabama Rivers Are In Need Of $2,117,600

The United States War Department Asks $302,900 For New Work

WASHINGTON—

The War Department told Congress recently $2,117,600 could be "profitably expended" on Alabama waterway projects during fiscal 1940.

Of that, the department asked $302,900 for New work and $1,814.700 for maintenance of river and harbor developments already completed.

Additional expenditures: Intracoastal waterway, Pensacola Bay to Mobile Bay, $30,000; Mobile Harbor, $377,500; removing water hyacinths from tributaries of the Mobile River, $25,000; Chickasaw Creek, $5,000; Alabama River $75,000; Coosa River, $3,600; Bayou La Batre, $15,000; examinations, surveys and contingencies of the Mobile engineers office, $175000; Tennsee River (Tennessee, Alabama, Kentucky), $494,000.

Border Planting

A practical solution to the erosion problem on field and woodland borders in the Soil Conservation area near here is being provided by planting these borders to erosion-resisting types of vegetation which will furnish food and cover for wildlife, according to James H. Wood, Superintendent.

Studies by biologists in erosion-control areas throughout the Southeast are showing that where woodland adjoins cultivated areas, the field crop is less than 50 percent normal for an average width of 33 feet along the edge of the field. There is considerable variation depending upon the size of the trees.

Such areas lacking in vegetable cover erode easily and are unprofitable for growing cultivated crops, owing to competition with tree roots for food and the moisture. When planted to vegetation that provides food and cover for wildlife, they furnish ideal habitats for the birds and other forms of farm wildlife because of adjoining woodland cover and waste foods in the field.

Lespedeza sericiea is especially valuable for planting along field borders, since it is sufficiently hardy to withstand the use of such areas as turn rows. Partridge peas, annual lespedza and brown-top millet are among the annuals which furnish valuable wildlife feed and cover in such locations, Mr. Wood said.

Preparation Of Land For Kudzu

Early preparation of land on which kudzu is to be planted this winter is an important factor in getting good results with this fast growing plant, according to James H. Wood of the Soil Conservation Service area near here.

In the local area this winter approximately 250 acres will be planted to kudzu to control erosion and furnish forage where needed to supplement the farm feed supply, Mr. Wood said.

These plantings will be made in perennial strips on critical areas in cultivated fields and on marginal land.

In preparing land for field planting, Service workers recommend laying off rows 12 to 16 feet apart by breaking a strip approximately five feet wide. After plowing a deep furrow, apply 2 or three tons of manure per acre, if available, and the equivalent of 16 percent phosphate in the furrows. Then throw six furrows to the row to form a low, flat bed. After these beds are well settled by rain, plants may be set in the beds.

Proper land preparation, care in the planting, proper fertilization and first-year cultivation are essential to obtaining a good stand and growth of kudzu, results in the local area have demonstrated. Early land preparation is especally important at this time, since plants should be set only in well-settled beds.

Soil Conservation Service workers will be glad to give farmers additional information regarding planting methods which have resulted in successful kudzu plantings in the local area, Mr. Wood said.

Cotton Growers Demand Additional Pay

An Estimated Billion Dollars Needed To Bring Parity

Auburn—Three leading Alabama farmers, chosen by their fellow farmers to represent them in agricultural matters, were among the cotton grower group which last week petitioned Congress for an additional billion dollars in benefit payments to guarantee farmers a parity income.

Alabama members of the growers group which has been meeting with the Agricultural Adjustment Administration are T. H. Martin, Gordo, chairman of the State AAA Committee; Howard Gray, New Market, president of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation and W. B. Crawley, Banks, president of the Georgia-Florida-Alabama Peanut Association and a member of the AAA Committee.

The grower representatives estimated in resolutions that a billion dollars would be needed, in addtiion to the $500,000,000 already appropriated, to bring parity income for the farm crops.

The resolutions proposed a method of reducing the supply of Federal Loan cotton by suggesting that part of the 11,600,000 bales now in Government hands be turned back to growers who agreed to reduce their production lower than control limits. The resolutions also asked that 1,500,000 bales of the loan cotton be turned over to the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation to be processed and distributed to the needy.

The returning of loan cotton to farmers who would reduce still further their cotton acreage was first advocated by Senator John H. Bankhead at the annual convention of the American Farm Bureau Convention in New Orleans last month.

Growers pointed out that they were not selfish in their demands but sincerely believed that unless additonal money was obtained either processing taxes or otherwise farm income would be extremely low and that businesss and industry would feel the effects along with farm people.

CORN AND LEGUMES

Plant corn and legumes in separate parts of the field this year and see if the corn yield is not improved. With a fairly god growing season and good soil, agricultural workers say it will be increased.

VOTED FOR TOBACCO QUOTA

A total of 120 Alabama farmers voted in the flue-cured tobacco referendum on December 10 and 112 of them voted for marketing quotas. However, the vote of the entire tobacco sections was not favorable by the two-thirds vote. Covington County led in the number voting.

MANY ACRES UNPRODUCTIVE

Even with the best farming practices, 18 percent of the present crop land in the United States—about 7,000,000 acres—is too poor or for other reasons not adapted, for profitable crop production, according to the 1938 Yearbook of Agriculture "Soils and Men".

Hogged Off Peanuts Good Soil Building

Headland—Peanuts that are hogged off and good crop rotations have a very similar effect on land and the succeeding crop yield as that of vetch, says J. P. Wilson, superintendent of the Wiregrass substation of the Alabama Experiment Station.

In experiments at the Headland station Mr. Wilson obtained 14 bushels of corn where it was planted continuously without fertilizer. On the same land with a two-year rotation of corn and peanuts hogged off he obtained 34.6 bushels of corn.

"Experiments show that peanuts hogged off over a period of years will give a yield of corn equal to legumes," he says.

Helping Seeds Along

VEGETABLE and flower seeds have but one aim in life, and that is to grow and reproduce. When seeds purchased from reputable firms do not germinate as they should, we are reasonably safe in assuming that conditions are not favorable for growth, or that the seeds were not planted properly

The importance of planting seeds as deep or as shallow as directed on packets cannot be over-emphasized. To bury a tiny seed, like that of the petunia, under an inch of soil, is like burying a man under a twenty-floor building and asking him to push it away

Extremely small seeds must be covered only very lightly, as directed. If they are planted too deep, it may take the seed sprout so long to get to the surface that the top soil will have caked, thus preventing the sprout from emerging.

If heavier seeds, like peas, beans, corn, cucumber and others are planted too shallow, lateral roots may be burned off by the sun and the plants made incapable of surviving the hot summer months. But they must not be planted too deep, any more than tiny seeds, for similar difficulties will beset them if there is too much soil over them.

If seeds do not germinate in a normal length of time, and they have been properly planted in the proper season, several things may have happened. Abnormally heavy rains may have kept the soil so moist the seeds have rotted. After a reasonable length of time, dig up a few seeds and examine If they are rotted, replant.

During exceptionally hot and dry weather, seeds may not germinate because of lack of moisture. One can only wait for rain, or water artificially

During unusually cold weather, germination is often delayed. More time must be allowed.

If a very hot sun has caked the soil, it may be necessary to prick the soil with a rake to help the seedlings through.

"The South Self Contained" Is Depicted In Animated Exhibit

New York World's Fair Preview On Wheels During Tour Of The South; Coming Here Feb. 15

The South, as a self-contained unit, has been made the basis of one section of the New York World's Fair 1939 Preview on Wheels and Southern Motorcade, scheduled to arrive in the South shortly.

The subject of self-containment for the South is receiving increased attention on the part of those concerned with its economic future.

One of the South's big industries contributing to such self-containment is the chemical industry. Establishment of a domestic nitrate industry has brought many benefits to Southern farmers in the form of improved quality standards and lower nitrate costs, and has made America independent of foreign supplies of this valuable fertilizer.

U. S. Census Bureau figures show that the Southern States are gaining in population twice as fast as all the rest of the country. Economists have been quick to point to these figures as evidence that industrial expansion in the South in the past decade has been responsible in no small measure for the gain in population and opportunity in the South. The chemical industry, widely hailed as the great industry of the future, has located many important units in the South in the last ten years. The production of Arcadian Nitrate, alone, has contributed, directly and indirectly, millions of dollars annually to the payrolls of Southern workers and added thousands of carloads of freight to the traffic over Southern sairoads. It has also been a principal factor in bringng about lower nitrate costs, improved quality standards and greater yield to Southern farmers. Southern farmers. Southern leaders agree that this industrial activity and its further increase in the coming years, will go far in helping the South achieve its economic destiny.

The New York World's Fair 1939 Preview on Wheels and Southern Motorcade, sponsored by the dstributors of Arcadian Nitrate, and officially approved by the New York World's Fair, will therefore be of particular interest to those concerned with the agricoltural and economic advancement of the South. It depicts in graphic, animated form the manufacture and, distribution of Arcadian Nitrate and the apportionment of "The Home Folks' Dollar".

Models of the famous Theme Center of the Fair, the Trylon and the Perisphere, are presented in diorama form, together with the Fair's sky-line and the visiting crowds. The presentation, augmented by a lecturer and motion pictures is both educational and entertaining.

PATCH NOT A PASTURE

The sooner farmers realize that a patch of grass is not a pasture and that for a good pasture the grass and other plants need plant food just as cotton or corn the sooner will Alabama have beter grazing for livestock, says J. C. Lowery, extension agronomisa.

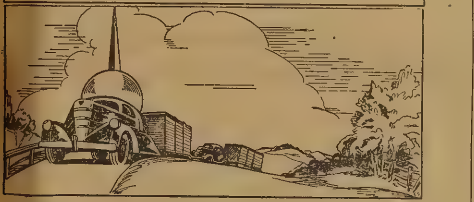
The World's Fair At Your Door

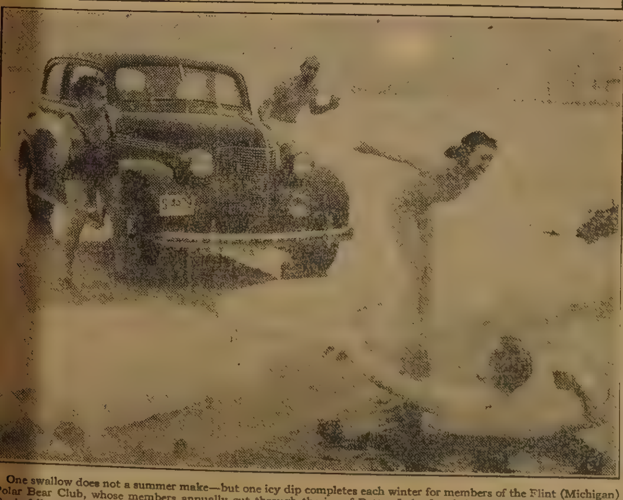


Millions of miles will be covered by visitors who travel from all parts of the nation to the New York World's Fair, and additional millions of miles will be traversed inside the Fair grounds, where 156 specially designed passenger buses will be in operation to take tourists on sightseeing trips.

To those, however, who see the New York World's Fair 1939 Pre-View on Wheels and Southern Motorcade, now touring the South, there is no need to travel, for this advance showing comes to a stop at 368 Southern communities for all to view. Over more than 11,000 miles of Southern highways, the cavalcade will bring its story of the Fair, presented in large-scale diorama form.

Officially approved by the New York World's Fair, and sponsored by the distributors of Arcadian Nitrate, the American Soda, the exhibit presents models of the Fair's Theme Center, with its famous Trylon and Perisphere; the buildings: state, national and international; the visiting crowds, and a scientific exhibit of the distribution of Arcadian Nitrate, the American Soda. With floodlights thrown against a 60 foot background panorama on canvas, the entire exhibit becomes vivid, dramatic and realistic; a foretaste of what the World's Fair has to offer.

Polar Bear 'Cub' Gets Chilly Initiation



One swallow does not a summer make—but one icy dip completes each winter for members of the Flint (Michigan) Polar Bear Club, whose members annually cut through the ice of Potter Lake for their January swim. Miss Beth Rockafellow, newly pledged member of the Polar Bears, confessed she was thankful for her heated Chevrolet, which she ducked right back into after the dip. The other hardy members shown in the photo are, left to right, Harry McElyea, Lawrence Cook, and Walter Wasurczak.

MORAL ECHOES

W Haskew

While sitting in the grandstand and watching a ball game that was disastrous to our home team, my attention was directed toward a young lady who cheered at the wrong time. When the opposing team would hit the ball of our pitcher this ball fan would shout her approval and I wondered what had come over the girl. Along about the eighth inning she turned to her escort and said, "Isn't our pitcher grand? He hits their bats no matter where they hold them", and then I understood. Her store of baseball knowledge was very limited and she had the idea that the pitrher was trying out his skill in hitting the bats of the strikers. Ignorance causes many a person to cheer at the wrong time. In a town where I was pastor the whiskey forces won in an election and that night they went wild with enthusiasm. They had just about as much knowledge of human life and safety, as did that young lady who cheered when the opposing team hit the ball. They cheered the thing that meant defeat.

The owner of a fruit stand reprimanded his clerk in this language, "Hey, what do you mean by selling those apples," The young man looked astonished and replied, "Why, Sir, ain't they for sale?" "They are not" replied the manager, "them apples were our samples that we carry out to automobile customers." A few times in my life I have selected fruit from a certain quality on display and on reaching home found that the fruit sent up to the parsonage was inferior. Some folks will display their best and sell what is less valuable. Did you ever catch up with a man who put his best peaches on top of the hamper basket? Blessed is that man who will give an honest deal when he makes a sale of any nature. "You have placed all the large berries on top," complaine da lady who was examining the basket. "Yes, Lady," repied the salesman, "that will save you the trouble of hunting for them." Wonder if that is why they are there.

Little Bobby came down stairs and was interrogated by his mother "Did you wash your face?" "Sure," replied the boy. "And your hand?" "Yes'im". "What about your ears, did you wash them?" "Well, Ma," replied Bobby in a judicial manner, "I washed the one that would be next to her." That boy was practicing the common philosophy of human life. Sometimes nice clothes cover an unwashed body. Sometimes we make clean the outside of life when on the inside we are full of dead men's bones. We try to make attractive the side of our life that is the closest to our fellow man.

I had a neighbor who claimed that there was no such thing as pain. Once her little boy fell off the porch and barked his shin on a brick. He set up a yell just ike any other boy woud have done under a like circumstance. His mother came running out to him and began to say, "Why, Truman, you are not hurt and you must stop that crying." The little fellow sobbed out, "No, Mother, I am not hurt, but I am awfully mad." The mother was more astonished and replied, "Mad, and what are you mad about?" The little boy said "I am mad because I am not allowed to feel like I am hurt." When a fellow skins his knee on a brick, it is enough to make him mad when someone comes along to announce to him that it does not hurt. When I hear anyone saying such a thing I know that they have more faith than sense.

My little sister Ruby Mae was a very playful child. She wanted to play at home and abroad. Even in the Sunday School class she had to do a lot of her playing. One Sunday she had been so good that her teacher could not help noticing it and remarked, "Ruby, my dear, you have been a very good girl today." "Yesum," Ruby Mae responded, "I couldn't help it. I've got a stiff neck." And it came to pass that a certain man seemed to reform. We hope that it was reformation in the true sense of the word, but peradventure it could have been that he had rheumatism and many other things that caused him to slow down. Verily, Verily, I say unto you, if you are good just because you have a stiff neck, your goodness fails to merit much favor.

New Salem

Last Sunday was our regular preaching day. We had a large crowd out and hope we can have every Sunday.

Our singing Society met last Sunday afternoon. The weather was kind of bad and kept some away. Although the crowd was small we had a good singing. We had several singers from different places.

The opening song was sung by the Chairman, Dock Harris. Other directors for the afternoon were P. M. Clackler, A. H. Glasscock, E. L. Glasscock, Hilda Smith, Curtis Bean, Agnes Bean and Mr. Robinson. The pianist for the afternoon was Eason Maddox.

We invite everyone to come back next third Sunday.

University—The University of Alabama's Million Dollar Band was the honor musical unit in Gov. Frank Dixon's inaugural parade Monday.

The University musicians, 85 strong, led the parade and later attended the inaugural banquet.

University—Organized recently thru the efforts of the University of Alabama department of journalism and the University extension division was the Alabama High School Press Association.

The purpose of the organization,—made up of six districts ,is to foster interest and improvement in journalistic activities in secondary schools throughout the state.

Nearly six hundre dstudents and faculty advisors attended assemblies held in Birmingham, Decatur, Montgomery, Andalusia Mobile and Tuscaloosa. The members of the University faculty who conducted the meetings are: A. Phillips Beedon, head of the department of journalism; Randolf Fort, assistant professor of journalism; John Huskin, instructor of journalism and J. Russell Boner, instructor in economics.

A press convention is expected to be held annually at the Unversity in the fall under the direction of the department of journalism in conjunction with the University extension division. Each Spring, a public actions contest will be held with publications being classified and rated.

Information concerning the AHSPA will be published in "Alabama Aids", a monthly publication of the University Extension division. The aim of the executive council which is composed of faculty advisors, will be to cooperate with the department of journalism in formulating policies of the organization and promoting the organization and operation of a journalism section in the Alabama Education Association .

COTTON DRIERS

Cotton gins in the South in 1938 operated about half again as many driers as in 1937. The number of driers, 800 in 1938, compares with 550 driers used for conditioning seed cotton during the 1937 season and with 275 driers operated in 1936.

BIRTHDAY DINNER GIVEN FOR FLORENCE STUDENTS

The Y.W.C.A. of Florence State Teachers College was recently host at a birthday dinner for fifty-five students who board in the dormitories and had birthdays in November, December and January.

Each table for the honorees was centered by an angel food cake, upon which burned tiny white tapers and which was circled by leaves of Ivy. The place cards were handmade, and emphasized the color scheme of green and white.

The informal program included a dramatization of the story of the American Beauty Rose, by Clara Frost, of Town Creek, and Estelle Speake, of Moulton; and group singing with Sara Wear of Madison serving as accompanist. The program planned by Margaret Brooke of Fairfield, vesper chairman of the Y.W.C.A., was delightful in evey way.

This birthday dinner was arranged by Kathleen Massey, of Vina, social Y.W.C.A. Chairman, and Mrs. Tom Ingram dietician.

Among the more than fifty present were Mrs. Suth P. Taylor, dean of women; Elmore Sheppard, of Verbena.

Retiring Sheriff J. R. Hardy Writes People

To The Citizens Of Chilton County:

As Sheriff, I am today, January 16, closing out my term of office which you have entrusted me with for the past four years.

I am listing some of the results of our activities while I have served you as Sheriff, but before I mention further of these, I wish to say that should these things seem that we have established a good record, I am giving the citizens of the County due credit for a wholehearted and earnest cooperation from the first day of my official duties through the last.

My jail register will show you that since I have been in office there have been a few more than two thousand offenders committed to jail during my term of office. During this time we have served warrants on approximately six hundred who arranged bond without being committed to jail.

As I recall we have been successful in apprehending all who have committed murder, ravish and such ike offenses.

We have released two hundred sixty seven prisoners to the State Convict Department. There has been quite a number who volunteered their own delivery to the State Convict Department after the Court of Appeals or State Supreme Court sustained the Circuit Division. Many of these were for minor offenses and I hope it shall have been to their advantage in future life, that of finding that crime doesn't pay. We have had legal paper in Civil Courts for more than a thousand. Some from Circuit Court and others from Justice Court, but it is with positive sincerity that I say, although there are many unpleasant tasks for a Sheriff's office to handle, I have found the cooperation from the public, the Court officials, in Circuit, County and Justice, the attorneys, as well as other County heads such as the Educational Department, County Health Department and such like to be so satisfactory that I have found immense pleasure in discharging my duties as your Sheriff.

Due to the fact that a portion of the State became legally Wet, speaking from a liquor and beer standpoint, I received considerable criticism, as did the Sheriffs of other remaining Dry counties; however, the lawyers and Judges of Count yand Circuit Courts were like the Sheriffs to begin with, we were not sure about what was legal in Dry counties in regards to State Store Liquors and beer, but after several rulings from the State Attorney General and decisions from State Court of Appeals and State Supreme Court, I have made a proper effort to check the practice of selling these products in our County.

I wish to use this as one way in which I might express my appreciation to the Circuit Court and all its officials, the County Commissioners, the Probate Judge and his subordinates, the judges of the several justice courts of the County, the Chilton County Bar Association, as well as the public individually for their spendid cooperation.

As we offer these expressions of gratitude to those whom we have worked with we also offer our best wishes to each and every member of the new administration, as we are sincere when we say that we wish you a complete success in your every effort.

Respectfully,
J. R. HARDY.

FUNERAL HELD LAST TUESDAY FOR R. ISOM VARDEN, AGE 73

Complete Conservation Program Being Carried Out Through Soil Conservation Serv

At the close of 1938, a hundred and twenty local farmers were cooperating with the Soil Conservation Service in the erosion-control area near Clanton, by carrying out a complete program of soil and water conservation on their farms, according to James H. Wood, Camp Superintendent.

Comprising some 12,136 acres, these cooperating farms have provided an opportunity to develop and demonstrate under actual farming conditions, practical, locally adapted erosion-control practices applicable throughout this entire section.

Strip cropping, which was virtually an unknown farming practice when the work was begun in the local area 3 years ago, was being established on more than 500 acres at the close of the year. This practice consists of planting alternate broad strips or bands of close growing crops between strips of clean tilled crops to provide vegetable barriers across the path of run-off water.

More than 350 miles of new broad-channel terraces have been built providing mechanical protection for more than 3,350 acres of cultivated land, and contour tillage is being practiced on virtually all of the land in cultivation.

While clean tilled crops are being reduced by more than 1,000 acres, pasture land is being increased by more than 250 acres, permanent hay by more than 500 acres, other erosion-resisting crops by more than 250 acres and approved crop rotations by more th thousand acres.

At the same time 580,000 trees been planted on steep and severely oded land and an additional 870,000 and shrubs have been set out on or unproductive areas to serve the purpose of controlling erosion and viding food and cover for wildlife,
Wood stated.

Berry-Growers Plan Central Marketing Agency

Sewer Project To Get Underway Feb. 2nd

The extension of sewers to the new City territory is expected to get underway February 2, Mayor C. Fenn Jones stated this week.

The project calls for two main lines to be built, one to run east and west in the southern section of the City, and one running in the same direction in the northern section of the City. In fact, extension of the sewers is expected to cover all the latest territory added to the City limits. Completion of the entire project will possibly take one year. Work will begin first on the extension out second avenue and the Selma Highway.

Meanwhile work of laying the pipe line to Yellowleaf Creek, a major part of the new waterworks system, is expected to be completed within a week, according to the Mayor.

Local Kiwanians Observe Anniversary

At the last weekly gathering of the Clanton Kiwanis Club at the Thomason Hotel, a most interesting program was rendered, observing he twenty-fourth anniversary of Kiwanis as an organization, and the twenty-third anniversary of the Club as an international organization.

Kiwanian John Hollis talked on the work and purpose of Kiwanis, how the organization started, etc. His talk was very interesting.

The local Club is, this year, planning to organize at least one club in a nearby town. Some discussion was held regarding this.

School Health Exams. Nearing Completion

The annual program of school health examinations by the County Health Department was nearing completion, according to a report by the County Health Officer. Each year pupils of the first, third, and fifth grades are given a brief physical examination which includes weighing, measuring, vision testing, and inspection of the eyes, ears, teeth throat and cervical glands. Children suspected of being "hard of hearing" by the teacher are given a hearing test and otoscopic examination. A leter listing the physical defects discovered in each child is sent to the parent with a recommendation that the child be carried to the family physician or dentist for advice. During the current school year a total of 1,281 children have received this examination.

"What we are trying to do in our schools," stated Dr. S. D. Sturkie, County Health Officer, "is to promote the correction of physical defects. The mere performance of an examination does not benefit the child unless the parent then becomes interested in doing something about it. There is a great need, however, for facilities to assist parents who lack the money with which to pay the cost of getting defects corrected. I hope that in the future we will have some way of doing this in Chilton County."

The placing of scales for weighing children in each school in the County is being advocated by the Health Department. This plan, according to the Health Officer, is much more beneficial from a health standpoint than having the Health Officer take scales to the school and weigh the child once every two years. Weighing at least once a month is essential, he pointed out.

JOINT MEETING OF PILOTS AND KIWANIANS

PILOT CLUB WILL MEET WITH KIWANIS CLUB NEXT THURSDAY NIGHT; ANNUAL AFFAIR

The annual joint meeting of the Clanton Pilot Club and the Clanton Kiwanis Club will be held tonight, (Thursday) at 7:30 at the Thomason Hotel, according to Dr. C. O. Lawrence, Chairman of the Inter-Club Relations Committee of the Kiwanis Club. The meeting will be the regular luncheon of the Kiwanis Club.

This annual affair, when the two outstanding civic clubs—one comprising business and professional men of the City, and the other made up of leading women business and civic leaders—get together, is looked forward to as one of the most outstanding gatherings of the year.

The program to be rendered has not been announced as definite, but is expected to be mostly musical. Civic problems of interest to the City and County will mostly likely be disussed by the two clubs.

All members of both organizations are urged by their respectve presidents to be present.

THORSBY INSTITUTE GRADS ARE MEMBERS OF WADLEY TEAM

William Sharp, of Clanton, and Robert Weems, graduate of Thorsby Institute, are members of the Southern Union College basketball squad that defeated the strong Marion Institute Cadets Saturday night by a score of 28-18.

Sharp is forward and Weems plays the pivot position on the Wadley college squad that has also romped over Piedmont College and Virgil Truck's Dr. Pepper teams since Christmas, while losing only to the strong Jacksonville State Teachers and Oklahoma Indians team. Both are sophomores.

Mrs. Horace Popwell and daughter, Aileen, motored to Birmingham Saturday for the day.

Douglas Martin Injured In Wreck

Douglas Martin, of near Jemison, was seriously injured last Monday afternoon when his touring car overturned in the middle of the road near the Oak Grove Church above Jemison.

A Martin & Sons ambulance was called and brought the injured man to the Central Alabama Hospital here. His condition was at first considered grave, but latest reports stated that he was considerably improved.

The accident occurred on a country road leading from the Oak Grove Church, not far off the Birmingham-Montgomery Highway. Cause of the accident was not determined.

NOTICE TO SCHOOLS

The Chilton County News is willing at all times to carry the "Who's Who" of any class, but there is one thing that we must request of the class, and that is that all "Who Who" articles be signed by the teacher of the class. In times past, ill feeling has arisen, due to the fact that persons named resented the title they were given. In other words, the "Who's Who" was not voted on or its publication authorized by the entire class.

We respectfully ask that this be kept in mind and that all such articles for publication be signed by the teacher of the class from which the "Who's Who" is chosen.

WILL BE HELD AT CITY HALL AUDITORIUM

TUESDAY AFTERNOON, JANUARY 31, HAS BEEN SET AS DATE FOR BENEFIT GAME

Not often in the lives of man comes a chance to help his fellowman as comes to the citizens of Clanton and Chilton County this next week in a drive to raise money to stamp out the dread Infantile Paralysis. Of course it is not the plan of the committee to urge anyone to do more than he is able to do, but let us all strain a point and see if we can't put Chilton County over the top in this drive that means so much to those that are so dear and important in our lives—our children.

The commitee has chosen as the means to raising our part in this nation-wide drive against this plague, a benefit bridge to be held at the City Hall Auditorium on the afternoon of January 31, 1939. Admission will be only fifty cents to those who will be good enough to help, but look what that fifty cents will mean multiplied a million times over these United States in fighting this dread disease.

Our committee has planned three prizes to be given away during and after the contest. First will be a grand prize of Ten Dollars in trade at any store in Clanton to the person holding the lucky number. The drawing to be held at the City Hall after the Benefit Bridge and the winner will not be required to be present to win. Second prize will be presented to the winner of high score at the Benefit. The prize is Five Dollars in trade at any store in Clanton. And third prize is Two Dollars and fifty cents in trade given as cut prize to participants in the Benefit.

Tckets are on sale at the following stores: Alred Drug Company; Calloway Drug Company; Upchurch Drug Store, and by the following individuals: Mr. and Mrs. Joe Mullins, Mr. and Mrs. Claudie Pipes, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Parrish, Mr. and Ms. Omar Reynolds, and Raymond Mims at the Thomason Hotel.

City Officers Pick Up Stolen Auto

Night Officers W. A. Willis and B.R. Plyler are due credit for a piece of good work here Wednesday night, January 18, when they apprehended a youth driving a car he had stolen in Oklahoma City.

The officers here received a telephone call about 6:20 P.M., from Siluria, Alabama, and were informed that a man had secured gas at the Johnson Service Station at Siluria, and had driven off without paying for it. A description of the car was given them—a Dodge coupe with a Missouri tag—and they proceeded to be on the lookout for the car described.

Before very long the car was seen approaching, so Officers Willis and Plyler lost no time in blocking the highway, and the youth, who gave his name a Ralph Wilbert Johns, was placed under arrest and lodged in the county jail.

The car bore the drivers license of Dr. W. M. Korth, as owner. A federal officer came down one day this week and carried the youth away to face a federal auto theft act charge. All he could be charged with in this county was petit larceny.

TWO BASKETBALL GAMES ARE SCHEDULED FOR JEMISON SOON

The Jemison High School "Panthers" will take on the strong Corner "Yellow Jackets" at Jemison, Friday night, January 27, at 7:30 o'clock.

Next Tuesday night, January 31, Jemison will play the Marion Institute "Bees" from Marion, Alabama. Both games promise to be among the best of the season.

FOURTEEN PLACED IN JAIL DURING WEEK OF JANUARY 16-23

Rare Honors Being Accorded Congressman Pete Jarman By His Washington Colleagues

Congressman Pete B. Jarman, Jr., of the Sixth District of Alabama, has been one of the most active and wide-awake members of the House of Representatives ever to enter the Capitol doorway, and the honors bestowed on him during the short term he has served there—three years—has never before been equaled by a Congressman with this short period of service in Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. Jarman were honored greatly several days ago when they were invited to attend the Annual State Dinner given by the President for the Vice President. This was one of the most outstanding social affairs given at the White House during the year, and only Congressmen, National leaders and close friends of the President with many years of service to their credit were extended invitations to attend.

The latest honor to come to Mr. Jarman was his being named as Chairman of the Committee on Printing. Mr. Jarman will, without a doubt, also be a member of the Joint Committee on Printing. This Committee directs the publication of the Congressional Record, the Congressional Directory and other official publications of the Congress. Furthermore it has supervision over the Government Printing Office, which is widely known as the largest printing establishment in the world.

Mr. Jarman's office is in the Main Capitol building, and some comment has occurred among old-timers to the

Clanton Study Club Expresses Appreciation For Cooperation In Distributing Xmas Toys

The Education Committee of the Clanton Study Club, Mrs. L. C. Ross, chairman, initiated the movement of playing Santa Claus to the underprivileged, of the County, by sending out a call for discarded toys, clothing and articles of usefulness to be received, renovated and presented to the underprivileged of the community.

This call met with a magnificent response. The County Health Office, through the kindness of Dr. S. D. Sturkie, became a receiving station, where individuals brought their gifts. Members of the Kiwanis Club collected the toys and took them to the CCC Camp. Here the class in Woodcraft, under the skillful guidance of Mr. Horton Walker, instructor, transformed old, battered, drab toys into bright, scintillating objects. The class worked magic by ingenious use of tiny nails, screws, bits of wire and a great deal of gaily colored paint. Mr. W. D. Bell of the Murray-Bell Hardware contributed most generously of paints for redecorating the toys.

After the renovation was perfected, members of the Kiwanis Club delivered the baskets of attractive toys, and warm clothing to homes where there was a very slim Santa Claus. Over three car loads of gifts went forth to gladden hearts where hope was the mainstay of life. All who participated in the realization of this beautiful thought will want to see it become an annual event.

Clanton's Swimming Pool

Clanton, on the Birmingham and Montgomery highway, is at last building, with Federal aid, a good water system and is also getting a fine new high school building to replace the one recently destroyed by fire, for want of water.

Now they are applying for aid to build a large swimming pool as soon as the water system is finished, and judging from the past she will likely get it.

Haleyville has a fine scenic 16-acre park in which is situated its water works with a 200,000 gallon concrete underground water reservoir and it has a nice branch of clear water running the length of the park. This was all built and paid for by our city. No effort has been made to get any Federal aid to build a large swimming pool and to beautify the park and build approaches from the Muscle Shoals and Birmingham State highway, which passes at its head and inside the city limits.

For $5,000.00 in cash or service we could have gotten a grant of $20,000, which would have given us a scenic park unequalled in the state.—Haleyville Advertiser.

The Danger Signal!

If House Bill No. 72, now before the State Legislature, should pass and become a law, as introduced, it could easily become the entering wedge that later on might lead to the taking of local self government out of the hands of the citizens of every county and municipality in the State.

Every Legislator should scrutinize this bill closely before casting his vote.

Dixon Praises ABC

In his first message to the Legislature, Governor Dixon praised only one department of the State government—operation of the State monopoly system of liquor control. He said:

"Alabama has been exceedingly fortunate in the operation of the state monopoly system of liquor control. Nearly all of the changes which are essential can be made administratively. The most necessary changes are to bring about a tightening of the administration of the license provisions of the law, and to supply a greater degree of enforcement to dry counties. This can be done administratively, and will be done.

"Suggestions as to minor amendments to the law will be made later, if deemed advisable."

Sobering Statistics

The fact that whisky and gasoline make a deadly combination is brought home to the motorist with added emphasis by figures just released by the Birmingham Traffic Bureau on the city's fatal motor accidents of the past year.

Of the 30 drivers involved in such accidents 11, or more than one out of every three, were under the influence of liquor at the time.

Swift and certain punishment for every drunken driver will go a long way toward combating this menace to public safety provided that punishment is harsh enough. But the courts and vigilant officers cannot do the job alone. Public sentiment which will hold every drunken driver up to scorn must be brought to their support.

We cannot afford to take lightly so serious a threat to the safety of every man, woman and child who must ride or cross a public highway.—Birmingham Post.

What They Say:

"There is too much government in our Nation and in our States. There is too much concentration of power in few hands. There is too much machinery between those that govern and those that are governed. Every citizen should have a practical access to the officers who exercise authority over him." —Gov. Navigation To Be Resumed At Guntersville

Gates of Guntersville Dam, shown above, closed today and the 66,000-acre reservoir began to fill. The fourth water control project of the Tennessee Valley Authority, the dam is nearly 4000 feet long.

The reservoir level is to be high enough in about two weeks for the resumption of navigation, which has been suspended for the last month.

Filling of Guntersville reservoir, Alabama, fourth TVA water control project to be completed, began Monday morning, January 16, when the 18 gates were closed.

Guntersville reservoir, 82 miles long, will submerge the low Widow's Bar Dam, about 60 miles upstream. This timber-crib, rock-filled structure is to be removed by U.S. Engineers through contract with the Authority. Meanwhile, boats can pass it by using the old lock.

The completion of the Guntersville project makes the Tennessee River immediately navigable by boats of 6-foot draft as far upstream as Chattanooga, 464 miles from its mouth. Immediately above the new reservoir is the privately owned Hales Bar Dam which continues the channel to Chattanooga. Below Guntersville, in order are TVA's Wheeler, Wilson and Pickwick Landing Dams. The final downstream dam, Gilbertville, is under construction. The lmiting depths are principally in the uncanalized section below Pickwick Landing Dam.

At normal elevation Guntersville reservoir will cover approximately 66,000 acres, of which some 12,000 was formerly river bed. It will impound a total of 951,400 acre-feet of water, including 393,300 acre-feet of controlled storage that may be available for flood control. Lying between portions of the Appalachian plateau, the new lake will provide unusual scenic attractions.

The project brings into use a mile long levee built to protect the town of Guntersville, a dock for the transfer of bulk commodities between water and land carriers, a state highway bridge raised for navigation clearance, and water filteration and sewage pumping plants at Guntersville.

MORAL ECHOES

D W. Haskew

Courtesy is becoming less evident in the contacts of life. We are rarely ever as thoughtful and courteous as the man who was jabbed in the eye by a woman who carried her parasol on a rainy day. On feeling the pull of her parasol as she withdrew the rib from the man's eye, she turned to him and said—"Pardon me Sir." The injured man lifted his hat and replied—"Don't mention it Madame, I still have one eye left." The most of us would have read to the woman a lesson of sauerkraut.

The phone rang and the lady of the house answered it. I listened in to half of the conversation without any fault of mine and it sounded like honey and sugar mixed. When the phone call was over the lady returned to the room and said to her husband—"That was another invitation from Mrs. Borelight to one of her bothersome socials." The husband wanted to know if she did not excuse herself, but I knew otherwise for I had heard her say—"O, darling, that is so nice of you, and I accept with pleasure." That was another form of courtesy and yet one hard to be endured.

One day Mr. Meekelton confessed to his pastor—"Doctor, I forgot myself the other day and spoke angrily to my wife." The preacher waited a moment and then inquired—"How did she take it? Did she resent it?" There was another moment of waiting and then the husband replied—"At first Henrietta did resent it, but Doctor, she is a very fair minded woman and after reflection she shook hands with me and congratulated me on my bravery." It sounded like most anything could have happened, but that was courtesy and thoughtfulness of still another kind. There are many ways in which courtesy can get us out of a difficult situation.

Two Irishmen met on the street the next morning after a neighbor's house had gone up in flames the night before. Mike inquired of Toney—"Did Mr. Snapshire take his misfortune like a man?" Toney replied—"Faith and bedad, he did. He blamed it all on his wife." That is like a man.

While widow Watts bent over her wash-tub and scrubbed away, Rastus approached her and engaged her in conversaton. No time was lost and soon Rastus was talking about matrimony. He vowed his love and then proposed to her. Mandy pulled the rainbow out of her back and then looking him in the eye she said—"Am yo shore Rastus, that ye love me?" The man again vowed his deepest affection. There was silence for a few moments and then Mandy doubled back at her task replying—"It sounds mighty like to me dat ye am lost your job, or dat ye don't want one." One day I met a man who was in his thirties strolling around on the streets. I said to him—"Bonner, have you lost your job," He replied—"No, I quit it." Then he said—"The old o'man is working in the mill and we are getting along nicely." Some folks should be made to work.

It is rather amusing sometimes to hear the mixing and mingling of sentences. We become confused or excited and we say things backward. A newly married couple came running in to surprise the family and announced—"Mary and I ran over the preacher and we married him." A young preacher came home from college and was going to preach at his home church. Very solemnly he announced his text—"The cock crow and Peter went out and wept bitterly." In a moment he came back to his text and this time he said—"The cock wept and Peter went out and crow." He knew that was not right and so he made another dive at it—"No I mean that Peter Crow and the cock went out and wept bitterly." Then he said—"My friends, I seem to be confused about this text, but I do know that there was crowing and there was weeping going on at the same time."

Speaking of mixing up our thoughts and phrases that reminds me of what took place when a strange woman entered a church and seated herself in the wrong pew. The usher went to her and said—"Will you marden me padam but you are occupewing the wrong pie. Please allow me to sew you to another sheet." My tickle box has been turned topsy-turvey many a time as I have listened to mixed phrases.

ARMY RESERVES WANTED

o

Colonel Frederick A. Prince, Field Artillery, Recruiting Officer, U. S. Army, Room 519, Post Office Building, Montgomery, Alabama, announced today that the War Department is desirous of having the newly organized branch of the National Defense The Regular Army Reserve, brought up to full strength of 75,000 as rapidly as possible.

Ex-Soldiers under 36 years of age are now offered an opportunity of enlisting in the Reserve in the grade held at time of discharge from the Regular Army and Reservists already enlisted will be promoted to the grade held by them at time of discharge.

Colonel Prince advises that it is much to the interest of all ex-soldiers under 36 years of age to take the advantage of this opportunity, and to remain with the service on an inactive status. Recruiting Stations where enlistment may be secured are located in the Post Office Building, Montgomery, Dothan, Gadsden, Birmingham and Decatur, Alabama; Memphis, Jackson, Nashville and Knoxville, Tennessee. Ex-Soldiers who reside near a Regular Army Post also secure enlistment by reporting to that post.

Regular Army Reserve Will Be Recruited

Major General Stanley D. Embick from Army Headquarters at Atlanta announces that the Regular Army Reserve will be recruited up to 75,000 men immediately according to instructions just received from the War Department, Washington, D. C.

A change in the regulations which permits the enlistment of Reservists in the grade held upon discharge from the Regular Army will greatly increase the number of enlistments, according to Military authorities at Fourth Corps Area Headquarters. Reservists already enlisted will be promoted to the grade held by them on discharge without request.

All prior service men are urged to contact at once the nearest Recruiting Station or Army Post or write to the Commanding General, Fourth Corps Area, Post Office Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., for detailed information.

FORMER "TOP KICK" AT CCC NOW WITH ANNISTON AIRPORT

Paul G. Meadows came to Company 3481 with the original cadre from the Bessemer, Alabama CCC Camp. His ability to work and lead other enrollees was recognized at once. When the S.C.S. work crews went to the field he was appointed leader.

A vacancy occurred, and he was made the "Top Kick" of his Company, and any member can tell you that being "Top Kick" or Senior Leader is far from easy. But Paul Meadows made good at once.

Length of service finally got Paul, and he left the Corps. However he carried the best of recommendations with him. This happened to be "an honorable discharge" and "an excellent rating by the S.C.S. Superintendent.

Mr. Meadows paid the Camp a visit recently, and proudly informed the staff that he had a good job. He is connected with the airport at Anniston, Alabama, and is another man that is proud to have been a CCC boy, and the CCC is proud of men like him.

Jemison Bows To Clanton in First Game

One of themost thrilling ball games of the season was played between Jemison "Panthers" and the Chilton County High Tigers last Friday night on the latter's court.

The Tigers are to be congratulated on the fine sportsmanship shown at the game. Although the Panthers were defeated by a score of 20-11, they went down smiling.

On Saturday night Jemison High defeated Calera High by the score of 39-17, and the Jemison Independent team nosed out Buck Creek by a score of 31-30 in a game that took two over time periods to decide.

Tuberculosis Eradicating

Dr. E. A. Wright, Federal Bureau of Animal Industry, says that by the time another winter rolls around we will have accomplished what—20 years ago—many farmers said would never happen. In fact, even some experts themselves had their doubts. But by the first of next November—if things continue to move as they have been—the whole United States (with its 48 states, and three thousand and some counties, and several million cattle herds) will be practically free from bovine tuberculosis.

State Health Dept. Urges Support Of 'March Of Dimes'

Montgomery—Alabamians were urged today by Dr. J. N. Baker, State Health Officer, to take part in the "financial enlistment" of friends of childhood in the annual campaign against poliomelytis, or infantile paralysis, which is now under way and will reach its climax next Monday evening, when birthday balls will be held the country over for the raising of additional funds for the support of the year-round campaign against this crippling disease.

"Ninety-nine cases of poliomelytis were reported to the State Department of Health last year, and 13 deaths were attributed to it in this State during the first 11 months of the year," he said. "These figures, forunately, are considerably lower than those for the epidemic year 1936, but they are sufficiently high to show that this disease still constitutes a health problem in Alabama, as it does the country over. It is hoped that Alabama people will do their par in the raising of funds needed for this important work."

WESSLEYAN COLLEGE, MACON, "OLD SOUTH" ESSAY CONTEST

Macon, Ga.—The Old South—its Confederate traditions, its generals, its statesmen, its women—will be brought back to life in an essay contest now being sponsored by Wessleyan College of Macon, Georgia, and open to high school students throughout the South.

Contestants will seek material for their essays in molded family albums, in dusty wills, or perhaps n cemeteries where tombstones and epitaphs tell interesting stories of Civil War days, Dr. S. L. Akers, dean at Wessleyan, said in announcing the contest recently.

The writer of the best essay will receive full tuition to Wessleyan for one year under a scholarship provided by Dorothy Blount Lamar, president general of the United Daughters of the Confederacy.

The essay scholarship, available to students in Tennessee, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, and Alabama, is one of two groups of scholarships offered each year by the Georgia college.

Two scholarships are offered to high school seniors who rank highest in a competitive examination given each year by the college.

February 15 has been set as the deadline for the mailing of applications in the essay and competitive examination contests, Wesleyan authorities have announced. Complete information regarding the time and place of the contests has been sent to high school principals throughout the South.

Howard Oden Has Fine Record As Commissioner From 2nd District

The Commissioners Court records have been audited for the four years up to the first of last October. In the audits made not one cent has been charged back to Oden. He bought thousands of feet of lumber and not one bill has been figured wrong. This is quite a record.

Oden states his record is not due to his ability alone but the fine cooperation he has received from the Court clerk and others connected with the Commissioners Court

He improved several miles of roads under his supervision.

He was free to express his own convictions on matters which came before the Commissioners Court.

As a member of Commissioners Court and also department of Public Welfare he rendered valuable service.

Study Club Urges Support Of Bill

Citizens of Alabama are urged by the Study Club of Clanton to join with them in promoting the passage of a bill now before the State Senate, said bill introduced by Senator Crumpton of Clay County, said bill designated as S. 45, and said bill reading as follows:

"Further providing for safety on the highways by making it unlawful for stock to run at large on highways, and to provide for taking up of stray stock."

Below appear resolutions adopted by the Study Club in an effort to influence public opinion to see the need and wisdom of enacting the above bill.

WHEREAS: The women of Alabama as public spirited citizens and humanitarians, are vitally interested in the preservation of every human life, whether it be on the high seas or on the highways, and,

WHEREAS: Alabama is one of the four states, permitting the horrible danger of livestock to wander aimlessly over her highways, proving daily a blood-curdling menace to tourists, and,

WHEREAS: Alabama's invitation to travel her splendid highways presupposes an atmosphere of safety and protecton, and,

WHEREAS: In reality her catlecluttered highways present a death trap to unsuspecting motorists from more enlightened sections of our great nation, and,

WREREAS: The loss of tourists' money, estimated by a Federal report, in the four offending states at $252,000,000, as contrasted with a livestock industry estimated at $111,000,000, and,

WHEREAS: This sum tripled would not equal one mill, by the comparison of the loss or even the crippling of one human life with its freight of soul,

THEREFORE: Be it resolved. That the women of the Clanton Study Club not only voice their rightful indignant protest, that Alabama is without any general statute barring livestock from her highways, but go on record as condemning the practice of protecting careless owners of horses, mules, hogs, and goats, endangering one human life.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED: That we do hereby express our appreriation to Thomas B. Henry of Washington, President of the A.A.A., for having called the attention of the public to this menace.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED: That these resolutions be spread upon the minutes; a copy forwarded to the local press, to Thomas B. Henry, to Mrs. Sue Moore of the Garden Club of Akron, Alabama, and to our lawmakers, requesting a bill be presented at the sitting of the Legislature calling for immediate action.

—Mrs. John Mullins, Mrs. N.S. Johnson, Mrs. Frank Scott, Civic Committee. Mrs. Hugh Jones, Parliamentarian.

KUDZU

What perennial plant can we grow in Chilton County that will make a hay equal to alfalfa.

A plant of this kind is badly needed to provide hay for present farm needs and for possible expansion of livestock enterprises. A hay plant is needed which does not have to be seeded every year on prepared seed beds. Kudzu, a perennial legume, comes nearer meeting this requirement for Alabama than any other crop.

As a hay crop, it has the further advantage that it does not have to be mowed at an exact time as is the case with alfalfa, soybeans, cowpeas, and other crops.

Kudzu can be grazed a few hours each day during periods when the permanent pasture may be poor because of drought.

Kudzu is the best plant for this County for setting on hills, road banks, and gullies to control erosion, and for establishing meadow strips. Thousand of acres of land which are not yielding any returns at present and which in many cases are eroding badly and filling streams, could be changed to profit-paying acres by establishing kudzu.

Personal Comments

By Gad

Some may accuse me of being a gossip gleaner, but I am only a close observer . . .

We're still hearing comments (and I do mean favorable ones) about the Duke-Foss dance. Someone said that there was good music, pretty women, sympathetic stags, lovely decorations and all that was topped by delicious eats . . . We'll soon be getting greetings from Mexico, 'cause the Smiths and Alreds have left us for a while. How alluring the Southern, or should we say Western, climate is . . . We hear that we're losing the Ivys—such a cute couple and Vivian and Chester How can anyone be married will certainly miss them, but they'll get along . . . How can anyone be married so long and not tell anyone. Well, that's what John and Ruth did. Congratulations, you two. And talking about marriage, rumors are that as soon as school bells quit ringing, wedding bells will start ringing for Nell and Crayton. Now don's say 'Nell and Crayton who?' 'cause you've seen that handsome brunette and that cute little blonde who park on the corner uptown and watch other lovers drive by . . . Talking about school bells, it reminds me of those new C.C.H.S. class rings the Seniors are "sporting"—have you seen one? . . . Betty Jones has let it fall—no, not a cake—her hair. Why, Betty, with "Vogue" saying "up", why did you . . . and the Alreds decided on a Ford. At least it'll go faster . . . I want you all to ride in "Pop's" new car. It's just like floating—but maybe it's the speed . . . the Callen's are getting all "hemmed" in but it looks pretty—the fence I mean . . . All the kids are wondering why "Pumpkin" Bradford got a girl's bicycle for Christmas—Maybe Santa didn't know . . . . With a new water tank going up, we all feel better about using a tub full of water for a bath . . .. Mrs. Omar Reynolds likes costume jewelry, but don't we all? . . . The Calloways are on another building spree, but we Clanton citizens rejoice because it makes us grow—maybe not 'tall' but it makes us grow . . . Now who was it that said James Daniels had pretty dimples. We all agree . . . Since all the college students are back in school we're resting up from Christmas and just wondering what they'll plan for Easter . . . If only little James Heflin Taylor were older—gosh, but he'd get a rush . . . So many people are talking about Henry Stanley. Oh, but I mean the baby (his name is "Henry", isn't it?) We must engage him in another conversation soon 'cause he's awfully cute . . . These young folks who love good music, for example: Helen Moore, Guy Lois Dickey and others, they went to hear Joseph Szigeti in Montevallo recently. He's a violinist and maybe some of you didn't know, I hang my head in shame when I say that I didn't know either . . . and the young girls don't "window shop" for tires at Billingsley's on the corner, any more—and why—'cause the cute little brunette clerk isn't there now . . . The garages are certainly putting their wreckers to use as a result of rain and torn up streets. We'll soon give up even trying to drive out cars . . . Give these women a tall hat and they're in "seventh heaven" but confidentially, I think they're cute . . . Dr. Gowan, the youngest of "Gowan, Gowan and Gowan", is leaving, or is he? . . . And with Mr. Pitts a representative, "Lump" and Jane will probably be having more fun in Montgomery. "Lump" took in the inauguration, didn't she? . . . Where's little Sue Ann Powers? We haven't been seeing her dance lately . . . And wasn't it Robert Quillen who said "It isn't the fatherly hug of an old guy that girls resent—it's the fact that he doesn' feel fatherly" . . .

Take your feelings off you sleeve and I'll see you again next week . . .

BY GAD.

Miss Newell Entertains

On January 20, Miss Doris Newell entertained a small group of friends with a supper.

Those present were: Roscoe Shirley, Jane Martin, Frederic Pritchard, Eugenia Newton, Carl Foss, Josephine Stanley and Dempsey Atchison.

After supper the party went to the show.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Crowder visited in Montgomery Monday of this week.

Circle No. 1 Of Baptist W.M.U. Met With Mrs. George Jester

Circle No. One of the Clanton Baptist W.M.U. met Monday afternoon at the home of the Chairman, Mrs. George Jester.

The meeting was called to order by the group giving the watchword and singing the hymn for the year, "I Love To Tell The Story." A very lovely devotional was given by Mrs. Oscar A. Davis, taken from the eleventh Chapter of Luke.

Business was attended to as this was the first circle meeting of the new year. Following the business session a lovely social hour was enjoyed by the following:

Mesdames Oscar A. Davis, J. D. Bell, Clara B. Curry, L. A. Calloway, T. M. Dennis, Grady Heflin, H. A. Harris, George Jester, Marcus Polk, J. M. Shepherd, R. M. Tucker, J. C. Jester and Earl Gray.

Circle Number 4 Of Baptist W.M.U. Met With Mrs. Gragg

Circle Number 4 of the Baptist W.M. U. met Monday afternoon with Mrs. V.J. Gragg.

The meeting was opened with W.M. U.hymn for the year, "I Love To Tell The Story." The watchword, second Cor., 5:14 "The Love Of Christ Constraineth Us," was repeated by the Circle.

Chairman, Mrs. Arthur Willis, presiding, used as her devotional "Opening The Year With God." Plans for the year were made and regular business attended to.

Members present were Mesdames Houston Nivens, Patterson Hicks, J.M. Curlee, P. T. Hinkle, J. T. Rockett, Parker Taylor M. H. Marcus John Robinson, Ben Sims, Milton Smith, Wiley Littlejohn, Bill Fiquette, Leonard Eubanks W. A. Powell D. K. Melton, Arthur Willis, V. J. Gragg and Charles Wade.

Circle Number Five Met With Mrs. Ellis Monday Afternoon

Circle Number Five met with Mrs. John T. Ellis Monday afternoon.

Miss Alice Powell gave a splendid devotional, taken from the 90th Psalm. Everyone who has ever heard Miss Alice knows that she can give the most interesting and inspiring talks on any subject. Everyone enjoyed it very much.

Business was attended to and those present enjoyed the social hour that followed. There were seventeen present.

A banquet is being held at the Clanton Methodist Church next Wednesday. It is hoped that a large crowd will be in attendance.

The Homemakers Class of the Clanton Baptist Church met last Friday at the home of Mrs. Dewey Rockett. A very interesting devotional was given by Mrs. Ada Fant. A brief business session followed and a very lovely social hour was enjoyed by everyone present.

We are so glad to know and report that Mrs. John Mullins has returned home from the hospital. We sincerely hope she will soon be up and out again.

Mrs. Lavolia Stutt spent most of last week with her sister in Birmingham, who was very ill. We are glad to hear she is much better.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Pace of Gadsden were guests this week of Mr. and Mrs. Ramsey.

Mrs. Latham Ellis has been very sick at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mell Martin. We are glad to report she is much better.

George Tucker of Birmingham is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mark L. Tucker.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Barger and Mrs. Bonnie Hand spent Tuesday afternoon in Birmingham.

Teachers Meeting

The Teachers and Officers meeting of the First Baptist Church was well attended. Several very interesting talks were made and O. M. Webb and Mrs. Milton Smith presented a dialogue on "Building A Sunday School" which was very good. The census having been completed Rev. Oscar A. Davis, the pastor, gave the superintendents lists of members and new prospects that might help them to build up their departments. Mr. Webb made several good suggestions, that will help build up the Sunday School.

The Homemakers Class very graciously served a most delightful supper to those attending. Surely these kind of meetings will help the teachers and officers to put forth more effort to have a Standard Sunday School.

Baptist Meeting At Thorsby

The Baptist W.M.U. Associational meeting held in Thorsby last Wednesday was well attended. Reports were made by a representative from each society. The meeting date of the Association was changed from the third Wednesday after the first Sunday to the second Tuesday.

The reports were that most all goals for last year had been met. We hope this year to meet all goals.

A number of very good talks were given and Miss Kathryn Foss rendered a very lovely solo, accompanied by Miss Polk.

The speaker of the day was Mrs. E.P. Jones, of Birmingham. Her devotional was taken from the thirteenth chapter of First Corinthians. Never have we heard a more inspirational message. She brought out in her message the six points we are to work for in our W.M.U. We are sure everyone got a great blessing from this talk.

After Mrs. Jones' message, the meeting adjourned for lunch. A very delightful lunch was served by the ladies of Thorsby Baptist Church.

The meeting was called to order again at one o'clock. Announcements were made and hymns sung. The ladies of Clanton Baptist Church gave a demonstration on the new system of making reports.

Following this demonstration, attendance reports were made and after discussion it was decided upon to hav the Mission Institute on July 5, 6 an 7 this year.

Special classes were held for a workers and counselors in which th were given many new ideas and su gestions. After these classes there wa a general assembly and the meetin adjourned.

Those representing Clanton Bapti Church were: Mesdames George Jeste L. A. Calloway, Grady Heiln, R. Tucker, J. C. Jester, W.C. Golde udie Lenior, J.E. Gowan, F.M. Conne John T. Ellis, J. P. POTASH does LOWER PRODUCTION COSTS . . .

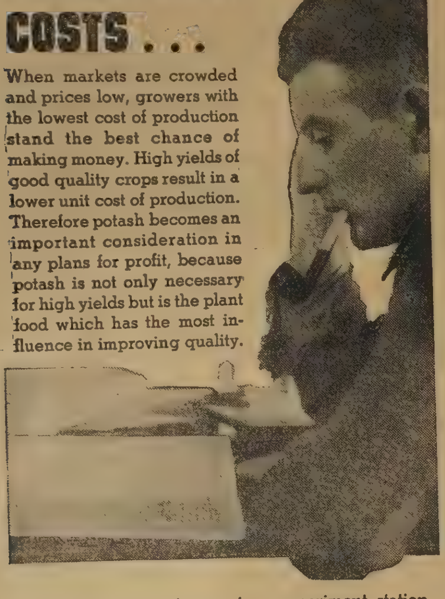
When markets are crowded and prices low, growers with the lowest cost of production stand the best chance of making money. High yields of good quality crops result in a lower unit cost of production. Therefore potash becomes an important consideration in any plans for profit, because potash is not only necessary for high yields but is the plant food which has the most influence in improving quality.



Consult your county agent or experiment station about the fertility of your soil and what it will produce if well fertilized. The use of enough potash to supplement that available in your soil and to meet your crop requirements will help guarantee a return on your investment in land, seed, and labor. See your fertilizer dealer or manufacturer about fertilizers high in potash. You will be surprised how little it costs to insure yields and quality which will leave more room for profit.

More Potash means More Profit

Farmers In Valley Can Get Seedlings

Tennessee Valley—Rufus H. Page, extension forester, announced that 500,000 pine and black locust sedlings are being made available this year to farmers in 15 Tennessee Valley counties for farm planting.

Pines can be set out up to March 15 and black locusts can be set out as late as April first with very little loss of trees. Orders have been placed and agreements made by farmers to plant 233,000 this spring.

Agreements are made by farmers and the TVA through the county agent where the government agency will supply the trees provided proper location and protection for the trees are provided. The county agent and TVA workers show the farmers how to plant the trees and the latter does his own planting.

The counties are Blount, Colbert, Cullman, Etowah, DeKalb, Marshall, Jackson Madison, Limestone, Lawrence, Morgan, Lauderdale, Franklin Marion, and Winston. Mr. Page urges farmers of these counties to get in touch with their county agent regarding this forestry program.

Elmore County—

Tentative approval was given by the Highway Commission yesterday to the bituminous paving of 56 and one-half miles of farm-to-market or feeder county roads in Elmore County at an estimated cost of approximately $165,000.

C. J. Sherlock, Jr., president of the commission, who made the announcement, said Gov. Dixon is "squarely and solidly" behind continued development improvement and paving of the state's highway system.

The tentative approval of the commission to the paving in Elmore County is subject to agreement by the Elmore County Board of Commissioners to share expense of the project with the federal government. When and if the county board takes this action, the project will be submitted to the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads for final action.

The roads to be paved in Elmore with the length of each, follow:

Holtville to the Elmore-Autauga County line, 5.4 miles.

Holtville to Speigner, 5.9 miles.

Holtville to Lightwood's School, 7.3 miles.

CORN, AMERICA'S OWN CEREAL

An old adage that "romance comes wrapped in commonplace packages," seems made for America's own cereal—common field corn.

Romance touches on the tradition of the planting of the first maize by forerunners of the Aztecs; it figures prominently in the story of the saving of our colonial ancestors from starvation. And in modern times the "romance of industry offers such commonplace wonders as the transformation of white cornstarch into crystal clear sirup.

Even the most everyday foods acquire a sentimental interest as they grow up with a people through primitive or pioneer times. So it has been with dishes made of corn meal, grits, or hominy in America, from the tortillas of Mexico to the "stamp and go" corn-fish cakes of Jamaica; and from the simple "hasty pudding" of the New England states to the spoon bread of the South.

"Corn meal" itself is a term of many meanings, for there are corn meals and corn meals. So, to become an artist in her specialty, a homemaker must know her milled cereals, for corn meals differ greatly in appearance, in flavor, keeping quality, and in food value.

Most obvious is the difference in color. To some, only a rich golden yellow gives a full sense of satisfaction, while others show a decided preference for a white color in corn meals. In food value, yellow meal is a very good source of vitamin A, frequently associated with the yellow color in foods. The white meal is lacking in this vitamin.

Of greater significance are the differences due to the method of grinding. For the milling process determines whether most of the original food value of the corn will remain in the meal, or whether certain choice bits of the kernel, specifically most of the germ and the outer coat, will be largely sifted out—to be used in other products.

On the one hand, is the entire-grain corn meal, called "old-process", "water ground," or "stone ground," which retains nearly all the food value of the original kernel. The richer flavor of this meal is due to the oil of the germ; its superior food value, to the vitamins and minerals, especally the vitamin B and iron, concentrated in the germ portion and the outer layers of the kernel. Some "water ground" meals are now bolted and more of the sperm and bran are lost. Entire-grain meal spoils quickly, for the oil of the germ becomes rancid in a short time if left open in a warm place. For best results, store tightly covered in a cool place, and use within a month or six weeks.

On the other hand, "new process" or refined corn meal, with most of the preciour yet trouble-making germ sifted out, loses some of its vitamins and most of its minerals, though it retains the high energy value of the original kernel. Corn meal of this type keeps indefinitely.

Cooks, and compilers of cookbooks, rather than the dietitians, are concerned with the third major difference in corn meals, the differene in fineness or coarseness of grinding. Meals with coarse particles sometimes weigh a ground. So consider both the grind of your meal and the intention of your recipe when making corn bread, muffins, or any other "light" preparation. If you have reason to believe your recipe is written for fine corn meal, and the kind you have on hand is coarsely ground, use scanty measurements, say 3-4 cup of coarse meal for every cupful called for in the recipe. Or weigh, rather than measure your corn meal.

Aside from reasons of weight, finely ground meals are preferred for some corn meal dishes; coarsely ground meals, for others. Fine meals are the best choice for preparations to be shaped or molded with the hands, as corn pones or chicken tamales, for coarse meals have an annoying way of crumbling. Only finely ground meal is suitable for "custard corn bread." But coarsely ground meal gives a better consistency for the old favorite Indian pudding.

"To scald, or not to scald" is another question to be settled by cook and cookbook. Bureau of Home Economics specialists say, scald if you want the "binding" properties and consistency necessary for molding or shaping into cakes.

Scald, also, if you are using coarse meal for quickly cooked batters as griddle cakes and waffles.

And when it comes to corn bread, the motto "all things to all men" seems applicable. Traditionally the southern corn "pone" is the simplest of all corn breads, and "Johnny cake" is its northern cousin. In practice, the name is proof of nothing, and many of the ingredients of corn bread—aside from corn meal, of course—can hardly be foretold. Fancy also dictates the cooking method, and some corn breads are even baked on top of the stove in griddle cake fashion.

Corn bread may or may not include wheat flour, eggs, leavening agent, sugar and shortening. It may be softened with mashed sweet potato, or sieved pumpkin; enriched with cracklings (crisp bits left after rendering lard), or with diced, fried bacon; sweetened with white or brown sugar, or molasses; pepped up with spices, or perhaps chopped raw apple, grated pineapple or some other fruit may be used to add new interest.

MT. NEBO

The Singing Society met Sunday afternoon. There was a small crowd present on account of bad weather. The directors for the afternoon were as follows:

Mr. W. L. Henley, Mr. S. A. Henley, Mr. F. I. Popwell, Miss Gladys Popwell, Mrs. J. D. Williams. A bass solo was rendered by Mr F. I. Popwell. The pianists were Mr. F. I. Popwell, Miss Gladys Popwell and Mrs. J. D. Williams.

The class is using the 1939 Showalter books. The songs are new to everyone. We hope everyone will soon learn the new songs and make 1939 the best year of singing. Everybody remember our singing society every fourth Sunday afternoon at two o'clock.

MANY LISTENING IN ON SAM MORRIS PROGRAM

Several have heard Sam Morris, the "Voice of Temperance" since reading our article and have expressed their appreciation of having the opportunity to hear this "friend and liquor foe."

Several have heard Mr. Morris, but the Station XEPN was totally destroyed by fire some weeks ago and regretted having lost him over the radio.

You can hear him three times daily as mentioned before—6:00 A.M., 6:30 P.M., and 8:15 P.M.

Mr. Morris will appreciate any offering you may send him to help carry on this great work.

Some leaders of Church work have expressed the desire to take an offering for Mr. Morris. If any individual or Church wishes to send an offering, just send it to me or direct to Mr. Morris or leave it at the News office. I will see that Mr. Morris receives same —M. Lockhart.

HELPING OTHERS

Vhen upon life's shadows we flee,
And the trials and troubles in life we see,
should look to God above,
nd he would pour down his blessings of love.
this troublesome world of ours,
Ve are only here for a few hours;
t, oh, what a blessing it would be for us,
f we would only help those who need us.
why should we not see,
low others long for Thee,
l help to bring them all from the degradations of sin,
nto another world which has no end.
how can we resist the temptation
f telling those of other Nations
t our Savior died on Calvary's tree, nd explain to them where they can see.

Seven Mobile Hunters Fined

Seven widely known Mobilians, including a chief clerk of the probate court and two police offcers, were fined $20 and costs each by justice of the peace here Friday, following their arrest by a game warden on charges of hunting birds over a baited field.

An eighth member of the party, according to Game Warden Warren Taylor, who made the arrests, ran away from the scene, leaving his shotgun and a bag of birds.

Those fined, according to the records of Peace Justice Jerome Price, identified themselves as R. B. Doyle, R. E. Donaldson, H. Franelich, C. M. Rayford, John B. Gerald, Jr., Homer G. Moss and J. E. Johnson.

Gerald is the Mobile court attache. Franelich and Rayford are members of the Mobile police department.

Taylor reported he conducted the round-up after an unidentifed informer had told him of the violation. The field on which the offense occurred was the property of J. N. Underwood. —Foley Onlooker.

CONTOUR FURROWING

Farmers who are planning to convert erosible land on their farms to new pasture next spring, can get several months ahead of the game by preparing their land during the winter when work is slack, according to Mr. James H. Wood of the Soil Conservation Service area near Clanton, Alabama.

Since moisture is an important factor in establishing and maintaining a good sod on upland pastures, the construction of contour furrows to reduce run-off will be of considerable benefit on most soils by retaining moisture in the ground. The furrows can be constructed in the process of preparing the land.

By controlling run-off, the furrows will protect the land from erosion while vegetation is being established. Broad, flat-bottom furrows with sloping sides have been found to be the most effective type, particularly on moderate slopes. Furrows are recommended only on land that absorbs water readly.

Contour furrows of the recommended type can be constucted with a turning plow leaving balks on the contour 8 to 12 inches wide to be broken out with a light disc harrow or other suitable implement that will leave some loose soil in the bottom of the furrow and spread soil on the sloping sides. The furrows should be from 4 to 6 feet apart and laid out parallel to staked contour lines or terraces similar to laying out rows.

Constructed over the entire surface of the pasture, furrows of this type will form a series of low ridges and broad furrows, over which a mowing machine can be operatel. A good illustration of furrows of this type can be seen on the farm of C. C. Cofer.

Your work speaks more convincingly than your tongue.

Mrs. Bertha Mitchell and Mrs. Alton Harris were the Thursday afternoon guests of Mrs. Emmett Wilson.

Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Sandlin and children were the Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Driver and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Glenn were the Thursday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. W.F. Glenn and family.

Mrs. Curtis Jones spent the past week with Mrs. W. F. Glenn and family.

Mr. J. R. Mitchell was the Thursday dinner guest of Mr. W. F. Glenn.

Mrs. Alton Harris and baby, Curts, were the Thursday dinner guests of Mrs. Jim Mitchell.

Mr. and Mrs. Ottis Glenn were the Saturday night guests of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Glenn.

Messrs. Jim Driver and Charlie Sandlin spent a while last Monday with Mr. W. F. Glenn.

Little Virdie and Virgil Glenn are on our sick list this week. We hope for them a speedy recovery.

Everybody come back to Sunday school next Sunday and bring someone with you. Come to prayer meeting each Thursday night.

Mr. Ottis Jones spent a few hours Sunday afternoon with Mr. W. F. Glenn.

140,000,000 TREES PLANTED

More than 140 million trees were planted in the National Forests during 1938 on 240 square miles—an area four times the size of the District of Columbia—according to a preliminary report of the Forest Service, U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Wise buyers of printing and advertisers are well aware of the ever-changing requirements of the Passing Parade. Today's carefree youngsters, through reading and understanding, soon influence the buying of Tomorrow. This all-important, ever-new market can be captured—and constantly cultivated—by virtue of the right words and pictures—directed by the selling influence of Chilton County News.

Hints to Gardeners

by Gordon Morrison Vegetable Breeder

Fertilizer Usage

GARDENS can't go on producing excellent flowers and vegetables year after year without an application of fertilizer now and then.

The average gardener does not give his soil proper nourishment. While stable manure is excellent fertilizer and should be used wherever possible, it is difficult to obtain. Commercial fertilizers are available, but gardeners fail to use them because they haven't time to study soil composition and then figure out the chemical mixture best suited to their soils.

Here are a few simple, practical, non-technical hints on fertilizing. First, be cautious! Never apply fertilizers recklessly or over-abundantly.

For general, all-purpose fertilizing, use a complete fertilizer recommended by your local dealer.

If your garden has been generally productive, either use no fertilizer at all, or apply a complete fertilizer sparingly. Broadcast it over the soil 10 days before planting, using not more than one or two pounds per square rod. See what effect that amount has. Never under any condition use more than six to eight pounds of commercial fertilizer per square rod. Three pounds is a good average application.

Three or four weeks after planting, if the garden seems backward, apply a side dressing. To side dress, sprinkle fertilizer lightly alongside the rows, about six inches from the plants; then cultivate. Apply from one to two pounds a square rod.

Don't be like the man who saw a friend get good results from a sparing use of fertilizer. He tried to get results ten times as good by using ten times as much fertilizer He destroyed his crop.

An excess of vegetative growth or a failure to set fruit often indicates too much rich manure or too heavy nitrate fertilizer.

Where Defense Funds Are To Be Allocated

Here are the appropriations called for by President Roosevelt in his national defense message:

Army

$300,000,000—to increase the Army Air Corps by a minimum of 3000 fighting planes.

$110,000,000—to provide critical items of equipment essential in war emergency.

$32,000,000—for educational orders to give industry original dies and patterns for war materials.

$8,000,000—for improving seacoast defenses of Panama, Hawaii and continental United States.

Navy

$44,000,000—for creation or strengthening of naval bases in the Atlantic and Pacific in accordance wth the Hepburn report.

$21,000,000—for additional Navy planes.

Civilian Pilots

$10,000,000—an annual appropriation sufficient to give primary training to approximately 20,000,000 citizens in flying.

Panama Canal

$27,000,000—to "provide an adequate peace garrison for the Canal Zone and to house it adequately," $5,000,000 of which should be provided immediately.

Winter legume planting has made rapid strides in Alabama since 1918, when the first seed were planted. Figures show that 1,525 pounds were planted as compared with over 12,000,000 pounds in 1938.

Hill Asks Review Of River Projects

An Associated Press story from Washington, D. C., under date line of January 19, was as follows:

"The senate commerce committee asked army engineers today to review studies of proposed improvements on the Coosa and Alabama rivers.

"Senator Hill (D.), Alabama, a committee member, said he proposed the review when it developed that engineers expected to issue an unfavorable report based on a study authorized by the house rivers and harbors committee in 1936.

"The Coosa-Alabama development would provide a navigable channel from Rome, Ga., to Mobile, Ala., furnishing a gulf outlet for an important agricultural and industrial section of the two states."

At the last meeting of the Clanton Kiwanis Club, Dr. V. J. Gragg, chairman of the Public Affairs Committee, of the Club, brought the subject up for discussion, and outlined in brief the benefits to Alabama and Chilton County if this river were made navigable.

After some discussion President J.C. Page ordered the Secretary to write a letter of endorsement of his efforts to Senator Hill, and the Club as a whole heartily endorsed the project, in the belief that if the Coosa river was made navigable it would mean untold advantages to the people of this section.

RELEATORS ARE OPTIMISTIC

Birmingham—Relators returning from the annual meeting of the Alabama Real Estate Association in Montgomery yesterday brought back encouraging news of conditions as they relate to real estate. Members of the association from Mobile, Montgomery and other cities in the state were optimistic over the outlook and predicted that 1939 will be the best year for businesses of all kinds since 1930.—Birmingham News.

"Frankies" Take The Place Of "Bibbies"

Montgomery—Gov. Dixon is not expected to eliminate sales tax tokens, because he has "not yet been able to find a workable plan" for doing away with them, he said today.

The chief executive explained the difficulty is two-fold, pointing out that if a penny is used instead of a token the tax on persons making small purchases would be excessive. For instance, the tax on a 5-cent purchase, under a suggested plan, would amount to 20 per cent. Dixon declared further that elimination of the token would require merchants to absorb the tax, which he said they cannot do "without destruction."

The time to go after business is when others think it isn't worth while.

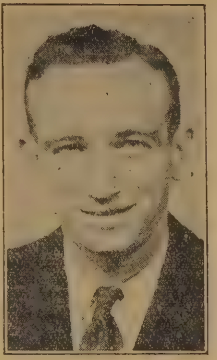
9 Cent Sale On At Levine Bros. Store

I. S. LEVINE



SOL LEVINE

Dry Goods and Novelty House Offering Specials To The Trade

The time has rolled around for another annual nine-cent sale at Levine Brothers Store in Clanton, and this time it is going to surpass anything that has been pulled off there in the past.

Messrs. I. S. and Sol Levine, the co-owners of the partnership, are determined to put this sale over in grand style this time; the same will be evidenced by the many useful and valuable items offered the trade. The large adv. elsewhere in this issue of The News will give a smattering idea of what is to be going on during this nine-cent sale. Of course, nothing like all the values could be enumerated in the space occupied.

The Messrs. Levine will be glad to have you visit them during this sale. They are always glad to have callers, but especially do they want you to come to see them some time during the life of this sale. A warm welcome always awaits you at Levine Brothers Store.

KNOW ALABAMA BETTER"—

Have you been reading the new feaure "Know Alabama Better", which being carried each week in the News? you haven't, don't lay this paper side until you read this week's conibution. You'll learn a lot of interestg facts about this State of ours that ou probably never thought existed. here is a concerted move underway roughout the state backed by various rganizations, to "sell Alabama" to the ourists of the nation, and in the meanme sell Alabama to Alabamians. Did ou know that the Great Picture of ne Battle of Atlanta has had a new irth since the publication of "Gone Vith The Wind," while Montgomery, here the Confederacy was born, atacts less attention? Did you know that statue of an Indian within the City all of St. Paul, holds people in woner and amazement, while the Vulcan n Red Mountain is a spectacle far suerior in every way? Magazines have eralded the opening of the Sky Line rive in Virginia, and one through the reat Smoky Mountains; and did you now that few people have visited the ky Line Drive in Talladega County, nd enjoyed the visions from Cheaha ountain, four hundred feet higher an Lookout Mountain at Chattaooga? This week's feature carries any interesting facts about Alabama, presented by Roe P. Greer, Presient, Alabama State Exchange Clubs, the recent meeting of the Alabama ress Association. Alabama has many oints of interests for the tourist of day, natural and historical. Alabama uld well use money from the tourist ade—we have the attractions necesry to bring them here, so why not lvertise these points of interest to her states of the Nation and countries North America? It might not be a ad idea for some of us to tour our own ate this Summer at vacation time, stead of migrating to other lands. Know Alabama Better" will be a regur feature of the News for weeks to me, and you are invited to read it om week to week.

UST IN CASE—

Speaking of our "Know Alabama etter" feature, let us tell you that is is only one of the many features e News is offering and will offer the future to assure its readers of newspaper worth reading. And, of urse, subscriptions expire ever so ofn, and if yours has expired, let us ve you this little item, which we stole om a newspaper who stole it from me other newspaper—a little antiated, perhaps, but there's still someing to it after all:

"If you have frequent headaches, zziness, fainting spells, lame back, acmpanied by chills, cramps, bunions, undice, chilblains or epileptic fits, its sign you are not well and are liable die any minute. Hasten to this office nd pay your subscription a year in lvance, and thus make yourself solid r a good obituary notice."

GOOD PROGRAM—

Just after the opening of the 1936-37 ession of the Chilton County High chool, B. E. Evans, co-ordinator in e Trades and Industrial Department the school, placed Cecil Wilson, ho was in his Senior Two year, in the echanical department of the Chilton ounty News where he was to work certain number of hours a day, withut pay, but was to receive credits in is phase of his studies. In the agreeent between Mr. Evans and the News, ecil was to have the privilege of learng the printing trade, if he so desired, is being the object of the Trades and ocational Department—giving students chance to gain actual working exerience in any vocation they choose. ecil lost no time in getting that workg knowledge of the printing trade, on his graduation from High School was given a job, with pay, (small, course), and he became a reliable an in the News plant, mastering the eration of the Linotype machine. Last eek Cecil accepted a job with the uskegee News, at Tuskegee, at a subantial salary. Needless to say, we are oud of him, for it was our duty to ow him the ropes here; but this is good illustration of the good that being accomplished through this votional guidance department of the gh school here and elsewhere. Money operate this department is furnished the Federal government, and it is no pense to the local Board of Educaon.

ND INTRODUCING—

That big smile you will receive when ou enter the News office in the afrnoons, comes from none other than iss Doris Newell, an efficient student the typing class at the Chilton Coun- High School. Miss Newell is also member of the vocational guidance group, of which Mr. Evans is Co-ordinator. Besides getting practical experience in typing Miss Newell has mastered the art of writing out subscription receipts. Oh, you don't believe it? Well, Miss Newell likes to demonstrate, and if you doubt it, and your subscription has expired, just drop by.

CLANTON CEMETERY—

Sometimes we try to vision the reaction of many of Clanton's citizens, friends and loved ones who have passed away and are now sleeping in the Clanton cemetery, should they suddenly arise. We'll venture to say they would be horrified on finding they had been sleeping beneath such and unkept plot of land as the Clanton cemetery. Of course there are some graves that are well kept, but the cemetery as a whole shows signs of gross neglect. Looks like this situation will not exist many more weeks, though, for in the list of the objectives of the Clanton Pilot Club for the coming year we find "Beautification of the Clanton Cemetery" as one. Hats off to this group of Clanton ladies who have made up their minds that the Clanton cemetery is deserving of a better appearance than it has had in years past.

Dan Cupid Takes It Easy During January

That well known young fellow, Dan Cupid, has been takng things easy during the month of January, compared to the December boom, when there were forty-six couples victims of his unerring bow. Records of licenses issued during the month of January show that there were only fifteen. Oh, well, everything is usually a little slow during the month following Christmas, anyway.

Following is the list:

Willie Viars (French) and Jeraldine Smith.

Julius Price and Oma Lee Pounds.

Curtis Mitchell Mims and Berniece Littleton.

Luther Thomas Burnett and Mildred Lottie Deason.

Gladis Easterling and Jeanette Evans.

Cecil Harley Cleckler and Mary Fay Robinson.

Booker Abercrombie and Bertha Suttle.

Leon Ottis Glenn and Elsie Elizabeth Thornton.

Barney Leo Stange and Ruby Mae Thornton.

William Tillis and Anna Bell Harris.

Carlos Klinner and Lottie Dee Seymore.

There were four marked "Do Not Publish"—and so we won't.

DEL MONTE DEMONSTRATION AT PIGGLY WIGGLY STORE SAT

Paul Locklear, genial manager of the Piggly Wiggly Store, is inviting his friends and customers to come by Saturday of this week and see the demonstration of Del Monte Products to be held at the store.

This demonstration promises to be very interesting, and facts about this well known product will probably be given.

Miss Katherine Pratt spent the week end with her grandfather in Verbena.

MT. CREEK MAY BE LOCATION OF U.S. CEMETERY

HOME FOR CONFEDERATE VETERANS MAY BE DEVELOPED INTO NATIONAL CEMETERY

An Associated Press story from Montgomery appearing in the Birmingham News Tuesday afternoon had the following to say regarding the Confederate Veterans Home at Mountain Creek, being converted in to a National cemetery:

Charles F. Morgan, state commander of Veterans of Foreign Wars, revealed today his organization would propose legislation to cede Mountain Creek home for Confederate veterans to the federal government for development as a national cemetery.

United Daughters of the Confederacy will be asked to support the movement Morgan said, pointing out no veterans now are housed at the home and expressing belief the seven widows there could be cared for elsewhere "more adequately and at less expense."

Mountain Creek, 15 miles from Clanton in Chilton County, has several cabins, a main dormitory and a hospital located on approximately 80 acres.

If the property were ceded, it would have to be accepted by the federal government before development could start. Morgan said he believed Alabama's congressional delegation could accomplish quick acceptance and designation as a national cemetery. The only national cemetery now located in Alabama is at Mobile.

Mr. J. L. Littlejohn was in town for the week end after having finished his examinations in Auburn.

WELCOME TO JEMISON

Although Jemison News is not new in the columns of the News this week, this is the first opportunity we have had to call your attention to the fact that this well written news will appear regularly in our columns in the future.

Jemison News is being written by Mrs. Clyde Sims of that community, so we extend a cordial welcome to efficient representation from the progressive town of Jemison.

Former Clanton School Teacher Injured

Miss Clyde Young, a former teacher in the Clanton Grammar School, was seriously injured in an auto accident below Wadsworth, on the Wetumpka road, last Sunday night early.

Reports reaching the News was that Miss Young was the sole occupant of the auto, a coupe, when it overturned in a ditch some distance below Wadsworth. Passing motorists brought the injured woman to Clanton for medical treatment. She was later carried to a Birmingham hospital by a Martin & Sons ambulance.

Miss Young suffered severe lacerations about the face, and her condition was considered serious at the time she was carried to Birmingham. She taught in the local school about fifteen years ago.

Kiwanians Will See Travalogue

A program, of which M. R. Lancaster will have charge, will be presented at the luncheon of the Clanton Kiwanis Club tonight. Kiwanian Lancaster has announced that a motion picture, made by the Greyhound Bus Company and called a "Travalogue," will be shown at the meeting.

Last Thursday night the Kiwanis Club and Pilot Club held a joint meeting at the Thomason Hotel. This was one of the most interesting meetings to be held by either Club during the past year. Miss Mattie Jo Barber, member of the Pilot Club and Chilton County's Home Defonstration Agent, read a list of the objectives set out by her Club for the coming year, and includes many needy improvements to the City and the sponsoring of other worthwhile enterprises.

Secretary-Treasurer J. Mell Martin commended Immediate Past President Patterson Hicks, on the splendid achievement report for the past year which he rendered recently.

Novelty dance numbers by Miss Mary Ellen Higgins were enjoyed by the members present.

Red Cross Asks For Contributions

Norman H. Davis, Chairman of the National Red Cross, requests that contributions be made to the suffering Chilleans, where 30,000 were killed by earthsuakes last week and tens of thousands injured and made homeless.

Send your contribution to Dr. C. O. Lawrence, Chairman of the local chapter, or J. Mell Martin, Secretary.

Evangelistic Meeting At Baptist Church

Dr. Barnes and Dr. Ezell wish to meet all the pastors, Evangelistic Committees and any others who are interested in Evangelism and our general denominational work at the First Baptist Church of Clanton Thursday, February 9th at 2:30 P.M.

The purpose of the meeting is to discuss our general denominational work, and especially the Evangelistic plans for 1939. Literature on the plans will also be given out at this meeting. Every pastor is especially urged to be present. The meeting is placed a little late so as to give our pastors who teach a chance to come.

MITCHELL DAM DEFEATS CALERA; PLAY SELMA "Y" FRI.

The Mitchell Dam Cardinals nosed out the Calaera five by a score of 42-35 last Thursday night in a very exciting game at the Calera High School gymnasium.

Last Saturday night the Cardinals lost to Mignon Mills at Sylacauga 40-34.

The Dammers go to Selma next Friday night to meet the Selma "Y". The Smith Brothers Team of Prospect, Ala., comes to Mitchell Dam next Saturday for a game. The Smith Brothers are rated as one of the best teams in the country. They have won ten straight games and this is expected to be a good game.

The game with Buck Creek, originally scheduled for Saturday night has been shoved up one week, and will be played Saturday night, February 11, at the Dam.

D. H. Wilder formerly of Birmingham, has been visiting his parents in Clanton for the past several days.

NEW DRY GOODS STORE OPENED THIS WEEK

WILL BE KNOWN AS CLANTON DRY GOODS COMPANY; NEXT DOOR TO FIRST NATIONAL

A brand new dry goods store has opened up in Clanton this week, known as Clanton Dry Goods Company, and located next door east of the First National Bank. The new business is owned by Messrs. Tom Taylor and W. J. Patrick, and will be managed by Mr. Jim Dunlap.

Everybody knows Tom Taylor and Walter Patrick—especially the former. Mr. Patrick lives at Billingsley and runs a store there, starting in the mercantile business at that place nineteen years ago. He also owns and operates the Alabaster Cash Store at Alabaster, Ala.

The manager of the store, Jim Dunlap, is a native of Chilton County and is known by a number of people all over the county. He has been engaged in dry goods stores in difefrent capacities for the past ten or twelve years. Mr. Dunlap, who owns a farm out near Baker schoolhouse, will remove his family to Clanton.

The Clanton Dry Goods Company has the right kind of men behind it to make it a real wide-awake and going place of busines. To begin with, they are offering the kind of bargains that make buyers flock to them, as will be evidenced by the large advertisement appearing in the News this week. Mr. Dunlap, the manager, and Messrs. Taylor and Patrick, the owners, invite you to give their store a close inspection. The opening dates are Friday and Saturday of this week, February 3rd and 4th.

NICE SUM RAISED AS RESULT OF BENEFIT BRIDGE

$94.34 RAISED FROM SALE OF TICKETS TO GAME HELD AT CITY HALL, 31ST

The citizens of Clanton and Chilton County threw their wholehearted support behind the "March of Dimes" Benefit Bridge held at the City Hall auditorium last Tuesday afternoon, and as a result $94.34 was raised. $76.30 of this sum was net, which will go to the cause.

Eighty people attended the benefit bridge game. A prize of ten dollars was awarded to Mrs. C. W. Rasberry of Clanton, for holder of the lucky ticket. Mrs. Loren Smith won high score and the cut prize went to Mrs. Bill Inzer.

Chairman of the local drive, Joe Mullins had the following to say regarding the campaign:

"I consider it an overwhelming success. It has been a privilege and a pleasure to see the enthusiasm of all the workers and I have never seen in my life a better spirit in the people of the County. I feel sure that the funds will be well spent and the parents will some day in the near future have a feeling of security against infantile paralysis fo rtheir children."

Fifty per cent of the funds will remain in this county for carrying on the work of combating the "maiming death." The local Crippled Childrens Clinic will receive the money. The other fifty per cent will go for National research work.

SENIOR CLASS OF C.C.H.S. SELLING MAGAZINE SUBSCRIPTIONS

Members of the Senior Class of the Chilton County High School are busy at this time selling subscriptions to various magazines in an effort to raise money for the class. The money will be used to leave a useful gift to the school on their graduation.

This class cordially asks that anyone wishing to subscribe to either of the following magazines, see one of the members of the calss:

Saturday Evening Post, Ladies Home Journal, Country Gentleman, American Home, Harper's Bazaar, Redbook, Photoplay, Vogue and many others. Your subscription will be appreciated.

THIRTEEN ARRESTS RECORDED IN SHERIFF'S OFFICE PAST WK.

The records at the office of Sheriff W. G. Culp show that there were thirteen arrests made by the Sheriff's force and highway patrolmen during the past week of January 23-30. They were for the following offenses:

Five for V.P.L.; one for discharging gun across public street; five for public drunkenness; one for contempt of court; one for grand largeny.

Mr. Carson Eiland spent the week end with relatives here.

Several Fires Here During Past Week

The fire bug has been very active here for the past several days, and the Clanton Volunteer Fire Department has been on the run answering the various calls.

Last Friday the alarm sounded three times, calling the boys to different sections of the City. Fire burned the roof of the Mrs. O. E. Latham house near the Masonic Hall considerably, before the flames were extinguished. Another alarm called the fire fighters to the Clanton Grammar School to extinguish grass burning on the campus. The Woodyard house near the old water tank was damaged considerably, but the flames were successfully controlled. A house in the Mill Village was slightly damaged in the afternoon.

Saturday the home of Vachel Lindsey caught fire but the damage was slight. The worst fire of all occurred last Tuesday night when Mr. John Thompson's home, three or four miles northeast of Clanton, was completely destroyed, including practically all of its contents, a report given the News stated. The fire occurred about 11:00 o'clock.

Another Burglary Here Last Week

From all appearances burglars are still running rampant in the City of Clanton, judging from the latest reports of their activities.

Last Friday night burglars entered the A & P Grocery Store by breaking a large glass window along the stairway that leads to the Modern Beauty Shoppe. The burglars evidently entered the building from the roof, as the door facing the street was locked and had not been tampered with.

Manager Ramsey reported that several items, such as tobacco, cigarets, etc. was missed, but that the burglars were unsuccessful in their efforts to enter the cash register, however it was lying on the floor when found Saturday morning, showing that an effort was made to force it open.

No clues have been reported by officers that might lead to an arrest.

F. H. A. HOLDS REGULAR MEETING LAST FRIDAY

~~The F.H.A. had its regular meeting~~ Friday, January 27. Fourteen pledges were admitted into the Club.

Annie Pearl Honeycutt opened the meeting. Ola Mae Parrish called the roll. Hilda Smith then talked on the F.H.A. and its purpose.

Refreshments were served and the Club adjourned.

The F.F.A. boys then met with the F.H.A. girls for a business meeting

AVONDALE MILLS BAND TO BE AT COLLINS CHAPEL FRI.

The well known Avondale Mills Band will appear at the Collins Chapel Junior High School Friday night, (tomorrow), at 7:30, according to an announcement given the News the early part of the week.

The band is being sponsored by the P.-T. A., and popular music—in fact, a variety of selections will be rendered by these well known musicians. Admission will be ten and fifteen cents and everybody has a cordial invitation to attend.

Deputy Will Assist With Income Tax

For the convenience of those who are required by law to file Federal Income Tax Returns, a Deputy Collector of Internal Revenue will be at the Post Office, Clanton, Alabama, on February 15 through 17, 1939, to assist taxpayers in preparing the returns. No charge will be made for this service.

The matter of filing your Income Tax Return should be given immediate attention in order to avoit penalty and interest.

LEGION AUXILIARY DANCE WAS SUCCESSFUL AFFAIR

One of the most enjoyable afiairs given in Clanton recently was the dance sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary last Thursday evening at the City Hall. Cecil Mackey's Orchestra of Montgomery furnished the music.

The hall was artistically decorated with the National colors of red, white and blue. Flags and bunting material were used to drape the wall around the stage.

As the couples were admitted small flag bows were pinned on the men. Auxiliary members present wore their unit colors of blue and gold in satin ribbon bows with streamers on their shoulders.

The committee responsible for this lovely dance was Mrs. W. H. Klinner, Mrs. Percy M. Pitts, Mrs. Parker A. Taylor, Mrs. R. W. Lowe and Mrs. T. E. Wyatt.

Proceeds of the dance will be used in the Auxiliary for Rehabilitation work.

POULTRY ASSOCIATION PROGRESSING

HIGH SCHOOL VOCATIONAL AGRICULTURE DEPT. AIDING COOPERATIVE ORGANIZATION

A Chilton County Poultry Association is rapidly being pushed forward to a well organized set-up, under the direction of J. H. Jackson, teacher of Vocational Agriculture at the Chilton County High School, it was explained this week.

This Association, composed of twenty-five members, sixteen of which are students in the Vocational Agriculture class, and the remainder farmers interested in poultry raising, was started back in December. An average of 350 chicks per member are being raised and sold cooperatively. The cost of the equipment for raising the broilers per member is about wenty dollars, it is understood, and the amazing part of the raising broilers for the market was 12 undertaking is the average liveability of the chicks, which is arounl 96-97 per cent

A great advantage of the Association is the cooperative buying and selling. Eggs are being marketed at the rate of 120 dozen per week. A member of this Association told a representative of the News that the average cost of raising broilers for he market was 12 to 13 cents per pound, and that a substantial profit was being realized from their sale.

Mr. Jackson stated that be was well pleased with the splendid progress the Association has made, and that he is looking forward to the growth of the organization to the point that all citizens interested in poultry raising might realize a good profit for their work. The possibility for extensive poultry raising in this County has been bright for a long time, as a means for more income to the farmers of the county

Session Of Circuit Court February 14

The office of Circuit Clerk J. C. Pattillo announced this week that a session of Court, beginning with the convening of the Chilton County Grand Jury on February 14, will continue into the month of March with Civil and Criminal cases being heard.

On February 14 the Grand Jury will convene. Settlement of Civil Pleadings will also be held on that date. On February 17 the arraignment of capital and felony defendants will be the order of the day. Criminal Jury Court will begin on February 27 and Civil Jury cases will come up March 20

Circuit Judge Arthur Glover f the Nineteenth Judicial Circuit, will preside.

BAPTISTS PLAN EVANGELISTIC PROGRAM

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH OF CLANTON PLANS THREE-MONTHS CAMPAIGN

On next Sunday, February 5, the First Baptist Church of Clanton will begin preparation for the launching of a three-months program of membership enlistment and soul-winning.

One month or five weeks will be given to preparation, after which time the program proper will begin.

The first part of this program will be an effort to enlist every resident member of the church in regular church attendance, appealing to them to give God a chance to deepen their spiritual lives.

The second phase of this program will be evangelistic. Let every member of the church pray for the pastor and for all our work in this undertaking.

It is to be for Clanton and the entire community. Watch for further announcements.

Rev. Oscar A. Davis, pastor, announced from the pulpit last Sunday, while delivering a most soul-stirring sermon to a large audience, that he had hopes of seeing this a most successful campaign.

AMERICAN LEGION AND AUXILIARY WILL HOLD MEETINGS

The American Legion will hold meetings Monday night at 7:30. The Legion will meet at the Courthouse, at which time excellent speakers are expected to be on hand.

The American Legion will meet Mon-City Hall and following the meetings a joint social hour will be held, with refreshments being served. All members of both units are urged to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Nettles from Beatrice, Alabama, were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. B. N. Ivey.

"THE FARMER"

By Warren Keen

The farmer sits in the fence corner,
  Just wasting his time.
Oh! I wish I had a plough-boy,
  To plough this land of mine.
For I have rheumatism,
  My legs hurt all the time,
Oh! where can I get a plough-boy
  To plough them mules of mine.
Along comes an expert plough-boy
  Son, you just come in time,
I'll pay you good wages,
  To plough this land of mine.
The trouble is that he's too lazy,
  He grumbles all the time,
He's just so slow he'll never,
  Plough all this land of mine.

IN MEMORIAM

On last Tuesday, January 24, 1939, the dear Lord came to our home in the early morning hours and took the spirit of our loving husband and father, O. D. Bone. The dreadful shock came like Jesus is coming some day at the unexpected hour. Abou seven-thirty o'clock, just after the breakfast hour. Dady went to the barn to assume the tasks of the day by feeding. He was not there long, perhaps one hour, until he was seen coming toward the house in a very weakened condition. By great effort he managed to get into the kitchen, but almost in a speechless condition. It was believed that he had had a paralytic stroke. The family, with a few friends, managed to get him on the bed, but all that loving hands could and all that the doctor could do availed nothing. The doctor only confirmed the belief of the family by saying "The stroke has complete possession of him and he'll soon be gone."

Oliver Driscal Bone was born at Marble Valley, Alabama, in Coosa County, April 22, 1882. He was the son of Rev. W. J. Bone. He spent a few years of is life in Coosa County, but was brought to Chilton County when a small boy by his parents. He was married to Miss Katie Lou Gray on August 8, 1898. To this happy couple was born seven children—three boys and four girls. They are: William Andrew Bone, deceased; Isaac Bone, Thorsby, Route 1; Willie Bone, Billingsley; Mrs. Claude Wyatt, Independence; Mrs. Berry Culpepper, Prattville; Mrs. Lena Mae Huett, Clanton Route 2, and Miss Lera Bone, at home with her mother.

He leaves an invalid wife, an invalid daughter and Delene, a little granddaughter, at home to mourn his going. He attached himself to the Missionary Baptist Church about forty years ago. In recent months he lived a very consistent Christian life, telling his loved ones many times that everything was well with his soul and that he had nothing to fear.

—Mrs. O. D. Bone and Children.

Clanton Methodist Church

J. L. Daniels, Pastor

Church School, 9:45 each Sunday, L. J. Stewart, general superintendent.

Morning worship, 11:00 A.M., sermon by the pastor.

The Young Peoples Division will not have its meeting at 6:15 next Sunday evening, because all people of our church between the ages of 12 and 23, inclusive, are invited and urged to attend the Youth's Crusade at Selma next Sunday from 2:30 to 4:30 P.M.

A churchman was seen to kneel at the Lord's table. Suddenly he arose, retired to the back of the church. Asked why he had done so he replied: "When I entered, I had no idea who would be kneeling beside me. I saw at once that it was the man who had murdered my father, and I had sworn to drink his blood. But as I withdrew down the church, a voice seemed to say to me, 'By this shall all men know that ye are my disciples, if ye have love one to another'; and as I sat down near the door, a Man upon a cross rose before my eyes, and I heard Him say, 'Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do.' Then I returned and we took the Lord's Supper together.' "

The Lord's Supper will be commemorated at our church by communion at the 11:00 o'clock worship service next Sunday morning. All worshipers are invited to join in the taking of the bread and wine in remembrance of Christ as He commanded in St. Luke 22:19.

Oscar T. J. Smith Died Last Friday

Oscar T. J. Smith, well known resident of the Cooper community, died suddenly at his home last Friday evening at 6:20. Although Mr. Smith had been in ill health for some time, his death came as a shock to his many friends in this county. He was a member of one of Chilton County's best known families.

Mr. Smith was said to have finished his supper and retired to the living room of his home and lit a cigaret. He leaned back, and it was at this point death struck him. He was 46 years of age, a World War veteran, and a brother of the late H. N. Smith, well known business man of Cooper and Clanton, who died several months ago.

Funeral service were held from the Chestnut Creek Church, Cooper, Saturday afternoon at 2:30 with the Rev. J. D. Hughes in charge with J. Mell Martin & Sons in charge of burial in the churchyard cemetery.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Ann Smith; two sons, James, Oscar, Jr.; one daughter, Elizabeth Ann; three brothers, W. T., Cooper; S. J., Central; O. D., Clanton; five sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Cone, Troy; Mrs. Emma Bradley Alexander City; Mrs. Maggie Gilliland, Cooper; Mrs. Loudelia Morris, Evergreen.

Pallbearers were J. D. Rockett, Tom Burdette, Bob Baker, Phillip Eiland, Dewey Crew, H. J. Taylor. Flower girls were Mary Neil Smith, Mildred Todd and Avoline Taylor.

SEEN and HEARD BY GAD

I've been all eyes this past week just for you, "and I do mean you." . . . Of course the big event of last week was the dance on Thursday night. I coudn't dance any too well because I was watching to see what others had on, etc. . . . Morgan Reynolds, of all people, was a stag. . . . The lights were dim but I think Mrs. George McCain's dress was black . . . she looked quite stunning, too. . . . Mrs. Herbert Klinner wore white and white always looks nice on brunettes. . . . Yes. there's no doubt about it, they're growing up. . . . Several of the younger crowd were at the dance and they aren't bad dancers, either . . . Little Mary Ellen Higgins did a novelty tap and she really "mowed 'em down" . . . The colleges are having a few days for resting up after exams. . . . Alex Hayes, Morgan Reynolds, Dorothy Waites and "Dixie" Johnson are among those college students who were home this past week . . . And we haven't heard so terribly much about the new school building Clanton will soon boast of. . . . Our C.C.H.S. basketball team seems to be holding its own, too. . . . Dr Edgar is "up and out" and we're glad, not because "we want a tooth pulled" but because we missed him when he wasn't out to greet everyone with a smile. . . . Is the tall, dark, and handsome young man we've been seeing at Polk's a tourist who became fascinated with Clanton. . . Those green oxfords June Cox has certainly add that "certain something" to a suit. . . . It wasn't very long ago that I passed the Methodist Church, saw lights in the basement and heard skate wheels. Later I found out that the young folks were having a skating party. . . . Maybe they've found a place to enjoy themselves where they can go without getting "talked about." . . . I'd say that Mrs. "Bill" Burnette is the very "essence" of style . . . and have you noticed Betty Jones' cute little window shelves? . . . Things do travel and so do people, I hear that "Potsy" Polk left last Sunday for Athens for a short stay. . . . Little yarn dolls seem to be quite "the thing" . . . I saw Mrs. Elmore up town the other day and she had some on—cute, eh? . . . And wasn't that gold and black suit Mrs. Pitts had on Sunday a "knock-out?" . . . Miss Katherine Foss had a visitor this past week end, but I haven't been able to find out who it was just yet. . . . On Friday I saw several young folks who had gone to seek their fortunes—not "gold," but just facts, maybe, from the Palmist on the Birmingham Highway. . . . Someone has said that the three sweetest words in the English language are "All is forgiven." So remember that half of this is "hear say"—and if something rubs the wrong way just forgive and forget. . . . And I'll see you again next week.—By GAD.

MRS. ANNA MARCUS, AGE 73 DIED LAST FRIDAY MORNING

—o—

On January 20th, the death angel visited the home of Mrs. Anna Marcus. She died on Friday morning at 3:54.

She had been sick only five weeks. Everything that hand could do was done. It seems so hard to have to give her up, but the Lord knows best. He had a better place prepared for her. She was seventy-three years of age, and had belonged to the church ever since she was a small girl.

She leaves to mourn her loss nine children: Clarenie Marcus of Birmingham; Mrs. Bill Hays of Thorsby; Arthur Marcus of Thorsby; Mrs. Green Gore of Clanton; Mr. Walter Marcus of Chattanooga, Tenn.; Mr. Leonard Marcus of Thorsby; Mrs. Hardy Hurtt of Jemison; Mr. Eugene Marcus of Clanton and Mrs. Lonnie Cox of Clanton.

She also leaves thirty-three grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

The Tycoon Next Door

Under the above caption the Birmingham Age-Herald asks a question, and answers it thus:

"Who owns American industry? That is a question some of the big American industrial corporations have been cheerfully answering since the beginning of the "Sixty Family" stuff some months ago. The Radio Corporation of America recently presented a survey of its thousands of small stockholders who own the company.

"This month the huge Monsanto Chemical Company tells something about its 10,170 stockholders, most of them men and women of moderate means, who stand to get profits from the corporation.

"The tycoons who actually own American industry, though they do not always exercise corresponding control, are the people who sit next to you on the bus, those you see shopping around for bargains in department stores, who live next door or in the little white house down the street. American industry is owned by tycoons who sit at office ledgers, who work in shirt sleeves or overalls, who operate small shops."

The ownership of American industry is one thing, and the control of American industry is an entirely different matter, insofar as it affects the well being of the American people; and it is industrial control that the people are complaining about. And, they are going to continue to complain about it, until something is done to place control in the hands of ownership, instead of a handful of financial dictators and racketeers, whose immoral acts we frequently read about in the daily press.

What They Say:

"I strongly believe in the sub-divisions of government which have been established. This is one of the fundamental principles on which we have built a great nation. They tell me ours is the best nation in the world and I am satisfied with it. If the other counties have representation to stay with me, we in Alabama will continue to live under what we know as 'home rule.' "—Representative Peacock, of Coffee, in "Under Capitol Dome" Alabama Journal.

"I suggest that in the preparation of tokens, when you tax coffins and white meat don't say it is a luxury."—Representative Matthews of Clarke.

"If the South is the nation's dark ground, it can never be made bright by any broad campaign directed against the entire Southern front. We may have to go out and shake ourselves as Sampson did, but we are not going to let anybody else shake us. The great middle classes must be given an intelligent and informed voice with which to assert right judgments in local and national affairs to the end that men of superior standing shall be utilized."—Wm. C. Fitts, Counsel for the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

"The press of America is determined that it never will submit to censorship by legislative enactment, executive fiat, the jingle of tainted money, nor bullets from the dark."—James G. Stahlman, addressing California Newspaper Publishers' Association.

"One hour of seeing things with your own eyes is more worthwhile than twenty hours of talking about things."—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

"The southern farmer will face either bankruptcy or a reduction of his standard of living to that of the meanest Japanese coolie within the next eight years if Japan's extensive plans for dominating the world market in cotton and tobacco are put into effect."—Julean Arnold, commercial attache to the American Embassy in China.

Alabama Editors Say:

THE NEW FURROW—When the new Governor plows under every third person on the state payroll, they will have to go on WPA or some other alphabetical set-up, supported by the taxpayers. So what will be gained?—The Chilton County News.

Well, let us wait until the miracle happens. Gov. Dixon may intend to plow under every third person on the state payroll, but let us remember there will be only one governor against hundreds of an army made up of legislators, loyal campaign workers, et cetera, et cetera. Nothing short of a miracle will be effective against the wire-pulling. Meanwhile let us watch the new names that will go on the state payroll. We hope the new governor doesn't plow under the politicians only to have others turn up in the new furrow.—Anniston Times.

* * * *

ANOTHER MESS OF POTTAGE—Next month, we are told, Perry County farmers will receive approximately $250,000 in benefit payments under the 1938 Conservation Program.

A quarter of a million dollars sounds like "big money" until we stop to consider that these so-called benefits represent the price at which farmers have been forced by economic pressure to sacrifice their priceless heritage of freedom and personal liberty to an oligarchy of self-styled "experts."

What has happened during the past few years is almost inconceivable. Gradually, almost imperceptibly the Southern cotton farmer has been reduced to the status of a tenant under Government control. Only yesterday he was a free man—free to operate his farm as he saw fit—free to buy, sell and plant what he pleased. Today he is a serf, holding forth a tin cup, asking alms of the politicians who bought his liberty with the taxpayers' money.

Yes, things have changed considerably during the past few years. The county agent, once the farmer's friend and trusted advisor, has become his master through the creation of the most dangerous political machine ever to be set up within the borders of this State.

Whether we want to believe it or not, the future of Alabama agriculture is in the hands of any bright young man who spends four years at Auburn and is turned loose on society with the usual conviction that the farmer is utterly incapable of managing his own affairs.—Marion Times-Standard.

Washington seems to be suffering from too many brains—and a lack of ability to use them properly.

We do not believe that education is preferable to starvation. We do not believe that it is right or honest to tax any part of the poor, unlettered individual's living, for the purpose of sending to school the children of those in better circumstances.

The daily papers of Birmingham, Montgomery and Mobile, have been bragging and disputing about the population of their own towns, quite a bit recently. Now, boys, if you really want to learn something about population, try this: Draw sixty-mile circles using the courthouse in Birmingham, Clanton, Montgomery and Mobile as the center, and see if the Clanton sixty-mile radius hasn't a larger population than that of either Birmingham, Montgomery or Mobile. We'll wager a quart of Chilton County strawberries to a dime store dingbat that it has.

Tens of thousands of Alabamians are glad to hear that Bibb Graves, who retired as governor January 16th, is fast recovering in Victoria Hospital, Miami, Fla., from an appendicitis operation. The former governor was stricken while deep sea fishing about a wek ago. News from Miami indicates that he will be able to leave the hospital within a week or ten days.

KNOW ALABAMA BETTER

As presented by Roe P. Greer, President, Alabama Exchange Clubs, to the Alabama Press Association, Montgomery, Alabama, January 6th, 1939.

Alabama State Exchange Clubs have adopted a state program, "Know Alabama Better," by which we are endeavoring to create interest among the people of our state in knowing more about Alabama as it is today, and what it has to offer us and to offer every citizen of America who comes within our borders. I am presenting our plan to you today with the hope that the Alabama Press Association will join with Exchange in stimulating interest in each county of the state, and that you will help find and preserve points of interest for that vast army of tourists who are now traveling the highways of America. Due to the slow development of her roads, Alabama has not gotten her share of this trade, neither have the people of the state come to appreciate their many natural and historical surroundings.

The present road program is fast eliminating that difficulty, but Alabama as a whole is not tourist conscious. We seek better agricultural conditions; to build industries; but fail to capitalize on the many assets we have that should attract thousands of tourists from every state in the Union. Tourists' interest and tourists' money is a net profit. Very little is required to preserve historic spots and direct vsitors to them. In fact Alabama people should travel too, and learn to appreciate the facts that within the borders of our state we have every ilimate, and every natural attraction found anywhere in America. Some states are, as a whole, the same thing. In Alabama no two sections are alike. Each is a counterpart of some well known section of the United States and in many cases far more interesting than those better known.

From interviews I have had with people in other sections of the country that I have visited, I find that recent aricles in magazines have left the impression that the South and Alabama are the last remaining frontiers now ready for a rush of development. I have talked to people who were actually planning to move in as pioneers. Alabama has become famous over the nation on account of the Scottsboro case, or that Black belonged to the Klu Klux Klan. Some people actually believe that the stars fell here and that our fields are strewn with fragments of celestial bodies yet they glory in our "Crimson Tide." In Nashville, Tenn., I met a family from Los Angeles who were on a tour of the United States. The spent a while in New Orleans, and had driven, without a stop through Alabama, "Because there was nothing of interest to be seen."

It is said that a number of years ago when Agricultural Commissioner Cobb carried a train load of exhibits from Alabama through the north he greeted a committee at one city with the statement, "We are from God's Country." "Why do you say God's country," came the quick response. After a little thought Cobb replied, "Because God alone has done anything for Alabama."

It is the Message of Exchange to you to tell you just how much God has done for Alabama and urge Alabamians not to look for diamonds without our borders, but to "Count our Blessings—Take them one by one; count our many blessings and see what God has done."

When we think of Muscle Shoals, we picture it as a measuring rod to make Reddy Killowatt behave himself. We think of it only as a source of an unlmited cheap power supply. We think of Florence and that section as a center of industrial development. These thoughts are true but coupled with them is the fact that the entire power development on he Tennessee river has given to Alabama a lake system equal to those that have made Minnesota famous. Due to the rugged beauty of the land that borders the rivers, all over Alabama those who love the great outdoors have a paradise of unlimited grandeur. The dams up and down the Coosa and other rivers have formed many mirror-like lakes that reflect a riot of colors. More people would visit these spots if pleasure boats were available. At such places in Wisconsin, far smaller and much less beautiful, I have seen numerous boat loads of tourist enjoy what they thought to be nature's prettiest handiwork.

No other state has a Helen Keller, and her admirers from coast to coast should be invited to visit her home in Tushumbia. The home of General Joe Wheeler in north Alabama is unlike anything else in the world. For there lives the same family that enjoyed its grandeur in ante-bellum days. Maintained in its original beauty it offers the visitor a rare opportunity to enjoy the charm of a past civilization.

A statue of an Indian within the City Hall of St. Paul, holds people in wonder and amazement, while the Vulcan on Red mountain is a spectacle far superior in every way. Buried cities in West Virginia create interest for people who visit them annually, yet these people forget that there is a buried city at Moundville, where recent excavations show that a strange people lived many many years ago. Magazines have heralded the opening of the Sky Line Drive in Virginia, and one through the Great Smoky mountains. How few people have visited the Sky Line Drive in Talladega County, and enjoyed the visions from Cheaha Mountain, four hundred feet higher than Lookout Mountain at Chattanooga. A hrystal lake at the foot of the mountain, seven towns dotting the distant landscape, a dense woodland gives a traveler a place where recreation can be appreciated. 85,000 people visited Mammoth Cave in Kentucky this year, while the Great Kymulga cave, near Childersburg is still unexplored and undeveloped. For many years Portland, Oregeon has held a place dear to the hearts of those who love flowers as the "Rose City." Alabama has just within the past few years realized that the Azalea trails of Mobile surpass it. Added to this charm are gardens, picturesque rivers, bays and lagoons that delight any traveler. Six flags have flown over Mobile and each has left some historic mark, sacred to the lovers of history.

Up from the ruins of antiquity "Old Williamsburg" in Virginia continues to attract visitors by the thousands, while the ruins of old Cahaba in Dallas County lay buried and unknown. The Selma Exchange Club is preserving this historic spot, and adding thereto many other things that centers around itself. Do you know that one Vice President of the United States, two United States Senators, three Confederate Generals, and the sister of Mrs. Abraham Lincoln sleep in a Selma cemetery?

Guides will carry a visitor through the Capitol building of any state. The Capitol building of Alabama is steeped in far more historic value, but y have to find your way alone. The gr statue in front of the capitol building Idaho in honor of the Governor w brought law and order to that st does not compare to the Confeder monument hidden on one side of Alabama Capitol building.

Tourists by the thousands marvel the grandeur of the Hermitage in Nas ville, but the White House of the C federacy in Montgomery remains c ed on Saturdays and Sundays. T Great Picture of the Battle of Atla has had a new birth since the publi tion of "Gone With The Wind," wh Montgomery, where the Confeder was born, attracts less attention

Money has built many magni homes for the moving picture a in Hollywood, but the residential s tion of Birmingham in its natural s tings far surpasses Hollywood in bea ty.

The banks of the Tennessee ri near Guntersville rival the Palisades the Hudson in their natural bea Though less famous, the strange l on the court house window at C

Local FSA Stressing Health Improvement

Improving the health of low-income families is one of the objectives of the Farm Security Administration in its rehabilitation program which last year embraced 121 families in Chilton County

In that connection Marvin Durbin, county supervisor for the FSA, reports that 93 sanitary toilets were built on farms occupied by these families during 1938.

"The importance of a safe water supply and effective screening cannot be stressed too much, said Mr. Durbin. "Good water is essential to health and, along with screening, is a basic step in our fight against typhoid, dysentery, malaria, and other diseases born by water and insects. Such diseases, by their prevalence and long duration, have greatly reduced the ability of a large per centage of our rural families to make a living.

"In this county last year 10 wells used by rehabilitation families were dug or repaired, with the new wells being located after consideration of distance from the house and barn lot, so they will be convenient and reduce labor, and with respect to drainage so the water will not become contaminated."

Mr. Durbin also pointed out that keeping the premises clean was emphasized as a factor in protecting the health of the family, as well as adding to the attractiveness of the surroundings. This has been followed up in many instances by the planting of flowers, shrubs and grass about the house, and others who have not yet improved their places in tis manner plan to do so.

In connection with the sanitation activities of the FSA, which are carried out in general cooperation with the local county health unit, borrowers are shown the best methods of handling milk and other foods so the health of the family may be safeguarded.

Farmers Of Chilton Will Plant Lespedeza

Many cooperating farmers in the erosion-control area near Clanton, Alabama are planning to plant lespedeza during February or March on fall-sown oats and other small grain to provide more effective erosion control.

This practice is much more desirable than following oats with cowpeas and requires considerably less labor. When cowpeas follow grain the land has to be plowed about the first of June when other crops need work and frequently dry weather at that time makes it impossible to get peas planted in time. All that is necessary in sowing lespedeza is to run a drag harrow over the land after the lespedeza seed is sown, so as to scratch the seed lightly into the soil.

The lespedeza will give good cover for the land after the oats are harvested, and being a legume will add nitrogen to the soil to increase the production of succeeding crops.

Many farmers have found it desirable to leave the lespedeza on the land two years. This enables them to harvest a hay crop the second year and stlll have good protection in the lespedeza stubble the second winter, before the land is turned for other crops.

Vegetated Waterways

A new practice is being developed by farmers in the local Soil Conservation Service area to eliminate excavation of terrace outlet channels even in fields where no natural draw is available for use as a meadow outlet, according to Mr. James H. Wood.

The term "disposal area" has been adopted to designate an area of permanent vegetation established on a portion of a cultivated field where water concentrated by terraces will be emptied at the terrace ends.

Soil Conservation Service workers are assisting farmers in determining the proper location for such areas so the farmers can establish permanent vegetation on them in advance of terracing. A fan-shaped area with the broad end toward the lower side of the field, will serve to spread the increasing volume of water empted by successive terraces down the slope, Mr. Wood pointed out.

Various forms of vegetation, including kudzu, Lespedeza sericea, annual lespedeza, and other annual and perennial plants can be used to provide vegetative cover for the safe disposal of terrace water, he said. These areas can be utilized to furnish supplemental hay, as seed patches, and to provide food and cover for wildlife. They may be located either within the field, or along field borders where trees can also be used to give vegetative protection.

Know Alabama Better

rolton has a weirdness that matches the Legends of Sleepy Hollow. Will Rogers' grandmother once lived at Guntersville. The hot spring near Cottonwood claims medical properties on a par with those of Arkansas. A peony farm at Uniontown supplies the London market with its flowers. Hidden in the mountains near Carbon Hill is a natural bridge comparable in every way with the one in Virginia that graces every history book. National forests in many sections are fast being restocked with deer and other forms of wild life. When night falls, a traveler who ascends Red Mountain is rewarded by a view of the city of Birmingham, aglow in a riot of lights too beautiful for words to describe.

This is a day of recreation. When Alabama once realizes it, the state will find a place in this nation that it rightly deserves. It will become a state that will be appreciated, visited, and loved by her sons and daughters and the strangers within her gates.

CIRCLE NO. SIX MET WITH MRS. J. W. FANT JAN. 23RD

Circle Number Six of the Clanton Baptist W.M.U. met at the home of Mrs. J. W. Fant Monday, January 23, at 3:00 P.M., for their regular business meeting.

In the absence of the chairman, Mrs. J. Lee Smith, Mrs. J. W. Fant, Co-Chairman, presided.

The meeting was called to order by singing "I Love To Tell The Story," the W.M.U. hymn for the year.

Mrs. Fant gave a short sketch of the song's history. Mrs. S. J. Ezell gave the devotional reading from the 19th Psalm, verses seven through eleven. Each officer read a summary of her duties for the year. Record books were given to those officers who will have important records to keep. These books are to be filled in at the meeting and kept by person in charge, and brought to all meetings. In this way a permanent record of indvidual work will be kept and will be available for reference at all meetings.

Reports were taken, and plans for raising special funds were discussed.

The meeting was dismissed with prayer by Mrs. Ezell, after which the hostes served tea to thirteen members.

The next meeting will be held with Mrs. F. H. Spicer February 13th, at 2:30 P.M.

Y. W. A. HOLDS SOCIAL MEET

On Monday, January 30, the Y.W.A. of the Baptist Church held a social meeting at the home of Misses Janie Beth and Margaret Johnson.

Mary Frances Duke called the meeting to order. The Club repeated their watchword and Miss Gertie Fiquette led the devotional.

The members enjoyed a delightful evening of Chinese checkers after which they suprised Mrs. John Higgins with a miscellaneous shower. She received many useful gifts and was equally proud of each.

Mrs. Oscar Davis is taking Mrs. J.R. Mullins' place as leader of the Y.W.A. while she is away on her vacation.

Delightful refreshments were served to all the members after which the meeting was adjourned.

Miss Inez Abernathy has been called home because of the serious illness of her sister. During her absence, Miss Catsy Cooper will take her place with Dr. Lawrence.

FARMERS

The year of 1938 has closed, and as we look over the year, the majority of the farmers were disappointed over the price of cotton, their allotment and the general price of other farm products, which left the year's work very discouraging.

As we will begin to make our plans for another crop, and as we have received our cotton allotment, it should enable us to set up a program this year to produce so much cotton per acre on our allotment and to grow some more money crops besides cotton, as we cannot expect a money crop altogether from our cotton crop. So if you will pardon our suggestion, we would like to see you try the following program this year:

COTTON, CORN AND OTHER FARM PRODUCTS: Plant enough acreage in corn to have 75 to 100 bushels per plow; plant 5 to 10 acres in Lespedeza or sorghum hay; plant 2 to 5 acres of peanuts, as they are fine for the family during the winter months, and for hogs, cows and mules; plant at least 2 to 5 acres of oats, using 150 pounds of fertilizer per acre, you will have more hay than you can use if you spray it before planting for smut; plant at least one-half an acre of sorghum for syrup for the family.

LIVESTOCK: Have 2 cows; 2 hogs for meat; one brood sow if possible, and arrange for some pasture land sodded in bermuda grass for your livestock.

PRODUCE: Have at least 50 laying hens of good breed; raise from 50 to 100 chickens for market and for home consumption.

FOOD CROPS: Plant one-fourth to one-half acre in sweet potatoes; they are easily raised and are good for livestock when chopped up, besides being food for the family; plant one-half to one bushel of Irish potatoes twice a season.

GARDEN: Have from one-half to one acre of garden land, well worked and well fertilized to have all fresh vegetables the family can use and to have at least 200 cans for the family during the year. Plant a few rows of strawberries and dewberries; they are fine for making pies and jelly.

ORCHARD: If you don't have an orchard, try to have one; this can be done easily by starting with one-half dozen trees each of pear, apple, plum, peach and 3 or 4 pecan trees; this can be one of the best investments that a farmer can make, as it will furnish the family with fruit, fresh, canned or dried and pecan trees to furnish nuts to eat all winter.

If you will need any money during the year to help finance your crop or any other program you may have in mind, we want you to call upon us, as it will certainly be a pleasure to make you a loan on our regular banking terms and method. We will appreciate any business that you may favor us with and we wish to state that our bank's resources have reached six hundred thousand dollars, which has been made possible by the patronage of the good farmers and our other good friends. If you have a friend or neighbor whom you can recommend to us for a loan, who could give us a good, safe bankable note, we would appreciate it if you would send them to us.

We Observe

By BONNIE HAND

? ? ? ?

Along comes 'By Gad' and writes a column of personal comments and darn near gets ye olde Observer in trouble. 'By Gad' made his (or her?) formal debut week before last when we remained silent. Quite a coincidence, but a few people didn't think so. We must admit that it had all the earmarks of this column being discontinued in favor of Personal Comments, hiding behind the skirts of the ficticious Gad. We now have column competition, but here's a little 'personal' advice to Personal Comments, and its able author, 'By Gad': We were the target of a portion of the general reaction from your first week's comments, said furor, taking place at the recent dance at the City Hall that you so eloquently described last week. Listen, feller, hang on to that 'Gad' handle or there'll be a decidedly deceased columnist in these here parts the hour your real identity is made public.

LUTHER LITTLE—

Prof. Luther E. Little assumes his ew duties at Howard College Februry 15, and at that time we lose one f the most public-spirited citizens. A eader in this community, he has ably erved Chilton County as Superintenent of Education, and this department as grown under his administration to he extent that it plays second to none n the State. This is a big advancement or Mr. Little. Higher education has ecognized his ability and Chilton County is rightfully proud of him. Our best wishes go with you, Luther.

WE QUITE AGREE—

We'd like to add our two cents worth f hearty endorsement of the suggesion made by the Union-Banner last week that some person or group of ersons whose duty it is or who might make their duty to do away with the mud puddle in front of the Courthouse. s an added suggestion we would like o call-attention to the still worse place n the edge of the street in front of he Clanton Baptist Church, which we hink should be remedied even before he Courthouse situation. Standing water and mud in front of the church n a bright Sunday morning which preents the parking of autos along that de does not present a pretty picture. alling City, County, or State officials!

ND WHY NOT THIS PLACE?—

While we're on the subject of bad laces in streets, there's a place on he highway north of the City, at the nd of the new bridge that would give newcomer entering Clanton for the rst time a bumpy impression of our wn. In fact we are of the opinion that would cause him to ride right on rough without stopping, as the short stance from the place to town would ardly give him time to get over the feeling that place might leave with m. A real bad place in the road exnding clear across the end of the idge. If we're not mistaken it is the ty of the State Highway Department look after this stretch of road. Wonr if a maintenance crew will repair is before Ye Olde Observer ruins anher automobile tire and a portion of s good nature?

Miss Martin Becomes Bride Of Mr. Logan

The marriage of Miss Jewel Martin and Mr. Wilson Logan of Gadsden was quietly solemnized at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Lela Martin, at six o'clock on Saturday evening, with only members of the immediate family and a few of the bride's close friends, present.

The Rev. M. I. McLeod read the marriage vows. The altar was banked with ferns, interspersed with standards of gladioli and carnations. On each side of the improvised altar burned white candles.

The bride was becomingly attired in an ensemble of Ashes of Roses crepe. Her hat was aqua blue and other accessories were navy. Her bouquet was of snap-dragons.

After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Logan will be at home in Gadsden, where Mr. Logan is employed by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company.

The bride is a graduate of Alverson Business College of Birmingham, and was employed as secretary in the Chilton County Health Unit.

Mr. Logan is a graduate of Berry College in Rome, Ga., and has done one year graduate work at Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

PILOTS TO SPONSOR DANCE AT CITY HALL

Invitation have been mailed out for the Pilot Club's annual Valentine dance to be held at the City Hall next Thursday night. Proceeds from this dance will be used for under-privileged children.

A very outstanding and popular orchestra, Cecil Mackey, will furnish the music and those receiving bids are assured a pleasant evening of entertainment.

City Projects Are Moving Along Fast

Work on the extension of sanitary sewers throughout the City got underway Monday of this week. Mayor Jones stated that it was his desire to see this facility extended to every section of the City, including the new territory, before the year is ended.

In the meantime the City's new 100,000-gallon treated water tank, located in the northern part of the City, has just been completed, and the 400,000-gallon untreated storage water tank is rising rapidly. This is part of the waterworks project of the City, in whch the water will be secured from Yellow Leaf Creek. Laying of the pipe line has reached the creek, and it can be seen that before long this abundant supply of water will be a reality.

Local Taxi Man Figures In Convict Capture Tuesday

Will Jones, taxi owner of Clanton, had one customer last Tuesday night that he was more than glad to get rid of.

This customer was Frank Roberts, an escaped convict from Spigener Prison, who was captured by Highway Patrolmen near Calera last Tuesday night. He was serving a 40-year sentence from Shelby County for robbery.

Roberts made a daring escape from the Prison Tuesday afternoon, and had made his way to Clanton, where he secured Mr. Jones to drive him to Birmingham. Prison officials had broadcast warning to Patrolmen to be on the lookout for him. Mr. Jones stated that he grew suspicious of Roberts not long after they had started on the trip, and stopped in Thorsby on pretention of buying gasoline, and asked Frank McCain, a resident of that place who was at the filling station, to go with them to Birmingham.

Not far up the road Roberts asked Jones to stop the car, but he refused to do saying that the traffic was too heavy. Patrolmen W. B. Ozley and Gene Curtis hailed the car just below Calera and took Roberts in custody. Will Jones says he wasn't mad at all when they did so. The convict made no attempt to resist arrest, and was unarmed.

JEMISON IS WINNER OVER MITCHELL DAM BY SCORE 51-37

The fast stepping Independents from Jemison stepped through Mitchell Dam Monday night on the cardinal's court for a score of 51-37.

Littlefield, Cobb, and Smith led for Jemison, with twelve points each. They were closely followed by Hilyer with eight and Green with seven.

Doc Baker and J. T. Cobb were the outstanding men on the Cardinal team. The game was a very interesting affair with Jemison holding the lead all the way. The score at the half was twenty three to twenty with Jemison in the lead.

This win was the eighth of the year for Jemison while they have lost only three.

Will Be Guest Of Clanton Kiwanians

HAYGOOD PATERSON

DISTINGUISHED GUESTS AT KIWANIS CLUB

STATE COMMISSIONER OF AGRICULTURE AMONG THOSE WHO WILL ATTEND MEET TONIGHT

The Clanton Kiwanis Club is preparing to play host to several men prominent in public affairs, when they gather for their weekly luncheon at the Thomason Hotel tonight at seven-thirty.

Some time ago several business men of Clanton became members of the fast-growing Alabama State Chamber of Commerce, and tonight officials in this organization, as well as representatives of other departments of the State's leading organizations, will gather to discuss and offer suggestions to the Kiwanis Club in an effort to bring better things to Chilton County in the future.

Business men in the City who are not members of the Kiwanis Club, but who have become members of the Chamber of Commerce, have also been extended an invitation to be present at the meeting.

Honor guests will be as follows: Haygood Paterson, newly-elected State Commissioner of Agriculture and Industries; John M. Ward, Secretary-Treasurer of the Alabama State Chambe of Commerce; Leo C. Turner, Assistant Secetary-Treasurer; Tom C. Reid, Department of Research and Publicity; Luther Fuller, General Farm Products Agent, T.C.I.; Lyle Brown, Extension Marketing Agent, Auburn.

Discussions and talks at the luncheon will center around the problems of agriculture and industry in this county. Recently the Kiwanis Club endorsed the efforts of the Clanton Berry Growers Association and the County Agent's office to establish a Central Marketing Agency for farmers in Chilton, whereby products might be sold cooperatively at better prices. This program is expected to be discussed at this meeting.

Members and invited guests are being urged through letters being mailed out by Secretary J. Mell Martin, to attend the meeting. Mr. Martin was some time ago named a local director in the Alabama State Chamber of Commerce.

Pilot Club Holds Monthly Business Meet

The Pilot Club met last night for their monthly business meeting with a large number present. A report of various committees was given. Gertie Fiquette, Chairman of the Finance Committee, stressed the necessity of cooperation of the entire Club in order to raise money to carry out the objectives for the new year.

The Club iis plannng to do much good for the City, as well as the community in carrying out their objectives for 1939. The Club is making plans for their annual Valentine dance, which is always looked forward to by everyone, and which is given for the underprivileged children. They would appreciate you buying one of their tickets which are only one dollar, even though you do not care to attend the dance, or are unable to attend.

After the reports of other committees Zora Guy Smith had charge of the program which was in the form of a health program. The Club had as their guests Dr. S. D. Sturkie, County Health Doctor, and his assistant, Miss Margaret Rumbley, County Nurse.

Nolan Meroney, member of the Club, gave a report on the possibilities of carrying out objectives, provided they could get cooperation of citizens of the County in carrying out the Health program.

CHANGE OF TIME FOR EVANGELISTIC MEETING

By request of Dr. S. J. Ezell, the Conference on Evangelism for all pastors and evangelistic committees of Unity and Chilton Associations which was generously carried in last week's issue of this paper, will meet at the First Baptist Church at 3:30 today (Thursday), instead of 2:30. This will give those persons who teach time to reach Clanton.

According to the announcement, the speaker will be Alton Lawrence, a representative of the Textile Workers Organizing Committee of the C.I.O., a union which claims membership of half a million textile workers.

Mr. Lawrence will discuss the policies of his organization and the organizational activities which it is carrying on, especially among employees of the Alabama Mills, of which the local textile plant is one unit.

All textile workers and those members of the general public who are interested have an invitation to attend and participate in the general discussion which will follow the speaking.

Executive Assistant At Howard College

LUTHER E. LITTLE

LUTHER LITTLE ACCEPTS PLACE WITH HOWARD

HAS SERVED FIVE YEARS AS COUNTY SUPT. OF EDUCATION IN CHILTON

Prof. Luther E. Little, former Superintendent of Education here and now serving as Assistant Superintendent, has tendered his resignation here to assume the post of executive assistant at Howard College February 15, according to an announcement by Dr. T. V. Neal, president of Howard College.

Prof. Little graduated at Howard in 1932 and has done graduate work since at Peabody College and Vanderbilt University. He is a member of Kappa Phi Kappa, the Alabama Education, National Education Association and the Baptist Church. He is a past president of the Clanton Kiwanis Club.

Prof. Little attended the Chilton County High School, and later served as teacher in the school. He has served five years as Superintendent of Education. He served one year of the unexpired term of Prof. B. Lawrence, and was elected to a four-year term, which expired recently. He withdrew from the Democratic primary race for re-election last Spring, to accept a place with Howard, but it was not definitely announced what position he would hold at that time.

He has been serving as Assistant Superintendent of Education in this County since his term expired several weeks ago. At that time Prof. Rascoe Maddox assumed the duties of Superintendent.

PRESIDENT ASKS PEOPLE TO AID STRICKEN CHILE

LOCAL CHAPTER OF RED CROSS TAKING CONTRIBUTIONS FOR EARTHQUAKE VICTIMS

The local chapter of the National Red Cross is asking for contributions to aid the area in Chile stricken by an earthquake some few days ago. Funds are badly needed and those in this county who would like to contribute to the cause are asked to send their donations to Chilton County Chapter Chairman, C. O. Lawrence, or Secretary J. Mell Martin.

Following is a statement by President Roosevelt regarding the situation:

"The effects of the catastrophe which has overtaken the people of Chile become hourly more serious. The need for hospital supplies, food and clothing is imperative. Perhaps greater than all else is the need for prompt and practical help that may further strengthen the magnificent morale shown by a people afflicted by an appalling calamity.

"It is desirable not only to make the best effort we can to help our friends and neighbors who are in distress, but to make this effort in the most effective way. Therefore, I urge all those individuals, institutions and organizations whose sympathies are aroused by the grief and suffering of thousands of individuals in Chile to coordinate their efforts and to make their contributions through the American Red Cross which, from the outset of this disaster, has been giving assistance through its sister society, the Chilean Red Cross.

Socialism Or Capitalism?

The following article appeared in The Wetumpka Herald last week, and is significant in that it points the dirction in which Alabama is fast drifting:

Socialism In Nebraska

Private utility ownership in Nebraska is steadily receding before the rising tide of public ownership. Apparently it will only be a question of time before Nebraska's electric industry, heretofore owned and operated as a private enterprise and developed by individual savings and ingenuity, is turned over lock, stock and barrel to public agencies operated by politicians who haven't a thin dime of their own money invested in the undertakings. Regardless of rosy pictures painted by professional politicians, the electric industry of Nebraska would then be a menace not only to that state but to the entire nation because it represents something that, in principle, is diametrically opposed to the traditional American system of encouraging individual enterprise.

When the state takes over an industry, socialism becomes a fact. Socialism and capitalism cannot live permanently side by side. One will eventually displace the other. In the meantime, there is constant strife. The politicians seek to extend the grip of government on industry, and industry (private enterprise) fights back.

The man in the street may think it makes no difference to him who operates industry. If he can get "cheap" electricity by voting for government ownership, why not do it? He forgets the tragic fact that the thing that kills private industry will some day deprive him of his liberty. As private enterprise is crushed, so democratic government is crushed.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

One Sabbath afternoon I was preaching for the colored people and as I warmed up on my subject the audience more and more got into the spirit of the occasion. At last a great big fat, greasy, loud-talking sister shouted, "Ride dat horse, parson, ride dat horse!" The horse that I was riding at that time was that old question of how whiskey will ruin folks, white and black. We have just gone through the experience of another Christmas with State operated whiskey stores and more than ever I am convinced that whiskey is public enemy number one. Why intelligent people will allow a State whiskey store to mop up with a three thousand dollar sale on Christmas eve is more than I can understand. God in heaven knows that the blood of the ignorant and the wicked will be required of our hands. The time has come when the ministry should "Ride dat horse, parson, ride dat horse."

Since I have been living I have seen changes of all kinds. I have witnessed the going of the horse and the buggy. I have seen the coming of paved highways. The phone has come into rural homes. The voices of air have been made vocal over the radio. Heavier than air ships have been made to sail the sky. Fashions have changed from tight to loose and from loose to tight, from high skirts to low and from low to high. But, listen to me, there is one thing that has not changed and that is sin. I heard Dr. Charles E. Jefferson, a great New York preacher, say, "Many things on Broadway have changed during my ministry of thirty years, but sin has remained the same. Adultry, drunkenness, profanity, thieving, revelry—are just the same today." Sin is just as contemptable and just as injurious as it was a thousand years ago. Like the laws of the Medes and Persians—sin changeth not.

While watching the collection plate as it went down the pews I observed that a good lady was becoming nervous. Evidently she had no money with her. To relieve an embarrassing situation she borrowed a quarter from her friend who was sitting beside her. I went to that lady's home for dinner and heard her break the news to her husband about the borrowed twenty-five cens. His reply was characteristic "Mamie, why did you do that. You could have let the plate go by and pay nothing." That sounded like a host of folks at church. "Let her go by and pay nothing."

One day I took a bottle of molasses and poured some of it on the back steps and sat down to see what would come there to feast on the sweets. In a few moments several flies and a host of ants were there eating of the sweets in easy reach. The molasses attracted flies and ants but I observed that nothing but insects came. What a pity when we see the modern girl spreading the sweets of her life in easy reach of young men. When a girl is popular at petting parties she will attract a host of insects, but she is repulsive to the young man who is worth attracting. Promiscuous kissing, like molasses, will attract filthy flies and stinging ants.

While in the Garden Of The Gods near Colorado Springs last Summer I was told this story: A man lost his way one night in this garden and for some time he wandered about. Finally, thinking himself permanently lost, he fired his pistol, hoping that some one would answer. Imagine his surprise when a moment later he counted 150 automobile lights that were snapped on. That must have been a petting party located out there among the rocks. When people ride out into he lanes and by-ways and then extinguish the lights, they are afraid to meet a bullet in the dark. We have no trouble in knowing what is going on when the lights are extinguished. Verily, I say unto your fathers and mothers—yea, and unto some of you wives and husbands: You had better be on the lookout. There is "something dead in Denmark" when rides cease to be rides in some secluded spot. ,g1dvl't

Washington Special to Alabama Dailies

Alabama's two senators are not exercised over the sale of American airplanes to France.

"It's absolutely all right," said Sen. Lister Hill, member of the Senate military affairs committee. "We want to build up and sustain capacity production of airplanes in the factories in this country, and the sale of planes to France and Great Britain will help us do that."

"My general view," said Sen. John H. Bankhead, "Is that I'd like for us to sell anything that any foreign nation wants to pay cash for and haul off in its own ships. That goes for cotton as well as airplanes, and in peace or war. Much of our cotton trouble today is due to the fact that we're not on friendly terms with the dictation nations, which are or have been our best cotton customers."

DAUPHIN ISLAND AMERICA'S MOST HISTORIC SPOT

AMERICUS VESPUCIUS VISITED THERE; SO DID DeSOTO

By DAVID HOLT

Banishment Oak on Dauphin Isla received its name as a result of the a causing its present condition. The is land's historians tell us that many yea ago a member of the colony attempte to kill this giant tree. When the resi dents discovered what had been lo this anger caused the nearest brea of the peace to occur on the isla within decades; however, instead of re sorting to corporal punishment the o fender was banished forever from Da phin Island, thus giving the Oak i name.

No spot in North America has figured in the white man's history of the continent for a longer period than has Dauphin Island, the strip which forms a part of the fringe that protects Mobile Bay from the sometimes boisterous moods of the Gulf of Mexico.

Americus Vespucius, for whom the continent was named, undoubtedly visited the island and included it in his maps that fired Europe with a zeal for discovery and conquest even more than did the reports of Columbus' voyages who had the better publicity.

Somewhere beneath the loose sands that compose almost the entire surface of the island are undiscovered relics of its static and eventful periods, for the sands of Dauphin, like the bituminous pits of California and South America, have preserved many souvenirs of other ages; artifacts, glass, stone and the less corrosive metals that have been hurled in fight, carelessly thrown aside or otherwise lost since human habitation began there.

Heavier objects sink beneath the shifting sand and continue to go deeper through the ages until they encounter the hard-packed wet sand at the sea level or the crust of sub-soil beneath the sand. The acres of oyster and mussel shells on the side of the island nearest the mainland, portions of aboriginal shell mounds, believed to have been started before the Red Man came and drove out the older races that preceded him, have yielded many evidences of the oldest culture to be found on the continent, these mounds which were found to be covered with human skeletons when the French Colonial Expedition arrived in 1699, gave it the name of Massacre Island. They have never been fully or scientifically explored.

Hernando DeSoto chose Dauphin Island, whch he called Malhado, as the center from which to Christianize the continent. He was influenced to make this choice by his admiral, Francisco Maldonado, who later was to spend an anxious period of vain waiting with his fleet in Mobile (Anchussi) Bay for the return of his chief, who was to have joined him at the mouth of the River of the Holy Spirit, the Alabama-Coosa, but who pressed on in his search for gold and was buried in the Mississippi River, where the disintegration of his expedition began.

Admiral Maldonado was well acquainted with the bay and island and it is more than probable that he left some souvenir of his residence there for some tourist visitor of this age to disco by probing in the surface sand.

When Henry Bacon and his fam occupied quarters at Fort Gaine, th had formerly been used by the Co Artillery officers, a guest who was a enthusiastic collector of rare old bo tles and ceramic objects of past ag made a number of really valuable fin by probing into the sand with a st ramrod and grappling the object e countered. Old coins and other fin have been made by the same meth of search by residents and visitors.

Search for relics of Tristan De L na's Expedition which sailed from Y catan in 1558 and reached the sh of Mobile Bay, which they called F pina, may be rewarded with recogn able discoveries in the sands of Da phin. Many evidences of the p when the island was the capital a center of operations for the French te ritory of Louisiana have been f and more are yet to be unearthed a the most casual search brings to lig objects left by British soldiers w were quartered there for a time f lowing the defeat of General Pack ham's army at New Orleans in 181

The Confederate period left its ma on the island, not only at Fort Gain which was captured by a land atta soon after the battle of Mobile B but at other points and many relic that struggle may be seen, within a without Fort Morgan, now a muse and Fort Gaines, which will be state property under the pending a ment with the City of Mobile which owns the fort and 267-acre reservati

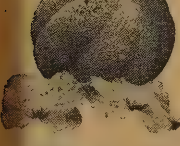
ALL vine crops are heavy feeders on potash. In addition to being necessary for large yields, potash is the plant food which has the most effect in getting the quality which brings top prices.



Cantaloupes grown with higher amounts of potash produce a better set. The fruit is more uniform in size and shape and has a higher sugar content.

Cucumbers develop a deeper green color, firmer flesh, better shape (with fewer crooked and pinched tips, swollen middles, and lengthy "strings") when the fertilizer contains plenty of potash.

Watermelon growers find that potash reduces white heart, makes the melons sweeter and more uniform in size, and improves the shipping quality.

Your county agent or experiment station will tell you the right fertilizer and amount per acre to use on your soils. Your fertilizer dealer will point out to you how little extra it costs to apply enough potash.

Write us for further information and literature on the profitable fertilization of Southern crops.

The many friends and relatives of Mrs. Enoch Wilson are heart-broken over the sudden shock that came to them last Saturday night and took her to the realms above. Mrs. Wilson had been sick for a great while. She hasn't been in good health for the past three or four years. She was known everywhere. The funeral was conducted by Revs. Carroll and Davis. She was laid to rest in the Maple Springs cemetery Sunday afternoon, February 5, at 3:00 o'clock, with Spigener Funeral Home in charge. Weep not, dear friends she is not dead—she is only sleeping in the arms of Jesus.

1½ CENT COACH FARES NOW IN EFFECT ON L. & N.

Officials of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad have announced the adoption of coach fares at 1½ cents a mile over the entire system.

These new rates, now in effect, are about 25 per cent cheaper than those which have been in effect. Practically all the Southeastern lines have adopted the same scale, and the area which benefits from this reduction extends south from the Ohio and Potomac Rivers and west as far as the Mississippi.

Hints to Gardeners

by Harold Coulter
Vegetable Expert

New Practices

CERTAIN old-time practices in gardening are just as good today as they were fifty or a hundred and fifty years ago. But just as surely, certain others should be put aside as experience proves them unwise and impractical.

Gardeners, for instance, should no longer follow the practice of allowing all vegetables to grow as large as possible. This may give a higher yield in pounds, but with many vegetables it destroys quality Some, of course, like tomatoes, must be mature to be palatable; but carrots, cucumbers, beets, summer squash, turnips, radishes and other vegetables like them are more tender and tasty when hardly more than half grown.

Deep hoeing, once practiced by the majority of gardeners is now generally frowned on as having no real purpose and being damaging to plants. Many gardeners now use the hoe only to scrape off weeds. Deeper hoeing is unnecessary, and often breaks off hidden lateral roots which run just underneath the surface of the soil.

Few gardeners save flower seeds nowadays as they did years ago. Fine flowers in the home garden very often are cross-pollinated by other flowers of the same species, making flowers grown from their seeds inferior and untrue because of contamination of strain. Commercial seed growers devote much study and planning to prevention of cross-pollination in their crops.

The practice of planting vegetables only once a year is likewise becoming unpopular. Gardens prove more profitable when successive plantings of favorite crops are made every two or three weeks, to keep fresh vegetables coming to the table over a long period of the year

More intelligent use of manure and other fertilizers is becoming prevalent as gardeners learn that limited measured amounts often do many times the good done by unnecessarily heavy applications.

SAVING THE SOIL THROUGH CONSERVATION

RECORD IS MADE BY TALLAPOOSA COUNTY FARMS IN COOPERATIVE PROGRAM

At the close of 1938, 500 Tallapoosa County farmers were cooperating with the Soil Conservation Service in the erosion-control area near Dadeville by carrying out a complete program of soil and water conservaticn Service in the erosion-control area near Dadeville by carrying out a complete program of soil and water conservation on their farms, according to J. E. McLean, project conservationist.

Comprising some 83,000 acres, these cooperating farms have provided an opportunity to develop and demonstrate under actual farming conditions practical, locally-adapted erosion-control practices applicable throughout this entire section.

Strip cropping, which was virtually an unknown farming practice when work was begun in the local area five years ago, had been practiced on 30,000 acres by the close of the year. This practice consists of planting alternate broad strips or bands of close-growing crops between strips of clean-tilled crops to provide vegetative barriers across the path of run-off water, Mr. McLean explained.

More than 3,100 miles of new broad-channel terraces have been built, protection for 28,300 acres of cultivated land, and contour tillage is being practiced on virtually all of the land in cultivation.

While clean-tilled crops are being reduced by 10,000 acres, pasture land is being increased by 2,100 acres. permanent hay by 3,600 acres other erosion-resisting crops by 3,600 acres, and approved crop rotations by 22,000 acres.

At the same tme 11,000,000 trees have been planted on steep and severely eroded land and an additional 73000 shrubs and trees have been set ont on idle or unproductive areas to serve the dual purpose of controlling erosion and providing food and cover for wildlife, Mr. McLean said.

This program has been carried out in cooperation with the Alabama Extension Service and other agricultural agencies.

CHILEAN NITRATE INDUSTRY UNHURT BY EARTH QUAKE

News that the recent earth-quake in Chili in no way afffected the Chilean Nitrate of Soda industry is welcomed by farmers and agricultural workers of the Soutnern States.

Because of the importance of Chilean Nitrate to agriculture in the United States, particularly to the South, press dispatches concerning the disaster, aside from arousing wide news interest and sympathy had caused some speculation as to the disaster's affect upon the supply of this widely used fertilizer.

Mines plants and transportation properties of the nitrate industry are entirely outside the area affected by the earthquake.

"No damage whatsoever has occurred to affect the industry in which so many American farmers depend," declares a spokesman for the industry. "The earthquake zone is more than 500 miles south of the nitrate fields. All nitrate facilities are in northern Chili. The disaster. with its tragic loss of life, was confined to a relatively small area in the southern portion of Chile. Farmers in America and throughout the world, who look to this natural fertilizer for aid in crop production, need feel no concern. The nitrate supply is in no way affected by the disaster which has struck southern Chile."

Only four states in the Union have gasoline taxes, license tag fees and personal property taxes on automobiles as high as Alabama. They are: Arkansas, Florida, Louisiana and Tennessee.

SARDIS

The health of this community is very good at the present and we hope it will continue. Although we are sorry to say that our new neighbor, Mr. Joe Edwards, passed away last Friday afternoon. We hope he is resting in Jesus' arms. Let us all try to meet him when our journey is over.

Our Sunday School is very well attended, but it could be better if the people would wake up on their jobs. Let's don't forget that next Saturday and Sunday is our regular preaching days, and we are expecing the Rev. Steward and his singers to be with us on this day. So come on, people, and be with us because we are sure you will not regret coming and hearing both, preaching and singing.

News from Thorsby

MRS. WEBB PARRISH, Correspondent

Church News

There will be regular services at the Congregatonal Church next Sunday.

Mr. Richard Petersen, a student at Southern Union College, Wadley, Alabama, had charge of the eleven o'clock service at the Congregational Church on Sunday morning.

Rev. Hubert Bahr of Chicago, Ill., has been called to fill the place of pastor of the Thorsby Congregational Church. Mr. Bahr was born in North Dakota and graduated from the North Dakota Agricultural College where he majored in Social Science. He was pastor for two years at Argusville, North Dakota. He has had experience as a Boy Scout master as well as wide experience in Sunday School and all types of church work. For some time he has been studying in the Chicago Theological Seminary and is now serving as minister in the Onward Neighborhood House of Chicago. Mr. Bahr expects to begin his work in Thorsby the first week in March.

On Friday night, February 10, in the Thorsby Institute auditorium at 7:30 o'clock, the Truth Seekers Class of the Congregational Sunday School will have a party. Admission will be ten cents. Refreshments will be served free. There will be games and other fun. Valentines will be sold. The proceeds will be used for the mission project of the class.

Christian Endeavor News

The Christian Endeavor Society had a social Saturday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Belter. Everyone was entertained by games and music by a string band. Refreshments were served. The society is very grateful to Mr. and Mrs. Belter for their kindness in having the Endeavorers come to their home for the social.

Sunday evening at the regular time the Christian Endeavor had its regular meeting. Miss Frances Wood, head of the Missionary Committee, was in charge. The program was in two divisions: "India Missions" and "China Missions." Nelle Marcus, Doris Harden and Hazel Pate spoke on India Missions. Then special music was rendered by Fred Blankenship and Richard Petersen. After that Hazel Burnham and Ruth Duke spoke on "China Missions." Following the program Ouida Wright, president of the society, gave a short talk concerning the Christian pledge and the true Endeavorer's attitude in the meetings.

One of the loveliest social events of the winter was held last Saturday afternoon in the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Bosworth, the occasion being the ninetieth birthday of Mr. C. P. Turnquist. The guests included the early settlers of Thorsby, many of them being in the seventies, and one in the eighties. All were happy to be present on such a rare occasion and Mr. Turnquist was showered with gifts, cards, and sinceriest congratulations. The home was beautifully decorated with tapers in crystal holders, tall vases of carnations, Calendulas, narcissus, and Japanese Magnolias, while lower vases contained many beautiful specimen japonicas.

The dining room table was graced with an enormous birthday cake, embossed infruitsm and flowers and covered with a multitude of miniature candles. The six daughters, Mrs. Sam Thorsen of Chicago, Mrs. James Bosworth of Thorsby, Mrs. Lon Reagan, and Mrs. Reuben Foss of Clanton, Mrs. Carl Peterson of Birmingham and Miss Naemi Turnquist of Selma were the hostesses; the latter also took charge of the guest book. Mr. Charlie Peterson one of the early settlers of Thorsby, paid a well deserved tribute to the long and useful life of Mr. Turnquist, and to his fine family, all of whom were present with the exception of his son, Charlie, who recently paid him a visit and was called to Tampa to attend an important business conference.

A delicious luncheon was served, consisting of assorted sandwiches, crullers, doughnuts and cake and candies. The Valentine spirit was carried out in the napkins and the various heart shaped candies. After the candles on the birthday cake were extinguished, it was cut and served by Mrs. Sam Thorsen of Chicago, the eldest of the six daughters.

Following the luncheon Mrs. Reuben Foss and Miss Naemi Turnquist rendered some lovely vocal selections accompanied at the piano by Miss Kathryn Foss. On leaving, the guests expressed their appreciation at having been honored to share the day with one whom God had so abundantly blessed with a long, happy, christian life. All wished Mr. Turnquist many happy returns of the day.

Morning worship, 11:00 A.M. Sermon by the pastor.

Young Peoples' meetings, 6:15 P.M.

Evening worship, 7:15 P.M. Sermon by the pastor.

We want to "brag on" those workers of our Church School who worked so well last week that last Sunday we had a wonderful increase in attendance over the previous records. The contest between the Wesley Fellowship Class and the rest of the Church School is going full blast, and it behooves every member and every person interested in our Church School to work for his respective side in the contest and just see how far we can build our church school.

Perhaps it would help if we took the following "Swarm of B's" for our motto:

Be regular at Church: it energizes your spiritual life.

Be a subscriber: it helps you create moral fibre for the community.

Be punctual: it enables the pastor to begin the service in a spirit of confidence and encouragement.

Be worshipful: as your participate in the service, you increase your own pleasure.

Be friendly: move along in your pew for the stranger.

Be generous and just: charity for the poor and unfortunate radiates from God's house.

Be inspiring: the sermon but reflects the audiene.

Be sociable: that makes a warm atmosphere.

Be optimistic: that means a contagious healthfulness, happiness, hopefulness.

Be easy: watch the speaker, rather than watch your watch.

Be kindly: faults and failings are often only virtues on the wrong track.

Be loyal to the pastor: he can be no greater success than the people will let him.

Who's Who—What's What and Whose Been Where? . . . I've tried to find out and I have gleaned a few things. . . . It seems so strange to see all the young married folks buying groceries (mostly canned ones) when only "yesterday" they were studying English, or were they? . . . Oh, yes, Miss Foss's visitor I mentioned last week was a fellow-teacher and I hear that she's just lots of fun. . . . Mrs. Jack Hayes certainly looks "cute" in that black "honey" hat—and have you noticed Miss McCree's bright new spring hat and gloves? They look like they were just made for her. . . . Ought to say something here about a well known and very much liked local news commentator but . . . Have you boys noticed the candy in Upchurch's window?—and does it suggest anything? . . . Mrs. Little and Mrs. Searcy were riding around Saturday all "dressed up" and I just bet they went to Montgomery or Birmingham to buy but maybe not. . . . We are all wondering where Elizabeth McSwain got those new oxfords 'cause we want some—do you mind, Elizabeth . . . Guess the Japonica season is here. The other night at the movie someone "punched" me and said "look!" I looked and saw none other than Mrs. Hance Alred and Mrs. John Hollis with lovely japonica corsages on—and I think we should thank our theater manager for such a good run of movies lately. . . . The palmist has left us so those of you who didn't visit her will have to guess your futures or go elsewhere. Of course I don't believe in fortune telling but it is fascinating. . . . If you see a very pretty brunette in the lobby of the Thomason Hotel it's probably Mrs. Johnson, a new-comer but, boys, she's married. . . . Those of you who were at the supper at the Methodist Church last week know what fun everyone had and what good eats—well, those who weren't there just missed a grand time. . . . I wonder if that pretty blue sweater Guy McKee has is hand knitted. . . QUOTE: A very singular combination: UNQUOTE: Brains and beauty combined in a certain cute little secretary employed by local power company. . . . Those are cute white oxfords in Mullin's window but not just everyone can wear such strictly sport things but Olive Rainer Elmore can. . . . A green knitted dress is just "tops" and one looks quite nice on Mrs. Reid Mullins. . . . Even water tastes better at Upchurch's new fount. . . . Well, gotta' gather all my little brain-children, spank them, and put them to bed with their backs against the wall 'til next week when I'll see you again.—By GAD.

P.-T. A. Meeting

The Royal Ambassadors of the Clanton Baptist Church met last Friday afternoon at the home of their counselor, Mrs. R. M. Tucker. The boys are very enthusiastic about this work. They had a very nice meeting in which they discussed the duties of each officer. After the business the boys were served hot dogs and cold drinks, which were given by Circle Six of the W.M.U.. as their personal service for this month.

The boys enjoyed the refreshments very much. If you are of R.A. age come and meet with us on Friday, February 17. at four o'clock at the home of Lewis Eubanks. We need you very much!

Baptist W. M. U. Meets

The Baptist W.M.U. held their regular monthly business meeting Monday afternoon at the church. There was very good attendance. Mrs. Dewey Eubanks gave the devotional with Mrs. S. J. Ezell assisting by reading part of the scripture.

Reports were made and quite a few subjects brought up for discussion. Count was made to see which circle had the largest number present at this meeting, and we are happy to congratulate Mrs. Arthur Willis, chairman of Circle four, who has the honor of wearing our W.M.U. pin for the following month. Circle Four seems to have been working on membership. Come on and let's all get busy. After the count the meeting was dismissed with prayer.

Alpine

The Alpine Home Demonstration Club met at Alpine Church January 31st with five visitors and eight members present.

1. Our president being absent, the meeting was called to order by Mrs. Jones.

2. Miss Barber, taking charge, gave us a very interesting talk on the kind of foods and the amount of each, for an adequate diet.

3. The things that are most interesting to know is that by using our heads and our hands we can produce the things that are needed for better health, right at home, on our farms.

So let's everybody say "hurrah!" for the open country.

4. We were glad to have with us, Mr. Breedlove, who gave us a good talk on planting our year-round garden and caring for the home orchard.

5. No other business, so the club adjourned to meet at the home of Mrs. G. W. Walker February 28.

Enterprise

The Enterprise 4-H Club met Wednesday, February 1, 1939.

The meeting was called to order by the Presilent, Lucyle Baker. Roll called and minutes read by the secretary, Inez Williams. After saying our 4-H Club pledge, the meeting was turned over to Miss Barber, which she lectured to us on how to arrange different dishes on the table, and how to be more careful about our daily tasks. Everyone seemed to be more enthusiastic over the inspiring program which was given by our agent.

We then adjourned, looking forward to our next meeting, March 3rd. Come on, 4-H girls—keep your head upward with a true and brave smile, Miss Barber says also to keep our record books up to date, then we'll have a good time after awhile.

TONS of Prevention

WHEN you see those interesting big gray-green Southern Bell trucks rolling along, you're likely to think they are going to the scene of some break in the telephone lines. Breaks ARE repaired quickly, day or night, but merely repairing breaks after they occur wouldn't provide the kind of telephone service you're entitled to. It is also necessary to prevent interruptions to your vital telephone service. This is done by constant checking—replacing weak units—reconstructing in accordance with new knowledge and materials—maintaining unceasing vigilance over the long distance lines to locate and correct faults before they become serious. The number of "troubles" on Southern Bell lines has been reduced two-thirds in ten years, by using such "tons of prevention", as well as "tons of cure". These "tons" of prevention are one part of the Bell System's constant effort to insure for you a constantly improving telephone service that is efficient—dependable—economical.

MULBERRY W.M.S. HELD MONTHLY MEETING FEB. 1

The regular monthly business meeting of the Mulberry W.M.S. met at the church Welnesday, February 1, 1939.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. Frances McCary, the first vice-president, Mrs. Era Davenport, took charge. The program subject was "The Great Commission—Our Mission." Mrs. T. L. Lecroy had charge of the devotional. She read different verses from the Bible on prayer. She gave us a very inspirational talk about how prayer influences our lives.

Much interest is being shown in the work but there are others whom the W.M.U. needs. In order to be of some service we must find our place to serve. We need you with us the first Wednesday in each month.

Work Of U. D. C. Is Rapidly Growing; Organization Can Point To Many Accomplishments

EDITOR'S NOTE—The following was handed us by Mrs. Billy Barger of this City with the request that it be published. Mrs. Barger is an active worker in the organization of United Daughters of the Confederacy.

One of the chief duties of the U.D.C. is to the decendants of our Confederate veterans who need education. As an organization, we assumed a tremendous responsibility many years ago when we became actively interested in the education and welfare of their decendants.

The tomorrow of our country rests upon the enlightenment of the children of today. Edward Burk said "Civilization is a contract between the great dead, the living and the unborn." If we can help to hold high that torch of civilization until it is laid tenderly into young earnest uplifted hands, we shall indeed have fulfilled our contract with our patriotic fathers and mothers and our God. Under the leadership of our faithful Chairman this work in Alabama has grown by leaps and bounds.

VISIT TO TULSA AND U. D. C. CONVENTION

By Mrs. Mary E. White

Mrs. Mary E. White, historian of the Alabama Division of the U. D. C., recently returned from Tulsa, Oklahoma where she attended the general convention of U. D. C. Below is an account of her experiences and proceedings of the meeting which she prepared at the request of her local paper.

On my return from Tulsa, Okla., my brother greeted me with these words, "Mary, when does the next train leave?" I think he was justifiable in his inquiry, for it does seem that I have covered a great deal of territory extending from Alabama to Gettysburg, Pa., where I attended the Reunion Anniversary of the Blue and the Gray. Later to Columbia, S. C., for the Confederate Veteran's Reunion and then swinging westward to Tulsa, Oklahoma for the convention of the United Daughters of the Confederacy. In the beginning I want to say that being a member of the U. D. C. has been an education to me. Paths of service have opened opportunity to develop, "that something" within me which I must have inherited from my father, a love for history, other than music history, found an outlet for expression. Many talks havebeen made, the editor of the Aliceville News has graciously asked me to prepare articles for the paper. I have with their assistance sought to share rich and glorious experiences with others with the desire that these efforts as feeble as they may be, prove helpful to any who enter into these experences with me. A colored friend expressed my feeling recently when she said of herself, "I may not have much brains, but I sho has tried to use what I has." The contacts and association I have had with women connected with this great organization has enriched my own life, for it is true when I state that most of the women who are leaders in U. D. C. in their various states are also active in civic, club and church circles in their communities, building for the betterment of mankind in a broader scope. I shall not in this article attempt to write on the business of the convention. Will only state that:

Under the leadership of Mrs. Walter D. Lamar, president-General of Macon, Ga., the work of the general organization U. D. C. has gone forward in a fine way. Reports from all officers show that much is being accomplshed. New chapters are being organized, many of these above the Mason and Dixon line.

"The convention program was lovingly dedicated to Gen. John W. Harris, commander-in-chief U. C. V. of Oklahoma City. The convention was honored by his presence. The program booklet carried pctures of general Harris, General Standevatie, the only Indian Brigadier-General in the Confederate Army, Sequoyah, the originator of the Cherokee Alphabet, Will Rogers, the most beloved humorist and philosopher of our time and of Mrs. Lamar, president-general.

Taking part on programs from time to time were very fine Indian singers and speakers. Greetings from the Indians was brought by a well known Oklahoma artist, Acee Blue Eagle, who recently completed murals in the veteran's Hospital at Muskogee. He has been asked to submit designs for the Will Rogers High School in Muskogee. The Indian has contributed much to the life and development of our country. One has only to come in contact with them to see and appreciate t he splendid things they are doing.

An interesting incident was told me by a friend concerning a noted Indian character, Granny. "Spots" Perryman, who at the age of 123 years is enjoying good health. Three of her brothers put up the first store of "Tulsey Town". She took for her allotment, the place where the Brady Hotel now stands. When she sold the property for sixty thousand dollars she would not accept anything but silver money. My friend stated that it was difficult to find enough baskets to hold the silver. Many interesting incidents were told me about this noble woman who with her sister served under Gen. Standevatie during the War Between The States. These sisters saw "Tulsey Town" grow and develop into the marvelously beautiful city of Tulsa, the Old Capital of the World.

Aside from the regular business routine of the convention which was one of the most constructive and inspiring ever held, the dstinguished officers, delegates and visitors had many delightful courtesies extended them. Buffet suppers by states were given on Sunday evening. Alabama division had as hostess a former Alabama woman, Mrs. T. I. Sullivan, president of the Oklahoma division. Mrs. Sullivan and her mother, Mrs. F. M. Aldridge, entertained the Alabama delegation at the lovely home of Mrs. Aldridge. This charming mother and daughter are relatives of the "Drennens," one of the most prominent families in Alabama. Mrs. Aldridge is a brilliant musician and singer of note. Other former Alabamians residing in Tulsa were present, one being Mrs. Fred Fulgham, whose husband was law partner of Thomas M. Owen when they resided in Carrollton many years ago. Mrs. Fulgham was delighted to know I was fom Pickens County and asked about people she had known, sending special messages of love to members of the Henry Latham family, remarking that he rassociation with the "Latham Girls" has remained among her sweetest memories. Two former Alabamians from New York were present, Mrs. T. Darrington Semple and her daughter.

Special religious service for the convention was held at the Boston Avenue Methodist Chuch. Beautiful music was rendered by the choir and an impressive message brought by the pastor Dr. Foney Hutchinson who used as his eminiscent subject, "The Christ I Joined And The Churrh I Now Serve." This Church is considered the most beautiful in the world from a morning I had attended service at the First Baptist Church, Dr. J. W. Storer who is pastor, welcomed the convention to be held in the city, mentioning that he had been pastor of two former president-generals and paid tribute to them and to the organization. At this service, being a stranger, I was delighted to see my dear friend, also a past president-general, Mrs. L. M. Bashinsky, of Troy, Alabama, in the congregation.

"Historical Evening" presided over by the Historian General Mrs. William C. Flournoy of Lexington, Va., was a brilliant event. A colorful part of this program is the processional of color bearers and color guards, with division historians bearing the state flag. Mrs. Sumpter Rhame of Charleston, S. C., carried the French flag representing the chapter in Paris, France. Guest speaker, Hon. Lee, senator from Oklahoma, spoke on Robert E. Lee. We Alabamians felt puffed with pride when Senator Lee mentioned the fact that his parents came from Alabama and he, himself, was born in Alabama. Mrs. Laura Krey, author of "And Tell of Time," formerly of Texas, also spoke on this program. A playlet, "An evening in '61" written by two Tulsa chapter members was enjoyed. Several military service crosses were awarded World War and Spanish American soldiers. Delightful musical numbers, and a vocal solo by Mary Jane Red Eagle, Quapaw Indian, wearing a gorgeous Indian costume, brought forth much praise. A group of Indian dances by a lovely young Indian girl, with her father playing the piano accompaniment, was a worthy contribution to the program. Many beautiful original costumes were worn by daughters of the Confederacy on this occasion and one felt that the Old South was being lived over again.

On the return trip we were entertained at a lovely luncheon in Muskogee by chapter members there. Many beautiful teas and luncheons were given by Tulsa Chapter hostesses. One courtesy of special mention was that of Mrs. Roberta Campbell Lawson, Past National President of Federation of Women's Clubs, who graciously open her beautiful home and private mu um to the delight of all visitor

I visited friends in Henryetta, Ok where I had the privilege of gatheri material helpful to me in my work Historian of the Alabama division a which I shall be happy to share w others from time to time.

Let us remember that, "Whatever t dures in the present has come from t past." I am proud of the past histo thankful for the present and hope for the future.

"Ours is a noble heritage, let us l worthy of it."

FRESHMAN ELECTION

Shelby County—

Members of the freshman class at Alabama College this week elected Yancey Bailey, Opelika, president. Other officers are Emma Anderson, Seale, ice-president; Josephine Herrington, Selma, secretary, and Catherine Lanford, Birmingham, treasurer.

Vera Parkman, Seale, was elected representative to the executive board; Edwina Morgan, Thomasville, representative to the athletic board and Annie Boyd Parker, Talladega, representative to the publications board.

The class each year selects a temporary chairman at the beginning of the session to serve until the regular elections are held in January. Frances Roberts of Birmingham was this year's chairman.—Montevallo Times.

$30,000,000 Crop Of Vegetables Is 1939 Goal

The State Extension Service today inaugurated a "more gardens" project aimed at tripling the state's vegetable output.

W. A. Ruffin, extension horticulturist, announced that garden demonstration projects will be established in most of the 67 counties.

They will be similar to projects now demonstrating newer methods of growing cotton.

Total value of the Alabama garden crop last year was estimated at between 10 and 12 billion dollars. The extension service said its surveys revealed that this output was only one-tenth the actual needs of the sate.

Mr. Ruffin said that his program will aim at a $30,000,000 vegetable crop in 1939.

HUNDREDS OF LOBSTERS ARE WASHED ASHORE

Hull, Mass.—Lobsters washed ashore by an incoming tide provided a meal for hundreds of residents along Massachusetts' south shore. Fishermen estimated thousands were carried onto the sands in five hours. The largest was a five-pounder, but most were small.

Geodetic survey experts traced the "ground rollers" apparently set up along the ocean bed by two days' strong offshore winds. Fishermen expressed fears the loss of so many young lobsters would cause a shortage early next summer.

PLYMOUTH FLOATS DOWN TH RIVER

C. W. Wiggins and companion of 1016 Old Shell Road of Mobile, escaped accident here Friday night with no injures.

The two boys were returning to their cottage at Bon Secour bridge at a high speed. The car got out of control as they entered on the bridge and plunged some twenty feet to the water. As the car hit the water both boys got out and swam to safety without a scratch.

On arrival of the Hesse wrecking crew at the scene the car was floating down the river. The car was recovered with slight damage.—Foley Onlooker.

Potato Growing Is Discussed By J. W. Fant

I have discussed with you the possibility of producing sweet potatoes for market in 1939. We discussed the possibility of the production of the particular strain of Porto Rico potato known in South Carolina as the Sugar Yam Potato.

We had in mind at the time we discussed this proposition with you that it would be necessary to order seed potatoes from South Carolina. Since I discussed this matter with you I found that there are some potatoes in Chilton County that were produced from certified plants that were ordered from a reliable plant grower in South Carolina. Mr. Hayden went with me to see these potatoes and he thinks they are just as good as potatoes that we would get from South Carolina, and would cost less than the South Carolina seed.

If you still plan to plant these potatoes you should arrange for seed potatoes. The potatoes should be bedded about 6 weeks before they are to be planted in the field. I think we should get plants in the field here about the first week in April, which would mean that they should be bedded about the middle of February.

The best information we have, indicates, that a bushel of seed potatoes will produce approximately 2,000 potato plants, which means if we bed enough to produce plants for one acre it would require about 6 bushels of potatoes. I believe that one acre of potatoes set from the potato slips and properly cared for would make a sufficient number of vine cuttings by June 1 to plant 3 more acres, which in my opinion is sufficient for any one grower to undertake to produce this year.

Mr. Marion W. Easterling, Clanton, Route 1, has the potatoes I referred to above (Note below what he has to say about them). He lives about 4 miles east of Clanton. If you are interested in getting seed from him I would advise you to write him or contact him within the near future.

Yours very truly,

J. W. FANT, Co. Agent

"I have the Sugar Yam Potatoes grown from vine cuttings, which are strongly recommended by the Agricultural Department as a precaution against disease. I find that this strain is fully up to the average in production, and has a much beter quality meat and flavor than the old strain Porto Rico. It has a copper-colored skin, and the color of the flesh or meat is rich salmon or orange yellow. If you are not interested in this strain for commercial planting, I would insist that you get them for home use, because "they are better." You will find some of the potatoes at the County Agent's office for your inspection. You can also leave orders there for potatoes.

F. C. Of Alabama Club Organized At C.C.H.S.

The F. C. of Alabama, a new club, organized by the Diversified Occupations classes of Alabama, has been organized at C.C.H.S. This is one of the first schools to organize such a club.

The Class organized the club, elected officers and planned their activities with the help of the Co-ordinator, Mr. B. E. Evans. Some splendid work is expected of the club, through the remainder of the school year and years to come.

Between 700 and 100 high school students will meet at the University of Alabama in a three-day music festival March 30-April 1.

FLOYD ROBERTS
1938 National Race Champion
Champion race drivers, whose very lives and chances of victory depend on tire safety, know tire construction and that is why they select and buy Firestone Tires for their racing cars.

FIRESTONE triumphs again! This time with the new Firestone Champion, the tire that sets the safety standards for 1939. This new tire provides a combination of safety features never before built into a tire. It is a completely new achievement in safety engineering.

From the experience gained on the speedways of the world and in the Firestone laboratories, Firestone engineers have developed a revolutionary new type of cord body called Safety-Lock, which provides amazingly greater strength. This outstanding achievement makes possible the use of a thicker, tougher, deeper tread which assures much greater non-skid mileage. Because of this new Safety-Lock Cord body and Gear-Grip tread, the modern streamlined Firestone Champion Tire establishes completely new standards of blowout protection, non-skid safety, silent operation and long mileage.

The Firestone Champion Tire embodies the famous Firestone Triple-Safe construction—you get the exclusive and patented Firestone construction features of Gum-Dipping, two extra layers of Safety-Lock cords under the tread and Gear-Grip tread design. Never in all the history of tire building has there been such a triple-safe combination to protect you against the dangers of blowouts, punctures and skidding.

Come in today and equip your car with a set of new Firestone Champion Tires — the only tires made which are safety proved on the speedway for your protection on the highway.

JEMISON CHAPTER F.H.A. HOLDS INTERESTING MEET

The Jemison High School Chapter of F.H.A. held its last meeting Thursday night, January 26, 1939.

The purpose of the meeting was to initiate honorary members of the club.

After the opening ceremony Miss Miriam Harvey, Miss Martha Foshee and Mrs. Ballard were welcomed.

After the regular business the Progam Committee took charge.

A play entitled "It's Nice To Know How," was given by a group of girls.

The characters were:

Joie—Berny Dean Cobb.
Ann—Geraldine Hubbard.
Betty—Audelle McCarty.
Cleo—Willie Jean Northcutt.
Bob—Elizabeth Bald.

Several songs were sung by the entire group.

The Entertainment Committee then took charge. Two very interesting contests were paricipated in. Mildred Crowson and Willodean Cost were awarded the prizes. Next a very interesting game was played.

Then the Refreshment Committee took charge and refreshments were served to the members.

There being no further business the meeting adjourned.

Cooperation Asked By Local Health Dept.

All proprietors and managers of food handling establishments were warned recently by the County Sanitation Officer that compliance with the food establishment regulations is necessary at all times for continued operation.

At the present time the matter of garbage storage for collection is being violated, said Fred H. Buckelew, and attention is invited to Section 3-J of the regulations, quote: all wastes and garbage shall be collected and kept in tightly-covered, water-tight metal containers. If and when fowl or fish are dressed or cleaned, this operation shall be so conducted so as to minimize the scattering of feathers and scales, and all offal shall promptly be placed in tightly covered containers and removed from the premises before nuisance is created thereby, unquote. As unprotected garbage creates a public health menace, it is essential that proper garbage storage for collection be maintained.

"Frequently, said Mr. Buckelew, "garbage cans are kept unprotected and stray dogs can easily overturn them, scattering foul-smelling garbage over a wide area. This can be remedied if the receptacle is held upright by four iron stakes driven securely into the ground at equal distances around the circumference of the receptacles.

Mitchell Dam Plays New York Giants Here

The Mitchell Dam Cardinals were defeated last Tuesday night at the local High School gymnasium by the New York Giants, famous World Champion Football team, now playing basketball. The score was 65-32. A large crowd witnessed the game, which was one of the most thrilling of the season.

The Cardinals meet the Bessemer Y.W.C.A. team on the former's court Friday night of this week, and will play the Buck Creek team at Mitchell Dam on Saturday night.

Mitchell Dam's stellar guard, Fred (Lardo) Mayfield, has been doing outstanding playing again this season. He received honorable mention during the selection of the All-American teams last season. He has won three medals in Gold Medal tournaments in which this team has played in the past. Other members of the team have also received medals. Dock Baker, a member of the team, was at one time listed on the All-American team. The team has won three gold medal tournaments in successon, and Manager A. B. Stanley stated that they would probably play in one to be held this season.

We Observe

By BONNIE HAND

NOW'S THE TIME—

The News has carried quite a few articles in the past regarding efforts to establish some sort of marketing center in Clanton whereby farmers of Chilton might sell their products cooperatively. The Clanton Kiwanis Club has set out as one of their major objectives for 1939 "Agricultural Cooperation," which means efforts will be made to induce and encourage farmers to plant new crops, raise products other than cotton. If that is done by the farmers, there must be some set-up whereby they can market their produce for fair prices.

Clanton has no Chamber of Commerce, and the Kiwanis Club has always endearvored to assist in solving as many of these problems as possible. About a year ago there was some talk about establishing a canning factory here to take up surplus produce of the County. We understand some of our Commissioners became interested in the idea and displayed a readiness to cooperate. But evidently the idea turned out to be only an idea.

Recently the Clanton Berry Growers Association met along with other interested farmers and business men and discussed the possibility of establishing a Central Marketing Agency for products in general. This Association is well organized, and with the help of business men, County and City officials a general marketing agency would be quite possible.

The Alabama State Chamber of Commerce is a fast-growing organization. Fifteen or sixteen of our local business men have enrolled membership. There is no doubt but what this organization can be of great service to the State of Alabama. John M. Ward, Secretary-Treasurer, and other officials, met with the Kiwanis Club at the Thomason Hotel last Thursday night, along with Haygood Paterson, State Commissioner of Agriculture. These gentlemen made splendid talks to the Club members and invited guests who are members of the Chamber of Commerce. As there has been some talk of the Chamber aiding this County in securing more industries, this subject was discussed quite a bit. We were impressed by one statement made by Mr. Ward, which was to the effect that "... . you can't just shake a plum tree and get an industry in your town or any town . . . it takes work and cooperation among the local leaders and people of the community."

Three or four of Chilton's prominent farmers were present, and made talks. But what we noted with misgivings was that these three or four farmers were all that attended out of some twenty-five who were invited to attend the meeting. Those invited were leaders in their respective communities, and their influence would have a great deal of bearing on any undertaking.

Mr. Paterson pointed out that with the ideal location of Clanton in the center of the State, and with the other facilities it enjoys, he could see no reason why it should not have several more industries and above all a marketing center for farmers. He stated that it was his desire to see more diversified farming in Alabama, emphasizing that proper grading of the products would be a deciding factor in their sale.

Mr. Paterson and the Alabama State Chamber of Commerce pledged their cooperation to the people of Chilton County in any undertaking that would work out to be and advantage to the people of this community, but it is apparent that if we ever get anything it must be the result of genuine interest displayed by the people here. We'd lots rather see Chilton County getting state-wide publicity for its hog sales, and other cooperative marketing enterprises—the raising of other products than cotton—than to see it getting publicity as the place where Absentee Ballot boxes disappear.

To Mayor C. Fenn Jones goes the credit for the splendid idea of a new bigger, better and more accessible City Cemetery. Mr. Jones says that he would like to know the views of some of the people of Clanton on the proposel new cemetery. Personally, we think it's a splendid idea, since the present one is filled almost to capacity. This is just another example of the Mayor's vision of Clanton in the future, knowing that a new cemetery will be one of Clanton's needs in the coming years.

Yours truly and the Mrs. went to see the picture "You Can't Take It With You," at the Wadesonian Theatre, the other night. In our opinion the picture had not been over-rated, and only one thing prevented us from enjoying the picture immensely. There were quite a few people who attended the showing on Wednesday night, we understand, who will agree with us when we say approximately one-third of the picture was spoiled by some young lady in the lobby, apparently waiting for the second showing, who was greatly tickled at something, somebody or was just plain filled to overflowing with giggles and loud laughter. Surely she was not aware of the fact that she was annoying people who were trying to hear what the characters in the picture were saying. If there's anything more annoying than a loud mouth at a theatre, that has no connection with the picture, we have yet to experience it.

PATERSON SAYS SOUTH MUST AWAKE

TELLS KIWANIANS THAT CO-OPERATION AND GRADING OF PRODUCTS ESSENTIAL

At the meeting last Thursday night of the Clanton Kiwanis Club, interesting talks were made by guests of the Club, which included Haygood Paterson,, State Commissioner of Agriculture and Industries; John M. Ward, Secretary-Treasurer of the Alabama State Chamber of Commerce; Leo C. Turner, Assistant Secretary-Treasurer of the Alabama State Chamber of Commerce; Tom C. Reid, Department of Research and Publicity, and Luther Fuller, General Farm Products Agent, T. C. I. Lyle Brown, Extension Marketing Agent, Auburn, who was scheduled to be present was unable to attend.

Mr. Paterson, Mr. Ward and Mr. Fuller made very interesting talks. Mr. Paterson stressed the fact that the farmers and business men of Alabama must realize the importance of the correct grading and marketing of farm products in order to compete with other state and countries. He stated that the establishing of processing plants must be the results of cooperation of farmers and business men of the community.

Efforts are being made by local groups to establish a marketing agency in Clanton, on a cooepartive basis, also the Kiwanis Club is endeavoring to aid in securing two or three added industries for the County.

Along this line Mr. Ward stressed the fact that if this was accomplished it must come through the genuine interest and cooperation of the entire citizenry of the county, and that industries cannot be established on a moment's notice. He pledged the support of the Alabama Chamber of Commerce to aid in any way possible in the achieving of this goal for Chilton County.

Mr. Paterson told the gathering that his depatrment stood ready at all times to assist in any undertaking of the County toward the establishment of a marketing agency, processing plant or other industry. He stressed the fact that growers of the State must awake to the fac that produce grown for the markets of today must of the very best, properly graded and grown at times when there is the greatest demand for them. "It looks like we people of the South have inherited the slovenly way of doing things from the slaves of pre-Civil War days," he stated. "When we awake to fact that this a day when the consuming public wants the very best obtainable, and that competiion is keen in the producing of these products, then we will be able to secure a fair price for our products," he told the group.

Mr. Fuller spoke along these same lines, and stated that he was interested in seeing Chilton County come to the front. Several guests and members of the Club made talks. A few of the County's leading farmers were present and expressed a willingness to cooperate in any undertaking to the betterment of conditions of our town and county.

Installation of new members will be the program for the Club when they meet tonight at the Thomason Hotel.

Dickey Ore Co. Moves Plant To Crenshaw

Following is a clipping from the Luverne Journal, Luverne, Alabama, and will be of interest to many people of this section:

Mr. O. T. Dickey, President of the Dickey Ore Company, operation in Alabama, has moved his plant and machinery to this county and will ship iron ore rock to Birmingham. Mr. Dickey's plant is located on Judge I. R. Reddoch place near Patsburg where he hopes to be in operation for over twelve months.

Prospects For Armory Look Brighter

Things are beginning to look brighter regarding the establishment of a National Guard and Armory in Clanton, as results of the efforts of members of the Clanton Kiwanis Club and other interested citizens.

Lt. Horton Walker recently made a trip to Montgomery in behalf of this project. He and Representative Percy Pitts had a conference with the new Adjutant General, Ben Smith, and were told that Clanton was being considered a favorable location for a National Guard Unit and Armory. There is one more armory scheduled to be erected in the State, and the Major stated that he knew of no more favorable location than Clanton, and asked that sponsors of the move in Clanton put into writing their desire for it.

City and County officials have heartily endorsed the project.

Efforts towar dsecuring this needed addition to Clanton have been underway for some time, and through the untiring efforts of several of the local citizens and especially Lt. Walker, things are beginning to look considerably brighter in this respect.

County Health Dept. To Open Branch Offices

Plans for establishing health centers in the larger centers of the County are being considered by the local health department. Dr. S. D. Sturkie, County Health officer, met with the Maplesville P.-T. A. on the night of February 13 and discussed the setting up of a center in Maplesville. The P.-T. A. there agreed to sponsor the establishment of the center and appointed a special committee to solicit contributions in the community needed for defraying the cost of equipment. Dr. Harvey Nix, prominent Maplesville dentist, has given the health department permission to use a room in a building owned by him and has promised also to install a small heater. As soon as the center is completed and ready to open, the health officer and nurse will appoint regular office hours for the Maplesville office.

In commenting on the plan Dr. Sturkie declared: "There is a very obvious need for branch offices of the health department throughout the county. Because of the difficulty of finding means of transportation to the county seat, the services of the health department have not been easily available to remote sections of the county. After we open the Maplesville branch office, we hope to be able to set up other health centers where the need is the greatest. Due to the fact that the health department has limited funds, it is necessary for us to ask the assistance of the community in the establishment of any branch office."

Dr. Sturkie is to speak to the Verbena P.-T. A. on February 16 in regard to a similar plan for a Verbena branch office.

A NEW CITY CEMETERY IS PROPOSED

MAYOR JONES PROPOSES TO PURCHASE SITE CLOSE IN

Mayor C. Fenn Jones this week stated that he had had in mind the establishment of a new City Cemetery, to be located as close in as possible, due to the fact that the present Clanton Cemetery is pretty well taken up, and that their exists a need for a larger site, laid off in blocks, making it easily accessible.

The Mayor stated that he had been considering the project for some time, and that he would like to know what the citizens of the city thought of his idea.

Mayor Jones proposes the purchase of fifty or one-hundred acres as close in as possible, have it surveyed and blocked off, so that entrance would be easy. "I am only looking forward to the future of Clanton," the Mayor stated. "The present cemetery site has practically been used up, and it is only natural to suppose there will be a future need for a larger one," he continued.

Mayor Jones stated that he had not considered any certain tract of land for the cemetery, and it was his desire to secure the reaction of the people toward the project.

Wood Found 60 Feet Underground

Gilbert Jackson, (colored), well mechanic, who lives out near the Kingston Bridges at the Dobbs place, was digging a well on the William Walker place, four miles east of Maplesville on the highway, when he came upon a peice of wood, sixty feet down in the earth.

Jackson brought the preserved piece of wood, possibly part of a log that grew thousands of years ago, to the News office one day this week, and stated that he had been digging wells for several years but he had never before found wood down this far.

One side of the chunk is flat, and has a sprinkling of mica on the flat side, showing that the wood lay in a strata, that was the earth's surface at that time.

A. T. DAWSON BRINGS IN UNUSUALLY LARGE HEN EGG

Our good friend, A. T. Dawson, of Maplesville R.F.D., was a caller at the News office one day last week and brought in a large hen egg, the biggest we have ever seen.

This egg weighted ¼-lb., measured six inches in circumference, 3½ inches long and was layed by a 10-months-old White Giant hen, Mr. Dawson stated.

1938 Achievement Report Of Kiwanis Club One Of The Best Since Its Organization

Prof. Patterson Hicks, who served the Clanton Kiwanis Club during 1938 as its President, recently submitted his achievement report to J. Theodore Jackson, District President, of Dothan. This report, one of the best since the Club was established, shows great strides made during 1938 for the betterment of Clanton and Chilton County.

Following are the highlights of the report:

Introduction

"The year of 1938 was a very pleasant one for our club. It saw the completon of some projects begun years ago, and the furthering of some things for the community on which we have been working for a year or more.

"While our attendance was not what it should have been, the spirit of the club was good throughout the year. Our programs were uniformily good, interesting, and in many instances inspiring and instructive. We look forward to 1939 with much interest as we have a president with vision, and plans for accomplishment. A board of directors that has the confidence and good will of the club membership and the community."

Accomplishments

PROGRAMS: All regular Kiwanis International programs observed such as Washington's Birthday, Fourth of July, etc. Program committee planned something for each meeting frequently turning program over to some committee. Some of our outstanding programs were:

Broadcasting Chilton County to the world over Station WAPI, Birmingham, Ala. Cold Storage and Packing—speaker, Dr. R. B. Taylor, University of Tennessee. "Economic Conditions Of The South," Mr. Donald Comer, Birmingham, Ala. "Vocational Guidance," Rush Pearson, Montgomery. "Business Possibilities for the South And Especially Alabama," Carl Langrebe, Birmingham.

INTER-CLUB RELATIONS: March 31, Selma Kiwanis Club met with Clanton Club in observing Eleventh Anniversary of Clanton Club. May 10, Clanton Club went to Montgomery to meet with all Clubs in Montgomery area in an inter-club meet to hear District Governor S. H. Lynne speak. October 13, Clanton Club met with Selma Club to observe one of their projects, the opening of the 1938 Horse Show for the benefit of underprivileged children.

COMMITTEES: The Clanton Club had some fourteen to sixteen standing committees for the year. Some of them met three to four times during the year, while others met only once or twice. The committees were: Agriculture, Attendance, Business Standards and Finance, Membership, Inter-Club Relations, Kiwanis Education, Music, Program, Public Affairs, Publicity, Religious Education Scouting, Underprivileged Children and Boys and Girls Work, and Vocational Guidance.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES: Annual Ladies night, first luncheon in January. Meeting with members of Clanton Pilot Club early in the year. Entertained high school football squad twice during the year, (Jan. 1938 and then again in December). Entertained ladies on All-Kiwanis Night last of June at Mitchell Dam.

RELATIONS TO DISTRICT AND INTERNATIONAL: President for 1938 and two members attended District Convention in Tuscaloosa, Alabama in November 1938. All monthly, semi-annual, and annual reports submitted on time by secretary. All club dues paid. All members subscribers to Kiwanis Magazine. Club president and secretary attended divisional training school for club officers, and then held school for all officers of club, diredtors, committee chairmen; school well attended All-Kiwanis Night observed by proper

Oscar Johnston Spoke In Montgomery Tues.

Oscar Johnston spoke to a large audience in the City Auditorium Montgomery, this afternoon. Every county and city in the State were represented. He outlined the present cotton situation and the aims and purposes of the National Cotton Council. The Council, according to Mr. Johnston, embraces all of the cotton producing states and has launched an aggressive campaign to increase the consumption of cotton, both here and abroad. Mr. Johnston said, "A careful study of the history of our industry from the pre-Civil War days to date leads me to the conclusion that the industry is threatened today as it has never before been at any time in its history," he further stated. "In the face of this stuation, it is essential that branches of the industry unite for a sane, quiet study of its problems and for a courageous fight to put the King back on his throne, to lift the Cotton Belt from its economic 'Slough of Despond,' the five primary raw cotton interests, the producer, ginners, warehousemen, merchants and crushers, animated by one desire, are determined to put their shoulder to the wheel and work together as one unit—may render a real service to the industry, to the nation and to the world."

Mr. Johnston is a well known leader in the cotton industry and has the respect of all concerned in its welfare; he has held official position with the Department of Agriculture and has just returned from Washington where he has held conferences with the highest officials regarding the present situation of the cotton industry. He spoke Wednesday before a joint session of the Georgia Legislature on the same subject.

Extension Forester Will Be Here Today

Mr. Rufus Page, Extension Forester, will be in Chilton County February 16th and will conduct a demonstration on thinning and care of timber, according to Mr. J. W. Fant, County Agent.

Nearly three-fourths of the land in Chilton County is covered with trees of some species. This forest land is producing a right sizeable income as it is today. If this forest land was properly cared for it would return more than ten times as much income as it is returning at present.

Statistics show that forest land properly cared for will produce enough income to pay taxes, interest on investment, and a reasonable profit to the owner. However, where timber land is not cared for the growth is so slow and stands are so irregular that after the original timber is cut off the income is very small.

The Exension service has a forestry program that if properly carried out by keeping fires out of woods, thinning timber properly and using the thinnings for wood, and proper cuttings so that small timber is not destroyed by harvesting the marketable timber, the income from forest land can be increased to the maximum.

This meeting Thursday (today) will be held on Mr. Dewey Rockett's farm. This farm is located on the east side of the Birmingham-Montgomery highway, 5 and one-half miles south of Clanton, about ¼ mile south of Sandlin's Texaco Filling Station.

Remember the date—Thursday, February 16th—2:00 P.M. Come and bring someone with you.

ANOTHER BURGLARY IS ATTEMPTED

NIGHT OFFICER DISCOVERS BURGLAR IN CLYDE MIMS GROCERY LAST THURSDAY

Burglaries in Clanton continue. Almost every week sees one or two of Clanton's leading stores broken into and looted. The recent occurrence of this kind came last Thursday night early when Night Officer Arthur Willis flushed a burglar in the Clyde Mims Grocery, possibly before he had time to take any of the merchandise.

Mr. Wlis was making his usual rounds about eight o'clock last Thursday night, and was trying the doors of the stores over town, when he discovered the back door to the Mims Grocery was ajar. Flashing his light on the interior of the store he discovered someone up near the front door. On seeing the light the intruder lost no time in making his get-away, crashing through the glass door at the front.

Several persons heard the commotion but no one got a good glimpse of burglar, and it could not be determined whether he was a negro or white person. If he escaped without getting cut by the glass as he plowed through the door, it was a miracle. Officers have been unable to find any clue to his identity.

Clyde Mims, owner of the store, stated that he was unable to miss any merchandise from his store, and it is believed the burglar was discovered before he had time to accumulate the loot. Entrance was gained to the store through the skylight.

EDITOR OF ONEONTA PAPER SUCCUMBS

FORNEY STEPHENS DIES FOLLOWING OPERATION IN BIRMINGHAM

Forney G. Stephens 66, widely-known Oneonta newspaper publisher and former member of the Alabama Legislature, died Tuesday of this week in a Birmingham Hospital, where he had been a patient since Jan. 6.

Mr. Stephens became ill shortly after the first of the year and entered the hospital Jan. 6 for an emergency operation. He failed to rally and last week a second operation was performed. During several weeks of his stay at the hospital he suffered an attack of hiccoughing that wasted his ebbing strength.

He had been publisher of The Southern Democrat which he founded at Oneonta in 1894. He served two terms in the Alabama Legislature, first in the House and during the recent Graves administration as state senator from the Third District.

He had been an active member of the Alabama Press Association, serving three terms as president. He served as Mayor of Oneonta from 1916 to 1918.

During the latter part of the Graves administration he wrote a weekly column "Facts From The Record," on the affairs of the State as a member of the publicity staff.

The funeral was conducted from the Oneonta Baptist Church, Wednesday at two o'clock p. m. Burial was in the Oneonta Cemetery.

Opportunity Keeps Knocking

Chilton County farmers are located in the center of the most densely populated area in Alabama. Within a sixty-mile radius, easily accessible, dwell nearly one million people. Approximately one-half of these people are engaged in, or dependent upon commerce and industry, and produce or grow very little of what they consume, in way of food.

Birmingham, Montgomery, Selma, Tuscaloosa, Sylacauga, Talladega are all within two hours motor vehicle drive of Chilton County, and within this radius are dozens of smaller towns and villages, filled with people who are dependent upon the farm to supply their "living." These are facts.

Then why shouldn't Chilton County farmers supply this need? They should.

Why aren't they supplying this need? Simply because they are not cooperating intelligently in the planting, growing, harvesting grading preparing and delivering their products to these consumers in the manner in which these consumers want them.

All the preachments of the farm demonstartors, the County Agents, the extension service advisers, the State Agricultural bulletins are worth mighty little unless the farmers themselves are willing to do something about it.

Big storekeepers and little storekeepers do not send to other states for food products with which to feed these people because they want to—but because our own farmers do not prepare the same kind of products in the manner in which the consumer wants it, and is willing to pay for it.

A Harried Gentleman Is He

A man here received the following lament from a debtor:

Dear Sir:

In reply to your request to send a check, I wish to inform you that the present condition of my bank account makes it almost impossible. My shattered financial condition is due to Federal laws, state laws, county laws, city laws, corporation laws, liquor laws, mother-in-laws, brother-in-laws, sister-in-laws, and outlaws.

Through these laws I am compelled to pay a business tax, amusement tax, poll tax, property tax, school tax, gas tax, light tax, water tax, sales tax, liquor tax, income tax, food tax, furniture tax, and excise tax. Even my brains are taxed.

I am required to get a business license, car license, truck license, not to mention a marriage license.

For my safety I am required to carry life insurance, property insurance, liability insurance, burglar insurance, accident insurance, business insurance, earthquake insurance, tornado insurance, fire insurance, unemployed insurance, old age insurance and health insurance.

My business is so governed that it is no easy matter for me to find out who owns it. I am inspected, expected, suspected, dejected, rejected, and examined, re-examined, summoned, fined, commanded an compelled.

Except for the miracle that happened I could not enclose this check. The wolf that comes to many doors nowadays just had pups in my kitchen. I sold them and here is the money.—Harry Helfner, in Birmingham Post.

The best news of the week to thousands of Alabamians was Former Governor Bibb Graves leaving the Miami hospital for his apartment, where he and Mrs. Graves will remain until the "Little Colonel" has sufficiently recovered to make the motor trip back to Montgomery.

—o-o-o—

The saddest news of the week for Alabama newspaper men was the death of Forney Stephens, Tuesday morning, who for forty-five years had edited and published the Southern Democrat at Oneonta.

Accepted

The following was handed us by a good Democrat of this county, who did not see eye to eye with the Unknown Author of the poem "REJECTED", carried in last week's issue of the Union-Banner:

Have you some space to spare us here,
If we but know how to start?
Suppose we shift right into gear,
And disclose what we want to impart.

We had some fun, at something we saw,
Printed in last week's Banner;
And so with a very merry hee-haw,
We sally forth on this wild canter.

There was a poem printed therein
With REJECTED at the top of such;
It kinda low-rated a mighty good friend,
A man who has done very much.

Standing at the gates of Hell;
He didn't belong in there, you see,
And Satan knew it, quite well.

The Devil showed his knowledge, at that,
And for once, a good intention;
For whoever heard of a Democrat,
At a G.O.P. Convention.

Mention was made of the PWA,
And other things he had done;
He seems to us quite popular today,
Kept there by friends he has won.

We read, and then, we stop and laugh,
At the things you say about him;
You called off a few—not quite half,
Why leave the rest so dim?

Franklin D. has made mistakes,
We all do the very same thing;
It's not so much the boners one makes,
As the good one can muster and bring.

Now if you have someone in waiting,
Who can never do anything wrong;
Take some action, don't be hesitating,
For we will back him strong.

Well, we must stop, this can't go on,
We are about to run low on dope;
But being a Democrat, we carry along,
And we will see you again, we hope.

—D. MOE CRATT.

Road Signs Needed

In going about over Chilton County the writer is impressed with the absence of markers on the lateral, county and community roads.

There is nothing that will pay bigger dividends in comparison with the small outlay necessary to put them up, than pointers at every intersection showing where each road leads to. Hundreds of strangers are visiting Chilton County every day besides the tourists who stick to the highways, and if it is made easy for these people to find their way about over the county without having to stop at every cross roads and ask someone to direct them—they will go away praising the county instead of knocking.

This is not written in a spirt of criticism because we do not know whose duty it is to place signs on the roads. In fact, we don't know whether it is anyone's duty or not.

But we do know this: Here is an opportunity to get some mighty good advertising for Chilton County for a very small outlay.

Happenings Along The Coosa

Things are happening along the Coosa these days, each new development proving another step in the long struggle to improve this magnificent stream from the three angles of flood control, power development and navigation.

One flood control job stands complete at Rome and the finished product will be formally turned over to the city on Feb. 22, whereupon there will be a celebration in keeping with the importance of the accomplishment.

This project, consisting of levees and deeper, wider river channel, will protect that portion of Rome which has been most damaged by floods in times gone by, and constitutes an important first step in flood control over a wide area.

The next step, which has been surveyed by army engineers and given cordial approval, is the creation of a vast storage system at Allatoona, on the Etowah River above Cartersville, Ga. This storage system will serve to hold back the flood waters of the Etowah until the flood waters of the Oostanalla have had time to escape by way of the Coosa and this great stream will not be subject to the enormous strains now put upon it in times of high water. The project will furnish protection over a wide area and is important to the whole Coosa system.

Meanwhile the survey of the Coosa-Alabama looking to navigation is going forward, with the expectation that it will be completed next Fall. Thus there is activity along the old stream, all pointing to its ultimate improvement along all the lines that serve to make it more useful while minimizing its potentialities for evil.

Thus, as one contemplates what is going on along the Coosa and its tributaries there is cause for gratification over the things being accomplished and the things that stand for accomplishment in the future.—Gadsden Times.

Historic Fort Morgan Is Important Tourist Spot

—o—

MANY TOURISTS PASS HISTORIC SPOT ALMOST EVERY DAY

—o—

Fort Morgan, the five-pointed brick fortification erected by the American Government in 1833, enjoys the double distinction of being one of the oldest national forts of any consequence still standing and one of the comparatively few which saw its most active service in fighting against the same government.

The real story of the old fort goes back even further, for in 1519 twenty-six years after the discovery of America, Admiral Alverez de Pineda sailed past the point into Mobile Bay. During the following four hundred years which saw the birth and growth of the American Republic Fort Morgan, together with its predecessor, Fort Bowyer, and its companion fortress, Fort Gaines, across the bay, were centers of important events and were used as fortifications in every American war except the Spanish-American War.

Was Active In 1814

The fort first came into prominence as a protecting outpost of the French and Spanish colonial possessions and saw active servce in 1814 when boarded by the British fleet. It was the defending fort in the outstanding military engagemen of the Civil War, was even more strongly fortified at the outbreak of the Spanish-American War and was used as a training center in the World War.

ENTRANCE TO OLD FORT MORGAN

Incomplete information establishes the point on the extremity of Baldwin County and commanding the entrance to Mobile Bay, as being fortified by Jean Baptiste Bienville in 1711 when he established the capital of the Louisiana Territory of Mobile.

The extensive Lousisiana Territory was ceded by France to England in 176' but in 1800 Napoleon forced Spain, whch had acquired Louisiana from England, to return it to France. France in turn sold the land to the United States in 1803, during he Thomason Jefferson administration. Spain, however, continued to assert claim to the territory east of the Louisiana and Mississippi and south of the 31st degree of North Latitude.

4 Ships Attack Fort

In September 1814, four British warships attacked the fort, known as Fort Bowyer since the rebuilding of the fort under General Wilkinson of the American army. The Carron, Sophia, Childur and Hermes, with a combined force of 78 guns thundered against the fort for three days without apparent effect and one of them, the Hermes, was grounded and the British set fire to it. General Andrew Jackson, 30 miles away, is said to have heard the deafening explosion which resulted and marched to the spot post haste, thinking the magazine of the fort had been hit. The remaining three ships returned to Pensacola, then a Spanish base.

The British were repulsed the next year in the Battle of New Orleans but the British fleet, unaware that a treaty of peace had been signed with America, occupied the fort until American officials took custody of it shortly after.

Renamed In 1833

In 1833, the brick structure, part of which is still in preservation, was erected and given the name Fort Morgan. The story is that the bricks for the fort were made west of Foley and shipped by schooner down Fish River and Mobile Bay, while the mortar consisted of sand and crushed shells from Dauphin Island.

In 1861 came the stormy session of the Southern States and General Page was put in charge of Fort Morgan and Fort Gaines with a garrison 1,500 men and formidable cannon. Admiral Farragut, convinced that Fort Morgan and Fort Gaines must be reduced before h could hope to capture Mobile, round the point on August 5, 1864, prepar to storm his way through. He disr garded mines placed at the entran of Mobile Bay by Confederate Gener Buchanan, succeeded in passing th forts and silenced the rebel ram Te nessee and her auxiliaries, the Morga Selma and Gaines. Buchanan wa wounded in the fray, however, the Se ma was blown up and the Union fr gate Tecumseh sunk. Fort Morgan wa not taken until a few days later wh Farragut was supported by land arti lery and its citadel was set fire heated cannon balls from Union ship Fort Gaines was shamefully betray by a subordinate officer.

When Spanish-American war clou began to gather six new batteries, tw disappearing towers and a miniatu three-rail railroad were built mainly prevent Mexico, a probable ally Spain, from attacking Southern por Giant serchlights, the most modern the time, were erected for the patrolli of Gulf waters but all this equipme was to no avail as the fort was nev attacked.

Fort Abandoned In 1921

In the World War the two compan of artillery stationed at the garris were strengthened by the addition 600 officers and over a thousand recruits. After the end of the war t post was reduced in size to 300 men a in 1921 it was completely abandoned

Located in the extreme end of t Serof Peninsular, running west some miles from the southern boundary Baldwin County, Fort Morgan is boun ed on the north and west by Mob Bay and on the south by Gulf of Me co. The location is usually known Mobile Point, the official destination the lighthouse outside the old fort. Ge logically the area has shown evide of Indian habitation. Shell banks a small mounds have been uncovered more than one point.

As the old fortification was resto in 1936 one could walk a-top its closed breastwork and see heavy st gun bases presumably made for eight-inch bore. An old 32-pounder ca non bearing the inscription "32 P-Ch —1805" was excavated from the during the restoration process. MORAL ECHOES

While passing in front of a jewelry store I looked in at the window and saw a large clock. The pendalum was swinging, but as I glanced up to see the time of day there were no hands showing to indicate the hour. The machinery of the clock moved in precision, but it was useless because there were no hands to speak the message for which the clock was created. To be sure a clock without hands is a worthless thing. I have seen many a person who corried the outward appearance that they were real men, and yet they were lacking in the one thing that was needful to make them a success. Christ said to the rich young ruler, "One thing thou lackest yet." We can be very busy in this world and yet be lacking in the one essential thing that makes life worth-While these things are separate and disregularity and tick and tick here and there, but if the world cannot see Jesus in us, we have lived in vain.

There on the side of the street the contractor is building a house. We observe that he is using many different kinds of material. He uses wood, brick, cement, steel, glass, copper and the like. While these things are separate anl distinct, yet they are connected and bound together in such a way as to form the building according to the blue print. In this world we have men and nations and they are separate and distinct, and yet they can be so connected and bound together as to create a society that is beauiful indeed. The Christian religion put into practice in the power that binds all races into one great brotherhood. As long as men and nations choose to reject this binding power, no civilization can be constructed that will be worthwhile. "Blest be the tie that binds our hearts in Christian love." With Christ we can build.

Everywhere I go I hear this statement: "We Need." It is a fact that that "our needs" constitute the axis around which the society of the world must ever revolve. We are great in setting up a howl about our needs. Should you be asked to name your greatest need what would you mention? Doubtless it would be expressed in money. I know people whose greatest need is not money but a willingness to work. The greatest need of many is a right ideal of life. Some need better habits. Some need a change of attitude. The greatest need of thousands is the Christian religion. Your greatest need is before you and can be had if you will reach out and take it. Pay the price and possess your greatest need. Stop howling for money and seek your greatest need.

While sitting around the fire at night I asked a young man of the family: "Tom, how many sides to this house?" He replied: "There are four—North, East, South, and West sides." He was right as far as he went, but he did not go far enough. There was the top side and the bottom side, the inside and the outside, the sunny side and the shady side, the boys' side and the girls' side, the side next to the flower yard and the side next to the corn field, the side that faced the road and the side that faced the barn. One of the troubles with life today is that we have concluded that there are only two sides to life—my side and your side. Remember that life is a house with many sides. It has the selfish side and the unselfish side, the right side, the wrong side, Father's side, mother's side, children's side, neighbor's side, the grasping side, the liberal side, the wise side the foolish side, the business side, the play side. Better know your onions before you cry down any side.

WORTHWHILE CLUB

Mrs. M. Z. Atchison delightfully entertained her club at her home on Selma road last Thursday afternoon. After a time spent in sewing an "advertising" contest was enjoyed. Mrs. Luther Bean won the prize, a pretty flower bulb. Mrs. Houston Nivens gave a recipe to the members.

The Valentine motif was carried out in the decorations, and a Valentine drawing was much enjoyed.

The hostess served a delicious salad plate with coffee to the following:

Mesdames Ottis Robinson, H. B. Esco, Lester Wagoner, Houston Nivens, Luther Bean, Jesse Jones, Bill Blalock, Willie Bean, O. D. DeLoach and Miss Alice Powell.

The meeting will be held with Mrs. Esco this week.

Mrs. J. S. Wright and daughters, Mrs. Tom Cost and Miss Inez Wright of Jemison spent last Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Bean.

Business Guides

By C. E. Johnston

Director, Business Training Schools, International Correspondence Schools

SPARE time, or that time which the average person spends when he is not actively engaged in earning a living, is actually more important to the young man or woman than the time spent at work. The young person who is striving to "get somewhere" can ensure a successful business career by carefully budgeting his spare minutes. It requires but a few minutes daily to become proficient in some subject or trade which will lead to a better position.

Study the job ahead of you, is good advice. The young person who hopes to move forward in business or in a profession must acquire greater knowledge or skill. Many employers make it possible for the ambitious worker to learn as he works. However, if this opportunity is denied you, do not let yourself get into a rut. There is much that you can do yourself. Offer to do extra work if this will create an opportunity for you to learn more about advanced jobs. The most successful men are those who make their own opportunities.

* * *

The employer who fails to encourage loyalty among his employes is courting disaster. The employe who does not develop loyalty to his chief and to the business is endangering his own progress. The employe who expects to be successful in life must have the qualities of loyalty and cooperation.

Alabama Power Holdings In Deal

Thomas W. Martin, president of the Alabama Power Company, said Sunday that certain properties of the company in North Alabama would figure in the negotiations between the Tennessee Valley Authority and Commonwealth & Southern.

The power company president said he did not know when negotiations would be continued but thought they would be held "in Knoxville, Washington or New York in about a week or 10 days."

Martin's statement followed the announcement Saturday by TVA directors that they had reached the basis of an agreement under which TVA and local public agencies will acquire all Tennessee electrical properties of Commonweath & Southern for a price of $78,600,000. Wendell L. Wilkie, C. & S. president, confirmed the agreement in New York.

The negotiations for Alabama Power Company properties will involve about 20 municipalities in North Alabama, Martin said. He added that the company also would be concerned with what sort of contract would be offered by the TVA as to the boundary line in Alabama between the authority and areas having private ownership.

Martin stated he would be present when the negotiations begin.—Birmingham Age-Herald.

PROTECTING WOODLANDS

Members of Alabama 4-H Clubs have taken the lead in protecting present woodland, and in reforestation. Numerous clubs have obtained signed agreements from land owners for the prevention of forest fires and still other clubs and club members are setting trees on eroded areas.

FURNITURE NEEDS OIL

Furniture needs more than just dusting. It needs oil occasionally to keep it from drying, cracking or warping or the veneer from loosening. The dry air in some homes is as bad for furniture as for people.

FINAL DATE FOR ACCEPTING TOBACCO ACREAGE APPLICAT'N

County Agents have been advised by Washington that the final date for accepting Form 39-Tobacco-7, Application for Flue-cured Tobacco acreage allotments for New Farms, has been extended from February 15 to February 18 and that these forms must be mailed to the State Office not later than February 20, and unless such forms are received in that office by February 21 it will be assumed that there are no eligible new farms in this county.

Secretary of State John Brandon was badly beaten up in a Montgomery night Club Sunday night, so the papers say.

Forest Planting In 1938

Planting Of Trees From State Nursery Carried On In Chilton County

Montgomery — Approximately 1,350,000 forest tree seedlings were issued during 1938 from the Alabama State Forest Nursery to more than 200 landowners and others for planting on farms and woodland areas, according to the compilations of the Commission of Forestry. The most popular species were Longleaf and Slash Pine, with Loblolly Pine and Black Locust also in considerable demand.

Farm and forest planting of trees secured from the State Nursery during the year was carried on in Autauga, Baldwin, Babour, Blount, Butler, Calhoun, Chambers, Cherokee, Chilton, Choctaw, Clarke, Cleburne, Coffee, Covington, Crenshaw, Cullman, Dale, DeKalb, Elmore, Escambia, Etowah, Fayette, Geneva, Henry, Houston, Jefferson, Lauderdale, Lee, Limestone, Lowndes, Macon, Madson, Mobile, Montgomery, Perry, Pickens, Pike, Russell, St. Clair, Sumter, Tallapoosa, Tuscaloosa, Walker, Washington, and Winston, a total of forty-six counties as compared with thirty-one in 1928, forty-nine in 1929, forty in 1930, thirteen in 1931, twenty-six in 1932, eleven in 1934, forty-two in 1935, thirty-five in 1936 and forty-six in 1937. The greatest number of trees were planted in Barbour, Covington, Washington, Dallas, Madison and Chambers, and the counties having the greatest number of landowners participating in the planting were Barbour Dallas, Elmore and Madison.

WHEN PRAYERS FAIL IDOLS ARE SMASHED

This one comes from India:

Villagers in parts of the United Provinces threw their idols from the temples and smashed them when prayers failed to bring relief from a 90-minute hailstorm, dispatches said today. The storm killed six shepherds, hundreds of cattle and did extensive damage.

FARMERS GET $18,000,000

Despite low farm income and low cotton prices, Alabama farmers during 1938 received $18,000,000 for reducing cotton acreage and adopting soil building practices under the 1937 national farm program.

JOHN ADAMS ORATORICAL CONTEST

HIGH SCHOOLS OF THE COUNTY ARE KEENLY INTERESTED IN FINAL OUTCOME

There is already keen interest throughout this county in the Oratorical Contest on "John Adams."

The following schools have already enrolled, and all of the others are expected to enroll within a short while.

Jemison High School, Jemison, Ala.
Verbena High School, Verbena, Ala.
Stanton Jr. High School Stanton Ala.
Isabella High School Route 1, Maplesville. Ala.

In Jemison High School, Mrs. J. A. Peterson, principal, is conducting the contest.

In Verbena High School the contest is being conducted by Mr. W. C. DuBose principal.

In Stanton Jr. High School Mr. Wm. F. Stone, principal, is conducting the contest.

In Isabella High School the contest is being conducted by Mr. Curtis Matthews, principal.

School eliminations are to be held on or before February 24th, at which time the school's representative for competition with other schools will be selected. County contests are to be held on or before March 10th, and congressional district contests are to be held for all districts except the ninth, (Jefferson County), within the dates, April 3 to 12, inclusive. Date for holding each of these congressional district contests will be named later by Artemus Calloway of Birmingham, state oratorical contest director.

The state finals will be held at Birmingham, April 29th. Each state finalist will receive a cash prize. First prize will be $100; second prize 50; third prize $25; and the six remaining state finalists will each receive $10. Railroad fare and hotel bill for each visiting state finalist and chaperon will be paid by The Birmingham News-Age-Herald, sponsors of the contest.

In the Tuesday morning, January 24, issue of the Birmingham Age-Herald, appeared the picture of Miss Cleo Jones, of the Stanton Junior High School. Miss Jones was the first school representative to be reported in the contest for this year. She will represent her school in the county contest to be held on or before March 10.

William F. Stone, as principal of this school, has for several years been keenly interested in this competition.

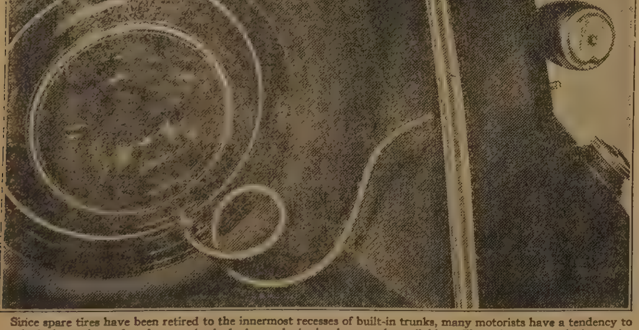
Another Convenience for Motorists



Since spare tires have been retired to the innermost recesses of built-in trunks, many motorists have a tendency to overlook them when other tires are checked. A new device has been made available to Chevrolet owners which permits inflation of the spare tire, without opening the trunk, through a valve connection installed outside the trunk door. Thus the spare tire pressure can be watched as conveniently as the other tires, without moving trunk luggage.

SEEN and HEARD BY GAD

Spring is on its way and with Spring comes "April Showers and May Flowers" so early in February. Mrs. Upchurch has one of the most admired yards in Clanton. . . . The Judge Smiths are "floating" in a new car now and it's really quite nice looking. . . . What would those school kids do without scarfs of some kind to protect their curls from the rain? And speaking of rain, have you noticed how neat the young Mrs. Headley looks even in the rain? . . . We wonder if Mrs. Jimmy Taylor's latest arrival will have big brown eyes too? . . . I saw our old friend, Harry Margolis up town last week. Wonder if he's visiting or what. . . . Paul Gowan and Percy Pitts are among the younger boys who've been enjoying the family car lately. . . . and the Davis home is vacant—the one near the High School grounds. . . . TO Whom It May Concern: We hope . . . We are a growing town, we want to be, but if doesn't take crime to make Clanton a city. . . . The stylists have certainly been using all of their creative ability this spring and the results show up in Betty Jones' black and green outfit and Ruth Sessions' blue and rose suit—chic? . . . Mrs. Fate Maddox's family is back in town, and welcome, too—especially by several of the young folks. . . . Mr. Elmore takes remodeling in a serious manner and we're all anxious to see what will be the result both up town and at his home. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Ed Mullins entertained at a most delightful affair last week end, and a good time was had by all. . . . Mrs. Ward's sister spent the week end here and don't they look just like sisters? and we hear such nice things about Grace Ezell's ability as an organist, and that's another reason you should go to Church next Sunday. . . . everyone is planning on a big time at the dance this week (tonight) . . . and don'cha recon we'll have one? . . . We don't know whether Mr. Hugh Branch's eyes are "to see you better with, my dear" or not, but they are pretty. . . . and to think that a certain columnist—quite sharp witted, I'm sure, would fall down on the job so far as to ever wonder the identity of the writer of this column. Of course I would never flatter myself into thinking that I could fill the shoes of "Ye Olde Observer"—but lighten up on the pressure "Bonnie H." or "Ye Olde Observer" will wish that he had not "locked horns" with "Gad." And while on the subject of complaints, anyone having same just write to "Gad" in care Chilton County News, Clanton Ala. . . . I probably won't ever get it but it will make you feel better. . . . I'll see you again next week—BY GAD.

Business Guides

By C. E. Johnston

Director, Business Training Schools,
International Correspondence Schools

IDEAS for improvement of a product or the operation of a business often come from employes. The prudent employer always is eager to learn of new ideas. He encourages his workers to make suggestions. There have been instances where a company has received and adopted suggestions without rewarding the originators in any manner. This leads to ill-feeling and sometimes even to serious labor trouble. Credit should always be given to employes when it is warranted. Employe loyalty will result.

Most forward-looking business owners and operators encourage employes to improve themselves by study. Thousands of firms recommend certain courses of training and pay part or all of the cost. This interest in the employe shows profits for the employer because it results in ambitious, industrious workers always being available to fill positions which require an unusual knowledge or exceptional skill. There is no substitute for a trained worker or office employe. In these days the employer cannot devote the time necessary to train employes for advanced positions. Instead, he encourages them to train themselves by study.

Higher positions are always in the reach of those qualified to fill them. The employe who acquires ability to fulfill more than his present duties, already has started on the road to success. If there is any "secret" of success, it is to be prepared when an opportunity comes. The wise business executive knows the persons in his organization who are capable of holding better jobs. The wise employe makes sure he is capable of holding a better job by training himself while occupying his present position.

Reclaiming Wasted Land

Cooperating farmers in the erosion control area near Clanton, Alabama, will set out 150,000 trees during the winter and early spring as one phase of the erosion control program on their farms, according to Mr. James H. Wood, Camp Superintendent.

Reforestation of steep and severely eroded land which cannot be used safely for the production of cultivated crops provides an economic use for such land as protection against further eroson. Mr. Wood pointed out.

The 150,000 trees to be palnted during the current planting season will bring the total set out during the past three years to 1,450,000 which will provide 1450 acres of future timber land on the cooperating farms.

Where seed trees of desirable species are present in sufficient number to insure adequate natural reproduction, artificial reforestation is ordinarily not necessary, if the area is protected against fire and grazing, Mr. Wood explained.

In addition to reforestation of steep and severely eroded land, the cooperators are also demonstrating proper woodland management methods, including protection of woodland from damage by fire and grazing and proper methods of harvesting wood products to obtain a sustained yield.

Percy Pitts And Roy Mayhall

Roy Mayhall, Winston County's stocky representative in the House, should rate at least a paragraph in history. He is said to be the first Democrat sent to the Legislature from that county since the Civil War.

Incidentally, Mr. Mayhall's triumph over a Republcan opponent in Winston was offset by the election of Percy Pitts, this Legislature's only G.O.P. member from Chilton County.

AUBURN TO CELEBRATE INAUGURATION OF HUGE EXPANSION PROGRAMME

"Greater Auburn Day' Proclaimed For February 22

Auburn.—Celebrating the inauguration of a huge expansion program Alabama Polytechnic Institute alumni and friends will gather here Feb. 22 for "Greater Auburn Day," sponsored by the college and the town of Auburn.

College officials and national and State leaders who have had a part in bringing about the expansion will be honored at an elaborate program which grew out of a resolution passed by the city council.

Maurice Bloch, Selma, alumni president, has called for a joint celebration with former students and Auburn citizens particpating. Visitors will view work being done on 14 new buildings, valued at approximately $1,500,000.

Governor Frank Dixon and his staff will review the Auburn R.O.T.C. on Bullard Field at 11 A.M., as the opening feature. Bloch will preside at a barbecue at Bibb Graves Center at noon, and a radio broadcast will follow. An intrasquad football game will be held in the afternoon.

Describing Feb. 22 as "a day of thanksgiving," Auburn officials today pointed to the following buildings now erected to care for expanded operations and a growing student body:

Five structures in a women's dormitory group to cost $160,000; a new library $100,000; general classroom buildinging, $150,000; hospital and health center, $100,000; physical education building, $100,000; first unit of athletic stadium, $0,000; nursery school building and practice house for home economics students, $37,500; and a new president's home, $38,400. All are WPA financially assisted projects.

A feature of the program will be an exhibit of records of cases investigated by the state toxicology laboratory, headed by H. W. Nixon.

MORE SAFETY ON HIGHWAYS A.M.A. AIM

ASSOCIATION OUTLINES PROGRAM FOR 1939; LEGISLATION IS PROPOSED

An eleven-point program calling for more safety on the highways; reduction of automotive taxes; enactment of a state-wide stock law and promotion of more tourist trade for Alabama have been adopted by the Board of Directors of the Alabama Motorists Association as the organization's aim for 1939.

The eleven-point program follows:

1. Promotion of tourist travel to and through Alabama by establishment of branch offices and AAA service units throughout the State and notifying the 750 AAA clubs over the nation that Alabama is now prepared and welcomes them. Cooperation with the Mobile-Baldwin and the Muscle Shoals branches in their programs to publicize their areas as attractions for tourists. Cooperation with residents along Florida Short Route to publicize the tourist attractions of this route.

2. An amendment to the present drivers license law making physical examination of motorists compulsory before drivers license are issued.

3. Protection of motorists against financially irresponsible drivers by enactment of the AAA Safety Responsibility Bill. This measure does not require insurance but prohibits a person from driving when they fail to satisfy any judgment declared in connection with an automobile accident.

4. Opposition to the levying of any additional gasoline taxes by the State, or any counties or municipalities.

5. Enactment of a State-wide stock law that will keep cattle and other animals off the highways.

6. Elimination of the ad valorem tax on automobiles in Alabama, or else reduction of the State license tag tax to the amount required annually to reduce he principal and pay interest on the bonds for which this tax was originally levied.

7. Enactment by constitutional amendment or state statue of a measure or measures that will prevent any further inroads of highway funds under the penalty section of the Federal Aid Highway Act.

8. Promotion of the Rational Highway Planning Survey now being made in Alabama so that "first" roads will be built first. This includes paving of the gaps in Alabama 5 from Birmingham to Mobile; a paved highway from Muscle Shoals to Mobile; paving of a route from Birmingham to Huntsville and relocating and paving of U. S. 31 between Hartselle and Cullman.

9. Reduction of automobile accidents by introduction of the AAA "Sportmenlike Driving" course in every public school in Alabama. The safety program calls for encouragement of highway lighting in Alabama insofar as is practical.

10. Taking convicts off highway construction and placing them on highway maintenance thereby freeing $900,000 to be used by the State Highway Department to match Federal-Aid funds.

11. Roadside Development and control to eliminate unsightly structures along the highway and promote highway beautification.

BOOSTING AGRICULTURE

Dallas County—

The activities committee of the Selma Chamber of Commerce has voted to act on a suggestion of County Agent John Blake to focus attention on building up the agricultural possibilities of Dallas Couny.

Feasibility of a civic market with resources enough to guarantee cash payment for all produce raised and offered will be examined and reported on by a committee composed of E. C. Wilson, Fred Pittman, Dr. John Davison, L. W. Morgan and Blake. Plans for a canning factory to handle surplus produce will be examined and reported on by a committee headed by Roy Childers

Other projects to be studied include possible sales channels for produce not consumed at home supervision of small Negro farmers and issuing of daily price quotations.

An Appeal To Employers

Between now and April 1st, 1939, a great many men are going to be discharged from Company 3481, Clanton CCC. This means that thru no fault of theirs, these men are going to need employment.

These men have been engaged in Soil Conservation work at Camp SCS-7, Clanton, Alabama. They have constructed terrace outlets, planted forest plants assisted in construction, of forest Nursery plant at Thorsby, Alabama, and growing erosion control plants.

Included in these men are capable truck drivers, and tractor operators, who have operated these machines hundreds of miles without an accident. Several are capable farmers, and can operate or manage small farms. Some are skilled in cabinet making and painting. There are cooks, dining hall stewards, and orderlies that are well trained. Any of these young men would be capable apprentices or helpers in the skilled trades.

Well trained in courtesy and discipline and in good health, they should make ideal employees. Certainly there should be a place for them in any establishment. An investment in one of these boys will pay big dividends in the future.

If you have a vacancy, the Camp Superintendent, Company Commander, or Camp Educational Adviser, can recommend a capable man. Write or phone them at Clanton, Alabama, 222 or 132.

PAVE YOUR ROAD TO PROFIT WITH PLENTY OF POTASH

PROFIT margins increase when production costs decrease. Potash lowers production costs, because it increases yields per acre and improves quality. Experiment stations have also shown that it will control cotton rust and reduce wilt. This makes more cotton per acre and makes it easier to pick.

Make sure your cotton fertilizers supply enough potash to give the crop a good start and keep it growing vigorously throughout the season. Fertilizers applied at the rate of 400-600 pounds per acre should contain from 4 to 10% potash. If your cotton rusts, more can be added later in the growing season in a nitrogen-potash top-dresser.

Consult your county agent or experiment station about the fertility of your soil. See your fertilizer dealer. You will be surprised how little extra it costs for enough potash to insure profits.

Write us for further information and literature on the profitable fertilization of Southern crops.

"GOOD-BYE TO THIRTY-EIGHT"

By James Leonard Miles, C. 3481, Clanton CCC

Did you know time was flying fast?
Like tide, it does not wait.
Tonight we all must say good-bye
To nineteen thirty-eight.

Has this year brought you fame and wealth?
Was the days chucked with cheer?
Will it affect your future life,
Or was it just a year.

Did you take from old thirty-eight,
The things he had for you?
Or did you say, "I'll wait and see,
What thirty-nine will do."

Regardless of the things we've done,
Let's leave them all behind.
Let's all resolve to do our best,
In nineteen thirty-nine.

Control Erosion With Lespedeza Sericea

With the idea of establishing adequate vegetation to control erosion on areas that need protection most, many farmers in the Soil Conservation Service area near Clanton, Alabama are making plans for planting contour strip of Lespedeza sericea on critical areas and to break long slopes in their cultivated fields.

Because Lespedeza sericea is a deep-rooted perennial, which provides continuous protection to the soil, it is particularly valuable for use on portions of fields on which, because of slope, erosion, or soil type, it is impractical to control erosion and grow cultivated crops, Mr. James H. Wood, Superintendent, pointed out.

Areas which need such protection can easily be determined at this season of the year, when evidences of soil washing can be seen readily. By locating areas now for planting perennial strips, the land can be prepared and seeded at the proper season.

Such perennial strips will not only provide protection for the areas they occupy, but will supplement annually rotated strips on other portions of the field. By retarding run-off on these critical areas where water ordinarily runs off quickly into terrace channels, such strips relieve the burden terraces are called upon to bear during heavy rains and lessen the hazard of terrace breaks.

Like kudzu, another perennial plant which is valuable for protection of critical areas, the use of Lespedeza sericea to control erosion is a type of "insurance" which yields dividends in the form of hay, Mr. Wood added.

Caring for the Lawn

MAINTENANCE of first-class lawns requires long, hard work, and patience. For those who are willing to stick by the job, the information here will be of assistance.

Weeds, of course, are an eternal problem. They must be given vigorous battle each succeeding year. Early spring and late fall are the best times for weed fighting, as the moist conditions then make it more easy to pull them by the roots.

Dig out dandelions at least two inches below the surface. Shallow cutting is worse than useless as the remaining root forms several new plants.

Crab grass is one of the most widespread and persistent of the current grass enemies. When it is about to seed, keep it cut closely. When possible it should be pulled out by the roots. Special rakes can be obtained for the purpose if pulling by hand proves too laborious.

When the pulling chore is done, balanced plant food should be applied to the lawn,—four pounds to every 100 square feet. Next wet the lawn. Then apply seed and rake or roll it in. If possible, top dress lightly with good black soil.

Crab grass dies in the fall; but drops seed which germinates the following spring. The practice here recommended (it should be performed sometime between August 15 and September 15) should give a good crop of grass in the early spring, so dense and vigorous that the crab grass seedlings, which germinate comparatively late, will not have sufficient space or light for development.

In caring for the lawn, remember to make additional applications of plant food periodically where there are large trees.

Water lawns late in the day. Do not sprinkle every day or so, but give one good soaking a week, wetting the soil to a depth of several inches.

All WPA Workers Must Make Sworn Statements That They Are United States Citizens

Affidavits Must Be On File With The WPA State Office

DEADLINE MARCH 6TH

EDITOR'S NOTE:—The following information relative to WPA workers in Alabama, has been sent to the press by Billy Smith, WPA Director of Information Service:

Under the new regulations prescribed by Congress governing the operations of the Works Progress Administration no person who is not a citizen of the United States shall be given employment nor continued in employment on any project or in any position by this agency, according to an announcement by W. G. Hederson, Alabama administrator of the Works Progress Administration.

Each person now employed by the WPA, or any affiliated government agency, or anyone who may in the future be employed under this Emergency Relief Act, must, according to law, furnish a sworn statement that he or she is a citizen of the United States.

March 6th Deadline

These affidavits, or certificates, of citizenship must be on file with the Works Progress Administration state office not later than March 6, 1939.

In this connection, Mr. Henderson states, the WPA is making every effort to aid those persons who are now dependent, or will be dependent, upon work projects for a livelihood, to establish their rights as citizens. Each statement must be sworn to before a notary public or some public official authorized to administer oaths, such as probate judges, postmasters, clerks of Federal courts, justices of the peace, etc. The necessary forms for this will be furnished through the Area offices of the WPA in Alabama.

Machinery is already well in motion to take care of those included in the approximately 80,000 employees in Alabama who are affected by this new law, and Mr. Henderson stated that a system will be worked out so as to handle the notarizing of the citizenship papers over the state as smoothly as possible by allowing the workers to appear before the authorized official in groups with their forms properly prepared in advance.

Asks Cooperation

The tentative plan now being considered contemplates the securing of voluntary notary services for these project workers who may not be able to pay the fees that are usually charged for such acknowledgements. An earnest plea is being made to all notaries public, probate judges and others authorized to administer oaths, to assist the employees as much as possible. This is not merely a new regulation of the WPA, Mr. Henderson expalined, but is now a law in full force and effect and any person employed by the WPA who fails to furnish this affidavit of citizenship by March 6th will be automatically dropped from the work rolls. The affidavits will be considered as prima facie evidence of citizenship, it was stated.

FEBRUARY IS TIME TO START PASTURES

The month of February is the time to start a pasture on most Alabama soils, says W. H. Gregory, associate extension specialist in agronomy. The pasture should be located on moist fertile bottom land, because adequate moisture is the first requirement for growing grass. On a great many farms in Alabama there are creek bottoms or spring heads now growing alders and button willows, which if cleared and properly fertilized and seeded would make as pastures the most valuable acres on the farm.

In preparing land for pastures it should be well broken and disced to make a good firm seedbed, or if the ground is too stumpy it should be thorougly scratched up both ways with a spring-tooth harrow.

BIRTHDAY DINNER

A very enjoyable day was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Collins, Jr., on Sunday, February 12, when Mrs. Collins honored Mr. Collins with a surprise birthday dinner

At the lunch hour the guests marched around the beautifully decorated table on which was a large birthday cake with 35 candles in pink rosebud holders and with the lettering "Happy Birthday" on it.

Among those present were: Rev. and Mrs. W. P. Lowery, Mr. and Mrs. J.D. Collins and daughter, Sarah Frances; Mrs. Mary Ann Lambert, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Yates, Jackson Lambert, Mrs. Kermit Connell, Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Willis and daughter Warrena Willis. Mrs. P. R. McKinnon and little son, Gerald, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Williamson, Mrs. J. D. Collins, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Gillespie, Misses Wilma and Norma Jean Gillespie, Joe, James Edwin and Julius Byron, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Vinson. Miss Suebeth Willis. Mrs. Leona Dorminey and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Grant.

First Baptist Church

Oscar A. Davis, Pastor

Clanton, Alabama

The First Baptist Church is well into the second week of preparation for the Church Loyalty and Soul-winning program which is to begin on March 12. The church membership is being carefully divided into groups and workers are being chosen for this great Church and community effore. We are hoping that the Methodist Church may find it possible to enter this program with us simultaneously. Brother Daniel is studying the plan and it is our prayerful hope that the Methodist Church will be able to promote this program along with us, thus making it a concentrated Christian crusade for the entire city and community.

All Circles of the W.M.S. will meet at the church on Monday at 3 P.M. Circle Number 2 will have charge of the program, with the following persons taking part: Mrs. Horace Popwell, Miss Betty Mullins, Mrs. P. A. Taylor, Mrs. G. C. Powell, Mrs A. N. Minor, Mrs. Alva Mahan, Mrs. Hattie Alred, Mrs Renfroe Mullins, Mrs H. T. Pipes, and Mrs. M. Z. Atchison.

There is a class for everyone in our Sunday school. Come at 9:45. Help us build a great church for a good community. There is also a union for every-age in our Training Union, with good behavior and helpful programs guaranteed.

The Pastor will preach morning and evening on next Sunday.

MODERN BEAUTY PARLOR ADDING NEW EQUIPMENT

For a city of its size, Clanton boasts one of the finest and most up-to-date Beauty Shops in the State. The Modern Beauty Shoppe, operated by Mrs. W. C. Robinson, has just added more equipment and another booth to help care for her fast-growing business.

Mrs. Robinson invites all her friends and customers to come up and let her show them through this truly Modern Beauty Shoppe.

CIRCLE NUMBER FIVE MET WITH MRS. ARMSTRONG

Circle Number Five of the Clanton Baptist Church met at the home of Mrs. G. C. Armstrong with Mrs. A. C. Smith, the Co-Chairman, taking charge in the absence of Mrs. Ellis.

Mrs, Ezell gave the devotional, taken from the first ten verses of the tenth chapter of Romans. Business was attended to after which the Home Mission book "Go Forward," was studied.

Refershments were served to the 21 present.

CIRCLE NUMBER FOUR MET WITH MRS. PATTERSON HICKS

Circle Number Four met at the home of Mrs. Patterson Hicks Monday afternoon for Mission Study with 28 members present. Chairman Mrs. W. A. Willis presided. She used for her devotional various scriptures and readings on Love, Song. "Blest Be The Tie That Binds" was sung by all.

The Mission program was given by different members. After the usual business a social period in which refreshments were served, was held. Each member present received and read a Valentine, which was enjoyed by all. The meeting adjourned with Mispah to meet with Mrs. P. T. Hinkle for next business meeting.

THE LEADER STORE RE-ARRANGES SHOE DEPT.

The Leader Store here has been doing quite a bit of re-arranging in their shoe department recently, which will greatly enhance the service of this department.

They have devoted almost the entire right-hand side of the store to shelves for the shoes, and tends to leave a streamlined appearance inside the store. A cordial invitation is being extended to the public to inspect the new arrangement.

Miss Dorothy Waite spent last week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Waite.

Maple Springs

We had the largest Sunday School attendance last Sunday that we have had for several weeks. We urge and invite everyone to come back.

Brother Carrol delivered two inspiring messages last Sunday.

Prayer meeting and preaching will be held Thursday night of this week at six o'clock at this place. Brother Emmett Wilhon will preach for us at this time.

There will be an afternoon singing at this place the fourth Sunday afternoon, February 26, beginning about 1:30 o'clock. All singers and lovers of music are urged to attend.

Remember Sunday School next Sunday morning at 10 o'clock, and be present.

Church School, 9:45 A.M. each Sunday, Mr. L.J. Stewart, General Superintendent.

Morning Worship, 11:00 A.M. Sermon by the Pastor.

Young Peoples' Meeting, 6:15 PM.

Evening worship, 7:15 P.M. Sermon by the Pastor.

Children up to anl including the age of 14 years will have their meeting each Friday afternoon at 4:00 P.M. at the Church.

Our Church School attendance has increased in a wonderful way and if we know those workers in the contest, we know the end of their work is not in sight, because even when the contest is won, their work for their church will not cease. We must not let the number decrease, ever, because if we do we and our church will be going backward, and for the Lord's Kingdom that must not happen.

More and more people are attending the Worship services. None ever go away disappointed.

Everyone is cordially invited to attend services at the Clanton Methodist Church every Sunday.

THE HOUSE OF DAVID—

When you think of the House of David you naturally think of long beards and wise looks. Long beards is right, and this basketball aggregation is pretty wise in the ways of the game. Yes, sir, that famous team will come down to Mitchell Dam next Thursday night(March 2) to play the Mitchell Dam Cardinals. We saw the game between these two teams last year at the Dam, and we'll be here this time if nothing prevents—(and our pass is still good). We understand the bearded gentlemen have lost only seven games out of 201. Of course that doesn't scare the Cardinals any. When you are anticipating defeat it doesn't hurt so bad—but then, who knows, the Cardinals might administer the House of David a licking, but we're afraid not in basketball; beard-pulling, maybe.

LEAVING—

Ben Ivey tells us that he and the Mrs. are leaving Saturday for Selma where they will make their home. We certainly hate to see this couple leave Clanton, but then of course, our best wishes go with them. They've certainly endeared themselves to the people of this section, and there's always a need for two fine people like the Iveys in a community.

YOUNG DEMOCRATS—

It'll be Democrat Day in Birmingham Friday and Saturday of this week when hundreds of Alabama Young Demos convene in the Magic City with their headquarters at the Thomas Jefferson Hotel The Governor and many other prominent men will be on hand to address the group. We think it's time the younger heads of the Democrat party in Chilton got together and started something. Chilton should be well represented at the meeting Friday and Saturday. Jefferson County young Demos will play hosts to the Alabama League. Abney Brown of Maplesville, former Secretary-Treasurer of the Chilton County organization, was in Clanton Monday and stated that he would certainly like to see our County represented at the gathering. Young Brown has been out of the County for some time and has kinda lost track of the organization here. Why not a round-up of the boys and girls and let's all get back into the fold. Chilton has many young Democrat voters, and what has been done in the past can be done in the future.

Former Probate Judge L. H. Reynolds discusses the cotton program, and Tax Collector T. L. McKee writes regarding the Tax Equalization Bill, in this issue of the News. These are two interesting letters, and may be found on an inside page.

TRANSFERRED—

Looks like we'll be unable to say "Patrolmen Waites and Henley investigated" in the future. Since these two fellows received their transfer papers we are minus two familiar figures always on the lookout for road law violators. Wonder who will—or has—replaced them in this section?

A REAL PARTY—

We'll wager the age-old saying "A good time was had by all," was never truer than it was here on February 14 when the Homemakers Sunday School Class of the Baptist Church entertained the elderly ladies and shut-ins of the City. These youngsters around here have probably never seen the day when they enjoyed a get-together as much as these beloved ladies of Clanton. And we'd certainly like to see the picture snapped of the group. Yes, sir, it was certainly "Sweetheart's Day" in Clanton on Valentine's Day.

AT JEMISON—

And they tell us the "Virginia Reel" was the order of the night at the Jemison High School on Valentine's Day. The King and Queen of Hearts was chosen, and another "good time was had by all." This affair was sponored by the Jemison P.-T. A. and we have a large picture here at the News office of the Virginia Reel being enacted by the younger set of Jemison, snapped by an unknown photographer. Wonder if we could do the Reel? There's one thing we have learned; you can't get out of buying Valentine candy by getting married. There's a difference, tho—instead of the regular one-pounder before, its a two-pounder afterwards. Its just expected, that's all.

We've found out,
Since "Gad" came along,
Our readers have increased,
Several hundred strong.

Patrolmen Waites And Henley Transferred

Highway Patrolmen Wallace Waites and Earl Henley have been transferred from this territory, effective last Monday, according to an announcement given the News recently.

Messrs. Waites and Henley have been stationed in this section for quite a while and have rendered valuable services along the lines of highway law enforcement. Their friends in this territory will regret that they have been called to another section.

Patrolman Waites will be stationed in or near Montgomery, working out of the Montgomery office, while Patrolman Henley will be stationed at Troy. Just who will replace these two officers here has not been learned.

KIWANIANS WILL OBSERVE WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY

The local Kiwanis Club will observe Washington's Birthday when they gather at the Thomason Hotel tonight. The program is expected to be based on the life of this beloved statesman.

Installation of new members was held last Thursday night at the regular meeting. New members officially inducted into the Club were as follows: J. H. Jackson, Vocational Agriculture teacher at the Chilton County High School; Rascoe Maddox, County Superintendent of Education; J. T. Searcy, atendance officer, Charlie Breedlove, new Assistant County Agent, and Mark L. Tucker, publisher of the Chilton County News.

Deputies Capture Still In Raid Saturday

Deputies Ed Littlejohn and George Murrah, along with A.B.C. representative Moatts, raided a whiskey still about seven miles northeast of Jemison last Saturday afternoon, capturing one person and confiscating three gallons of "moonshine" whiskey.

According to these gentlemen, the still was in operation when they approached it. Four persons were in the midst of "making a run," the officers stated. Three of them escaped, but the fourth was captured and brought to the County jail here. The captured man was Dewey Terry, as listed on the Sheriff's record. The still was taken into custody by the officers.

JOE HALL JOHNSON CHOSEN FOR FALL MEDICAL TERM

Joe Hall Johnson, son of Mrs. Arthur Johnson of this City, and who is attending Vanderbilt University in Nashville, Tenn., has been chosen as a member of the class of medicine next Fall at that University.

Mr. Johnson was one of the fifty chosen out of the 1500 students taking this course. Selection for this class is based on scholastic standing and outstanding pre-med record. His father, the late Dr. Arthur Johnson, practiced medicine here for several years prior to his death.

Friends of young Johnson will be pleased to learn of the recent honor bestowed upon him.

Mrs. W. E. Merrill of near Jemison was carried to the West End Baptist Hospital in Birmingham one day last week by a Martin & Sons ambulance.

YOUNG DEMOS WILL MEET IN BIRMINGHAM

FRIDAY-SATURDAY OF THIS WEEK DATE SET; ELABORATE PROGRAM ARRANGED

Hundreds of young Alabama Democrats from each of the state's 67 counties will gather at the Thomas Jefferson Hotel in Birmingham February 24-25 to attend the quadrennial convention of the Alabama State League of Young Democrats.

Governor Frank Dixon, Gessner McCorvey, Chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee, Haygood Paterson, Commissioner of Agriculture and Industries, E. D. Rivers, Jr., President of the Georgia Young Democrats and son of the governor of Georgia, and many other notable Southern Democrats will be among the speakers. Marion Rushton, National Committeeman, will deliver one of the principal addresses.

Senator Lister Hill and Senator John H. Bankhead will attend the session if it is possible to leave their duties at Washington.

An elaborate program, with a banquet and other gala entertainments, has been arranged for the delegates, Albert Boutwell, chairman of the convention committe, announced.

The delegates will be welcomed Friday by Commission President James M. Jones, Jr., before the election of officers. John Kohn, Jr., of Montgomery, is retiring president.

Group Here Last Week Considering Canning Plant

J. D. Whitfield, of Waverly, Tenn., was in Clanton one day last week, along with S. F. Teague, General Farm Products Agent of the T.C.I., in the interest of establishing a canning factory in Clanton. It is understood that Mr. Whitfield is deeply interested in setting up a plant here on a cooperative basis, financed by himself and interested citizens and business men here.

Also here one day was Robert G. Ernst of New York City. Mr. Ernst is connected with the Quaker Maid Corporatpn and stated that his company was interested in locating a factory of their own somewhere in this territory. With this gentleman was T. U. Crumpton, who represents the Gridley & Co., Investment Securities, of Birmingham. They were accompanied by Leo C. Turner, Assistant Secretary-Treasurer of the Alabama State Chamber of Commerce.

Baptist Homemakers Class Is Hostess To Aged And Shut-Ins At Beautiful Valentine Party

The Homemakers Class of the Baptist Sunday School was hostess on last Tuesday, February 14, at a Valentine party honoring the aged and shut-ins of our town.

A week previous these original and attractive invitations were delivered to to forty-five people:

"Next Tuesday morn about 11:00 o'clock,
At your front door will come a knock;
You will be ready, you don't want to be late!
It's Valentine's Day! What may be your fate?
The Home Makers Class wants you for the day,
'I love you' is what we're trying to say.
If things turn up, so you just can't go,
Be sure you let MARY HEFLIN KNOW!"

At eleven o'clock Valentine Day a car committee from the class called at the homes of those invited and carried them to the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Fant. The reception rooms were artistically decorated in Valentine motif. Red hearts were scattered profusely about the rooms. Vases and bowls of red and white carnations, flowering quince and white narcissi lent their fragrance and beauty.

Mrs. O. A. Davis, the pastor's wife, assisted by Mrs. S. J. Ezell, teacher of the class and Miss Alice Powell entertained the jolly group, with singing and story-telling until noon.

At the noon hour a delicious and attractive luncheon in the Valentine colors, prepared by the class, was served.

After lunch the guests were directed onto the lawn where a photographer made pictures of the group. This occasioned much teasing and laughing.

Mrs. Reid Mullins then took charge and conducted several contests. Later singing and story-telling filled the time.

So quickly did the hours pass during these reminiscences that before anyone realized it the car committee were calling to return the guests to their various homes.

As each guest made her departure many assurances were given of the delightful time the occasion had proven.

As the last guest was deposited at her door the Home Makers Class felt doubly repaid for any effort they had made to bring so much happiness to those who so rarely are able to enjoy a whole day in associations with fiends.

Those registering in the guest book were:

Mrs. Marion Marcus, Mrs. Mattie Jones, Mrs. Carrie J. Ray, Mrs. W. I. Mullins, Mrs. D. E. Burkes, Mrs Laura White, Miss Rena Rembert, Mrs. Minnie Branch, Mrs. Clara Curry, Mrs. D. Y. Johnston, Mrs. O. O. Roper, Mrs. Nick Mullins, Mrs. Mary A. Mullins, Mrs. John M. Robinson, Mrs. W. A. Reynolds.

Mrs. J. P. VanDerveer, Mrs. Bowen Jones, Mrs. Fate Popwell, Mrs. Hugh Foshee, Mrs. Lula Williams, Mrs. E. E. Clark, Mrs. Mary A. Willis, Mrs. L. H. Reynolds Mrs. W. D. Spigener, Mrs. Hiram Devaughn, Miss Alice Powell, Mrs. S. J. Ezell, Mrs. O. A. Davis.

Assisting Mrs. Fant with the serving were: Mrs. Grady Heflin, Mrs. J. W. Johnson, Mrs. F. H. Spicer, Mrs. Earl Parrsh, Mrs. Parker A. Taylor.

City Will Operate Grammar Schools To Forestall Closing

AGREES TO PAY SALARIES OF TEACHERS

City Council Comes To Aid Of Grammar Schools As Of Past

The City of Clanton has again stepped forward and saved the day for the Grammar Schools of the City.

Facing the fact that closing of these schools for lack of funds would be imminent unless some financial help was obtained the County Board of Education announced recently that the City Council had voted to guarantee the salaries of teacher of the Clanton Elementary School, the Mill Village School and the Clanton Colored Elementary School for one month, providing that it did not incur an expenditure of over $1500.

These three schools would have closed on March 24, but for the splendid spirit shown by the City officials. With the additional month they will be extended to April 21.

Mayor C. Fenn Jones stated that although there was no provisions made for aiding the schools of the City he and the City Council were always willing to aid in any way whenever possible. For the past several years the schools have been faced with this same siutation, and it has been the generosity of the City that has extended them the extra month. Mr. Jones stated that since he had been Mayor of the City of Clanton it had donated a total of $5500 to the City schools.

Superintendent of Education Rascoe Maddox stated Tuesday that he was indeed grateful for the splendid show of interest in the welfare of the children of Clanton manifested by the City Government.

McKee Urges Payment Of Delinquent Taxes

"We all know that tax paying is a necessary burden on everyone, and in order to collect taxes the law sets out the dates for it, and the first Monday in March is the dead-line date that all delinquent property must be turned over to the Judge of Probate.

"To keep from paying that extra penalty, please pay your taxes before the first Monday in March.

"Yours respectfully,

MITCHELL DAM WILL PLAY SAND MOUNTAIN TEAM SAT.

The Mitchell Dam Cardinals will meet the strong Sand Mountain team from Albertville, Alabama, on the former's court next Saturday night at 7:30, according to A. B. Stanley, manager of the team. This is expected to be one of the best games the Cardinals have played thus far this season, and a large crowd is expected to attend.

On next Friday night the Dammers will meet the Bessemer Y. at Bessemer. The game with the famous House of David team will be the next order for these boys. Elsewhere in this issue may be found details of this game.

Mitchell Dam defeated the Smith Brothers team at Jasper recently, by a score of 35-29, before a large crowd. The Smith boys overrode the Dammers when they clashed some time ago, by a score of 53-44. This was a splendid comeback for the boys at the Dam.

Jemison P.-T.A. Gives Valentine Festival

On the evening of February 14, the Jemison P.-T.A. sponsored a Valentine Festival to celebrate the crowning of the Queen and the King of Hearts.

Each class in school was allowed to nominate a queen and a king and to solicit votes for its representatives for the week preceeding the crowning.

The contest closed during the program on Tuesday night, when little Miss Gwendolyn Price and Master Marvin Dawson, Jr., of the fourth grade were elected. The runners-up in the contest were little Miss Mary Catherine McNeill and Master Mack Smith of the third grade.

Songs and dances in colorful costumes furnished a very enjoyable program, culminating with the crowning of the queen and the king.

"THANKS FOR EVERYTHING" TO SHOW AT WADESONIAN 26-27

The pcture "Thanks For Everything," is scheduled to be shown at the New Wadesonian Theatre. Sunday and Monday, according to the program for the coming week.

This picture stars Adolph Menjou, Jack Oakie, and many other notable stars.

On program for next Wednesday and Thursday nights, March first and second, is the picture, "The Shining Hour," also rated as a most entertaining presentation. Appearing in this picture is Joan Crawford, Margaret Sullivan and Robert Young with an excellent supporting cast. "Road Demons," "Illegal Traffic," and "The Storm," are other excellent pictures that round out the bill for the week.

U. D. C. CHAPTER MEETS

Mrs. J. P. Hayes will be hostess to members of the U D C Chapter on Friday, February 24, at 4:00 o'clock.

The last meeting was held with Mrs. Billy Barger. Mrs. N. S. Johnson gave a Biographical sketch of Robert E. Lee and Stonewall Jackson.

Miss Alma Fitts read eulogy of Lee, which was from an extemporaneousl speech of the immortal Senator Benjamin H. Hill, and has been pronounced one of the finest themes in Literature.

Those eligible for membership may apply for admittance at the next meeting.

"OLD FAITHFUL" FAILED TO SHOW UP LAST MONDAY MORN

Mayor C. Fenn Jones told a representative of the News last Monday that even "Old Faithful" did not even show up at the usual City Court last Monday morning. By "Old Faithful" the Mayor means that there is—almost without exception—one person or two, who appear to answer to the charge of public drunkenness on Monday mornings. The Mayor stated that he was pleased to see that this was not the case Monday.

C. C. H. S. Sr. Two Class Will Present Play, 1st

"The Absent-Minded Professor," is the title of a play to be presented by the Senior Two Class of the Chilton County High School on the night of March 1 at the City Hall auditorium. The curtain will rise at 7:30.

This play is a comedy in three acts and promises to be most entertaining. The professor, who is Kenneth Thompson, is practically insane over astrology, and is continually interrupting conversations to ask this question: "When were you born?"

In his father's will, Barnabas is supposed to be married within one month to be able to receive his father's estate. You'll laugh at the attempts of his neice's and their boy's friends to get him married.

Miss Melvina, who is the family housekeeper, is Annie Cordelia Smith; Miss Esmeralda, "four times a widow" is Grace Ezell; Aunt Jessica, a haughty society lady, intent on getting all the estate and money is Janie Ruth Martin; Josephine, Aunt Jessica's daughter, is Elizabeth Newell.

Sharon, Uncle Barney's neice, is Eugenia Newon and her fiancee, is Joe Watson, otherwise Charles Honeycutt; Joan, Sharon's sister, is Doris Newell and her newly acquired friend is Dave Carter, otherwise James Daniels, and the lawyer, Mr. Butter, is Will Porter Rush.

The play will last for an hour and forty-five minutes and in connection with this, the beauty contest will be sponsored. A matinee will be given in the afternoon at 1:30, for students at the price of fifteen cents. In the evening the price of admission will be fifteen and twenty-five cents.

MISS SARAH HOLLIS HONORED BY CLASSMATES AT COLLEGE

Miss Sarah Hollis, a Senior at Alabama College and a major in Physical Education, has had the honor of being chosen Purple Cheer Leader in College Night, that will be held two nights, February 24-25, of February.

Miss Hollis, during her four years in college, has been a campus favorite as well as an outstanding athlete.

"Progress And Prosperity Come Through Cooperation"

(Clanton Union-Banner Feb. 16, 1939)

"Single handed neither of the newspapers of Clanton can make the public pay much attention, but if and when we both hit at the same thing we usually drive home our contentions and make somebody listen. The Banner advocated eliminating the unsightly puddle of water in front of the courthouse, and noth ing was done about it until The Chilton County News chimed in and helped us ask for action. Forthwith it has been dried up, much to the credit of Mr. Bob Owens, janitor at the courthouse, and whoever else helped in the move.

"Now, another similar need in the city is for something to be done about the wet shavings and the continual oozing of water and muck over the sidewalk at the corner directly in front of the postoffice. This suggestion, like the other one, is not made to embarass anyone, but it is only for the general good of the city, the folks who have to walk at this point, and for the general enhancement of the appearance of that section. The suggestion is made in good humor and good intention, but in good faith that something be done about it."

Through cooperation of Clanton's two newspapers and its splendid, intelligent citizenship, this already attractive little city can easly be made the most beautiful urban spot in Alabama.

Chilton County News thoroughly agrees with the Banner that the unsanitary condition complained of at the corner across from the federal building, should be corrected and we believe it will be—without coercion on the part of anyone.

We repeat, Chilton County News will always be found willing and ready to cooperate with The Banner and all other influences whose aim is for the betterment and advancement of all the people.

THE WAY TO SOLVE A BIG PROBLEM

(By W. E. Huddleston)

Immediate elimination of the federal tax on gasoline would aid in solving the problem of tax duplication now confronting the Cogress, it was reported today by W. E. Huddleston, Chairman of the Chilton County Petroleum Industries Committee. Mr. Huddleston explained that tax experts, including members of the administration, are emphasizing the desirability of removing existing duplications in federal, state and local taxes.

"Immediate elimination of the federal tax on gasoline would aid in solving the problem of tax duplication now confronting Congress and would contribute greatly toward this goal," said Mr. Huddleston. "The federal gasoline tax, imposed as an 'emergency' levy in 1932, duplicates gasoline taxes levied by every state and unfairly imposes a doubled burden of taxation upon the motorist.

"Tay experts, among them members of the administration, are emphasizing the desirability of removing existing duplications in federal, state and local taxes, and elimination of the federal gasoline tax would serve not only this end but eliminate the present interference with state highway financing programs. This federal levy is taking out every state money which could be spent at home.

"Furthermore, this federal levy violates the principle of taxing gasoline to finance highways. It was imposed, not to pay for roads, but to help out the federal government in an emergency. Numerous tax experts and members of Congress, as well as Congressional committees, have cited its unfairness and have recommended its elimination. It is obvious that seven years is long enough for a tax imposed purely as an 'emergency' measure."

WHITE COUNTY TEACHERS IN ALABAMA

(By Henrietta W. Davis)

This is the first of three articles about white county teachers in Alabama based on studies of 15 counties made by graduate students in education at Auburn:

Alabama's average school teacher is a young woman 27 years old who receives an annual salary of $499, and $136 in donations from relatives.

These facts were revealed in a recent survey of average rural teachers conducted by graduate students in the school of education at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. Fifteen representative Alabama counties were studied.

This average teacher conducts classes in an county consolidated school of 7 or more teachers. She has no dependents, and when school is not in session lives with her parents.

During the school year, the average teacher boards in a home where she keeps her own room, helps prepare meals, and shares her sleeping room. She has the use of a living room, but is without bathroom or running water. There is no phonograph or piano in the home in which she boards, but she has the use of a radio, and has access to newspaper and magazines, and the use of electricity for reading and study.

She spends 63 per cent of her salary, or $314, for such essentials of board, room, clothing; 16 per cent or $80, for professional improvement and social betterment, the major portion of which goes for education; 6 per cent, or $30, for occasional and business reasons, such as gifts to charity, civic improvement, interest, taxes, upkeep, etc., 7 per cent, or $35, to pay off accumulated debts; and 8 per cent, or $40, is put aside as current savings. The total value of her possessions amounts to $136. She has no net assets, but has a net annual debt of $28.

CROP ROTATION AND FERTILIZER

(American Potash Institute)

Largely as a result of the agricultural adjustment programs which have been in effect in recent years, cropping practices are undergoing important changes in the souther states. During the past ten years the acreage in the long established cash crops has shown a downward trend, while food and feed crops have made substantial increases. More attention is being given each year to restoring and maintaining soil fertility, and systematic plans of crop rotations are probably being followed now to a greater extent than at any previous period in the South's history.

Changes in crop plans are being accompanied by widespread revisions in methods of fertilization. The introduction of winter legumes as a standard farm practice has aided greatly in building up lands and preventing erosion, but when they are followed by cotton it is being found that the fertilizer mixtures used in the past are not proving satisfactory in many instances. This is due to the fact that the cover crops add only nitrogen and unless mixtures contain sufficient potash to balance it cotton is likely to rust and fail to yield up to expectations.

The increase in the acreage planted to hay crops is also creating a problem due to the fact that these crops are removed from the soil and thereby take out large quantities of plant food. While these crops are usually classified as soil building, actually they are among the most depleting when not turned under and experiment stations are finding that increased amounts of both potash and phosphorus are essential for the succeeding crops.

A large acreage is being planted to peanuts in most of the southern states and where they are harvested the average crop removes as much potash as is applied in three years to cotton. For this reason farmers in peanut areas use not only high potash mixtures, such as the popular 4-10-7 analysis, but also find it advisable to side dress with potash.

Talladega National Forest

TALLADEGA NATIONAL FOREST: Located in Calhoun, Cleburne, Talladega and Clay Counties, Alabama, forty miles from the City of Gadsden, Alabama, to the upper tip of the forest at Borden Springs, Alabama, on the State of Georgia line, extending southwest for about eight miles and at the widest point approximately twenty miles. From Gadsden it may be reached by following State Route 74, about 80 per cent paved, to the border line of Georgia. Following along the Ridge there is a scenic drive the entire length of the forest, which gives the motorist ten to twenty miles view of the surrounding mountains and valleys on each side of the main ridge. Approximately forty miles of this drive have been completed to date and the U. S. Forest Service has commenced the development of a Recreational Reservation in an area known as Devil's Dam, so called by early inhabitants who claim "It was the Devil to get into, and Hell to get out." The U. S. Forest Service has here a twenty acre lake which has been provided with modern recreational facilities and the service expects to have this development completed by Fall of 1939 or not later than early 1940. Visitors are always welcome to view this work during the construction of the development and the Forest Service likewise invites citizens of the state to visit any of the Notional Forests in the state and see for themselves the vast improvements made and in the throes of development for the benefit of Alabama people.

The scenery throughout this great forest is magnificent and some of the finest anywhere in the Southland, and for those who like to do the unexpected an exploration trip up one of the larger creeks would be delightful. Here one will encounter many cascades and waterfalls and places that indeed will tax the strength of experienced mountain climbers.

This Is How Clanton Became The County Seat

—o—

Early in the year 1871, it was decided by the citizens of Baker (now Chilton) County, by ballot, that a permanent location for the courthouse should be established. Benson and Clanton being the two localities to receive the highest votes, were placed in nomination.

Following are the Court orders which resulted in Clanton becoming the county seat:

"Special Court of County,
April 3, 1871.

"State of Alabama,
Baker County.

Be it known that an election held in said County on the first Saturday in April, 1871, for the permanent location of the Court House in said County, it appears from the returns of said election that Clanton and Benson in said county, were the two highest places voted for in said election. It is therefore ordered that those two places be put in nomination for a second election for the same purpose of the last Saturday n April, 1871.

"M. Roberson, Judge of Probate,
Anderson Baker, Sr.,
A. J. Cooper,
G. W. Culp."

"Special Court of County Commissioners, May 2, 1871.

"State of Alabama,
Baker County.

"Be it remembered that an election held in said County on the last Saturday in April 1871, for the permanent location of the Court House of said County and Clanton having received the highest number of votes at said election. It is therefore ordered that Clanton be and it is hereby declared, the permanent location of the Court House of said County.

"M. Roberson, Judge of Probate,
Anderson Baker, Sr.,
A. J. Cooper,
G. W. Culp."

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

A multi-millionaire came staggering along where a happy father was playing with his bright son. The drunken man of wealth staggered up to the boy and placing his hand on the head of the child said: "Fine boy, I want to buy him. Tell you what I will do, dad; I will give you a million dollars for him." The father indignantly replied: "Sir, my son is not for sale." "Want to be huffy," replied the drunk man. "Wait a minute, I will give you a hundred thousand dollars if you will let me play with your boy an hour each day." The father booted the reprobate and drove him from the presence of his boy. My heart bleeds as I see fathers selling their sons today for business. My heart bleeds today as I see mothers leaving their children to be entertained by evil companionship. Fathers are too busy to give of themselves to the boy in the home. Selling him out for a store, a farm, a job. Mothers are so engaged in the social whirl that she cannot be a companion to her chldren, leaving them find their own entertainment. Parents can join in with the prophet in olden days and say: "While thy servant was busy here and there, my children were gone." Next to your own soul, your child is the most valuable thing you have.

When I was a Scout Master I would have my boys to play a very interesting game. Calling them together I would address them thus: "Scouts, for an hour now I am going to ask that each boy in this Troop gather up what you can find in the way of straw, tin, paper, canvas, wood, just anything that you can find and use, and make out of it something that can be used." It would surprise anyone to see what those boys could produce out of things that seemingly appeared to be worthless. They brought in sail boats wood knives, mixing paddles, meal sifters, camp stools, storage boxes, coat hangers and a dozen other things. They were made with skill. These boys produced something out of nothng. That is a lesson that older people need to learn. Scattered all about us we can find many things that can be used to good advantage and comfort if we will just use our eyes and skill. That is what makes the difference in folks—being able to use what is in sight.

The Golden rule is a wonderful way of life. Do you admire an ill temper in anyone? Not at all. Then wh you not put away your silly fi rage? Do you like to see a lad c to win? You do not. Then thin yourself in the minds of others you cheat. Do you like to hear slurs sneers and smart words that sting burn? No. Then learn to think t before you utter them. Do you li see your boys and girls going to Certainly not. Then why will you c conditions that will cause your n bors' sons and daughters to go wr Do you like for people to be cour and kind? Wes. Then be courteous kind yourself. Do you like to hear truth? Then tell it yourself. Do like clean living? Then live clean. unto others as you would have the do unto you." This is the wa friendship, happiness and life.

Cotton Important As Food Crop, Too

About one-third of the 100,000,000 acres of land cultivated last season in the South was in cotton, Department of Agriculture estimates show. Cotton, acknowledged "king" of the South's cash crops, might claim the title of "king' of feed crops, too, for it was the source in 1937-38 of more than 2,830,000 tons of protein-rich feed (cottonseed meal and cake) and 1,624,000 tons of roughage (cottonseed hulls).

Because it contains the protein that farm grains and roughages lack, and can replace, as well as supplement, grains in livestock rations, cottonseed meal or cake has an importance even greater than is indicated by the volume of production. Evidence of this is the fact that the Corn Belt and other major feed-growing areas are large users of the South's cottonseed meal and cake.

Farm grains and roughages are generally deficient in protein. For example, a pound of 41 per cent cottonseed meal contains as much digestible protein as 4½ pounds of corn, the chief grain crop of the Nation. In addition, the proteins furnished by cereal grains are unbalanced and lack essential amine acids.

Properly combined in balanced rations, one pound of cottonseed meal will replace about two or three pounds of oats or corn, saving grain and reducing costs when grain is scarce or high in price. The addition of cottonseed meal to the ration makes every bushel of grain and every ton of roughage produced on farms more efficient in livestock feeding.

Roughage supplied by cotton in the form of cottonseed hulls also has an important place in the feeding program of Southern farmers. Experiment Stations have found cottonseed hulls are equal in feeding value to qualify prairie or Johnson grass hay, and that 100 pounds of hulls will replace 207 pounds of corn silage or 251 pounds of sorghum silage.

While many protein supplements and roughages, all of good quality, are interchangeable in feeding rations, cottonseed meal, or cake, and hulls are widely-used throughout the South, because of their availability, relative economy and their efficiency. Another important factor is that, by using meal and hulls, Southern farmers are using products of their own cottonseed, helping to increase its value, and are returning to the soil, through livestock manure, fertility removed in growing cotton.

Hints to Gardeners

In the Rock Garden

WITH the rush of early planting over, this might be a good time to consider rock garden problems.

Although most annual flower seeds should not be planted until next spring, the time is approaching when the garden may be economically dressed up by planting seeds of perennial favorites for early blooms next spring.

This is, moreover, the time of year when many gardeners find time to build that long desired rock garden, or to rearrange the old one. Discussions here may be helpful to them in their planning.

Selection of flowers can make or break the rock garden. It is important to select only those plants that grow among rocks in their native haunts and those that seem to belong among stones. They make the garden look more natural, and they also thrive better under rock garden conditions.

Use judgment in placing the various plants. Creeping plants should be allowed to make carpets of color in the larger soil pockets. Erect plants of varying heights are appropriate in any of the flat spaces. Plants that trail should be allowed to droop over the face of the rocks; or they may be placed at the top of a bank or wall.

In smaller crevices, tufted plants with rosettes of foliage and short flower stalks are suitable. Ordinary garden and bedding plants should be eliminated from consideration for the rock garden.

Most true rock plants grow less than ten inches tall. Use these low growing perennials and annuals mostly. Toward the back, however, and for accent here and there, use some of the medium and taller growing annuals considered suitable. They will give a pleasing contrast in size.

As for color, use plenty of white, to set off the tinted blossoms.

FREEMAN OFFERS SOLUTION OF THE COTTON PROBLEM

(J. S. Freeman, in Mountain Eagle)

To The Mountain Eagle,
Jasper, Alabama.

If you will look back through your file for 1931, about the month of September, you will find that I wrote an article along the lines of the federal government establishing a minimum wage and maximum hour law, affecting all products that went into interstate commerce.

As far as I know, this was the first step openly taken to benefit the working man by legislation, and at the same time protect the employer who wanted to estabish a living wage on a reasonable number of hours to constitute a days work. This plan was sent to a number of papers and magaznes. It was also submitted to a number of the political leaders. The plan advanced received very little consideration by our political leaders. Those who did consider it, said it was too advanced, or was unconstitutional. However, you now see a law passed along this line which has been upheld by our Supreme Court.

I read your editorial in last weeks issue on our cotton situation. and you invite plans for the solution of our cotton dilema. I have a plan which I have given considerable thought to.

King Cotton has been the money crop and mainstay of the South for over one one hundred years. Cotton in the past has been the main factor in our export trade. Now we find this necessary crop one of the biggest problems instead of one of our main assets. The question naturally arises, "Why is This?" To my way of thinking, it is because the question has been handled by economic doctors who did not understand the question from its basic standpoint, and were like the medical doctor who is too ready to use his hypodermic needle for temporary relief, rather than the knowledge or political courage necessary to make a thorough diagnosis and prescribe a treatment for permanent relief. It is much more popular to hand some people a check for not doing something than it is to show that same person how he can help himself by working.

The result of this hypodermic experimenting is that we have dropped from our proud place of supplying eighty per cent of the world's supply of raw cotton to a position of supplying approximately forty per cent. Some drop, don't you think? On the other hand we are now forced with the bold fact that the U. S. Government has bought and have on hand eleven million bales of cotton. When I say "bought," I mean just that, for not even the most ardent advocate of federal loans can call it anything else, in the face of approximately eight cent cotton. This large amount of pooled cotton acts as a bearish influence on the cotton market and as long as so held will continue to depress the market. I will offer a solution of this later on.

Now as to the reason we find ourselves in the position of dropping from supplying over eighty-seven per cent of the world's raw cotton to a position of supplying about forty per cent of same.

It was primarily the restriction of cotton production in this country by artificial means. This plan might have been feasable and workable if this country had a monoply on all the cotton land in the world and the only climate in which cotton could be grown, but this is not the true condition. Brazil, the Argentine, India, China, Russia and other countries have far more land adapted to growing cotton than we have. They also have a suitable climate. Our artificial control plan has simply started these other countries to growing cotton to supply a world demand which we voluntarily threw away.

It is a well known fact that the farmer has been discriminated against since the day of Esau and Jacob. No fair man will deny this fact and refuse to admit the farmer needs help and should have it.

The farmer in this country has been working under a handicap since the first American Tariff was put into effect. The farmer was compelled to buy his manufactured products in a protected market. He was compelled to sell the products of his labor in a world free market, consequently he was penalized the differential.

Alexander Hamilton, who was the first political American to advocate a protective tariff for our manufacturers, said in a paper to the U. S. Senate in 1790, "I hereby advocate a protective tariff for our infant industries, but no country will continuously prosper half protected and half penalized, and when you protect the manufacturer you penalize the farmer. I favor protecting the manufacturers and at the same time I advocate making up to the farmer what he is penalized by a direct subsidy. If this is not done in the course of time, all the wealth of the country will be centralized in the industrial sections of the country and the agricultural section will be pauperizel."

We have lived to see this prediction come true. Now my plan for a solution of our present situation is this: Let the federal government get a clean cut bill of sale for the eleven million bales of cotton now being held. Then let the government announce that this cotton is forever off of the open market. It has been proved that cotton properly prepared is one of the best foundations for good roads. Let the government have this eleven million bales of cotton made into briquetts or the proper form for using in highway construction. The government furnishes a larger per cent of funds for highway construction. Let the government furnish this cotton material instead of cash, and take the cash for it out of the highway appropriation to replace the money loaned on the cotton, this to be figured at the market price of cotton and charge off the loss as experimental loss.

This would dispose of the eleven million bale hang-over. This in itself would jump the price of spot cotton.

NOW TO THE FUTURE: Let the government establish a guarantee of ten cents per pound for middling cotton. On this basis the government to buy no cotton at all, but let the cotton be sold on the open market. If the price is eight cents per pound and the government pay the grower two cents per pound. If the grade is under middling, let the differential be figured accordingly. If the price for middling is over ten cents the grower will get the benefit of it and of course no subsidy. This government subsidy should be paid direct to the person who produces the cotton whether tenant farmer or individual.

In the case of the big land holder who farms with hired help, let him either subscribe to a set wage scale and working conditions or in the event of a government subsidy let this be appropriated equally among the owner and the hired help.

This plan in my opinion will restore the United States to its former place in the cotton world without penalizing our textile mills.

Now I want you Walker County farmers to read this and if it meets with your approval, call a meeting of your organization, discuss it and if the organization approves it or con offer something better, call a state meeting and while the Alabama Legislature is in session get them to pass a resolution to Congress.

I think it is high time for the farmer to try to work out their own salvation. Congress will listen to you if you can agree on a united plan.

The legislatures of several southern states is now in session. Georgia, North Carolina, Texas. They are all interested in the same thing you are. If you will unite and work together you can start something that will be heard around the world.

J. S. FREEMAN.

1938 Fire Losses Estimated $413,251

Record breaking droughts in both the winter and the fall forest fire seasons caused a loss of approximately 4.65 per cent of the 8,621,000 acres of woodland under protection by the State Commission of Forestry during 1938. The protected acreage in Alabama is greater than that covered by any other Gulf State, and also comprises the greatest proportion of land under protection in this region. On this area 6,684 fires burned 402,253 acres, and inflicted a money damage of $413,251.

There Is Never A Crop F ure Of Calves

It is the time of year w farmers everywhere in the Deep S are turning land in preparation heir 1939 crops. It is the time of ut at their hopes are the highest. s und is moist and turning nicel year eather is 90 per cent gold a The isions abundant crops are and The their imaginations as they tak playing h the seed catalogs that humb thr into their hands in the have gott

Oh! that their ho winter mon ons would be fulfilled es and asp last year and all the But just lik ere is "a wild card i former years ngs will rock along n the deck." The Spring and on i icely through d along the latter to the Summer apearing day wil part of July each a since a "season." l add one more d has just about Finally when the sa just about gon departed and hopes are and overnight, a cloud will descend, will be washed what was left of a crop away. A plant is a very tender thing and has to be handled with care both by the elements farmer and must get the breaks of the game. Sometimes the least little adversity will destroy it. A cow is different. She will go further for a drink of water and a mouthful of grass than most any other domestic animal.

What about the production of calves in Alabama as a crop? A farmer with a healthy herd of cows can expect under normal conditions an 85 per cent calf crop year and year out. Prices will fluctuate and some years will be more profitable than others as in any business but no year will be a "crop failure" year in the cattle business. When more farmers and more cattlemen plant more crops of calves we will all have a more dependable source of income.

The chronic fear of overdoing a good thing with the attendant evils of over production and accumulating surpluses are always present. If the South had the right number of cattle using marginal land that is producing cotton on an unsound basis then the added income from calves could be had, the burdensome carryover of cotton could be worked off and cotton would possibly become again a profitable crop. Remember this:

THERE IS NEVER A CROP FAILURE OF CALVES.

"MY LILY OF DREAMS"

By James Leonard Miles Jr.

I saw a beautiful brook today,
In a big meadow, over the way.
A lily came floating down the stream
And brought my love back to me in a dream.

Oh, how I recall that beautiful night,
We sat by a stream in the pale moonlight,
And told of our love, forever true.
The world was ours, just we two.

The future or past didn't matter to me;
The wonderful present was all I could see.
I should have known some day we would part,
That our love would end, with a broken heart.

It's over now, just a past love affair,
But, darling, I still see your face everywhere.
And I wonder if you remember the day
When, like the lily—Love drifted away.

FARMERS

The year of 1938 has closed, and as we look over the year, the majority of the farmers were disappointed over the price of cotton, their allotment and the general price of other farm products, which left the year's work very discouraging.

As we will begin to make our plans for another crop, and as we have received our cotton allotment, it should enable us to set up a program this year to produce so much cotton per acre on our allotment and to grow some more money crops besides cotton, as we cannot expect a money crop altogether from our cotton crop. So if you will pardon our suggestion, we would like to see you try the following program this year:

COTTON, CORN AND OTHER FARM PRODUCTS: Plant enough acreage in corn to have 75 to 100 bushels per plow; plant 5 to 10 acres in Lespedeza or sorghum hay; plant 2 to 5 acres of peanuts, as they are fine for the family during the winter months, and for hogs, cows and mules; plant at least 2 to 5 acres of oats, using 150 pounds of fertilizer per acre, you will have more hay than you can use if you spray it before planting for smut; plant at least one-half an acre of sorghum for syrup for the family.

LIVESTOCK: Have 2 cows; 2 hogs for meat; one brood sow if possible, and arrange for some pasture land sodded in bermuda grass for your livestock.

PRODUCE: Have at least 50 laying hens of good breed; raise from 50 to 100 chickens for market and for home consumption.

FOOD CROPS: Plant one-fourth to one-half acre in sweet potatoes; they are easily raised and are good for livestock when chopped up, besides being food for the family; plant one-half to one bushel of Irish potatoes twice a season.

GARDEN: Have from one-half to one acre of garden land, well worked and well fertilized to have all fresh vegetables the family can use and to have at least 200 cans for the family during the year. Plant a few rows of strawberries and dewberries; they are fine for making pies and jelly.

ORCHARD: If you don't have an orchard, try to have one; this can be done easily by starting with one-half dozen trees each of pear, apple, plum, peach and 3 or 4 pecan trees; this can be one of the best investments that a farmer can make, as it will furnish the family with fruit, fresh, canned or dried and pecan trees to furnish nuts to eat all winter.

If you will need any money during the year to help finance your crop or any other program you may have in mind, we want you to call upon us, as it will certainly be a pleasure to make you a loan on our regular banking terms and method. We will appreciate any business that you may favor us with and we wish to state that our bank's resources have reached six hundred thousand dollars, which has been made possible by the patronage of the good farmers and our other good friends. If you have a friend or neighbor whom you can recommend to us for a loan, who could give us a good, safe bankable note, we would appreciate it if you would send them to us.

A popular old riddle, "If a cow and a half cost a dollar and a half, how many cows could you buy for $10?," has a sequel now when dairymen are stopping to consider when one cow may be worth as much as five. Strange as it sounds, one cow all too often is worth as much as five!

"One cow is worth as much as five," says Meade Summers, head of the Dairy Department of Purina Mills, "when the one cow is fed and managed properly. Five cows producing 170 pounds of butterfat each per year will turn in a total of 850 pounds of butterfat, 593 pounds of which is required to pay feed costs. With only 257 pounds of butterfat left as profit, the owner has [illegible] profit of $90.75 from his five cows. On the other hand, one good cow producing 435 lbs. of butterfat per year requires only 178 pounds of her total production to pay her feed costs, leaving a profit of 257 pounds of butterfat worth $90.75. This makes the one high producing cow worth as much as the other five.

"It's an old, old story, but a true one, nevertheless, and the sooner dairymen make up their minds to sell the 'boarders' and low producers of their herds, the sooner their profits will increase. Get rid of poor cows," the Purina dairyman repeats, "and start feeding the good cows a complete, balanced ration that will keep up production."

Rock Garden Flowers

YOU want your rock garden to b come more beautiful as ti goes on. To achieve this, grow variety of carefully selected p ennials. Care for them as careful as you select them.

By growing and spreading fr year to year, perennials fill t chinks and spaces, taking away t newness. They give the pleasi effect of having been there for long time.

Following is a list of 24 pere nials excellently suited to the ro garden: Hardy Alyssum, Colu bine, Arabis or Rock Cress, meria, Aubrietia, English Daisy (Bellis Perennis), Harebell (Campanula Carpatica), Siberi Wallflower, Snow-in-Summer, Har Pink, Coral Bells (or Heuchera Linum (or Flax), Forget-me-n Japanese Bellflower (or Platy don), Iceland Poppy, Hardy Pri rose (or Primula), Stonecrop (Sedum Acre), and Viola Cornuta.

Most rock garden perennia bloom in spring and early summe presenting only foliage effects t remainder of the season. There a many appropriate annuals that m be used to keep the rock garden flower in the summer. Annuals a also helpful for securing color a foliage masses during the first se son or two of a rock garden, wh perennials are not yet well esta lished. Annuals are also useful f covering any bare spots which m appear.

The list of annuals suitable f the rock garden includes the f lowing: Sand Verbena, Dwarf Flo Flower (or Ageratum), Carpet-o Snow Alyssum, Little Gem Aly sum, Brachycome (or Swan Riv Daisy), China Pink, African Dai California Poppy, Lobelia Celestia Ice Plant, Baby Blue Eyes, Har bell Phacelia, Phlox Drummond Moss Rose (or Portulaca), Boun ing Bet (or Saponaria), Poor Man Orchid (or Schizanthus), Thu bergia (or Black-Eyed Susan), S Lavender (or Statice), Verben Virginian Stock, and Nierembergi Hippomanica (Dwarf Cup Flower

ALABAMA TAX PAYERS ARE FIGHTING EQUALIZATION BILL

New Local Boards Would Replace The Present Set-Up

Montgomery, Feb. 22—A flood of misleading propaganda has been unloosed against the administration's tax equalization bill, Governor Frank Dixon declared this week in a statement emphasizing that it is not a general tax-rasing measure but a program to uphold the principle of "equal rights to all."

Already passed by the Senate and now awaiting House action, the bill sets up equalization boards composed of three resident property owners in each of the 67 counties, in lieu of the present boards of review.

"A great deal of misrepresentation regarding the real purpose of the bill has been spread throughout the state," Governor Dixon said. "The public is entitled to know the real objectives of this measure and the reasons which make necessary its enactment.

"The tax equalization bill is not a tax raising measure except as to those individuals who are not already carrying their fair share of taxes. It is not a revenue bill. It is not a bill which in any way restricts home rule or local self-government.

"This bill has but one purpose. That purpose is to bring about equitable property assessments in all 67 counties of the state. It is a purpose which can cause no concern to any citizen of Alabama who believes in equal rights for all. Our schools must function. Our cities must operate. I urge the people of our state to acquaint themselves with the provisions of this measure so as not to be mislead by propaganda which is counter to the facts."

Senator Hayse Tucker of Tuscaloosa, author of the bill, ridiculed the charge that it is "a tax-raising scheme," adding: "If that were true, I would fight it to a finish."

"The bill," he pointed out, "maintains voluntary assessments on part of the individual. Instead of restricting local self-government it requires that members of the local equalization boards must themselves be property owners who have resided in the community for at least 5 years.

"The state government has little stake in the bill, but an equalization of property taxes in all 67 counties, so as to reduce 'escapes' and eliminate discriminations, is vital to the schools and municipalities.

Senator Tucker said a number of property tax surveys have shown that small homes and farms generally are assessed at or near actual value, while large properties in many instances are not carrying their fair share of the tax burden. He confidently predicted that the equalization bill will prove popular with the people of Alabama, once it is palced in effect.

First Baptist Church

Clanton, Alabama

Whether your church is small and needy or large and impressive, she lays her claims upon the finest loyalties and allegiances of your life by virtue of her nameless contributions to it throughout life's day. Be it in the tender pink of childhood's dawn, at purity's sacred altar in the union of love's eternal vow or at the solemn service when the tired dead safely repose in Christ's sweet sleep, the church asks for and merits all that you can ever give to her Lord and His Gospel. For the achievement of her divine mission of eternal human redemption, you are asked to give God an opportunity to deepen your spiritual life by attending all the church services, by sincere, burdened prayer for the coming of Christ's spiritual kingdom and by willing effort toward the salvation of our city and community. Calling all Baptists! Join in our Church Loyalty and Soul-winning Program beginning on March 12.

W. M. U. Week Of Prayer

All Circles of the W.M.S. will meet at the church on Monday at 2:30 P.M. for Circles' business meetings and Week of Prayer program for Home Missions in charge of Circle No. 1. They will meet every day next week, Tuesday through Friday at 3:00 P.M. except Friday, on which day they meet at 10:30 A.M.

Lunch will be served at the church. Each member of the W.M.S. will bring a covered dish.

All members of the Junior, Intermediate and Adult Unions of the B. T.U. are invited to attend a departmental Social at the Church on Friday evening at 7:00 o'clock—February 24.

Were you born November 26? Do you like lilies and emeralds? If so your chance of a lifetime may be at hand. Be at the City Hall, Wednesday night, March 1.

WITH YOUR HOME Demonstration Agent

CONDUCTED BY MISS MATTIE JO BARBER

Vermont

Vermont 4-H Club met February 16, with the number of 30 members present. The topic of program was "Bedroom." The group captain and her team rendered a fine program.

We were very glad to have with us Miss Catherine Haynes, specialist in clothing, from Auburn. Miss Barber also taught us some interesting things about table setting.

—Reporter, Beatrice Lewis.

Thomas Junior

The Thomas Jr. 4- HClub girls met with our home ~~demonstration agent~~, Miss Barber, on February 8, 1939. The meeting was called to order by the president. We had a contest which was enjoyed by everyone, then the meeting was turned over to Miss Barber, who made an interesting talk and demonstration on table manners. We are looking forward to the next meeting for Miss Barber has a surprise for us. Let's try to make the best better.

—Repoter, Louise Blalock.

Mt. Pleasant

The Mt. Pleasant 4-H Club girls met on February 7, 1939. We have our meeting the first Tuesday in every month.

The Club was called to order by our president, Ruby Logan. First on program we had the Bible read, following the club pledge given. Our song leader directed two songs. Miss Barber taught us all a new song. The roll was called and everyone was present. No new ones to join and no one to move away. We hope to keep this good attendance up. Miss Barber showed us how to improve our table manners in order to improve ourselves. She gave us a good talk about table arrangement. We adjourned until next meeting day. —Reporter, Memare Rush.

Fairview

The Fairview Home Demonstration Club met at the home of Mrs. J. D. Culp, February 14, with thirteen members present.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Miss Inez McKee. We had some discussion on making a studio couch, which was of interest to several of the members.

Miss Barber, taking charge, gave us a good demonstration on how to have better and more attractive canned products with the same effort. She showed us some products that she had canned which were very atractive. We are going to have a recipe exchange at our next meeting, which will be at the home of Mrs. Comer Durbin, March 14, 1938.—Reporter.

Here's How Farmers Can Get $2.50 For Corn

Enterprise.—Corn is being "sold" for $2.50 per bushel in Coffee County. Most anywhere it can be bought for 50 to 60 cents.

Most any layman's reply to that statement made by state and county poultry specialists will be "What's the catch?"

They explained it this way:

Through records kept by 4-H Club boys it has been found that $2.50 is the actual "sale" price of a bushel of corn when fed to egg-producing hens in several projects here.

J. L. Allen, New Brockton, was listed as one of the youths making such returns.

BUFFALO SOCIOLOGIST BLAMES CAPITALISM

Capitalism is blamed by Prof. Nathaniel Cantor, University of Buffalo sociologist, for a neurotic erea in which "none of us is normal."

"The greatest indictment of capitalism is not that it keeps the proletariat poor, but that it makes most people, rich and poor alike, unhappy," he said last night at the Cooper Union.

Dr. Cantor said a competitive capitalistic age breeds personal instability.
___ use most of our energy in seek- "

"We use most of our energy in seeking to get ahead financially and not in learning to live satisfactorily," he added. "Conditions under which most people live today breed fears and insecurities.

"Life becomes drab, uncertain, unsatisfying and disquieting. We fear to be unaffectedly kind an to cooperate in collective effort. Who of us, then, is normal? None of us."

The solution, Dr. Cantor said, was to "build a society in which the quest for profits becomes subordinate to the development of personality."

An Enthusiastic Co-operator

J. R. Blow of Thorsby, Alabama, is very enthusiastic over the program Camp S.C.S. 7 of Clanton, is putting on two of his farms and is carrying out his portion of the agreement as rapidly as possible.

Until recently Mr. Blow resided and operated a farm just south of Thorsby, on the Birmingham and Montgomery highway. He placed this farm, which consisted of 44½ acres, under agreement in 1935 and was quick to take advantage of the early program.

Camp engineers ran terrace lines and Mr. Blow constructed Nichols terraces on his cultivated land. Three vegetated outlets one of which drains 160 acres were constructed by the Camp enrollees, who also planted 2 acres to kudzu, 2½ acres loblolly pine and one acre was planted to black locust for post material.

In addition, Mr. Blow is practicing strip cropping on a portion of this farm. He has a crotelaria field trial, a lespedeza sericea meadow and buffer strip. He has planted a crimson clover seed patch and a field trial of Italian rye grass.

Being favorably impressed with the S.C.S. program Mr. Blow hastened to place his recently acquired farm of 104 acres, under contract. This place is 7 miles east of Jemison, Alabama, on the Mullins Academy road, and needed rehabilitating for stock raising, which Mr. Blow expects to concentrate on.

On this new place the Camp has planted 21 acres of kudzu on terrace ridges and 6 acres on beds 12 feet apart. The Camp has pruned and thinned 2 acres of woodland for demonstration work, using the surplus brush to construct dams in gullied areas, 5 acres of pasture land has been cleared, 10 acres will be planted to slash and loblolly pine and one acre of black locust will be planted for fence post material.

Mr. Blow has cleared 8 acres in addition to the 5 acres cleared by the Camp for pasture. Camp engineers have run lines for contour furrows in this pasture which Mr. Blow has constructed for seeding to common lespedeza, dallis grass and white dutch clover. This field has a good creek in it and a stand of carpet grass.

Mr Blow is strip cropping 3 acres of land that has a 15 per cent slope. In this field crops are to be rotated from terrace interval to terrace intervall. The terrace intervals occupied by cotton will be planted to winter legumes, the corn and summer legumes strips will remain idle during this winter. In March, Mr. Blow will broadcast 20 pounds of Kobe lespedeza in his oat strips. In the fall of 1939 he will cut a crop of lespedeza for hay and will drill oats in the lespedeza area in order to avoid disturbing the lespedeza as much as possible. Therefore in this manner he will get two crops of lespedeza from one seeding and provide a cover crop for his land.

In a recent interview Mr. Blow expressed his confidence in the SCS program and he will have two well planned productive farms long before his contract terminates.

One Of County's Oldest Residents Succumbs

Once more the death angel has entered our community and called from labor to reward one of our oldest members, Mrs. Mary Limbrick, who passed away Febuary 14, 1939.

She was 79 years of age. While in her declining years she was not able to attend church regularly, yet she was always ready and willing to help with her contributions when called upon. May her long life of service in Christ's Kingdom, be an inspiration to higher and nobler living to all who have been associated with her.

She was a charter member of Pleasant Hill Methodist Church of near Billingsley, Ala. At the time of her death she was at the home of her son, W. F. Limbrick, who resides at the old home place.

She leaves to mourn her going nine children: Mrs. W. M. Grey, Clanton; Mrs. J. P. Thrash, Mrs. A. M. Thrash, Mrs. Forrest Williams, Mrs. G. W. Benson, all of Jemison; Mrs. G. C. Vinson and M.L. Limbrick of Montgomery; T. F. Limbrick and W. F. Limbrick, Jr., of Billingsley; her husband, W. F. Limbrick, Sr., and three children: Mrs. Rebecca Campbell, Rev. J. H. Limbrick, Miss Zula Limbrick and an infant whch preceeded her to ther heavenly home.

She also leaves forty-two grandchildren and a host of great-grandchildren and friends.

Funeral was conducted by Rev. T. C. Cassaday of Montgomery, assisted by Rev. C. J. Fuller, her pastor. Pallbearers were six grandsons, Curtsi Limbrick, Johnnie Limbrick, Elmer Campbell, Trenton Benson, Gaston Williams and Chelsa Thrash. Flower girls were four granddaughters, Mrs. Mattie Lee Hays, Sarah Mud Limbrick, Wilma Thrash and Louise Vinson.

She was laid to rest in the Pleasant Hill cemetery with Griffin of Prattville in charge.

Vegetative Cover Checks Erosion

Erosion-control methods in the Soil Conservation Service area near Clanton, Alabama, are becoming more and more effective as farmers are continually increasing the vegetative cover on their land, according to Mr. James H. Wood, Camp Superintendent.

As one instance of the increased use of close-growing vegetation, Mr. Wood said that many farmers who have established meadow strips as a part of their farm water-disposal system are extending the same type of vegetation used in the meadow strips to include adjacent erosible areas.

A meadow strip, he explained, is simply a broad strip of vegetation which has been established down through a natural draw, or field depression, into which water from terraces is emptied. This prevents the wate from causing damage after it leaves the terrace ends.

Frequently, however, there are steep slopes, or critical areas, along the sides of the natural draw, which have not previously been included in the meadow strip or vegetated channel. Usually these slopes cannot be cultivated profitably anl when kept in cultivation they continue to erode.

By extending the same type of vegetation used in the meadow strip to include these adjacent critical areas, erosion on these areas will be controlled and a large area of uniform vegetative cover will be provided which can conveniently be mowed for hay.

HOSPITAL SERVICE CORPORATION OF ALABAMA

The second annual meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Hospital Service Corporation of Alabama was held this week at it's home office in the City of Birmingham. The Board of Trustees is composed of forty-three repreesntatives of the forty-three leading hospitals in the State of Alabama. These hospitals are strategically located over the State in order that service may be rendered to the thousands of members of the Service Plan.

Most gratifying progress was made the year 1938 as indicated by the reports made at the annual meeting. The balance sheet as of December 31, 1938, indicated a healthy financial condition and the report of Ed S. Moore, the manager, was enthusiastically received, indicating a steady growth of membership over the State.

The membership indicated a total of 41,697, as compared with 18,339 as of the previous year.

It was set out in Mr. Moore's report that the dues collected in 1938 amounted to $279,112.34, as compared with dues collected in 1937 of 121,964,91 In Mr. Moore's statement it was pointed out that more than 7,000 members had been admitted to the hospital and had their bills paid.

The Central Alabama Hospital is a member of this organization and holds its service to a high standard.

McCORD ACQUITTED

Representative Roy D. McCord of Ttowah County, charged with having having solicited a bribe, was acquitted by the House of Representatives. The vote was 71 for acquittal, 27 for conviction. The charge grew out of alleged activities in connection with the pending milk board bill, which was being considered for re-enactment.

The Jemison Independents completed a very successful week last Saturday when they defeated a stubborn Marion Institute Varsity team 27 to 25 on the Marion court.

Jemison also recorded four other victories during the week, defeating Shelby, Calera, Maplesville and Long Lewis Hardware.

Jemison High School defeated the Marion Bees by the score of 24 to 16. This was the only game played by them last week.

The Jemison Athletic Club gained a two-point lead in the first half Saturday afternoon at Marion and nosed out the Marion Institute team 17 to 5.

The Clubbers led by the shooting of Hilyer and Littlefied, were ahead at the half 13-11. The Cadets paced by the shooting of Busby, White and Mitchell, came back strong in the second half but couldn't overcome the two-point lead.

PEANUT HAY IS VALUABLE FEED

As a general rule the most profitable way to market cheap feed such as peanut hay, is to feed it on the farm where it is grown. With this idea in mind an experiment has been conducted during the past two winters to study (1) the value of peanut hay as a roughage for fattening beef steers, and (2) the value of grinding peanut hay for fattening steers.

The results show that common grade steers weighing about '00 pounds each, fed all the unground peanut hay which they would consume and approximately 5 pounds of cottonseed meal per head daily for a period of 112 days gained an average of 1.20 pounds daily. The steers consumed 958 pounds of hay and 287 pounds of cottonseed meal for each 100 pounds gain. They returned a profit above feed cost of $7.77.

A second group of steers fed a similar ration, except that the hay was ground, made a daily gain of 1.58 pounds, consumed 842 pounds of hay and 293 pounds of meal for each 100 pounds gain and returned a profit above feed cost of $8.70.

After paying for the steers, the cottonseed meal an dthe minerals and crediting all the profits to the hay the returns for each ton of unground hay fed was $17.07 and for each ton of ground hay $20.60. On this basis the ground hay was worth $3.53 more per ton than the unground hay.

Dr. J. N. Baker Issues Warning Against Measles

The unusually large outbreak of measles in the early months of last year had a marked effect upon the year's total of reported cases of this disease as revealed by the year-end compilation prepared by the Bureau of Preventable Diseases of the State Health Department.

Last year's reported cases totaled 13,791, as compared with a total of only 601 cases reported in 1937, 604 in 1936, and 7,224 in 1935.

In view of the possibility of another sharp increase in the incidence of measles during the early months of this year, Dr. J. N. Baker, State Health Officer, today warned parents to be on the lookout for early symptoms of the disease and to take prompt steps to prevent their children from giving it to others.

"Any child living in a community in which there are known to be a number of cases of measles should be regarded, at least tentatively, as having this disease as soon as it begins coughing and sneezing and its eyes become watery," he said. "It should be kept in mind that measles is contagious before the characteristic rash appears."

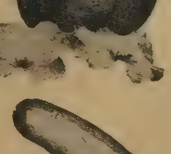
ALL vine crops are heavy feeders on potash. In addition to being necessary for large yields, potash is the plant food which has the most effect in getting the quality which brings top prices.



Cantaloupes grown with higher amounts of potash produce a better set. The fruit is more uniform in size and shape and has a higher sugar content.

Cucumbers develop a deeper green color, firmer flesh, better shape (with fewer crooked and pinched tips, swollen middles, and lengthy "strings") when the fertilizer contains plenty of potash.

Watermelon growers find that potash reduces white heart, makes the melons sweeter and more uniform in size, and improves the shipping quality.
Your county agent or experiment station will tell you the right fertilizer and amount per acre to use on your soils. Your fertilizer dealer will point out to you how little extra it costs to apply enough potash.

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE TAXPAYERS OF ALABAMA

Editor, Chilton County News:

Believing the Bill known as the Equalization Bill now pending before the House of Representatives to be detrimental to the taxpayers of Chilton County, and its real intent and purpose is to raises taxes instead of equalizing them, I have sent the following letter to all County Tax Collectors and Tax Assessors in Alabama.

I sincerely believe that it will be to the best interest of every Chilton County tax-payer to contact our representative, Hon. Percy M. Pitts, at once, and urge him to vote against this measure when it comes up in the House for passage:

"To the Tax Collectors and Assessors of Alabama:

"There is now pending before the House of Representatives a bill which has had the approval of the Senate, known as the Equalization Bill, which in my way of thinking is smooth language for tax raising. I write this to ask you to consider this bill from its demerits as well as its merits since it carries some provisions that tend to detroy local self government in this way, that it makes the officers appointive by the governor, and Section 7 says that the governor has the authority to remove any member for any cause, and that alone puts the assessing of all property in Alabama directly under the Governor's control.

"I think it is a reflection on every tax payer as well as every tax Collector and every Assessor and every Commissioner or member of the Board of Revenue of the State of Alabama, since as you know, they have been and are yet under the present law bound by their oath to assess or fix values on ad valorem property. Let me say that it is to the best interest of the small and average tax payer that this Bill be defeated and I now ask you either to see or have some delegation to see your Representative and advise him what your people want. There will be a public hearing before the ways and means committee, I think, some time next week and it would be advisable for you to send a few men over there to represent your County.

"We all know that there is no such thing as equalizing taxes. We are almost as certain that there is no such thing as reduction of taxes and we all know that the small tax payer is now bearing and has always borne more than his share of taxes, and this Bill seems to be designed, perhaps not intentionally, to increase that burden on the little or average tax payer.

"It is an injury to Democratic Government because it takes from men who have been elected by the majority of the people, a duty to be performed while in office, and it lays a precedent for the centralization of power which, if carried to the extreme, might lead to the abolishing of the Tax Collector's and Assessor's office, and the appointing of a comptroller, or some such name.

"Any information or assistance that you desire you can get by calling The Tax Payer's League at the Gay Teague Hotel, Montgomery, Alabama.

"I think you should acquaint yourself at once with the Bill and associate yourself with your people and inform your Representative to defeat this Bill, that is if you hope to maintain local self government by officers elected by the people.

"Respectfully,

HOUSE OF DAVID WILL PLAY MITCHELL DAM MARCH 2ND

One Of Nation's Best Basketball Teams Will Show Against Mitchell Dam's Cardinals On Thursday Night, March 2nd At Mitchell Dam Gym.

Put a ring around Thursday, March 2, on your calendar, for on that night, at 8:00 o'clock, the Mitchell Dam Cardinals take on the House of David team, nationally known basketball aggregation. You will want to see this game, if you care the least bit about basketball—and if you don't care for the game, you will at least want to see these "old men with young ideas" at the Mitchell Dam gym. Of course, they are not old men at all—rather, they are very spry young fellows, yet the long beards on their faces makes a weird scene as the bewhiskered ones cavort over the court with the best of the young bloods. Makes one almost believe that nature had gone into reverse, or something of the kind.

You will want to see Bill Koche and Chuck Klunder, two of the best forwards the game affords. With these are "Crop" Lyons and Lefty Maxwell, and last, and least (in stature) is little Bill Steineke, little but loud; he is the little fellow who thrilled the crowd last year with his sensational long and trick shots. Everyone of these men are specialists in their line, and former "big shots" from various colleges during the last few years.

You know the Cardinals. They are a pretty good basketball team any time and at times they can get pretty hot. "Tiny" Mayfield, playful young fellow who tips the scales at well over the 200-pound mark; Dutch and Dock Baker, Cobb, Tiffin, Clint Jones and others; it is likely they will all see service against the spinach-chinned specialists.

Along with this story are a few pictures of the David team, as well as various individuals. Look them over, then make up your mind to see them in action next Thursday night, March 2, at 8:00 P.M. Take note of that date, please, as first announcements of this game were for another later date, which has been changed to March 2.

Manager Steve Stanley gives assurance that a good preliminary game will be staged at 7:00 o'clock by two good independent clubs, and urges you to come early, so as to be sure of getting a seat, especially for the main attraction.

The Cards have been going great guns lately; after losing to the Smith Brothers team here a few nights ago, they went to Jasper last Friday night and trimmed the Smiths 30 to 29, in what was said to be the finest exhibition the Cards have put up this year.

Remember—it's the Cards and the Davids—8:00 P.M., Thursday night, March 2—and a treat is in store for all who attend. The admission will be reasonable. Both teams are noted for their fine sportsmanship, and all are assured that all fairness will be shown by the man with the whistle. You'll enjoy it. Be there—on time!

Go to it, all of you! The work is for our God and His Kingdom.

A lawyer may be very able without necessarily loving his clients. A physician can have great success without loving his patients. A business man can prosper without loving his customers. But you can never be a worker for Christ without a deep passion for lost souls. Love alone is the key to the hearts of men.

JUDGE L. H. REYNOLDS WRITES LETTER ON COTTON PROBLE

Editor, Chilton County News,
Clanton, Alabama,
Dear Editor:

Inclosed find copy of a letter which I wrote Senator Bankhead and was published in the Advertiser February 20. Also copy of Senator Bankhead's reply to me.

If you have space in your paper I would appreciate your publishing the correspondence this week.

Yours truly,
L. H. Reynolds.

"Senator John H. Bankhead,
"Washington, D. C.
"Dear Senator:

"I have watched your official acts very closely, and I am sure you have the interest of the farmers of Alabama at heart, and knowing you as I do, I venture to make some suggestions on the cotton program.

"I have been dealing with the farmers in Chilton County in a business way for the last 50 years and I know their condition, and it is my opinion that they are in the worst financial condition than ever before.

"I do not believe the present cotton program will restore confidence and relieve the farmers from their present plight. Hundreds of tenant farmers in this county will not be able to buy stock and obtain advances to make a crop in 1939 unless the Government finances them, and as the Government load is getting heavier every year, do you not think it would be a good idea to make a change?

"I notice from the papers that our Government gave 30,000,000 bushels of wheat to Spain for relief and the wheat was used n war to buy ammuntions and weapons. We have a lot of hungry people in Alabama that would have been glad to have received some of this wheat. I hear it intimated that our Government is going to give 2,000,000 bales of cotton to China.

"I make the following suggestion:

"That our Government take all the cotton they now have on hand and give it back to the farmers in proportion to the amount they raised over a certain base period, provided the farmers would reduce their crop in 1939 by the amount the Government gave them. to such an extent that I believe it would restore the market back to the cotton farmers.

"I realize that the Government is doing a great deal and giving the farmers millions of dollars trying to help them, but the program is uncertain and the way it is administered it is very unfair and a large per cent of the farmers are depending upon the Government.

"I believe that if the above suggest was carried out, thei if Congress wo pass a law to go into effect Dec. 1939, repealing all the laws in ref ence to controlling cotton and let cotton farmers know that the Gove them and would not make any furt ment will turn their business back donations to them, I believe that would have the most prosperous ti in the South than we have had in yea We would not only have prospero times, but it would restore the mor of the Southern farmers and t would assert their independence again be happy.

"Judge L. H. Reynolds,
"P.O. Box 70,
"Clanton, Alabama,
"Dear Judge:

"I have your letter.

"I am sending you copy of the Sm Bill. I am supporting the bill with exception that I believe the farm should be given the cotton instead selling it to them at three cent pound. I am obliged to admit, howe that one of our great problems is g ting additional money appropriated the benefit of cotton farmers. seem to be up against a stone wall that subject.

"In addition to the loan cotton proposed to release, the first sectio the bill providing for a maximum five cents per pound under the ditions stated will require $300,000 That would be a fine program an am strictly for it, but we are obli to remember that we have only 25 cent of the members in either Ho from the cotton belt. If we just the money there are a number things we could do that would be he ful and you have mentioned som them. I fear, however, that we are ing to wind up with very little addi al legislation for the cotton farmer this Session.

"Sincerely yours.
"JOHN H. BANKHE

We Observe

By BONNIE HAND

THE FIRST CAPITAL—

The "Know Alabama Better" department of the News is especially interesting this week, although it deviates slightly from the usual type of topics. Compiled by Mrs. Agnes Ware Bishop of Selma, it contains interesting information about the first Capital of our State—Cahaba. The picture of the Capitol building is the only one in existence today, we are told.

PARDON US—

We've been dodging S. E. Scott, one our able photographers, all this week, and we're still dodging him, unil he has time to read this. We stated ast week that we had a large picture here at the News office, of students at the Jemison High School doing the Virginia Reel on February 14 at the big Valentine party. Yes, we stated we had the picture "snapped by an unknown photographer", and that's the phrase that has caused us to glance furtively around street corners since last week's issue went out. What we really meant to say, Mr. Scott, was that the picture was snapped by a 'photographer unknown" . . . wait a minute! . . . is that any better? Anyway we meant that we did not know who snapped the picture. It's a good ne, Mr. Scott, so turn to page three nd see it in print. . . . (The picture as made by Mr. Scott.)

EAVING—

We say s'long to our good friend, Paul Locklear, this week. He's Cenreville bound—going into business for imself and taking with him the very est wishes of his many friends here—nd Mrs. Locklear and the little Lockear.

GOOD RECORDS—

The College students from Chilton County are not in the habit of trailng behind when it comes to records f accomplishments in their studies. To be honored with the Presidency of he Women's Student Government of he University of Alabama, is no small onor, and that is just exactly the honr that has been bestowed upon Miss Helen Nix of Maplesville. And there's Miss Jane Billingsley, charming daugher of Mrs. Claude Billingsley, who as been highly honored by fellow lassmates at Auburn. Chilton is really roud of these young ladies.

THE PILOT CLUB—

What's this we hear about a big Pilot Club jamboree down at Pilot Lodge near Prattville An old-time settin' up" we heard. Yes, sir, and un for everybody and everybody for un.

GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY—

Fifty years is a long time. It's not ften a business can boast of fifty ears of continuous service to a comunity, but Mullins & Scott are hrowing wide the doors of their large nd modern department store, showng that they have kept step with the arch of progress, and are throwing a ig sale, commemorating the passing f the half-hundred mark as a business stablishment. Mullins & Scott was ounded by the late W. I. Mullns, pioneer resident of this city, and is now in e hands of the younger generation, ho are sparing no effort to render his territory a real sevice when it omes to merchandising.

LOCAL FIRM OBSERVES 50TH ANNIVERSARY

MULLINS & SCOTT WILL OBSERVE GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY WEEK OF MARCH 6-11.

Next week, from March 6-7, Mullins & Scott, Department store of Clanton, will celebrate its Golden Anniversary—fifty years of continuous service to the people of this section. Today this is perhaps the oldest business establishment in Chilton County, and has been handed down until it is now in the hands of the third generation.

Commemorating the passing of the half-hundred mark, Mullins & Scott are throwing a huge Golden Anniversary Sale, and during all next week they are offering the people of this section who have been instrumental in making their fifty years of merchandising in Clanton a success, a parade of bargains in general merchandise. A four-page circular is being mailed out this week to their customers and is brim full of attractive bargains.

Mullins & Scott has not always bolne its present firm name. This business was established by the late W. I. Mullins in 1889. Mr. Mullins turned this business over to his son, J. Renfroe Mullins, in 1917, who entered into partnership with J. Watts Moore, and the firm was known as Mullins & Moore until 1934. During this period Mullins & Moore, located in a large frame building on Main Street, specialized in the handling of merchandise for the farmers of Chilton County. "The Farmers' Friends" was their slogan, and it was the leading store of its type in Clanton for years.

In 1934 the old frame building fell beneath the wheels of progress and was torn down and a new and modern building was erected on the same site and is now occupied by the A & P Grocery Co., and other offices are lo-

PAUL LOCKLEAR PURCHASES CENTREVILLE PIGGLY WIGGLY

Clanton lost one of its young business men this week when Paul Locklear, who has been in the grocery business in Clanton for quite a while, took charge of the Centreville Piggly Wiggly Store and assumed active management.

Mr. Locklear came to Clanton as manager of the local A & P Grocery, and later was manager of the Piggly Wiggly here, which is owned by O. D. DeLoach. He and Mrs. Locklear have made many friends in Clanton during their stay here who will regret their departure, but will voice every good wish for their success in Centreville.

Mr. Locklear asked the News to convey his sincere appreciation to the people of this section who have favored him with their patronage, also his regrets that he will be unable to continue these friendly business relations.

FIRMS COOPERATE IN RAISING FUNDS FOR CRIPPLE CHILDREN

An outstanding effort is being made by business firms and local organizations for the promotion of the Crippled Childrens Clinic. The annual Valentine dance given by the Pilot Club was given in an effort to secure funds for this and other worthy causes within Clanton and Chilton County.

The managers of busines firms realizing the limited time that Pilots have to devote to money making activities cooperated by advertisements shown during the dance. The following business firms with Pilots who represented them in an attractive presentation of advertisements are as follows:

Artistic Beauty Salon—Gertie Fiquette; The Parisan Store—Mattie Jo Barber; Burdette Service Station—Barbara Nettles Ivey; Royal Cleaners—Ethel Mae Jones.

Peoples Savings Bank—Mamie C. Smith; Mullins & Scott—Myra Johnson; Taylor Wholesale Grocery Co.—Olive Welch Fiquette; J. C. Page Co.—Ruth Esco.

The public should remember in making their purchases those firms who are interested in the problems that confront the people of their County.

ALABAMA PRESS ASSOCIATION TO GO EAST

PUBLIC CORDIALLY INVITED TO JOIN FOURTH ESTATE ON GREAT TRIP

Members of the Executive Committee of the Alabama Press Association have chosen a tour including Washington, New York and the World's Fair for the summer meeting this year, to be held in June.

After an exhaustive study of all suggested trips, the Executive Committee worked out what is expected to be the most popular tour to leave Alabama this year. It will include more entertainment, the most modern facilities at the lowest popular price possible to obtain. Although the Press Association in past years has conducted outstanding vacation tours, the one this years will far surpass any ever held, officials believe.

The Executive Committee, together with President M. C. Giles, again extends a cordial invitation to the public to join the Press Association on its tour this year which will include a full day and night's stay in Washington, carrying the party through the nation's capitol and all other interesting points in Washington, in addition to a banquet and ball to be given by the Alabama State Society on Monday night, June 19, which will be attended by the entire Alabama delegation in Congress and other high ranking celebrities there.

The tour in Washington will also include a visit to the White House where it is expected the party will be greeted by President Roosevelt.

The tour will arrive in New York Tuesday morning, June 20th, and will remain there through Saturday. Tentative plans adopted for the entertainment of the party in New York in-

S. B. SMITH BRINGS IN EXTRA LARGE HEN EGG

Out on Clanton Route 3 Mr. S. B. Smith has a young hen that is certainly going to town when it comes to producing the eggs.

Mr. Smith brought in an extra large egg to the News office one day last week, which he stated was laid by a young White Giant hen. A raised section of the shell around the egg gave it the appearance of having been welded together. The shell was dark, and Mr. Smith stated that this hen had brought forth several of this kind, one of which would make a fine breakfast for any hearty man.

COLORED COOKING SCHOOL TO BE HELD AT POWER CO.

On Thursday, March 2, the first of a series of three cooking classes for colored maids will be conducted by Miss Juanita Warr, Home Economist for the Alabama Power Company.

These classes will be held at the Alabama Power Company office at 2:30 each Thursday for three weeks. The object of these meetings is to instruct the maids how to use the ranges economically and successfully—to emphasize the convenience, the cleanliness and ease of operating an electric range.

At each meeting new recipes will be demonstrated and food given. All who attend regularly will receive a certificate of Attendance and prizes will be given in a contest to be conducted.

There is no charge and all servants are urged to attend.

19 TRUE BILLS RETURNED BY GRAND JURY

RECOMMENDATIONS MADE REGARDING KEEPING OF COURTHOUSE AND JAIL

Following is the report of the Chilton County Grand Jury, which has just completed investigations for the January term of Circuit Court:

"State of Alabama, Chilton County:

"To Honorable Arthur Glover as Judge of the Circuit Court of Chilton County, Alabama.

"We, the Grand Jury empanelled for the January Term of the Circuit Court, after receiving your Honor's most able charge, entered upon our investigations of the matters that came before us as Grand Jurors and herewith submit the following report:

"During our investigation we have considered 28 cases and have examined 72 witnesses and have already returned to your Honor 2 true bills and are returning herewith 17 true bills, making a total of 19 true bills returned by this Grand Jury.

We have examined the fee book of the Probate Judge and find it neatly kept and correct in so far as we were able to ascertain. We have examined the bonds of the various county officials and find that they are ample for the protection of the public; and in our examination of the sheriff's account with the State for feeding prisoners we find that it is being kept in accordance with the law. On our examination of the office of the County Superintendent of Education we find that his books, records and papers are neatly kept and in so far as we ascertained were being kept fully in accordance with the law.

"We have made a personal inspection of the county jail and believe it to be sufficiently safe for the keeping of

SUPPORT OF LIBRARY BILL IS URGED HERE

BILL NOW IN LEGISLATURE WOULD PROVIDE FOR STATE LIBRARY COMMISSION

A bill recently introduced in the Alabama State Legislature by Representative W.D. Newman of Marshall County is receiving state-wide attention and various civic organizations over the state are urging its support. This bill, H. 327, provides for the establishment of a Public Library division in the Department of Archives and History.

The bill "to establish rural library service, supported by Federal appropriations, and provide for organization of service in connection with the Department of Archives and History" would bring Alabama's standing eighth from the bottom in the United States in public library service, up higher in standing. Alabama is the only Southern state that does not have some agency for public library extension service.

Louisiana State has recently established this type of service financed cooperatively between appropriations by the Legislature and WPA funds. Formal opening of some of these libraries over that state have already been held.

The Alabama Clubwoman, official publication of the Alabama Federation of Women's Clubs, gives out some interesting information regarding Alabama's standing as far as library service in concerned. The organization is solidly behind the move to improve this condition. The Alabama Clubwoman states that only six counties in the state spent more than $1,000 in -1937 on public library service, and thirty-three counties in Alabama are minus public library service entirely.

Local organizations are backing the bill now introduced in the Legislature, and the public is urged to familiarize itself with the provisions of the bill. Chilton County has long felt a need for public library service, and the passage of such a bill would without a doubt bring such a service to this county.

A Splendid Example

The City of Clanton set a splendid example for other cities to follow last week when the Mayor, Hon. C. Fenn Jones, and Councilmen, came to the rescue of the Clanton Grammar School by guaranteeing teachers' salaries for the remainder of the 1939 school term. Without this aid the school would have been forced to close one month before the end of the term.

Why Pay Interest On 29 Billion Dollars

Washington experts figured that Uncle Sam owed debts amounting to $29,803,220,894.62 on February 18, 1939. Most of this is in bonds and notes on which to tax payers have to continually pay interest.

The Government could have easily issued non-interest-bearing currency, based on the same security as that given the bondholders, and saved the taxpayers all this interest.

The Government's pledge to pay on a bond could certainly be worth no more than its pledge to pay on a "greenback," if both pledges were backed by the same security.

American Goods To Foreign Nations

According to the U. S. News, sales of American goods to foreign nations in 1938 approached in physical volume the boom year of 1929, though, due to lower prices, dollar volume was substantially less. The character of what we are selling now, however, is ominously different from what we sold ten years ago.

In '29, foreign demand was principally for farm products—meat, lard, cotton, etc. That demand has been falling off, and today the countries beyond the seas want more scrap-iron, machinery, airplanes—in brief, the materials necessary to armament and war. And as far as anyone can see, the demand for weapons of death will continue to grow—and the demand for the tools of peace continue to lessen.

A Defense Of Mr. Crow

Aletha M. Bonner, writing in "Our Dumb Animals," says, "The crow is considered an undesirable neighbor in most agricultural communities.

"Farmers charge him with pulling up sprouting corn, pecking holes in their melons and other mischievous and destructive deeds, but they lose sight of the bird's serviceable work of following in the wake of the plowman's furrows, and picking out from the fresh, upturned sod, legions of worms, field mice, larvae and the like, which if not destroyed would in time damage the growing crop.

"One should not forget the millions of flies, spiders, caterpillars, grasshoppers and grubs, not to overlook weed-seed, all of which go to make up the bird's menu. The cawing fellow might really be given the sobriquet of 'G-man' (or 'G-bird'), because of his untiring work of helping to rid the field, orchard and garden world of the ever-increasing insect menace. It is a regrettable fact, however, that this useful bird, who does his part in keeping the insect-public-enemies under control, has so many hands turned against him. No country, state or federal law protects him, and in certain communities a reward is offered for his head."

AVERAGE SALARY OF RURAL TEACHERS

(By Henrietta W. Davis)

This is the second of three articles about white county teachers in Alabama based on studies of 15 counties made by graduate students in education at Auburn.

The average wage made by waiters and waitresses in the United States is almost twice that paid by Alabama to her county or rural school teachers.

A study in 15 representative counties of the state recently made by graduate students in the school of education at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, shows the average salary of the rural teacher is $1.37 per day or less than $42 per month. Data was collected on 526 of 1,950 teachers in the 15 counties.

For the same period studies, the average yearly wage for all skilled workers in the United States was $1,436. The average salary of office and clerical workers was $1,255, or more than two and one-half times as much. Waiters and waitresses averaged $941 or nearly twice the amount of county teachers in this state.

According to Dr. Paul Irvine, Auburn professor of education, Alabama rural teachers are paid on a salary schedule set up during the depression years of 1934-35, and present appropriations are not adequate to meet that schedule.

"It has been necessary to employ more teachers as the enrollment in the schools has increased," said Dr. Irvine, "such additions being at the expense of the teachers serving. In many counties the lengthening of the term to seven months has been at the expense of the teachers in the system."

Restlessness of Alabama teachers, causing a continual flow of inexperienced teachers into the rural classrooms while the better-prepared teachers leave for the city systems, is blamed by Dr. Irvine on the low yearly salary of the average county teacher.

Training and Experience

Three years of college work was found to be the average training of the teachers questioned in the 15 Alabama counties. Thirty-five per cent of the teachers were college graduates, 50 per cent had completed three years or more college training, while less than 5 per cent had one year of college training or less.

Forty-eight per cent had less than six years of experience in teaching, and 30 per cent had less than four years of experience.

"Since educational authorities recognize that a teacher does not reach the maximum of efficiency until the sixth year of experience," said Dr. Irvine, "the state is sustaining a loss by the moving on of a large proportion of its experienced teachers."

Of the teachers studied, 30 per cent were in their present positions for the first year, 63 per cent for three years or less, or one out of every 14 teaching positions filled with new and inexperienced teachers during 1935-36.

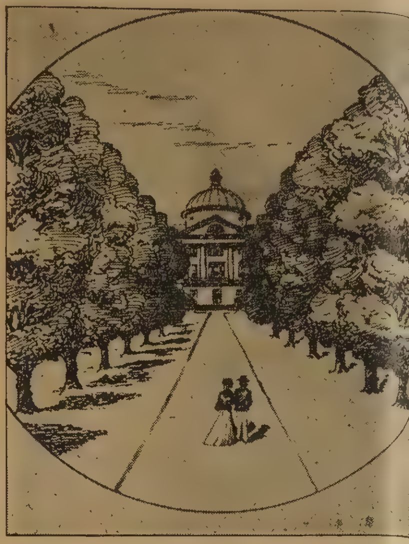
KNOW ALABAMA BETTER



The old Capitol at Cahaba and Avenue of Mulberry Trees.—(Reprinted from Mrs. Anna Gayle Fry's History of Cahaba).

Cahaba First Permanent Capital Of Alabama

—o—

(By Agnes Ware Bishop)

CAHABA is one word that thrills all Alabama. When the post-office was removed several years ago, breaking the last political link with the past, newspapers carried the news as of a disaster.

The earliest known mention of the name Cahaba was when De Soto marched through Alabama in 1540 and spent Tuesday night, October 5, at Casiste, an Indian town on the Cahaba (Caba) River, which was in 1819 a part of the capital site of the State of Alabama.

The first Capital was on the banks of the Alabama and Cahaba Rivers in the fork of the two streams which were in the end its undoing. It was the capital for seven years from 1819-1826. Governor William Wyatt Bibb was governor, but soon after the session of the first legislature of Alabama he was thrown from his horse and killed. He was succeeded automatically by his brother, Thomas Bibb of Limestone County, President of the Senate.

The plan for building the town had already been discussed when Gov. Bibb together with a commission selected the point for the new capital of the new State of Alabama.

The streets, which still belong to the state, were named for trees after the plan of Philadelphia. Oak Street leads from the Cahaba bridge by the Kirkpatrick home, recently burned, but replaced by a brick cottage home. The streets running north and south were Oak, Pine, Beech, Ash, Walnut, Mulberry, Chestnut and Vine which was the business Street on the bank of the Alabama, with View Street forming the street adjacent to the Alabama.

Capitol Avenue was the fashionable residence street running east and west through the centre of the community. Streets to the North were First North Street, etc., and First South Street, Second South Street, etc., on up to Sixth North Street.

The Capitol stood in the center of the town, on the corner of Vine Street and Capitol Avenue. A monument marks the spot on an acre of ground bought by the State of Alabama in 1919. The walks were paved. There were 75 Artesian wells, one of which on the Perrine Mansion was said to be the second largest in the world. Some of the wells are still flowing.

There was a Female Academy which had a fine library and an excellent laboratory which cost thousands of dollars, the gift of Prof. Eaton, the first Principal.

Among the many interesting events of Cahaba was the visit of Marquis de La Fayette in April 1825. He remained three days in the capital, where he was tendered a banquet at Bell's Tavern and a great ball. A large triumphal arch was erected in the center of the town, which was twined with fluer de Lis and red and white roses. He was feted, wined and dined with much ceremony amid the boom of cannon, ringing of town bells and cheering of thousands who assembled to do him honor. Here he met two old soldiers of the American Revolution, examined the trenches and the old cannon thought to have been left there by the French trading post. Great-grandmothers tell how they danced with La Fayette. There are two invitations in Selma, both printed on thin silk.

Mason Lodge Formed

It was at Cahaba that the first lodge, "The Blue Lodge of Masons," was formed, which made Cahaba the Mother of Masonry in Alabama. A unique white marble monument stands in the old cemetery on which is carved the insignia of Masonry. Mrs. Campbell was buried with Masonic honors. She was a close relative of Charles Hanson Towne, a famous poet and crtic of New York City.

The brilliancy and culture continued until 1833—even after the Capital was moved to Tuscaloosa in 1826, and on through the 1850's. It was not until the Civil War and reconstruction that the death blow fell and the people after another disastrous flood, voted to move the county seat of Dallas county to Selma in 1866.

When war was declared in the 1860's the Cahaba Rifles marched out and only three men were left to protect the women and children. John T. Morgan marched out playing the fife and returned a Brigadier General, and United State Senator from Dallas until his death. Edmund Pettus left Cahaba and after many brilliant battles returned a Brigadier General. Both came to make their home in Selma.

DuBose says in his Biography of William L. Yancey, who spent several years in Cahaba:

"In all America—in town or country, no people sat down to more bounteous dinners, served by better servants, on richer mahogany; no people wore more fashionable clothes, rode better groomed horses, wrote a purer vernacular, or spoke with gentler voices."

Each day tourists visit this old shrine. They drive up and down its grass-grown streets, walk down to the landing where hundreds of boats (among them The Robert E. Lee) took on hundreds of bales of cotton and brought up from Moble great boxes of finery and "chiffons" for the dames, and good things for the family—they admire the noble Alabama and wonder about the beautiful and treacherous Cahaba and wish they knew more of its sad and lovely history.

Alabama could give no better cultural service than to restore, in part or in whole, this spot which would lead its people to "Know Alabama Better."

The restoration of Cahaba, the first capital of Alabama, is the objective of a bill introduced in the House of Representatives by George Quarles of Dallas County where the ruins of Cahaba are located.

The bill asked for an appropriation of $35,000 and authorizes the governor to appoint a commission with power to purchase such lands as are necessary for the restoration, receive donations and incur other expense incident to the work, but within the appropriation. Several Civic clubs are interested in the project and would assist in raising extra funds. The work would well repay the State in the creation of a historic shrine, Mr. Quarles said.

The preamble of the Quarles bill outlines the undertaking: "Cahaba in Dallas County was the first capital of the State of Alabama, and all of the Stote buildings have been practically demolished and in a few years no trace will be left of this important place where our State government was begun. The Governor's mansion, the hall of the House of Representatives Senate chamber and the executi fices were housed in buildings a haba designed by Governor W Wyatt Bibb, our first State Gov The description of the capitol bu is so complete in the advertisemen bids, that it could be rebuilt i or in miniature, and would a large numbers of tourists to Alab The restoration of this site by State of Alabama could be join by the United States Government County of Dallas and civic orga tions and a restoration like th Williamsburg, Va., in a small way be attempted."

Jemson emerged with a win over Selma last Saturday night in a game played at Selma. The final score was 27-18. The two teams battled on even terms during the first half with Jemison leading 16 to 14 at the half.

However, in the second half, Jemison pulled away and racked up 11 more points while Selma could net but 1 field goal and two foul shots. So well did Jemison freeze the ball in the third quarter, that Selma did not register a single point. Jackson led his mates with 9 points.

Jemison defeated Isabella 17 to 12 on the Jemison court last Tuesday night. This game was a tight defensive battle throughout. Cleckley was high with eight points.

Sales Increase

Sales of natural Chilean nitrate of soda throughout the world increased in the year ended June 30, 1938, according to the report published today by the Chilean Nitrate Sales Corporation.

"World sales amounted to 1,578,108 metric tons as compared with 1,561,536 metric tons in 1936-37," the report states. "This continues the expansion which has marked each of the past five years. Since the depression of 1932-33 the world consumption of Chilean nitrate has nearly doubled."

The report points out that the trade in Chilean nitrate is of vital importance in developing a market in Chile for American goods.

"The money which the American farmer pays for Chilean nitrate is in turn spent on American goods and services," the report declares. Largely utilizing Ameican equipment, the industry buys a considerable proportion of its materials and supplies from the United States, paying over $1,500,000 for petroleum products alone last year. Moreover, Chilean nitrate pays more than $1,000,000 a year in Panama Canal tolls to the United States Government, and more than $1,700,000 a year to American railroads and trucks for transportation within the United States.

Out of every dollar which the United States farmer invests in Chilean nitrate, 85.4 cents goes for American goods and services, while the balance is used to promote additional American sales to Chile. Chile buys more from the United States than from any other country. Its purchases in 1938 were approximately $24,600,000, which is the highest figure for any of the past eight years. Chile's purchases of American raw cotton doubled in 1937-38, compared with the previous year.

The report concludes that "the development of the Chilean market for American goods is in accord with the special effort now being made by the United States to increase its foreign trade, particularly with Latin America."

IN MEMORY OF LIZZIE BROOKS

Over in the graveyard,
  Where the flowers nod and wave,
Lies one we loved so well,
  In her cold an silent grave
Loved ones, cease your weeping,
  She's not dead—only sleeping.
Let us hope and pray,
  To join her some glad day.
We feel she's safely at home,
  Where she'll die no more,
She'll live there throughout eternity,
  On heaven's shining shore.
She'll be there on that golden sore,
  With a host of angels forevermore,
And with the eternal King,
  The Mighty host will sing.
We mis sher, oh we miss her so!
  But God rules over us, we know,
And His is a home of peace and rest,
  Where all the saved are blessew.
All was right with God before she went away,
  So He calle dher home wth Him to stay.
Some day soon, He'll call one and all,
  Let's be ready to answer the call.

FREAK TORNADO DESTROYS HOUSE

The tail of one of those dreaded seasonal tornadoes apparently dipped down for a short distance 5 miles south of Belleville about one o'clock Monday morning and completely demolished the home of W. Jack Hayes along with several outbuildings. Mr. Hayes, his wife and six children escaped without so much as a scratch although Mrs. Hayes was momentarily dazed by a lick from some of the flying debris.

Mr. Hayes was in Evergreen Monday morning and told a Courant representative about the storm. He said that he and his wife were awakened a few minutes before the tornado came by the action of the weather and had gotten up to see about some things on the porch and elsewhere about the house. He said he heard the roar of the twister as it approached and decided that he should dress. He walked across the room to get his overalls which were hanging on the wall and when he reached out to get them he suddenly realized that the wall was gone. He looked about him and discovered that the entire house had been blown away and he and his family were being drenched with the downpour of rain which accompanied the wind. Mr. Hayes said it all happened and was over in the twinkling of an eye.

The tornado only touched the ground for a distance of about three quarters of a mile and its path varied in width from 100 yards to 10 or 15 yards. It virtually cleaned everything where it went, twisting up woods, grass and moving logs which were partially imbedded in the ground.—Evergreen Courant.

Michigan Winter Queen Gets Feather Crown

Many an Indian chieftain wore this feather war-bonnet before the white man turned his paths into auto highways, but Chief Greenleaf, of the Ottawas, revived an age-old ceremony to crown Miss Janna May Locks queen of the great Petoskey, Michigan, Winter Carnival, February 5. Little Sally Jean Scoggins had to climb onto this handy Chevrolet to crown the attractive ruler of the annual sports-fest.

"WINDY HIGGINS" WILL SHOW AT WADESONIAN THEATRES MARCH 4TH

—o—

Windy Higgins, that impudent little blockhead who is appearing on the stage at the Old Wadesonian Theatre at 2:45 P.M. for Matinee and at the New Wadesonian Theatre the same night at 9:00 P.M., is probably the most accomplished ventriloquil figure in existence.

Unlike most ventriloquists' dummies he is not grotesque in appearance, on the contrary, he has regular features, real human hair, dark brown eyes with lots of expression, and a complexion that any school girl might enby.

Like human actors Windy has an "understudy," another dummy who resembles him, and in case he suffered an attack of termites or wiodpeckers, ths "understudy" would take his place.

During the Senatorial campaign in Kentucky between Senator Barkley and Governor Chandler, Windy appeared on the program several times for Chandler, then switched his allegiance to Barkley: at one appearance he made a burlesque speech in favor of his own candidacy, and actually received fourteen votes for U. S. Senator.

Being a native of Kentucky, Windy has always favored the title of "Colonel," but since his political triumph he insists on being addressed as Senator Higgins.

Windy smokes a cigarette, winks, cries, laughs, sneezes, imitates animals and birds, and speaks Spanish and French as well as English.

Windy's adolescent treble produce such a complete contrast to the rather low-pitched heavy quality of the ventroloquist's voice that it is hard to realize that both voices issue from the same throat.

Remember the dates of his appearances here—Saturday, March 4, at both the Old and New Wadesonian Theatres.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

After one of his great battles in 1813 Napoleon wrote to Empress Marie Louise and I quote from that letter: "We had great fighting, but no one of importance was killed in my army. I lost around three thousand men killed or wounded." The men who died in that battle were nothing to the General but just soldiers. They were worthless so far as his selfish ambition was concerned. In contrast to that military conqueror I want to give to you another picture. Jesus is watching a group of children at play and of them he said: "Do not despise these little ones. Whoso offendeth one of these, it were better for him that a stone be hanged about his neck and that he be cast into the depth of the sea." From the smallest to the greates were of vast importance in the heart and plan of the Man of Galilee. Men are men, it matters not where they may live and serve.

Over in Araba fine qualitied horses are selected to carry on the race from perfect markings and intelligence. These steeds are then placed in a pen near a running stream and kept there for forty-eight hours without water or food. By that time they are almost insane with thirst and fever. The gate is then opened and the horses make a wild stampede for the running water. While the horses are rushing toward the water a bugler sounds a call that each horse has been trained to mean "Go to your master, his life is in danger." Only those horses that turn back fro mthe water an drush to their masters are retained as breeders for the race. Their intelligence and their devotion to their master qualifies them to be worthy sires i nthe horse family. The call of an unselfish life should be answered by us with a like devotion. "Jesus calls us over the tumult of life's wild restless sea. Day by day His sweet voice soundeth, saying: "Christian follow me."

Dr. E. Stanley Jones said: "In Persia I noticed that the only hills that remain standing are those that have a reef of rocks in the center." The blowing of the wind and the beating of the rain have flattened out the others and made them even with the plains. The teachings of Christ constitute the rock center of society that will hold it together. Do away with the practice of Christian ideals in our social relations and in less than a half century human life will be flattened out to the level of the brute world. I tell you, folks, we should be defenders of our faith. Jesus Christ is the only hope of the world.

On going into a store in company with my wife to visit one whose name appeared on my church roll, I found a condition over which angels would weep. Paul was lifted into the third heaven and he saw things that he refused to tell. The place we entered was not the third heaven but we went beyond Paul and we saw things, smelt things and heard things that we cannot tell. Suffice it to say that no such places should be allowed to exist in our Christian civilization. When God inquired about Abel, Cain indignantly answered: "Am I my brother's keeper?" As preachers, as church members, as State and county officials, we are our brother's keeper and why tolerate a place where our brother will go to ruin?

In India there is an Orphan's home in which many young women are engaged as helpers with the little ones. A visitor to the home ventured to inquire of the young ladies: "How much do you get each day for your services in this home?" They replied: "Why, sir, this is very expensive work that we are doing and the home can not afford to pay any one for this service. We have to be up all hours of the night to care for the babies and the little children and no one will do all this for the small pay that the home can give and for that reason we are doing it for love and not for pay." In Christian America how many people do you find who are doing work for Christ that is too expensive for a salary to satisfy I saw a Christian minister shaving an invalid for love, when he would not have undertaken the job for many dollars. Love should induce us to do many things that are too expensive for money to pay.

Better Woodland Management

o

The complete erosion-control program which farmers are carrying out in the Soil Conservation Service area near Clanton Alabama, is helping farmers to solve their wood problems as well as their feed problems, according to Mr. James H. Wood, Camp Superintendent.

Just as the increased use of close-growing hay crops and improvement of pastures to control erosion has simplified the feed problem, better woodland management is helping farmers to get the most effective return from their woodland.

Instead of the old practice of clear cutting a portion of their woods each year to get fuel wood, farm lumber, and posts, farmers are protecting their land and improving their timber stand at the same time by selective cuttings. The removal of diseased, slow-grow- and misshapen trees for fuel and farm lumber promotes the more rapid growth of straight, healthy trees for a future timber crop, he explained. Protection from damage by fire and grazing maintains a protective ground cover, and insures the establishment of a full stand of trees.

Many farmers are planting small areas of black locust trees on their farms to provide a supply of durable fence posts for future use. This eventually eliminate the necessi frequent replacement of fence p and will thus conserve both time timber on the farm, Mr. Wood poin out.

All erosion-control practices ten provide abetter farm program by duçing the outlay of cash for f needs that can adequately be me home, Mr. Wood added.

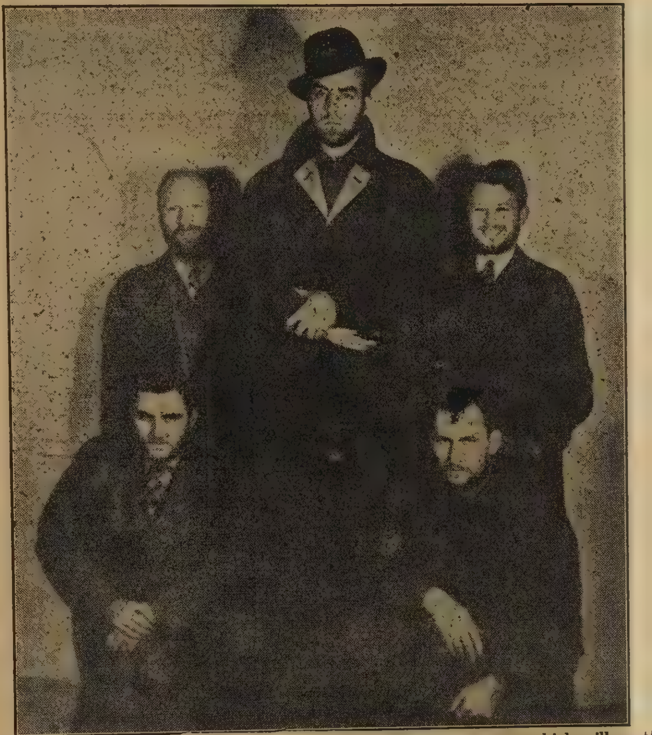
House of David Plays Mitchell Dam Quintet Tonight



Here are members of the Famous House of David Basketball Team which will meet strong Mitchell Dam Cardinals on Thursday night, March 2nd, at eight o'clock. The ga will be at the Mitchell Dam Court. The colorful whiskered Davids played 201 games season and lost but seven. They outdrew all professional road teams in the business.

Tonight is the night, the night of nights! Your basketball friends, and one of the crack teams of the nation, are on tap at the Mitchell Dam gym at 8:00 o'clock sharp. The Mitchell Dam Cardinals are not an aggregation to be sneezed at in any company, and the Davids (face spinach and all) are one of the best teams anywhere, winning 194 out of their 201 games last year. If you like good basketball, with a lot of fun and collection of stunts sprinkled through for laughing purposes, you'll want to see this game. You've read about the Davids—perhaps you've seen them in action—and you know they must be good. Lots of fun, too.

The admission will be reasonable, and the evening will be a bargain. See the Davids and the Cardinals tonight (Thursday) at 8:00 o'clock at the Mitchell Dam gym. Be there early—a good preliminary has been arranged for 7:00 o'clock. And then, too, want to be sure of a seat, and is sure to be an overflow crowd.

Sunday was our regular preaching day and our pastor, Brother Robinson brought to us two wonderful sermons at both morning and night servces.

Sunday School was held with a nice attendance and a good prepared lesson. The B.T.U. also put on a splendid program with the Junior Class in charge of the opening exercises. We had some visitors from other communities with us at the B.T.U. and evening services. We give them a hearty welcome and invite them back again.

Sunday School will be at ten o'clock next Sunday and at eleven o'clock. Brother Littlejohn will bring us a message. We invite everybody to come

TONSILS AND ADENOIDS A REAL HEALTH PROBLEM

Chronically enlarged or diseased tonsils and adenoids are seen with alarming frequency in the school children of Chilton County, according to a report by the Health Department. Approxmately 41.2 per cent of Chilton County children possess tonsils and adenoids enlarged or diseased to the point of endangering the health. The highest evidence of tonsillar disease, the report shows, is seen in the third graders of which 45 per cent have enlarged tonsils. Despite the fact that there are many children who need surgical treatment for this condition, a majority are not able to obtain any treatment because of the lack of funds.

Dr. S. D. Sturkie, County Health officer, commented on this problem as follows: "The tonsils which are in reality lymph glands, furnish one of the most controversial subjects of medical science. There are two schools of thought, the conservative which advocates the removal of only definitely diseased tonsils and the liberal which favors wholesale removal of tonsils. Be that as it may, there can be no doubt that enlarged tonsils and adenoids can interfere with breathing and predispose the child to colds and mouth deformities and that absorption of toxin from diseased tonsils can give rise to such condtions as heart disease, rheumatism, St. Vitus dance and kidney disease. A comparison of two groups of children, one with tonsils and the other with tonsils removed, over a period of ten years has revealed that the latter group enjoyed better health.

"We are badly in need of facilities in this County for aiding children whose parents do not have the money to pay for tonsl removal. The Farm Security Administration through Mr. Marvin Durbin, local supervisor, is making a step in this drection by arranging for for tonsil removal. The Farm Security families under their supervision."

A thorough study of the weekly newspapers of Alabama will be undertaken for the next three months by the lass in Weekly Newspapers at the niversity of Alabama.

ALA. FEDERATION OF WOMEN'S CLUBS PLAN PROJECT SURVEY

The Alabama Federation of Women's Clubs in cooperation with the Alabama State Planning Commission, is conducting a survey of the counties of Alabama in their efforts to plan useful projects for the betterment of our cities and communities, according to Mrs. S. D. Suggs, of Montgomery, who has been appointed state chairman for this work by Mr. J. U. Reeves, of Mobile, President of the Alabama Federation of Women's Clubs

A county planning council for each county has been created to cooperate with local officials andMrs. J. E. Gowan will appoint members of her committees, and begin this work immediately. These committees are known as education, public health, cultural, improvement and recreation. Each committee will assemble an inventory of the civic and social needs of the cities and communities in Chilton County, from nformation they will secure during this survey from all available sources in the county.

Their reports will contain a summary of the immediate and future needs of projects and services that will be of greatest benefit to the greatest number of persons in their respective counties and communities.

Technical assistance and advice will be furnished by the Alabama State Planning Commission in inaugurating feasible projects and services suggested by the various committees of the Alabama Federation of Women's Clubs.

The State and County at large have already received a glimpse of the thoroughgoing efficency of Alabama's Club women in the work program study which was completed last spring and the survey now being conducted will no doubt prove of far greater importance to Alabama's citizens.

"We wish to thank the sheriff and his deputies and the bailiff of the Grand Jury for the prompt manner which they secured witnesses that we needed to complete our labors, and for conveniences given us during our stay as Grand Jurors.

"With further reference to the jail, we find that the inside of the jail has not been painted for some time and this Grand Jury wishes to call to the attention of the Commissioners Court Section 4865 of the 1923 Criminal Code of Alabama which provides that during the first week of April and October of each year that the jail shall be thoroughly fumigated and cleaned and that the inside shall be painted, including all cells and metail work. We feel that this is a humane provision of the law intended to protect the health of the prisoners confined in jail and we recommend that our recommendation in this respect be brought to the attention of the next Grand Jury to see that this provision of the Law has been complied with.

"We have had occasion during our stay as Grand Jurors to observe the condition of the Courthouse and we wish to call to the attention of the proper auhorities that practically all of the windows are dirty and in various parts of the Courthouse there are numerous cobwebs. We do not feel that this condition should exist and we recommend that all windows be thoroughly cleaned and that all cobwebs be removed from the Courthouse and that the Courthouse be kept in a clean and sanitary condition.

cludes all there is to see and enjoy in that great metropolis. The World's Fair alone should be worth the cost of the trip, but it is just one part of the program arranged for the New York stay.

One of the high-lights of the events in New York will be "Alabama Press Day," tentatively scheduled for Thursday, which will be held at the World's Fair when it is expected Governor Dixon and others will take part on the program which very likely will be broadcast on a nation-wide hookup.

The Executive Committee after carefully considering all factors pertaining to a successful tour for the Press Association this year, has entered into an agreement with Roy Brown Tours to handle the tour this summer and the committee outlined to this Tour Association exactly what it wanted for the summer trip.

Never before in the history of tours from Alabama have the members of the Press Association, their families and friends throughout the state been offered such a golden opportunity to spend a week's vacation to see and enjoy so much at such a low price as will prevail.

"The public is cordially invited to join with the Press Association in this 'On to the World's Fair Tour' this year," said President Giles today, "and those in this community desiring to make this trip with the Press Assocation should immediately confer with the editor and publisher of the Chilton County News who will furnish all information and register you as a member of the party.

"The Press Association, because of the large number of its own members who will compose the tour, is in position to offer the public a much better and less expensive vacation tour than any other organization in Alabama and this year when we have such a golden opportunity to advertise Alabama it is believed that several hundred people wil ltake advantage of this opportunity," President Giles continued.

cated in the building. At this time Mr. J. R. Mullins, along with his two sons, Edwin and John, purchased the interest of Mr. Moore, and the business was moved to its present location on the highway, where it was known as J. R. Mullins & Sons.

On January first, 1938, Mr. Mullins turned the business over to his sons, who, along with Mr. Ed Scott, a brother-in-law, have been operating the business under the name of Mullins & Scott.

This old established firm is to be congratulated on the many years of succesful merchandising in Clanton. Only recently the interior of the present building was remodeled, and it can truthfully be said that they are handling the most complete line of nationally-advertised brands of goods to be found in this section of the country.

The Messrs. Mullins & Scott are extending a cordial invitation to the County to visit them and help them celebrate their Golden Anniversary by taking advantage of the many bargains. During the sale week prizes will be given and other favors will be bestowed upon their friends and customers.

OL. XVII — CLANTON, ALABAMA, THURSDAY MARCH 9, 1939 — EIGHT PAGES — NUMBER 21

We Observe

By BONNIE HAND

An Early Reovery—

Mr. J. T. Marlar, who resides on Clanton Route Five, one of our older and most respected citizens, is seriously ill we understand. We are very sorry to hear of this and his many friends over the county will join us in wishing him an early recovery.

Freak Eggs—

Extra large hen eggs, freakish shapes and colors, have been brought into the News office by farmers during the past few weeks. We've seen so many odd looking eggs that we have about concluded that the hens of Chilton are trying to outdo each other in producing unusual-looking fruit. Lying before us here on our desk is a two-in-one egg. This freak was sent in by Mrs. C. C. Klinner of near the Baker School. The egg is extra large, part of the outer shell has been broken away and on the inside is another perfect egg, of ordinary size. Can you beat that one. Along comes Mr. S.M. Jones of Clanton Route two with seven eggs layed by three different hens—Rhode Island Reds, White Rocks and Buff Orpingtons—and such eggs! White ones covered with brown spots; rough shells and what not. Mr. Jones says he has thirty hens and every day he gets thirty eggs. He says the secret to this is that he knows how to feed his hens. And speaking of poultry, this poultry raising association organized by J. H. Jackson, teacher of Vocational Agriculture at the local High School, is one wide-awake and progressive organization. Not only students in Vocational Agriculture, but many farmers are members and are realizing quite a bit of extra cash from the raising and selling cooperatively of eggs and fryers. More power to the poultry raisers in this county. There's room for more of this type of business here. Efforts of the local organization have been highly praised by the Alabama State Chamber of Commerce, through a recent issue of their official publication.

Merchants Turn Carpenters—

The Levine Brothers are carpenters as well as merchants, as may be seen from the interior of their store. Extensive remodeling has been underway at Levine Brothers, and all done by the Messrs. Levine. Looks mighty good, too. These gentlement need never worry about being without a job. If things should get to looking dark in the mercantile business, Doc and Sol could easily secure jobs as first class carpenters, we think.

Time For A Stop—

There hasn't been a burglary in Clanton since three persons were sentenced to serve time—and lots of it—for burglarizing the Peoples Cash Store.

On The Air—

Those who tuned in on the radio broadcast from Station WAPI last Friday evening at 6:45 o'clock, report that they learned things about our town they did not know themselves. The part concerning the history of newspapers in Chilton County was especially interesting to us for we must confess that we learned things about this phase of Clanton's history that we did not know. Clanton was the subject of a fifteen-minute broadcast, and was one part of a series of broadcasts by this station, using the theme "Our Neighbors In Clanton," and other towns in the State chosen for discussion.

Congratulations—

Congratulations are in order, as the result of the District High School Tournament held last Saturday night in Selma, and they go to our boys at C.C.H.S., who came through victorious to win the cup, defeating all opposition. A corking good team, whose success this season is due to the splendid team-work among the boys. In fact, every member of the team this year was a star, and of course, much credit is due their coach, Mr. Dewey L Cox, who guided the boys in an efficient manner.

Homefolks—

The people who live around us here in Chilton County and Clanton are known as 'homefolks.' Each firm in this county is more or less dependent upon the buying power of these homefolks. If mail order houses get under the skin of operators of our neighbor establishments here in Clanton, as out-of-town printers get under our skin here at the News office—well, it's just a mutual feeling. 'If you want to help your home town grow, do your trading with local merchant, with people who pay taxes here and are part of your town and County; people who are your friends and on whom you can rely when the going gets rough.

FORMER COUNTY COMMISSIONER DUKE PASSES

C. D. DUKE SUCCUMBS TO LINGERING ILLNESS; SERVED FOURTH DISTRICT

Death came last Sunday night at eleven o'clock to Charlie D. Duke, age 43, following a lengthy illness. He had been in declining health for several months. Mr. Duke passed away at his home in the Walnut Creek community.

He had served one term as County Commissioner from the fourth district, which includes Clanton, from 1933 to 1937, rendering a valuable service. He was active in all civic undertakings until illness prevented.

Funeral services were held from the Walnut Creek Church Tuesday of this week at two P.M., with the Revs. Emfinger, Lockhart and Golden officiating, with J. Mell Martin & Sons in charge of burial in the Churchyard cemetery.

Pallbearers were: Reece Baker, Ervin Cleckler, Lester Powell, Hubert Duke, Frank Hall and Curtis Mims. Flower girls were Lillie Mae Cleckler, Agnes Minor, Eudora Carter, Erlene Powell, Connie Mae Bell, Mary Minor, Ruby Easterling and Frances Duke.

Mr. Duke is survived by his widow, Mrs. Teresa Mims Duke; one son, Morris Duke; one brother, Ben Duke, all of Clanton. He was a member of the Walnut Creek Church.

BIBB GRAVES

Ex-Governor Graves "Keeping On"

CONTINUES BATTLE FOR "EQUALIZATION" OF RAIL FREIGHT RATES

(Montgomery Journal)

Back home after almost two months in Florida where a vacation was interrupted by an operation, former Governor Bibb Graves turned his attention Monday to the south's battle for "equalization" of rail freight rates.

"We're sitting on top of the world," said Graves, first attorney in the rate case being pressed by the southeastern governors' conference before the interstate commerce commission.

The former governor was joyous of the report last week by William L. Lee, member of the I.C.C., in the governor's case, that rate discriminations against the south did exist. The southern governors claim high freight rates in the south, as compared with the north and east, retard industrial growth in Dixie.

"We contend our case is for the benefit to the consumers of the nation as a whole," Graves said, and advised he would have a full statement soon on the rate work of the governor's conference.

The former executive arrived by automobile late Saturday. He left for a Florida vacation immediately after leaving office January 16, and was stricken by appendicitis. An operation kept him abed nearly three weeks and several weeks were required to restore his strength for the homeward trip.

"But I'm feeling fit as a fiddle now," Graves said. "I think my prospects for good health are greater than in several years. That inflamed appendix had been the source of a lot of trouble I hadn't known about before."

He and Mrs. Graves, former U. S. senator, set up housekeeping in their old home at 511 South McDonough street.

Approval Of Building Application Promised

Following a trip to Washington, D. C. by former Assistant Superintendent of Education Luther E. Little, recently, the Chilton County Board of Education office gave out the information that although nothing definite had been promised by WPA officials, regarding the application for Government funds to assist in rebuilding the Chilton County High School, it was definitely assured that the application would go through.

Mr. Little had been instructed by the Board of Education to make inquiries in Washington regarding the application, as it had been hoped construction might get underway within the near future. An architect's drawing of the proposed modern building to replace the one burned before Christmas, has been made. Appoval of the application will come through the Montgomery office of the WPA.

Labor Department Commends Local Mill

A letter received by Mr. Homer Roberts, superintendent of the local Alabama Mills Unit, from the State of Alabama Department of Labor renders words of commendation for the compliance by this mill to the Child Labor Laws, and the excellent working conditions of the mill. Following is the letter:

"Mr. Homer Roberts,
"Superintendent, Alabama Mills Co.,
"Clanton, Alabama.

"My Dear Mr. Roberts:

"A report of the recent child labor inspection of your mill has been placed on file in this office. This report shows that no violations of the Alabama Child labor law were found. It is always gratfying to this office to file such a report.

"As stated to you and to the Superintendent of your weave shop, this part of the mill was found to be cleaner than any weave shop it has been the duty of this Inspector to inspect. I also explained to you that the general cleanliness of the mill was satisfactory with the exception of leakage in some of the toilets. I was glad, however, to see that you had taken my suggestion and had put the wooden racks on the floors to make it more comfortable for your employees.

"Bespeaking your further cooperaton, I am, with all good wishes,

"Sincerely yours,
"DAISY DONOVAN,
"Child Labor Inspector."

Commissioners Court Sets April 11th As Date For School Levy Election In County

The Commissioners Court of Chilton County Monday of this week called an election for April 11, 1939, for the purpose of continuing the three mill school levy that expires October first of this year.

This school levy is not a new or additional levy, but a renewal of a school levy that has been in force for twenty years in Chilton County.

Miss Nell Mahan Wins Beauty Contest

Miss Nell Mahan, member of the Senior Two Class of the Chilton County High School, was winner of the beauty contest sponsored by the Senior Two Class and merchants of the City. The climax of the contest was held at the City Hall last Friday night, following the presentation of "Absent-Minded Professessor," a play also sponsored by the Class. Miss Mahan was adjudged "Miss C.C.H.S."

Miss Mahan was sponsored by the Orange Crush Bottling Company of this City. A nice sum was realized from the play and contest. Misses Marjorie Aldridge and Doris Newell ran second and third, respectively. Miss Aldridge was sponsored by the V. J. Elmore Store and Miss Newell was sponsored by the Chilton County News.

EVANGELISTIC RALLY TERMED BIG SUCCESS

MANY HEAR NOTED BAPTIST SPEAKERS AT CHURCH HERE LAST TUESDAY

The Evangelistic Missionary Rally for members of the Baptist Churches of this section of the state was well attended at the First Baptist Church on last Tuesday. Representatives from eight different Baptist Associations were gathered in numbers exceeding 300, to hear the beloved and renowned Dr. B. D. Gray, Secretary Emeritus of the Home Mission Board, Atlanta. Also speaking during the morning session was Dr. W. C. Taylor, Foreign Mission Secretary for Latin America, who brought inspiring expositions of the Gospel and of its triumphs in South America. Both of these men brought unusual messages, the kind of message one does not hear nearly often enough

Appearing on the same program were Dr. S. J. Ezell, Superintendent of Evangelism for Alabama Baptists, and Dr. J. E. Dillard, Promotional Secretary, Southern Baptist Convention. Forceful and appealing in their messages, these men persuasively proclaimed that "we are evangelized to be an evangel", and that our position and privilege in the world as Baptists should lead us to be loyal to Christ in all of life and a flaming spiritual witness to the soul of every man.

Farmers Invited To Attend Meeting Sat.

Calling all farmers to meet Senator Karl Harrison and Representative Percy M. Pitts at the Courthouse at 2:00 o'clock P.M., Saturday, March 18, 1939.

The purpose of the meeting is to decide and let our Senator and Representatve know as to whether or not the farmers of Chilton County want their County Agent under the control of the elected County Commissioners or under the control of Washington and Auburn.

Mr. J. W. Fant and Mr. Chester Wingard are especially requested to attend the meeting and speak their views. Both sides will be listened to and given ample time to express their views. Our Senator and Representative really want to know the feeling of the County and this is the way they have asked that it be done

CRIMIN'L COURT DISPOSES OF 58 CASES

BILL CLACK DRAWS 10-YEAR SENTENCE AND APPEALS; BURGLARS SENTENCED

Fifty-eight cases were disposed of during Criminal jury court here last week, with Circuit Judge Arthur Glover presiding.

Twelve persons drew sentences ranging up to ten years, for offenses ranging from Grand Larceny to murder. Three cases were appealed; one was found not guilty; 10 paid fines for various offenses, and thirty-two cases were nol prossed on payment of cost or by agreement

The case of W. D. (Bill) Clack, charged with second degree manslaughter, in the fatal shooting of Carl Gore, was tried Thursday. He was sentenced to ten years imprisonment, but filed an appeal. Gore was alleged to have broken into Clack's home east of Clanton just before Christmas of last year, at which time Clack fired upon him with a pistol. An operation failed to save his life and he died several days following the shooting.

Moses Chadwick, James Arthur Mims and Roosevelt Chavers were sentenced to serve time in the penitentiary. These three men were charged with burglary of the Clanton Cash Store here several weeks ago. They were captured at the time the burglary was being committed. Chavers was sentenced to five to seven years; Chadwick was sentenced to two to two and one-half years and Mims was given four to six years.

Civil Jury cases will come up for hearing the week of March 20.

Health Department Syphilis Program Is Active

The campaign of the local health department against syphilis continues active according to a weekly health department bulletin. The Chilton County Medical Society Syphilis Clinic now boasts a total of 115 patients, 28 white and 87 colored. More and more housewives are becoming conscious of the need for having negro house servants Wasserman tested at least once a year.

Chilton County is especially fortunate in having a clinic which makes no charge to indigent patients. This insures treatment for all persons who are not able to pay private physicians for treatment. The clinic is financed by an appropration from the County Commissioners.

To afford the public a better understanding of syphilis asa health problem, Dr. Sturkie quotes the followng facts from a United States Public Service bulletin:

"Over 100,000 persons die each year from syphilis. 40,000 persons die each year because of syphilitic heart disease. 25,000 babies die each from syphilis. 10,000,000 persons now have or have had syphilis. 1 in 10 cases of insanity is due to syphilis. 1 in 7 cases of blindness is due to syphilis."

CHILTON HIGH WINNER IN TOURNAMENT

AWARDED TROPHY AT BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT AS DISTRICT CHAMPIONS

Clanton is rightfully proud of the Chilton County High School Basketball team. After going through a most successful season with many victories to their credit, the boys, coached by Dewey L. Cox, motored over to Selma last Saturday and won the District High School Basketball Championship.

The C.C.H.S. boys were awarded the trophy, donated by the Selma Junior Chamber of Commerce, and the prized 22-inch high token of real basketball playing, at present reposes in the Alred Drug Company show window here.

The Clanton boys barely edged by the strong Jemison High School team by a margin of only two points, but in the final game they easily defeated the Sidney Lanier team of Montgomery. to the tune of 33-12. As winners of the District Championship, the boys will go to the State Tournament to be held in Tuscaloosa Friday and Saturday of this week. A sports writer in one of the leading dailies named Clanton as favored to win the State Championship, and if home-town rooting will help any, this prophecy will come true, however, Friday and Saturday will tell the tale.

COMMODITY COMPETITION

Quoting from the March issue of "Alabama Social Welfare":

"Forty-six carloads or a total of 2,146,954 pounds of surplus food commodities were sent into the State by the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation during the month of January. With the commodities already on hand a variety was available for distribution, consisting of dried beans, wheat flour graham flour evaporated milk, corn meal, butter, sugar cane syrup, dried peaches, wheat cereal, grapefruit juice, and small quantities of prunes, raisins, dry skim milk, canned tomatoes and Irish potatoes.

"During January 45,288 families received surplus commodities with an estimated value of $206,322.40. This represents food sent into the State by the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation in the amount of $172,999.02 and clothing and household articles produced on Works Progress Administration production projects sponsored by the Department of Public Welfare valued at $33,323.38. The average value given per family during the month amounted to $4.56."

What is the Alabama farmer to do in the face of this kind of competition? The farmers in every agricultural county in Alabama, have a surplus of most of the worthwhile commodities mentioned in the above list and plenty of food that is not mentioned—commodities which they have been unable to sell at a fair profit price.

Note that this food is "sent into the State." It is certainly unfair to Alabama farmers for the Government Agency to buy this food in other states instead of procuring it from Alabama farmers—many of whom are striving manfully to keep from calling on the Federal Government for financial aid.

SECRET BALLOTS

From The Birmingham Age-Herald:

The DeVane "secret ballot" bill passed this week by the State Senate apparently guarantees ballot box secrecy, yet provides for precautions tending to eliminate ballot box stuffing. Such a measure has been needed in Alabama for many years.

Many voters have complained about the practice of numbering ballots at the polls. The placing of numbers on the back of ballots all too often has served as a warning to some voters that interested politicians in control of "the ring" possibly could find out how votes were cast and who cast them.

In some counties the political bosses have openly boasted that they could learn the names of persons who voted against them and that reprisals and rewards would be made according to the way votes were cast. In still other counties no such threats have been made, but ballot box leaks have been apparent.

The only excuse for numbering ballots has been that the practice is a safeguard against stuffing the boxes and other frauds. The DeVane measure would require election officials to number the ballots and then seal the number so that it could not be seen by prying eyes. In event of an election contest the seals could be broken in the presence of proper authorities.

This appears to be one means of guaranteeing secrecy of the ballot and at the same time holding election frauds to a minimum. The measure is worthy of trial.

WHITE COUNTY TEACHERS

By Henrietta Davis

This is the last of three articles about white county teachers in Alabama based on studies of 15 counties made by graduate students in education at Auburn.

At the present salary scale for Alabama rural teachers, it would require 35 years for the average teacher to repay the money she invested in her college teacher training

This fact was discovered in a recent survey conducted by graduate students in the school of education at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, and the information was obtained from county teachers in 15 representative Alabama counties.

An investment of $1,548 was made by the average county teacher in her three years of college training. The average teacher receives a salary of $449. One-fourth of the teachers have invested $2,335 in preparation to teach and are receiving an average of $675 per year, while the lower one-fourth invested $1,122 and are getting an average of $414 annually.

The budget used by the average teacher whose salary is $449, according to the study, allows for only $44 per year for debt liquidation, hence it would require 5 years for payment of money invested in training. Even if 50 per cent of her salary were used for debt liquidation, this average teacher would be unable to pay the debt incurred for training, since the average time spent in the profession is only six years. Fifty per cent of her salary for that period would amount to only $1,497 which is $51 short of her original investment in education.

Sixty-seven per cent of the Alabama rural teachers are dependent on contributions from relatives to tide them through the year. There are 23 per cent who resort to borrowing money to meet the everyday obligations, and this number might have been larger had not 28 out of every 100 also engaged in pursuits other than teaching.

Total wealth of 50 per cent of these rural teachers amounts less than $140 each, while 75 per cent of them have less than $640 worth of worldly possessions each. Not only were holdings of these teachers noticeably small, but 27 per cent have accumulated debts, one-fourth of which range from $300 to $2,000.

If present holdings of the average teacher were liquidated for debt payment, the survey reveals, she would have nothing remaining, and 25 per cent of the teachers would still be in debt.

INTEREST RATE IS REDUCED

The interest rate to members of the Montgomery Production Credit Association was reduced one half of one per cent on all money advanced beginning February 24, Mr. Y. M. Quinn, Secretary-Treasurer, announced for the Board of Directors of the Montgomery Production Credit Association. "This is made possible," said Secretary Quinn, "by the continued ready sale of Federal Intermediate Credit Bank debentures to the investing public bearing low rates of interest. The fine paying record of the farmers for the past five years has had much to do with making it possible to secure for agriculture a rate of interest comparable to that enjoyed by industry. The new rate will be four and one-half per cent per year, and as usual interest will be charged only for the period which the members actually have the money," continued Secretary Quinn. "The reduction also is effective in all the other production credit associations throughout the country.

"This is the lowest rate at which production credit has been made available and the lowest discount rate ever enjoyed by the farmers for production loans. Based upon the present volume of business, this interest reduction will result in annual savings of approximately $800,000 to the 243,000 members of the 535 production credit associations in the United States."

The Montgomery Production Credit Association, according to Secretary Quinn, last year did a business totaling $1,384,274.00. "These loans," he said, "are made for agricultural purposes and repayments are made at time when the member is best able to pay from the sale of crops or livestock or other operations financed. Loans are made on the budget plan in which members get a commitment from the association to advance to them sums covering certain periods, thus enabling them to be sure of sufficient funds to carry them through their agricultural operations and yet not have to pay interest on the entire amount for the whole season."

Mr. D. W. Waite is the Chilton County representative of this Association.

The Washington Census Bureau gives Chilton County cotton crop for 1937 as 7,208 bales, and that of 1938 as 5,058 bales, a decrease of 2,150 bales.

Begin Now With Quail Crop Work

o

Auburn, Ala.—This is the time of the year for progressive Alabama farmers to begin their plans for betterment of quail conditions on their farms for the coming year, advises Dr. A. M. Pearson, head of the Wildlife Research Laboratory at Auburn.

A few simple operations put into effect now may be expected to yield results in the form of additional coveys of quail later this year. The preliminary step for game betterment is the drawing of a map of the farm and including on it the location of coveys of quail now present and the important areas furnishing cover and food.

An approximate census of the total number of quail on the farm should also be made in order to determine whether restocking is necessary. If a census reveals an average of one quail per 15 acres, there is no necessity for restocking. The quail already present will under proper treatment multiply in a relatively short time, says Mr. Pearson.

The second step is the preservation of native quail food plants and protective cover. Small clumps of bushes and wooded areas should be left. The farmer should also refrain from destroying the dual purpose plants—in other words, those plants which serve as both food and shelter—wild cherry, plum, sumac, privet, haw, and blackberry bushes. Other wild which serve as quail food and fore should be mantaned are tive lespedeza, rag-weed, pea, beggarweed, and wild

Farmers often overlook the fence rows and idle corners may provide excellent food and for quail.

The final step in this game ment plan is the selection and ing of specialized crops for quail, such as brown-top millet, beans, cowpeas, vetch, German and lespedeza especially pedeza. Better results will be ed if these crops are planted areas well distributed over the

$5 for telling WHAT YOU SEE BEYOND YOUR ELECTRIC BILL

ALABAMA POWER CO. ELECTRIC BILL AMOUNT

One hundred $5 checks are offered by Alabama Power Company for the 100 best letters telling what, in its customers' opinion, they get for the amount of their electric bill. Your letter may be one of them. Every writer of a letter on the subject of "What I See Beyond My Electric Bill" will receive a 100-watt Mazda lamp bulb, so whether your letter is one of the hundred best or not, you'll get something for your effort.

THERE ARE NO STRINGS TIED TO THIS OFFER

You Need Not Buy Anything To Participate

Whether or not you've ever won anything in a contest, you can't lose in this one. Every participant will get a prize. All you do is write a letter, the same kind that you'd write a friend telling what, in your opinion, are the values you get for the modest amount of your electric bill each month.

Perhaps you'd chose to write about the benefits resulting from getting your electricity from a taxpayer instead of a tax-eater. Tax-paying Alabama Power Company contributes, through taxes, to better schools and prompt payment of teachers' salaries, improved highways, social improvement, law enforcement and other desirable governmental activities, industrial and rural development of Alabama and other benefits you may think of.

WRITE YOUR LETTER SOON

Don't hesitate just because you don't consider yourself a good letter-writer. Your opinions are what will count with the judges, not your ability as a fancy letter-writer. There is no age limit—boys and girls, men and women may write. The only requirement is that you or a member of your immediate family, at the address from which you write, be a customer of Alabama Power Company.

REMINDERS

Much of the amount of your electric bill goes to the upkeep of the schools, (over a million dollars annually from Alabama Power Company alone.)

Every electric bill has included in it an amount for taxes which helps build and maintain highways.

Part of the amount of your electric bill is for law enforcement.

Through your electric bill, you contribute to the cost of running local, county, state and federal governments.

Perhaps your electric bill means better balanced agricultural and industrial development for Alabama.

DEVELOPMENT

Many a pleasant evening is yours for a small part of your electric bill.

Ample light for comfortable reading or sewing costs such a small amount.

Economy and health protection is also included in your electric bill.

Easier cooking, appetizing food, cleanliness, more leisure time—all for a modest amount.

Perhaps the electric bill represents the convenience of the city brought to your farm home.

A view of Cascade Terrace in the world-famed Bellingrath Gardens, Mobile, Alabama, with falls flowing into Isle-Aux-Oies river. Thousands of visitors annually enjoy the gorgeous beauty of this "Charm Spot of the Deep South."

Bellingrath Gardens Charm Spot Of The Deep South

—o—

ocated On Isle-Aux-Oies River, Near Mobile, Alabama

In 1918 when a "tired business man" urchased a fishing camp for the en- ymen of himself and friends, it was ttle dreamed that upon that beauti- l spot would be created the now amous Bellingrath Gardens, owned by r. and Mrs. Walter D. Bellingrath. was ten years later perhaps, under e inspiration provided by Mrs. Bel- ngrath, when the natural beauty of e fisherman's camp was further en- anced by the planting of a number f azaleas that were not needed in e Bellingrath City Garden. The re- lt was so unique that extensive plan- ing and landscaping followed.

Within a few years the fame of the ardens spread until people began ocking to Bellingrath Gardens to see s gorgeous beauty. "We were prac- cally forced to open our Gardens to e geneial public," stated Mr. Bellin- rath, "and while glad to do so we ound it impossible to control the vast rowds that thronged the estate. Fi- ally, it was decided to make a nomi- al admission charge, in order that e might continue to maintain and evelop the Gardens and permit garden lovers to enjoy the splendors that have besome world-famous."

The development of Bellingrath Gardens has taken place under the direction and supervision of its owners, Mr. and Mrs. Walter D. Bellingrath. Even to the casual observer it is evident that a woman's hand has guided the destiny of Bellingrath Gardens. Mrs. Bellingrath has been for yeors an active and enthusiastic member of garden clubs of her community and state. The remarkable achievement at Bellingrath Gardens is a triumph that should bring lasting satisfaction to its hospitable owners .

"Charm Spot Of The Deep South"

An inviting trail leads from the entrance into the Gardens. Towering pines and age-old oaks, heavily festooned with Spanish Moss (Tillandsia usneoides) form an aisle on each side, while interspersed you get your first glimpse of the gorgeous azaleas.

This trail leads to the Fountain Plaza which is the center of the estate, and here amid moss-draped and ivy clad oaks is the magnificent home of our genial hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Walter D. Bellingrath.

Located on a bluff overlooking the junction of three rivers, Bellingrath Gardens were originally a semi-tropical jungle of magnolias, bays, live and water oaks, cedars, pines, holly and dogwood. The natural beauty of the place has been vividly enhanced by dexterous landscaping and transformed into a glorious garden beyond adequate description. And azaleas! Thousands of them line the many boxwood bordered walks that wind over this marvelously beautiful estate. Around the lily-bordered lake — Mirror Lake —over historic flagstone walks you go enthralled by the gigantic azaleas, some of which are flowers that cover a single bush.

Beyond the fountain, in the Bellingrath Gardens, there has been created a Camellia Parterre. This Parterre contains, in addtion to the many beautiful specimens of the true Camellia Japonica, the Camellia Sassanqua in both the alba and the rosea varieties as well as innumerable azaleas of many kinds. From the terrace of this Parterre a vista opens across a great expanse of well-kept lawn to a border of large Azaleas, Camellia and other old-type shrubs. The charm and amázing variety of the Camellia Japonica in this setting convinces the visitor that here in the Bellingrath Gardens is one of the most remarkable collections of this beautiful flowering shrub ever gathered together. One is compeltely enraptured by the mystic charm of the setting and will leave this spot reluctantly only to be equally suprised and delighted at the gorgeous beauty that awaits the visitors on every side.

Alabama Unit Of National Cotton Council Organized

—o—

The organization of the Alabama Unit of the National Cotton Council has been completed in all sixty-seven counties in the State. Some of the counties have already reported substantial headway toward making up their quotas.

The organization of the National Cotton Council was completed in Dallas Texas, January 24th, 1939 and it was at that meeting that the Council unanimously passed a resolution with reference to securing parity income for the producer and to allow the cotton held in government loans to pass through normal trade channels and the markets of the world.

The present Smith Bill before the Senate embodies in the main this resolution. The Council took no action on one secton of the bill, namely, to sell cotton from the loans back to the farmers. This proposal was made to the Senate after the Dallas meeting of the National Cotton Council.

The National Cotton Council is pledged to carry on an active campaign to increase the consumption of American cotton both here and abroad. This can and will be done by advertising, by advocating and sponsoring legislation which will remove the trade barriers now in effect. In reality, the National Cotton Council, is the first attempt of the interests of raw cotton to present a united front to protect the tremendous investment in farms and farm equipment, gins, factories, cotton oil mills, warehouses et cetera, in this country. In Alabama alone the total amount of this investment would without a question of a doubt exceed $11,000,000. The several Chamber of Commerce are working diligently to bring new industries to Alabama but what, if anything, is being done to save this tremendous investment already within our State? These are going concerns, employing thousands and thousands of people.

The National Cotton Council was organized and designed, primarily, to fight for and protect this tremendous investment and for the welfare of the cotton producer as a whole. The National Cotton Council is a constructive movement to save what is already here and theerfore justifies the active support, not only of every Chamber of Commerce, but every thinking individual in this State. A news item from Washington during the past week, stated that cotton exports had declined to a level of 1881. The raw cotton interests up until the organization of the National Cotton Council, had been content to sit idly by in a defeatest attitude and watch their great industry sink deeper and deeper in the mire, without putting their shoulders to the wheel as a unit.

The National Cotton Council has been endorsed by the outstanding leaders in cotton in this country—by the Southeastern Governors Conference and by the press.

The President of the Council, Oscar Johnston, is now in Washington conferring with Senators and Representatives and government officials and the daily press dispatches have proven without doubt, that the efforts of the National Cotton Council and its President, Oscar Johnston, are getting results. There is no question that the united front presented by the National Cotton Ciuncil will accomplish much in the solution of our cotton problem.

THE KEY TO LOW-COST COTTON

"Yields of cotton on many soils in the southeastern Cotton Belt are determined more by the available nitrogen supply than by any other controllable soil-fertility factor. In this region, the yield of cotton may be at least doubled and sometimes tripled through the application of large quantities of commercial nitrogen with mineral fertilizers."
—U. S. DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE
Tecnical Bulletin No. 452

BALANCE
PK

LESS LAND PER BALE—this is real economy in cotton production. Sufficient nitrogen, well balanced with phosphoric acid and potash, produces your yield of cotton on fewer acres at lower cost per pound. This means more land for soil-conserving crops, more chance for the soil to grow its own organic matter, less loss from erosion and more actual farm income. The following table will help you to work out a balanced fertilizer program for your cotton:

500 to 600 lbs. per acre of COMPLETE FERTILIZER containing—	SIDE-DRESSING NEEDED FOR BALANCE
3% NITROGEN—such as 3-8-5, 3-8-6, 3-8-8, etc.	ARCADIAN NITRATE OF SODA 125 to 150 lbs. per acre

STANTON

Our basketball team has kept up a fair record this season. We have played nine games and won 7, lost 2, which is a pretty good record. We won over Thomas Jr. High Friday afternoon, March 3, by a score of 20-12. It was a good game for both teams. We are going to play them again March 10, at Thomas Jr. High, three miles below Clanton on the highway.

Percy Crew, rf, and C. E. Cagle, Jr., lf, were the two hgh scoring men for Stanton team. Crew scored 8 and Cagle 6 points, which was a good game for both.

The girls won their game over Thomas Jr. High by a score of 8 to 2. This was the third game for the girls. They won 2 and lost 1. They are also going to play Thomas Jr. High.

SEEN and HEARD BY GAD

Now, since I am revived a little, I once more take up my pen name, and pen to jot down a few things—just things. . . . It was only the other day that I noticed on a window in town: "Lona Thompson, Insurance." Lona, how about insurance for my right hand and pen? . . . The young people's banquet at the Methodist Church last week must have been nice—they had a newly decorated dining room and somehow attractive surroundings make the salad have just enough dressing, if you know what I mean. . . . This summer we'll have a nice paved road to go to Lay Dam to the baseball games. . . . The Hollis girls were home on "furlough" this past week end. . . . now we'll be hearing about all the pretty Mexican secenery (probably mostly senoritas) since the Judge Smiths and the Hance Alreds have returned. . . . The Winnah! Nell Ross Mahan won the beauty contest sponsored by the Sr. II Class of C.C.H.S. with Marjorie Aldridge and Doris Newell as "runner uppers"—and the class play was good too—or have you forgotten? . . . There'll come a day when Clanton will boast of a swimming pool—or is that just results of the grape-vine telephone? . . . We miss "Pat" Roper in Elmore's now. A cherry smile like hers makes us want to spend another dime. . . . As cheap as potatoes are the flower nurseries will go out of business 'cause potato vines seem to be the vogue now. . . . And now the candy manufacturers have put Easter wrappings on the Christmas candy. . . . Our own business manager has one of the cutest little boys in town—have you had the pleasure? . . . Isn't Mrs. Browder's little dog too, too cute for words! She had it up town the other day or maybe it isn't hers. . . . There's a certain lady in town with sorta' reddish hair whose husband is working in Birmingham now who has a blue coat that certainly looks simply stunning on her. . . . Keep the good work up B.H. and I'm sure you'll soon be acclaimed poet laureate—or Something! . . . I'll see you again next week.—BY GAD.

The Clanton Grammar School P.-T.A. met last Tuesday, February 7. The president, Mrs. Christiansen, presided over the meeting. This was a most interesting meeting at which many subjects were discussed in the interest of the school and what the P.-T.A. was planning to do for the benefit of the school. Mrs. Christiansen made an announcement and expressed her gratitude and also that of the P.-T. A. to the city council and our Mayor for making it possible for our school to continue another month. We are very grateful.

The president appointed a nominating Committee including Mrs. J. W. Fant, chairman, Mrs. C. D. Thomas and Mrs. Stewart.

The program was in charge of Mrs. J. W. Fant. Mrs. Willie Bean gave a very iinteresting devotional. Mr. Maddox, our county superintendent of education, gave a good talk on "The Facts About the One-Mill Tax."

J. T. Searcy also gave a very interesting talk on "Are We Paying Too Much to Send Our Child to School? "

This was a very good meeting and Mrs. Hulsey's room won the half-hollday by having the largest number of parents present.

Health of this community is very good at present.

Sunday School was well attended Sunday. There is always room for improvement. Come on, folks, let's make this one among the best Sunday Schools in the county. Sunday was our regular preaching date. Our pastor, A. W. Nix, delivered a wonderful sermon, which was enjoyed by all. Sunday was our day for the election of a helper to assist our pastor in a revival meeting this summer, which will start the first Sunday in August.

We were very thankful to secure the help of Brother Joe Thomas of Lafayette, Georgia. Brother Thomas has pastored churches in this county twenty-five or thirty years ago. So let's everybody pray that we will have a wonderful revival this summer. Our location is five miles southwest of Thorsby

Alabama's provisional 1938 death rate was nearly two per cent lower than that for the United States as a whole.

MOTOR USER TAXES WOULD PAY FOR ALL NEW MOTOR VEHICLES SOLD IN 1938

"Special taxes on motor vehicles in 1938 yielded more than enough to buy all the new motor vehicles sold in the United States in that year, according to Earl M. Hearne, Secretary, Alabama Petroleum Industries Committee, Montgomery. The average factory value of motor vehicle sales, both passenger cars and trucks, was $613. According to preliminary estimates, 2,255000 new vehicles were sold with a total wholesale value of about $1,380,000,000. Federal, State, and local taxes of all types on motor vehicle users, however, reached the staggering total of $1,525,000,000 or 10 per cent more than the new motor vehicles themselves were worth, Hearne said.

"The leading contributor to this tax burden, as in prior years, was the gasoline sales tax—levied by all states, by a number of counties and municipalities, and duplicated by the Federal government. It alone produced more than $970,0000,000, averaging $33 for every motor vehicle registered.

"Motor vehicle users, a special class of taxpayers presumably taxed only to pay a share of the cost of highway construction and maintenance, in paying more than a billion and a half dollars in 1938 contrbuted nearly 13 per cent of tax collections by all Federal, state, and local governments from every source."

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

A surgeon, an architect and a politician had a heated argument as to which profession came into existence first. The surgeon claimed to be first, for said he, an opeartion was performed in the Garden when a rib was removed from Adam. The architect arose to claim that his profession was in existence before that, for said he, my profession came upon the scene to create order out of chaos. Then the politician arose to claim that his profession went back farther than that, for said he, we created the chaos and the confusion that the arcitect adjusted and straigtened out. This we know: "Politicians have been creating chaos and confusion as far back as the mind of man can go. Today there seems to be no indication of a reform move among them.

The Shelby County Democrat reports the story of a good loser. One of her citizens ran for sheriff and he received fifty-five votes of the thirty-five hundred cast in the election. When the returns were all in this man armed himself with two large revolvers and made the round of the public square. As he walked along he was greeted thus: "You were not elected and you have no right to buckle those guns to your belt." The defeated sheriff replied: "Listen to me, pal, a man in this county who has no more friends than I have needs to carry a gun." Soon they saw the humorous spirit of the defeated candidate and the par value of that man went up, and all alike declared him a good loser. After that he had plenty of friends. The fellow who growls and grouches under defeat will be defeated again.

Two Irishmen went down to the bay and rented a boat. They went far out from shore and began fishing. Two hours later Mike looked down and seeing that the boat was nearly full of water, shouted to Pat: "Faith, Pat, and bedad our boat is about to sink." Pat threw his hook far out into the water and replied: "Heck Mike, let her sink, it does not belong to us." "Foolish Pat, don't you know that if the boat sinks it will carry you down with it?" That is just how foolish a lot of people are acting on the question of social corruption. That roadhouse, that dance hall, that whiskey store ,that joint of vice is not yours. Maybe not but you and yours are in that boat of society and you may count yourself fortunate indeed if someone near and dear to you is not sent to the bottom on the account of such things. Anything that corrupts society will hurt the very best. We are a part of each other and we must live together. Your companion your child, your loved one is in danger when tigers with open eyes are roving the land.

In a book describing the frontier life of a century ago we read of a mother who killed a bear. This mother's little daughter was playing in the front yard when a large bear leaped the fence and made for the child. The mother seeing the danger seized an ax and ran between the bear and the child. Ordinarily a mother cannot kill a bear, but this time this mother seemed to have superhuman strength and after a number of terrific blows she had the bear dead at her feet. The life of her child was at stake. I am filled with wonder today as I see the danger to our boys and girls as the corruption of society dashes toward them, and yet our parents are sitting quietly by. If you love your children how can you look on while corrupt socety seizes them and disqualifies them for living. Better be striking some terrific blows.

Well do I remember the story of Bill Brown who went out one morning to plow his field. He shouted to his yoke of oxen "gee-haw," but they paid him no mind. Then old Bill slammed his stock to the ground, saying. "Go then where you darn please, the whole field has got to be plowed." Then oxen went their own way and old Bill plowed away but the field was a mess. No rows, no beds, just furrows running here and there. You have to live your life. Are you going to have it lived without law without self mastery? As you would force your mule or your ox to plow a straight furrow, in like manner you had better force yourself to live straight. It pays to think straight and live straight.

"John Adams" Contest Enrollees

People throughout this county are looking forward to the holding of the county competitions in the oratorical contest on "John Adams."

Several schools enrolled in this contest, and in the majority of these schools, a large number of students participated.

School representatives have now been selected, and the county contest, with contestant fro meach of the hualified schools, will participate. This contest will be held on or before March 10th. Place for holding, time for holding, selection of judges, and other contest officials is being arranged by the competing schools.

The following are the contestants, with the names of those in charge of the contest for each of the participating schools.

Arnold White, Jemison High School, Jemison. Mr. J. A. Peterson, Principal, contest director.

Miss Cleo Jones, Stanton Junior High School, Stanton. Mr. Wm. F. Stone, principal, contest director.

The winner in this contest will be the county champion, and will represent the county in the congressional district champion will compete in the state finals to be held at Birmingham, April 28th. Cash prizes will be awarded to all state finalisth. Railroad fare and hotel bill for each visiting state finalist and chaperon will be paid by The Birmingham News-Age-Herald, sponsors of the contest.

The public is invited to attend all of these contests. There is no admission charge, and all attending will gain something of real value.

Top-Dress Oats For Big Yields

Auburn Ala.—Alabama farmers who have oats are urged by W. H. Gregory, assocate extension agronomist, to top-dress them between now and March 15 with nitrate of soda or other quick-acting nitrogen fertilizer.

"According to results obtained at our experiment stations it is necessary that oats be top dressed with quick-acting nitrogen at this time in order to get best yields" says Gregory. "On thin land and where you do not have a good stand only 200 pounds is recommended, but on good land where you have a good stand of oats 300 pounds of nitrate of soda or its equivalent will pay well, whether oats are to be cut for grain or for hay."

In a 10-year average at Auburn 100 pounds of nitrate of soda made 10 extra bushels of oats, 200 pounds made 23 extra bushels, and 300 pounds made 32 extra bushels of oats per acre. It is not recommended that more than 300 pounds be used because 400 pounds only made 36 extra bushels, or four extra bushels for the last 100 pounds of soda.

On an average of seven years results at the Sand Mountain Experiment Station 225 pounds of nitrate of soda increased the yield of oats from seven to 46 bushels per acre. At the Tennessee Valley station the same amount of soda increased the yield from 23 to 34 bushels, and at the Wiregrass Experiment Station 225 pounds of nitrate of soda boosted yields from 12 to 34 bushels per acre. On the Sumter soil at the Black Belt Station the same amount of soda increased the yeld from 33 to 52 bushels per acre.

All of these tests are based on the nitrate being applied at the proper time, said Mr. Gregory. Such good results will not be obtained if soda is applied too late, he explained. By all means, the agronomist urged, get this done before March 15.

LEGUMES FOR EROSION CONTROL, PERMANENT HAY AND TEMPORARY GRAZING

Many kudzu plantings that will be in production this summer need attention soon. Large rocks, stumps and bushes should be removed before growth begins. This will allow more vines to come in contact with the ground, resulting is the formation of more crowns which means a better yield. It will also give you a smoother mowing surface.

It is very important to destroy weeds, broom sedge and bushes in kudzu plantings that have not covered the ground if the best results are to be obtained. Perhaps the best method of cultivatisg these areas is to plow out the middles with a turn plow and harrow with a spring tooth harrow.

Lespedeza sericea that was not harvested last summer should, by all means, be mowed before growth begins this spring. Rake the old straw and weeds and remove by placing on some badly eroded area on the farm. Mowing and raking now will stimulate growth and give you much better yields than if the old straw and weeds are allowed to remain.

We would suggest that each cooperator plan now to plant a few acres to either Kobe, Tennessee 76 or Korean lespedeza. Sow broadcast in early March, on the oat htrips that you have planted, 25 to 35 pounds of seed per acre and harrow lightly with a spike tooth harrow. Light harrowing will not injure oats, but will prevent seed from drifting and result in more uniform stands.

Annual lespedeza is a valuable summer legume. After oats are harvested it makes a dense cover, valuable in preventing erosion, for temporary grazisg and for the production of hay and seed. There is a demand for the seed, and 300 to 500 pounds per acre can be harvested. If left on the land it reseeds itself year after year.

Moist, bottom soils are best suited to growing annual lespedeza but good results are obtained on upland and soils.

"GOT NATCHEL SODA IN YO' FERTILIZAH, MISTAH GRAY?"
"SURE HAVE, UNCLE NATCHEL. WOULDN'T TRY TO MAKE A CROP WITHOUT NATURAL SODA UNDER IT."

WE can suggest no wiser, safer plan than to fertilize every crop every year with Natural Chilean Nitrate of Soda. Top-dress with it. Be sure its in your mixed fertilizer. Use it as your side-dresser.

Chilean Soda is the world's only natural nitrate. It gives you ideal, quick-acting nitrogen, plus a natural blend and balance of many protective elements.

The longer you use it the more you get the full benefit of all its natural fertilizing and soil-improving properties.

"The Negro & His Lair"

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following article was carried in the August 23, 1928, issue of the Chilton County News, and is here reprinted by request of Mr. William Walker, well known resident of near Maplesville, who brought this ten-year-old copy of the News to the office recently:

From early childhood I have been a constant observer and an ardent admirer of the wonderouh works of God. In my early days birds, bees, bugs and flowers were a never-ending source of pleasure to me; and when a lad of more mature years I have lain for hours in the shade of some friendly tree and played with a toad frog or June bug until the dinner horn blew, when I was erroneously supposed to have been diligently hoeing cotton. In after years I have sat silently on the seashore and watched the tide ebb and flow; I have climbed lofty mountains, and looked down upon the clouds; I have descended into the valleys and stood upon the banks of the world's greatest river and watched the turbulent waters roll by; I have looked above into the starry decked dome of Heaven and gazed upon the far-away planets and comets performing their stupendous and harmonious revolutions, and have seen written upon the face of all nature the glory and wonder of the great Creator. But I have always, and do now, regard the negro as his masterpiece. He stands alone in a class by himself; and while the Yazoo and Mississippi delta is peculiarly suited to his needs, yet he can adjust himself to any kinds of climatic conditions and live and die happy under the most trying circumstances.

Sleep In Sun

He can lie down beneath the scorching rays of a noonday sun and sleep the sleep of the seven sleepers of old without suffering any evil effects from it whatever; or he can weather the fiercest wintergale, clad only in a pair of cotton overalls and a blue jumper. He can also wear an overcoat to a Fourth of July celebration, or a pair of linen pants and an alpaca coat to a Christmas tree and be perfectly comfortable.

And, strange as it may seem, anybody's clothes will fit him, and look nice on him. King Solomon, in his declining years, when he had become thorougly disgusted with high society and fast living said that there was nothing new under the sun; that he had gone all the gaits and had seen the whole show, from the free exhibition to the grand concert, and that there was nothing to it, or words to that effect. But it will be remembered that he never had any negroes to deal with, or he would have had a new problem to solve every day of his eventful life. There is nothing else like the negro under the sun. He sees all things, hears all things, believes all things, and has implicit faith in everything he sees or hears and stands ready at all times to step aboard of anything that comes along, from a young mule to a flying machine.

Has Used Wireless

Wireless telegraphy is nothing new to him; he has used it for ages; every negro's mouth is a transmitter and every ear a receiver. If anything of importance happens on a plantation tonight, every negro for forty miles around will know it by morning.

If you ever arrive in a Delta town on the train on Sunday and the whole colored population is not at the depot to meet you, do not get off the train, for you may know that of a surety some catastrophe has just struck the town.

Saturday is his special day by custom, and common consent, and if you have any business to attend to in a delta town on Saturday, attend to it early and get off the streets before you get hurt. A negro cannot see you Saturday, unless you owe him something, and if you get in his way he is liable to step on you, sit down on you, or back you up against a brick wall and smother you to death. He does not usually do these things, or any of these through any evil design, as many sometimes suppose, but he simply cannot help it if you get in his way, for he is busy and cannot look out for you. Saturday is his "rashions" and news exchange day, and in addition to having all those things on his mind, he has to shake hands with every other negro woman he meets. You had better take out an accident policy or get off the streets Saturday.

Stomach Like An Accordion

The standard "rashions" for a negro is a peck of corn meal, two pounds of sugar, one pound of coffee, three pounds of salt meat and one gallon of black molasses a week, but he can consume all this at one sitting if necessary, or if he is working for you and boarding himself he can live a week on three soda crackers, a box of sardines and 5 cents worth of cheese. In other words his stomach is built on the same general principles of an old fashioned accordion, and either contracts or expands according to the pressure brought to bear upon it.

He is also immune to nearly all kinds of poison, and can swallow the most deadly drug with impunity. I remember of having a negro working for me one time who was having chills and was suffering with severe backaches. I got him a bottle of chill tonic to take and a bottle of liniment to rub his back with. The liniment was labeled in box car letters, "Poison, For External Use Only," and I cautioned him about it when I gave it to him, but for three days and nights, before I had found it out, he had been rubbing his back with the chill tonic and taking a tablespoonful of the liniment three times a day before each meal with excellent results. On another occasion I was sick and had a negro to wait upon me, and the doctor opened a can of antiphlogistine to make a plaster for my side, and left the can on the kitchen table, and when my negro went in to get his supper he mistook it for a can of peanut butter and ate the whole of it without ever discovering his mistake.

Lays Up No Treasure

The negro does not lay up treasures on earth where moth and rust would corrode them or where thieves might break through and steal, but if he has any money or other valuable thing he immediately puts it in circulation, and the things in which he usually invests are never of a permanent or lasting nature. He spends much money each year for legal and medical advice, presumably for the purpose of finding out what he ought to do, so that he may do the opposite, for it is a well knows fact that a negro was never known to shut a gate or follow anybody's advice about anything.

He is also an ardent admirer of the work turned out by the dental surgeon, and down deep in every negro's heart there is a secret longing to some day have a gold tooth in front, on a plate so that he can take it out and look at it and put it back at will.

Strong For Art

He is likewise a great admirer of art, and in nearly every negro's home be it ever so humble, there hangs a life-size crayonportrait of himself on the wall right opposite the door where you will be sure to see it as you come in the door. The rest of his surplus money he usually spends for entertainment, preferably an excursion but anything else in motion will do. I have frequently stood on the street corner on a cold, cloudy winter day and watched as many as fifty negroes, who would not average 50 cents each, and none of whom had on clothes enough to flag a handcar, clinging to a merry-go-round as it went round and round, grinding out that well-known and much beloved melody "Oh, Bill Bailey, Why Don't You Come Home"—and their front teeth shining like the keys on a "baby grand" piano, while hundreds of others who did not have the price of a ride, were standing in half-frozen mud shoe-mouth deep, cheering them as they came round.

All things are pleasing to him. A circus or a funeral is equally enjoyable, but a protracted meeting followed by a big baptizing, or a term of the Circuit Court followed by a public hanging is his chiefest delight.

The negro was once the white man's slave, but that was only for a short time, and was a part of the great scheme which God hal in mind to better prepare him for the enjoyment of the great things which He meant to bestow upon him in the future. By long and close association with the white man, the negro learned all of his ways, and his most innermost thoughts, and can now size him up and classify him as accurately as a cotton buyer does the different grades of cotton, and can do it much quicker.

He Gets What White Man Has

He is no longer a slave to man or Mammon, and verly that Scripture which says: "That last shall be first and the first shall be last" has already come to pass and the negro now has a reserve seat in the front row. If any good things are to be had he is sure to get his share. One day a negro asked me if I thought a negro had a soul. I told him I most assuredly did, and if he did not have one it was the only thing I had ever heard of a white man having that a negro did not get he stayed with him long enoug. The negro has no great problems to solve. There is no race question so far as he is concerned. He enjoys the society of all races, ages and nationalities and will mingle freely with any of them. He enjoys with equal pleasure the companionship of a 5-year-old white boy, or an aged Chinaman who is unable to speak or understand a single word of English, for in either case he gets to do most of the talking.

For A Silver Standard

The tariff question or the currency question does not interest him in the least. Silver is his standard and he does not want any other kind of money. Neither does the Mexican situation worry him any. All those things are the white man's trouble. But if the white folks want to whip Mexico or anybody else for any cause, or without any cause for that matter, and will furnish him with the arms and ammunition, and will back him up in it, he will be glad to do it for him.

His One Great Trouble

The road question is the only question that ever gave the negro any real trouble, but that was when he was subject to road duty, and happily for him, that burden has also been shifted to the white man, and the roads of the Delta are now being worked by taxation, and all he has to do is to pack them down after they are constructed.

Neither does the levee nor the want of a levee bother him. That is some more of the white folks' trouble. If we have an overflow, or do not have one, it is all right with him. If we do have one, he is the first to have a a boat and get out into it and paddle around from morning until night with the blessed assurance that there will be no more work done while it lasts, and that he will draw his rations from his landlord or from the government and sometimes both, until it subsides.

When He Comes To Town

Whenever a negro tires of country life he moves to town, acquires a charcoal bucket and a tailor's goose, forms an alliance with some white man's cook and with his living thus assured opens a cleaning and pressing establishment. He then gets out Monday morning and gathers in the Sunday clothes of the white clerks of the town, and after wearing them himself every night during the week, he gets up Satrday morning and treats them to a gasoline bath, flattens them out with a red hot iron and rushes them home to their owners, so that they might wear them Sunday, collects $1.05 for his services in their behalf and goes on his way rejoicing. But should there be any special occasion in town on Saturday night which he wishes to attend he holds back the best suit that he happens to have on hand and wears it to that and carries it home Sunday morning, if he happens to wake up in time; otherwise the owner can lay in bed over Sunday and he will bring it back sometime the following Monday.

If perchance his fancy does not run to cleaning clothes, he gets himself a gasoline stove and other parphernalia wherewith to defeat the vagrant statute and sets up a lunch counter, where he serves all such as care to come his way, irrespective of race, color, or previous condition of servitude, with hamburgers, hot catfish and beef sausage and some sweet spirits, of fermenti on the side. But should neither of the vocations appeal to him he usually opens a colored barber shop with a pool room and crap table in the rear.

As soon as the city authorities become obnoxious to him, however, he again comes back to the quiet country life, usually right after the Christmas holidays, and joins himself to a cotton planter, and by his certain written contract, duly executed in duplicate, obligates and binds himself to cultivate and gather a crop of cotton on the land therein described and on the strength theerof, proceeds to eat up anywhere from $5 to $300 worth of grub while he is waiting for the ground to get in shape to plow, and it very frequently happens that when the trees begin to bud and when the birds begin to sing, Mr. Negro is seized with wanderlust, and suddenly disappears, and the people who once knew him know him no more forever. Every Delta town also has its full quota of negro women, who, like the lily, toil not, neither do they spin, yet the Queen of Sheba, in all her glory was never clad like unto one of them.

Surely the negro is fearfully and wonderfully made and his ways are past finding out.—Montgomery Advertiser, Nov. 4, 1913.

S. H. DAVIS,
Indianola, Miss.

We Observe

By BONNIE HAND

Thorsby's Peaches—

Driving along the Birmingham-Montgomery highway in the vicinity of Thorsby last Sunday we were impressed with the beauty of the blossoming peach trees. This section has long been noted for its fine peaches and the budding trees at this time foretells a bountiful crop this year, barring damaging frost and wind, and other performances of nature beyond the control of man. Residents of other sections of the state have driven many miles to taste Thorsby peaches, and a person would have to drive many miles to find a more delicious product. The stands along the road at harvesting time bring in neat sums to the growers from the passing motorists.

More Congratulations—

Well, our C.C.H.S. boys did it. Yes, sir, they motored over to Tuscaloosa last week end, after winning the District Tournament at Selma the week before, and came back with the State Championship. We're certainly proud of these boys, for there was some real competition at the meet in Tuscaloosa. We understand that they have been extended an invitation to play in the Tournament to determine the Southern Championship. Two beautiful trophies now repose in a downtown show window, so why not add another and make it three, boys?

Public Safety—

"Sixty-mile-an-hour automobiles on forty-miles-an-hour roads with twenty-mile-an-hour drivers at the wheel" is a contributing factor to the alarming number of automobile accidents in the nation yearly," is the opinion of Eddie Lyons, former police inspector of Birmingham. Mr. Lyons spoke to the Kiwanis Club here Thursday night and also addressed the local school students. Now that school is being held almost in the heart of the city since the high school building burned, motorists cannot exercise too much care when driving around town. A moments delay might save the life of somebody's child. There were two fatal accidents within the city limits of Clanton last year. This number can easily be reduced to none by intelligent thinking on the part of motorists and pedestrians.

Public Safety And Mayor Jones—

Well, you know occurrences that are serious sometime have their amusing side also. Mr. Eddie Lyons paid our City a visit last Thursday and Friday and talked to the High School students and the Kiwanis Club in behalf of Public Safety. He painted a vivid picture of the shocking number of automobile accidents in our country today, and how caution should be exercised in driving an automobile and crossing the streets while walking. Since hearing his talk many of us have perhaps practiced more strict adherence to the rules of the road and street, but we've been wondering if our most esteemed Mayor heard Mr. Lyons speak, and we've about concluded he did not. He suffered injuries when his car overturned a few hours after Mr. Lyons left town.

Looking After Our Interests—

Mr. Jones is a good sport, and I'm sure he'll not be offended at the above paragraph. The Mayor is a very careful driver, and after all, he was looking after the interests of our City when the accident occurred. The present improvements being made to the City's water system is a source of pride to us all and Mayor Jones is certainly due a lot of credit for these improvements, as well as other improvements to the City of Clanton.

Our Paving Project—

Now that sunny days are here once more (at the time of this writing) we are beginning to wonder when the street work will be resumed. Looks like things should get underway and hard surface applied to the streets so that we might ride on the pavement we've been dreaming about for several years, and what now appears will be a reality before the year is gone. Certainly hope the boys and machinery that were causing so much dust last fall haven't left these parts and forgotten about our streets.

MRS. ESTELE HARRIS CONNECTED WITH MILDRED'S

Mrs. Estelle Harris, of this City, is now with the Mildred's Beauty Salon as operator.

Mrs. Harris has had years of experience in beauty work, and at one time operated a shop of her own. She is extending a cordial invitation to her old customers to pay her a visit in her new location.

Interesting Talk On Public Safety

One of the most interesting talks ever rendered to members of the Clanton Kiwanis Club was heard last Thursday night when the Club met for their weekly luncheon at the Thomason Hotel.

Eddie Lyons, former Police Inspector of Birmingham, retired, and now with the University of Alabama conducting police schools over the state, and Mr. Ben Harris of the University, were honor guests of the Club, presented by Kiwanian Ben E. Evans, co-ordinator in vocational guidance at the local high school.

Mr. Lyons held the attention of his audience as he pointed out the alarming number of automobile accidents occurring in this country daily. "If it were known that forty thousand men in a city were to be killed, the President of the United States would call out the Army to prevent such a catastrophe, yet we sit idly by and see in the neighborhood of this number killed in mishaps over our states and apparently take it for granted," he stated. "Accidents do not just happen," he further pointed out, "they are caused by carelessness on the part of individuals and can be greatly reduced by the correct observance of the rules of safety on the streets by the public."

Mr. Lyons made observations in the City upon his arrival and stated that he had noted flagrant violations of the rules of safety on our streets. He recommended a more strict enforcement and education of the public to the rules of safety within the City limits. He expressed the desire to hear officers addressed as "peace officers" instead of "cops," and that they be recognized as guardians of public life instead of administrators of force.

EASTER SEAL SALE DRIVE IS UNDERWAY

SUPT. RASCOE MADDOX NAMED TO HEAD LOCAL COUNTY COMMITTEE

Rascoe Maddox, Chilton County Superintendent of Education, was appointed chairman of the local committee for the Easter seal sale conducted by the Alabama Crippled Children's Society, to raise funds to aid crippled children. The seal campaign officially begun March 1, with headquarters at Mr. Maddox's office.

Others on the committee who are aiding in this annual Easter drive are Dr. S. D. Sturkie, County Health Officer; Miss Nolen Meroney, Child Welfare Director and Mrs. Sophia Jones, all of Clanton.

In acknowledging his appointment as president, Mr. Maddox stated, "I am happy to have been selected by the Alabama Crippled Children's Society to lead our committee in such a splendid and worthwhile campaign—that of raising the necessary funds to carry forward the program our Society dedicated to the proposition that every crippled child in Chilton County is entitled to and should have every opportunity for becoming a happy and useful citizen along with those who are fortunate in their physical ealth. I earnestly beseech all of our people to join with those in 30 other states throughout the country in buying Easter seals to give the crippled child the right to play, learn, and work as other children.

"As chairman of the Seal Committee I urge all of you to call or write to me at my office in Clanton, or to either of the other members of the committee, to secure seals to aid in this worthwhile work," Mr. Maddox concluded.

For every dollar raised in Chilton County the State and Federal Government will place to the credit of the Chilton County Crippled Children Clinic one dollar and seventy cents; this will be in addition to the dollar raised locally. A very small per cent remains here for local incidental fees, Dr. S.D. Sturkie, head of the local clinic, and a member of the campaign committee, stated this week.

This is a most worthy cause, and the News wishes to urge the support of every citizen of the county during the drive, which will last the remainder of this month.

Leads Church In Loyalty Campaign

REV. OSCAR A. DAVIS

BAPTISTS TO OPEN LOYALTY CAMPAIGN

TEN-WEEKS PROGRAM WILL BEGIN SUNDAY AND CONTINUE THROUGH MAY 28TH

Next Sunday morning will witness the beginning of the Church Loyalty Campaign in Clanton, organized and promoted by the First Baptist Church. Pastor Oscar A. Davis will lead his people in a special ten-weeks Church Loyalty and Evangelistic campaign, beginning at 9:45 on the morning of March 19, and continuing through Sunday, May 28.

All non-attending members will be visited each week and an appeal will be made to all members to give God an opportunity to deepen their spiritual lives by doing three things, namely: (1) regular church attendance; (2) Daily reading of the Bible, and (3) earnest prayer each day for the Holy Spirit's guidance.

For eleven Sundays Pastor Davis will preach sermons in series on two different subjects. The general subject for the morning messages will be "Christ In Human Life," while the theme for all evening sermons will be "Christianity And The Home." The titles for next Sunday's sermons are: "Training For Love And Courtship." The young people of Clanton are extended a special invitation to hear all these Sunday evening messages.

Legislature In Recess Until July 18th

The Alabama Legislature recessed Tuesday to reconvene July 18.

Governor Dixon is expected to call a "special session" immediately for the enactment of proposed constitutional amendments which will be submitted to the voters for ratification.

FILMORE LOCKHART DIES AT HOME IN MONTGOMERY

Filmore Lockhart, 55, a resident of Montgomery for two years, and a former resident of this county, died at a Montgomery hospital at 6:50 A.M. Thursday of last week, after a brief illness.

Surviving are the widow, Mrs. Della Lockhart, one daughter, Miss Minnie Lee Lockhart, both of Montgomery; four sisters, Mrs. E. E. Aldridge, Mrs. Henry Driver and Mrs. John Baker, all of Clanton; Mrs. Tom Holley, Wilkerson, Miss.; six brothers, J. S., R. C., E.M., and Coy Lockhart, all of Clanton; Zeb Lockhart Thorsby, and John T. Lockhart, of Montgomery.

The body was sent to Clanton at 1:20 P.M. Thursday where the funeral was held at Pleasant Grove Church.

Arnold White County Oratorical Champion

Arnold White, representing the Jemison High School of Jemison, has been named county champion in the oratorical contest on "John Adams," and will repersent the county in the congressional district contest to be held early in April.

The champion for this county is an orator of unusual ability, and is expected to give the county real representation at the dstrict finals. There is keen competition throughout the state in this contest, which means that every champion has won the title over good speakers.

The winner of first place in the district contest will represent the district at the state finals to be held at Birmingham, April 28. Cash prizes will be awarded to all state finalists, and railroad fare and hotel bill for each visiting state finalist and chaperon will be paid by the Birmingham News-Age-Herald, sponsors of the contest.

The public is invited to all of these contests. There is no admission charge, and everyone attending will gain something of real value.

W. F. IRVIN NOW WITH BEAN & TAYLOR GROCERY & MARKET

W. F. (Floyd) Irvin, well known groceryman of this city is now connected with the Bean & Taylor Grocery and Market, according to an announcement by this establishment this week.

Mr. Irvin needs no introduction to the people of Clanton, as he has been in this type of business for several years and is not lacking in experience. His addition to the personnel of this store will further assure the food buyers of the most prompt and efficient service obtainable in Clanton, at Bean & Taylor Grocery and Market.

MAYOR C. FENN JONES INJURED WHEN CITY AUTO OVERTURNS

Mayor C. Fenn Jones was painfully but not seriously injured when the City's auto he was driving overturned near the Yellowleaf Creek, north of Clanton last Friday afternoon.

Mayor Jones stated to a News representative that he was driving up the road near the new pumping station being erected at the site where the City will secure water from the creek, and that he glanced toward the project, and while his eyes were off the road the car struck a rough spot in the narrow road causing him to lose control of the vehicle, which headed for a nearby ditch. He succeeded in getting the car back on the road, but the momentum it had gained, and the angle at which it was turned, caused it to overturn in the middle of the road.

Mr. Jones suffered painful bruises about the body and his left arm was badly bruised, and the bone possibly slightly fractured, however he is able to be at his desk in the City Hall. The auto was damaged considerably.

Prominent Verbena Resident Succumbs

Joel H. Gulledge, age 67, member of one of the county most prominent families, died at his home in Verbena, last Sunday night at 8:15 o'clock. He had been ill only a short while.

Funeral services for Mr. Gulledge were held from the Verbena Methodist Church Tuesday morning at ten o'clock with the Rev. Ware and Rev. Cecil Ellisor conducting with J. Mell Martin & Sons in charge of burial which was in the Greenwood cemetery in Montgomery.

He is survived by two brothers, W.A. and Charlie, both of Verbena; two sisters, Mrs. H. B. Oliver and Mrs. Samuel Scott, both of Verbena.

Pallbearers were Hugh Champion, Red Rutland, Edgar Hammell, Irby Deramus, Claud Bullard, Bill Strock, Barnett Deramus, Spinney Hammell.

Mr. Eason Parker of Detroit, Mich., is visiting friends and relatives in Clanton and Dora, Ala.

Clanton Volunteer Firemen And Kiwanis Club Honor State Basketball Champions

Arriving home from the State Basketball Tournament, held recently at Tuscaloosa, with the gold trophy of the Champions in their possession, this little fighting team found a Clanton waiting to receive them in a manner fitting of the coveted honor they had won.

Telegrams from everywhere etxending congratulation, have been received by these boys, including one from none other than Wallace Wade, Coach at the Duke University, Durham, N.C., and former coach at the University of Alabama. Coach Wade invited the boys to participate in a tournament to be held there soon which will decide the southern championship.

On Wednesday night of this week members of the Clanton Volunteer Fire Department were scheduled to honor members of the team and their Coach, Dewey Cox, with a chicken barbecue at the City Hall. Invited guests to this elaborate affair included Zipp Newman, and Jack House, Sports editors of the Birmingham News.

Tonight (Thursday) the Clanton Kiwanis Club will have the Champions as their guests at a banquet at the Thomason Hotel. The Kiwanis Club has always recognized and encouraged clean sports in Chilton County, having had teams as their guests on several occasions. At the gathering tonight the program will be in charge of Kiwanian John Hollis, long a booster of clean sports. In his efficient manner he will act as toastmaster, paying tribute to a team of which all Chilton County is proud.

Pumping Station Nearing Completion

The pumping station at Yellowleaf Creek, where the City will secure water, is nearing completion and the necesary machinery is being installed.

At present the Alabama Power Company is extending a power line to the station, which is located about four miles north of the City near the Double Bridges. The pipe line has been placed to the creek, this phase of the project having been completed some time ago.

In the meantime the filtering plant near the present City wells, is rapidly taking shape, and the two large tanks to hold the treated and untreated water, have been completed.

FARMERS MEETING TO BE HELD AT COURTHOUSE SAT

The News has been requested to announce that there will be a farmers meeting at the court house next Saturday afternoon, at which time Senator Karl Harrison and Representative Percy M. Pitts will hear discussions by the group.

The meeting is scheduled to begin at two o'clock, and all farmers are invited to attend.

B. L. Cobb will act as chairman of the meeting.

CITY CALLING ATTENTION TO FINAL DATE FOR CITY TAXES

The City of Clanton is calling the attention of the taxpayers of this City, who have not yet paid their 1938 City property taxes, that March 31st is the final date on which these taxes may be paid without an added fee for collection in the Chancery Court.

The cooperation of the property owners is respectfully asked by City officials.

George Murrah Gets Title Of 'Riding Deputy'

The days of horseback in transportation and in the performance of one's duty may be gone forever, but Deputy Sheriff George Murrah has demonstrated that they can be resurrected in a pinch.

Last Saturday afternoon Deputy Murrah had reason to believe that the handling of illegal alcoholic beverages was taking place down South Clanton way, so he motors down to investigate, and sure enough, just across a field near a saw mill, was a man Mr. Murrah felt reasonably sure had a quantity of the beverage in his possession.

A chase—both parties on foot—took place, and Mr. Murrah soon realized that he was destined to come out loser unless something was done, and done pretty quick. A gentleman riding a mule happened along, and the problem was practically solved when the rider consented to loan the Deputy his mount for a few minutes.

Well, so the story goes, Mr. Murrah climbed aboard and ditches and briar patches swiftly passed under his mount until the less fortunate man being pursued, was overtaken. The mule was returned to its owner; Mr. Murrah expressed his appreciation for the loan; the captured man was brought to town—and everybody was satisfied—except one.

"PREACHER" SALSER KILLED IN ACCIDENT; WELL KNOWN HERE

F. S. "Preacher" Salser, 41, former Birmingham resident and member of the Birmingham Police Department, died early Monday in a Dothan hospital of injuries suffered Friday night in an automobile collision on the Alabama-Florida Highway.

Mr. Salser was well known in and around Clanton and many here will regret to hear of his untimely death. He was an entertainer of note and had appeared on many programs in this county.

LIBERTY QUARTET WILL APPEAR AT THE CHURCH

The Liberty Quartet will appear in Concert at the Liberty Hill Church on Friday night, March 17, at 7:30 o'clock.

The entire proceeds will be used in purchasing song books for the Church. Admission will be ten cents for all. The public is cordially invited and a most entertaining evening is promised.

TWO IN MAYOR'S COURT LAST MONDAY MORNING

Two persons appeared in City Court last Monday morning to answer to the charges of public drunkennes. Both were fined eight twenty-five, including costs.

Mr. Paul Smith is home from Camden, Alabama, spending the week with his family, Mrs. Paul Smith and children.

Mrs. J. A. Head from Birmingham is spending the week here with her mother, Mrs. Paul Smith.

CLANTON WINS STATE CAGE CHAMPIONSHIP

LOCAL BOYS DEFEAT McGILL IN FINALS FOR COVETED BASKETBALL HONOR

The Chilton County High School Basketball team came back from the State High School Basketball Tournament held Friday and Saturday of last week in Tuscaloosa, with the prized trophy in their possession which signifies they are State Champions.

The playing of the Clanton boys was outstanding throughout the tournament, which was termed by some as the most interesting ever held in the state. Winning of the championship brought to a close a most brilliant season during which clean sportsmanship was displayed throughout by each member of the team.

Clanton took the final game from the strong McGill team of Mobile, which decided the championship, by a score of 27-23. The game was played Saturday night before a large crowd at the University of Alabama. Earlier in the afternoon the Clanton quintet defeated the Ramsay team of Birmingham by a close margin of one point, the score being 24-23. A free shot made good by Earl ("Snowy") Melton cinched this game, and placed Clanton against McGill for the deciding game.

Our boys played four games in the tournament: Oxford, New Hope, Ramsay and McGill. Coach Dewey Cox is rightfully proud of the splendid playing of his boys, and expressed his appreciation for the interest shown by local supporters during the district and State tournaments. Clanton won the Third District championship at Selma one week prior to the State tournament.

Members of the C.C.H.S. team are as follows:

Maurice (Shorty) Thornton, Earl (Snowy) Melton, Bucky Armstrong, J. W. Johnson, George Chambers, Jake Chambers, Earl Baker, Hubert

PARTY OF LOCAL PEOPLE SUSTAIN INJURIES IN WRECK

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Mims and daughter-in-law, Mrs. Chester Mims, her small daughter, and Mrs. Mandy Jones of Clanton suffered painful injuries in an automobile accident which occurred on the highway between Calera and Columbiana last Wednesday afternoon late, March 8.

Mr. Mims, driver of the car, stated that a man backed out from a side driveway into the road directly in front of him, as he came down a steep hill, and that in an effort to dodge the car he swerved to one side, but the vehicles collided and his car overturned.

Mrs. J. J. Mims was probably the most painfully injured, suffering cuts and bruises about the head and body. Mrs. Chester Mims suffered internal injuries; her daughter was slightly injured and Mrs. Jones and Mr. Mims sustained cuts and bruises. The driver of the other car, J. E. Wills, and another occupant, were slightly injured. Mr. Mims' car was almost completely demolished. Wills' car did not overturn.

J. B. Marlar Dies At Home Near Here

Joseph Benjamin Marlar age 84, widely known resident of near North Clanton, died at his home last Friday night following a lengthy illness.

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at two-thirty from the home with the Rev. J. L. Daniel, pastor of the Clanton Methodist, in charge, J. Mell Martin & Sons in charge of burial in the Clanton Cemetery.

He is survived by two sons, John H. of Clanton; R. A. of Birmingham; two daughters, Mrs. Annie Thacker, Clanton, Mrs. R. L. Hill, Birmingham; one brother, Bob Marlar of Clanton; one sister, Carrie Elliott of Robinson Springs; 11 grandchildren and 15 great grandchildren.

REPORT ON COOSA COMING

A decisive stage in Coosa-Alabama river improvement is approaching. Army engineers, under the direction of Col. Richard Park, are now preparing the most comprehensive report on the situation that has ever been assembled and what is to happen in the next few years probably will be governed largely by the nature of the findings to be announced when the current survey is at an end. The work is expected to be finished about the end of the year.

In this survey account is being taken of navigation, flood control and power resources, the importance of the latter being emphasized in relation to the proposed storage reservoir at Allatoona, where the revenues to be derived from the sale of electricity to the Georgia Power Company has an important bearing upon the commercial feasibility of the undertaking. Should it be found that there are additional power sites available and arrangements for disposal of electricity to the Alabama Power Company can be affected, it will add a new and highly favorable aspect to the whole situation.

In the meantime it is known unofficially but positively that the Allatoona reservoir project is favored, and this in itself is a most important gain in the direction of comprehensive development. As Secretary Jeff Bailey, of the Gadsden Chamber of Commerce observed at the recent Rome conference, this is the 'spearhead' of Coosa-Alabama development and should receive every possible encouragement.—Gadsden Times.

OFFICIALS ARE WORRYING

Southern officials are worrying seriously about what they are going to use for money—because of the rapidity with which the Tennessee Valley Authority is absorbing public utilities and other private property and removing it from the tax rolls. According to Walter Stokes, Jr., State Tax Commissioner of Tennessee, the situation has reached the "critical stage." He estimates that his state may lose close to $1,000,000 in tax revenue this year. And cities and counties may lose as much as $2,000,000 more.

As a result, there is a growing movement underway in that state (and others as well) to tax publicly-owned electric properties. Governor Browning has recommended to the legislature that these properties pay the "same taxes in all respects as those under private operation." The Tennessee County Judges' Association has voted unanimously to "seek legislation to permit the state and counties to tax electric properties taken over by municipalities for distrbuton of TVA power." And a number of counties have individually taken steps toward this end. And why shouldn't they? Operating a power plant for private customers is a commercial business, not a function of government for the people.

Thus, little by little, the illusion of the blessings that will flow from socialization of the naton's utilities is being dissipated. A man isn't going to be long pleased by a reduction of a few cents in his power bill when he discovers that it means an increase of dollars in his tax bill. The private utlities pay up to 20 per cent of all their revenues (gross not net) in taxes, and in every state the money received from them amounts to a considerable percentage of total revenues received from all sources. When government goes into business, this money is lost—and the taxpayers holds the sack.

Right now the Alabama Legislature is being asked to reimburse Jalkson county for taxes lost through the flooding of thousands of acres of the finest land in the state.

o-o-o

Who said the whole world hadn't become civilized? Even the Arabs at Jerusalem have gone on a strike.

A NEW ERA OF GLORY

The average Alabamián, in our opinion, is prouder today of being an Alabamian than he has been at any time since the War Between the States.

Alabama has been ridiculed and condemned in recent years. Sometimes it has been treated in this manner by those who knew whereof they spoke. At other times, this treatment has been accorded by men and women who had no other method of parading their ignorance.

Regardless of this, Alabama has matured enough to separate the wheat from the chaff. We have developed the ability, we believe, to open our eyes. There are many things of which we have a right to be proud; there are others which are enough to make us ashamed—and by developing an ability to see both the things which are good and the things which are bad, we have developed the ability to lift our head higher than it has been in many a moon.

We have steadily developed in ourselves a greater appreciation of our rich past, and of the men and women who toiled and played on this soil, and built up this civilization for us. At the same time, we have developed in ourselves a greater confidence in what the future will bring; we have become aware at last of certain rights of which we have been deprived, and we have developed the courage to assert these rights.

We do not believe that there is a man or woman of intelligence in Alabama today who is not certain that this state is just now entering upon a new era of glory—an era of economic and cultural glory which will eventually outshine our ante-bellum glory. Alabama's star again is in the ascendency. —Tuscaloosa News.

WHAT OTHERS THINK

"Editor, Chilton County News:

"If our taxing system is to be consistent there are some items yet to be included. We have a state and federal income tax law that is purposely adjusted so as to tax those most able to pay. The tax collected increases as the income of the payer increases. The defenders of this tax say that it falls on those most able to pay in proportion to their ability to pay. And we have a state trading tax (or a sales tax that was first called a luxury tax) which when first advocated was defended with some merit by arguing that people able to buy luxuries were able to pay a sales tax on the purchase price. This became a ready source of revenue and was considered just in the particular that it collected most tax from persons most able to buy valuable products.

"At first some absolute necessities were not taxed. But as time went by and a new administration went into the Capiol, it was noticed that the poorer people were not buying luxuries of the originally defined class and therefore not paying much tax. So a slight change was made in the lettering of the law and a broadening of the statute now includes under the meaning of luxury every thing the most needy citizen can buy. White meat, flour, syrup, medicine for the sick, work gloves, overalls and coffins are all included and taxed as luxuries. (Ye gods, what a luxury!)

"But there are some items left out. In the confusion that I experience between the acts and of the Alabama Legislature and the definition in Webster's dictionary, I can hardly understand what a luxury is. But I think it quite a luxury to have men who never heard of you until you became a candidate, go over their county bragging on you and attributing to you better qualities than any other candidate has and better than any other candidate has and better than your own mother ever thought you had. Then on election day to work for you at the poll—even to the extent of violating the State law—because of these qualities they attribute to you. I say to have this done a man should make him feel that he is enjoying a great luxury, and it would be fair for him to pay a sales tax on the purchase price of it.

"In Georgia last year one of the candidates for the United States Senate reported that he spent fifty thousand dollars winning the Democratic nomination. Of course he had other expenses in the general election. But this amount alone was equal to the total of five years salary in the United States Senate. Evidently he does not need the salary and the office is a luxury to him. A man who can pay $50,000 to buy his election can easily pay on the purchase price a luxury tax of $1,000 to his state. It would be a small item in such a large purchase transaction.—C. M. Mauldin."

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

One day while driving my flivver along the road something went wrong under the car. I stopped and crawled under to investigate and found that a cotter pin had broken and a tap was loose. I tried every way I knew to get to the needed rod and every time I would get into my own way and nothing could be done. That is one reason why many folks are never able to get things done—they get into their own way. It is a fact that as long as a man is in his own way, everything seems to be in his way—government, society, the sun, moon, and the stars. When we learn to get out of our own way, then the ailing parts of life can be fixed.

* * *

I am frank to admit that I am a great admirer of Abraham Lincoln. While reading his life story I came across the picture of that famous statue of him that is to be seen in Park Square, Boston. In that work of art two slaves are kneeling before Lincoln, shackled with slavery and the great Emancipator is in the act of striking the manacles from their wrists. The suppliant attitude of the men in black and the kind, sympathetic expression of Lincoln as he liberated them, created in my heart an echo of sympathy and love. I thought to myself: "Any man is great who can break the chains that bind human beings." That is what makes Christ the One who is above all. He broke the chains and set us free.

* * *

There is an old classic story of an old gentleman who had very long beard. The old man had no trouble with his beard at night until one day a friend asked him whether he slept with his beard unler the cover at night or on the outside. He tried to think and was finally forced to say that he did not know, but that he would find out that night. On retiring he drew his long whiskers under the cover but that did not feel comfortable and then he shoved them from under the cover, but that seemed silly and made him more silly. Whereupon he pulled them under again. All night he did nothing but shift his whiskers to and fro. The next night he did the same thing and he kept it up night after night until he became a nervous wreck trying to find where he did really put them. The reason a lot of people do things is just because they do not think. The next time you break the Sabbath, take God's name in vain, drink whiskey, or do anything that you are accustomed to do without thinking, suppose that you stop and think why? The old man with whiskers had to have them shaved off to keep from going crazy. If you think about those bad habits of yours, you will doubtless shed them.

SEEN and HEARD

BY GAD

Our team is THE team now. Maybe we can all see our boys mow 'em in the next tournament. Of course we'll excuse them if they should happen to be a little "nosed up"—who wouldn't be after winning such an honor. And don't tell me that you haven't already guessed that I've been praising our local basketball team. . . . Among the visitors of last week end were Lillian Smith, Elaine Burdette, (ex-) Jane Roberts, Sarah Thomas, and "Doc" Parrish. . . . Have you seen Gerald Burdett's new boat? I think it's to be hailed "Saratoga". . . . There must have been something about Clanton that the whites just couldn't resist, but we're glad. . . . and Mr. and Mrs. Hicks are now living in the brick home formerly owned by Mr. Davis. . . . Retract: the fence near the Callen's isn't theirs as I once thought and stated but it's enclosing Dr. Sam's lot and rumors are that he is going to build soon. . . . Doesn't it make us feel good to have such local talent that our high school class plays are repeated by request? . . . And there are days when the sky is mingled with kites of every color and shape. . . . T. J.'s car doesn't need a horn, if you know what I mean. . . . Paul Gowan will serenade the subscribers of the Montgomery Advertiser now since Buel has resigned to move with the family to Centreville. . . . Added notes: Combination of black and white in a pair of pumps; the popular color scheme, pink and orchid, carried out in a skirt and sweater; a large laverldar felt hat; a rose felt hat; tan blunt-toe oxfords; a strictly tailored black outfit worn by atracive matron. All items of many and varied wardrobes. . . . It was Quillen who said, "Being popular requires two things: (1) Deserving it, and (2) People with sense enough to appreciate you." . . . I'll see you again next week.—BY GAD.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Wingard spent Sunday in Birmingham.

Mrs. James Parrish is visting friends and relatives here this week.

Mr. Earl Gray, Chester Wingard, Otis Miller, B. Larrimore and Hubert Stroud attended the basketball tournament in Tuscaloosa Saturday .

Mrs. J. M Shepherd, Mrs J. C. Jones and Miss Ruth Shepherd spent Tuesday in Birmingham.

Mrs. Leroy Martin spent last week with Mr. and Mrs. Crit Jones.

Wednesday Contract Bridge Club met with Mrs. Earl Gray. After several hands of bridge a salad course was served to the following: Mrs. Aubrey Taylor, Mary Newell, Mrs. James Parrish, June Cox, Mrs. Dutch Nivens, Jeanette Sumner and Jane Pitts. High score was won by Mrs. Nivens.

Circle Two of the Clanton Methodist Church met last Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. W. McGinnis. This meeting was for Bible study. After the Bible study a social hour was enjoyed by everyone and a very delicious salad plate was served by the hostess.

Circle One of the Clanton Baptist Church met last Monday with Mrs. J. M. Shepherd to continue their Mission Study book, "Go Forward." Mrs. Clara B. Curry taught chapter three and Mrs. Ezell taught chapter four. Both chapters were very interestingly given. There were sixteen members present at this meeting. After the Mission Study everyone enjoyed very much the delicious refreshments served by the hostess.

The Homemakers Class of the Clanton Baptist Church will hold their regular monthly meeting Friday afternoon at three o'clock, at the home of Mrs. J. Lee Smith. All members are urged to attend.

The Thimble Club met last Thursday at the home of Mrs. Zimmerman. All the members were present except one and they had several visitors. This was a spend-the-day and two quilts were completed. Everyone had a very enjoyable day and a most delicious lunch was served by the hostess. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Clyde Cleckler.

The R. A. boys will meet Friday with Herbert Newell, at four o'clock. This is program meeting and the boys are planning to install their new members. If you have met with us before be sure and come to this meeting and if you haven't and are of R. A. age (9 to 16) we will be glad to have you come.

Mrs. George Jester is in Montgomery with her mother. The mother is some better and we hope will soon be well.

Mr. and Mrs. John T. Martin of Centerville visited Mr. and Mrs. Russell Sutley last week.

Mrs. P. M. Moore is returning home this week after a very nice visit in Chattanooga, Tenn.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hubert, Jr., of Chattanooga were guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Moore this week.

Misses Mae Anniece Polk, Katherine Foss, Miss Jones, one of the teachers at Thorsby Institute, Wilbur Prince and James Daniels went to Tuscaloosa last Saturday to the basketball tournament.

Miss Myrtle Miller is visiting Mrs. J. W. McGinnis.

Mr W. A. Willis and her son, William Arthur, Jr., visited in Pensacola Bay and Mobile last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Nivens, Miss Mabel Harris, Julian Evans and Durwood Robinson visited Bellingrath Gardens last week end.

It is with deepest regret that we hear that one of Clanton's grandest persons is leaving us to return to her home in Kentucky. Miss Alice Powell, one of our young peoples' leaders and a very sincere Chrstian. We will all Miss her and will be looking forward to seeing her again.

Dr. Ezell is spending this week in Dallas, Texas, continuing his Evangelistic work.

We 're glad to report that many who have been sick with the flu are better now and we sincerely hope everyone will soon be well again.

Due to death in the family Mrs. Ann Thacker will be in Birmingham with her daughter, Mrs. Edward Bialas until Saturday.

Mrs. M. E. Slaughter and little son, William Mayfield, of Birmingham, are spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. T. M. Dennis.

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Roper of Louisville, Kentucky, visited friends and relatives in Clanton last week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Evans Downs and family of Brmingham visited relatives here last week end.

Mrs. Hugh Jones had Miss Alice Powell as her luncheon guest last Monday.

Mrs. Reid Mullins was hostess to Circle Six of the Clanton Baptist W. M.U. on Monday afternoon, March 13.

An interesting devotional was given by Mrs. J. W. Fant who used for her scripture reading the twelfth chapter of First Corinthians, emphasizing the importance of individual responsibility and performance in achieving an effective Circle as a unit.

Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

Mrs. Reid Mullins, social chairman, reported that refreshments had been served to the Jr. G. A.'s and R.A.'s at their January and February meetings, resulting in increased attendance at all meetings.

Due to the unusually small attendance it was decided to postpone the study of chapters three and four of the Mission Study book "Go Forward" until the next meeting ,at which time the Circle will enjoy a "spend-the-day" with Mrs. J. Lee Smith, Circle Chairman, as hostess. An intensive effort will be made to have all Circle members present at this meeting, which will be a combined Mission study and business meeting.

After dismissal with prayer the hostess served refreshments to the following: Mrs. J. Lee Smith, Mrs. A. D. Martin, Mrs. Dewey Eubanks, Mrs. J. A. Jones, Mrs. J. W. Fant.

Little Sarah Madge, Mrs. Mullins' dainty little daughter, assisted her mother with the serving.

"A Wedding Farce" Delights Large Audience

A crowded house greeted "A Wedding Farce" in the high school auditorium Friday evening.

This Womanless Wedding was sponsored by the Future Farmers of America, and was a distinct hit from start to finish. The scene of the wedding was before a beautifully improvised altar, elaborately decorated as if for a real wedding with a white and green motif being carried out.

Arnold White presented the "distinguished guests" at the wedding to the audience. As the guests began to arrive the strains of the wedding music were heard as Mrs. Bertie Johnson, in an elaborate white silk evening gown, seated herself at the piano. The musical program included a violin solo by Miss Evelyn, impersonated by Henry Jefferies and songs by Kate Smith, Erdis Atkinson.

Shirley Temple, impersonated by Mr. Mims; Miss Charline Littlejohn as Charles Littlejohn, sang "Until." Miss Esonia Maddox as Eason Maddox, gave a piano solo.

Mrs. Bertie Johnson was accompanist for the entire program.

The first distinguished guests to arrive were Governor and Mrs. Frank Dixon, impersonated by Clyde Sims and Irby McNeil. Governor Graves, by Julius Simmons; Mrs. Garves by Lamar Carroll; Justice and Mrs. Hugo Black, Murray Glass and Taft Lewis.

John Davis as Jeanette McDonald; Lily Pons, Bruce Wheatley; Gene Autry, J.C. Anderson; Shirley Temple, Mr. Mims; Deanna Durbin, Frank Rogers.

Members of the two families next appeared. Mrs. Henry Wheathearts, uncle of the bride, Zane Turner; Mrs. Wheathearts, aunt of the bride, C. C. Conway; Sis Eatzer Oats, baby sister of the bride, Curtis Bean; Pappy Rock 'n Rye, grandfather of the bride, Lester Pate; Granny Rye, grandmother of the bride, James Littlejohn; Mrs. Knowshis Oats, mother of the bride, U. S. Moore; Mr. Turnip Green, Sam Burkhalter, a soloist, rendered "I Love You Truly."

Each was beautifully attired in evening dress of different colors. As the strains of the wedding march rang out the bridesmaids entered from opposite aisles and took their places at the altar. They were groomed in evening dresses of varied styles and colors and each carried a colonial bouquet of spring flowers.

Fred Sims; A. A. Conway, J. O. Cobb, Richard Perkins, Stanley McNeil and Jack Lenoir. Next came the maid of honor, Fred Smith, gowned in white lace. The groomsmen came next—S.Y. Dorminey, Jas. C. May, Howard Maddox, Chas. E. Robinson, Archie White. They were followed by the ring-bearer, Shuky String Bean, Willie Smith, in short white suit carrying the ring on a beautifully decorated pillow.

The flower girls came in. They were Rass Langston, Dr. Kemp, Willard Cost and Wess White, who wore short pink and blue silk and net dresses, and scattered petals from diminuetive baskets.

The bride, Russell Peterson as Tiny Oats, entered on the arm of her father, Charles Shaw. The blushing bride wore the traditional white lace and net with long veil and carried arm bouquet of white spring flowers.

Louie Duffy, the groom, entered with his best man, Arch Wells. They were met at the altar by Rev. Adam Turnipseed, official splicer, Roy Satterwhite, who performed the lengthy ring ceremony. The ushers were Arnold White, James Lloyd Bean, Leslie Glass. The audience agreed that each part was well taken and the entertainment provided an evening of fun for all and added a good sum to the treasury of the F.F.A.

Beautiful Ave Maria Grotto

One of the beauty spots of Alabama is St. Bernard College. Closely linked with its distinctive educational advantages, is the Ave Maria Grotto.

The Grotto is built on a steep slope of hillside in front of the college, covering three acres of ground, and extends from the new highway which the state has but recently completed above, to the Eight-mile Creek below. The Grotto proper occupies the center of the hill, having a 450-foot front.

In 1932, Abbot Bernard Menges, O.S.B., requested four of his Monks to draw plans for a Shrine. Those of Father Patrick O'Neill, O.S.B. were chosen, and he was asked to see the work to completion. For two years he worked with a group of laborers, transforming the wild spot into a beautiful park. All the rough work of terracing, retaining walls, paths, seats, the arching of the Grotto itself, even to the landscaping and planting of 20,000 shrubs, was done under his direction, in order to prepare a suitable atmosphere and setting for the artistic miniatures of Brother Joseph Zoettl, O.S.B. There would be no Grotto were it not for the decided genius of Brother Joseph. In fact, the idea of the Ave Maria Grotto was born only after years of public admiration of his first efforts in concrete miniatures, popularly known as "Little Jerusalem."

While Father Patrick and his workmen were throwing up the foundations for his work, Brother Joseph was looking it over, planning his groupings and working overtime at new miniatures.

Abbot Bernard died in June, 1933, and the work he commenced is kept as a memorial to his name. Abbott Ambrose Reger, O.S.B., succeeded him, continuing the work on the Grotto. Two years after its planning, the Grotto was dedicated amid a pageant of color and song by Most Reverend Bishop Toolen of Mobile. Since then, Brother Joseph has been constantly adding miniatures in the form of Wayside Shrines and unique conceptions.

The Grotto proper may be divided into five groups:

(1) In the center, the Grotto itself, measuring 27 feet in height, depth and width. High up in the Grotto is a six-foot statue of Our Lady with the Christ Child. This statue is of Ravacionne marble and weighs a ton. Below this are smaller statues of St. Benedictine Order of Religious dating from the beginning of the sixth century, and his twin sister, St. Scholastica. At the base is the altar, the marble coming from Gantt's Quarry, Ala. Services are held there, weather permitting.

(2) To the right of the Grotto are the Palestinian miniatures—a gorgeous grouping of over 50 buildings.

(3) To the right of this is Brother Joseph's first effort—"Little Jerusalem"—moved here from its former site. Here we also find the Grotto of St. Joseph.

(4) To the left of the main Grotto are the Italian miniatures.

(5) Left of these, we find some very handsome modern Shrines, that of the Little Flower claiming exquisite pre-eminence.

To this Shrine come thousands of visitors, not only for sightseeing, but for prayer. An approved prayer, which may be had for the asking at the Grotto-shop at the entrance, has been composed by Father Abbot.

Regular Army Reserve Vacancies

Major General D. Embick, Commanding the Fourth Corps Area which comprises the eight Southeastern States, announces vacancies in the Regular Army Reserve for former Regular Army Soldiers who are under 36 years of age.

Young men with or without prior service may now enlist in the Army and be stationed near their homes. Vacancies exist at the following posts:

Fort Benning, Georgia, Fort Screven, Georgia, Fort Oglethorpe, Georgia, Fort McClellan, Alabama, Fort Moultrie, South Carolina, Fort Bragg, North Carolina.

An enlistment in the Army affords excellent opportunities for young men to learn a useful trade and to prepare themselves to become better citizens after leaving the Army.

All interested in either the Regular Army or the Regular Army Reserve should communicate with the Commanding Geneal, Fourth Corps Area, Atlanta, Georgia, and detailed information will be furnished.

Men Who Make The C.C.C.

The men who are making the Corps are a great deal like the persons described in this article. The name may be Taylor, Hughes, Johnson, Smith, or any good family name. The person can be large of stature or barely able to meet the physical requirements, he may be a high school graduate or barely able to read and write.

When enrolling the officials and the examining officers were impressed by his quiet and dignified approach. On arriving at camp he followed the first sergeant's instructions and made no objections to his place in the barracks or the mates surrounding him.

Early in the game he learned to clean up in the quarters and make his bunk. Then as he already knew personal hygiene, being clean and neat was only second nature.

In the mess hall his conduct was the same as at home. He ate quietly and did not snatch and grab food, "cussing" the K.P.s and cooks.

At work formation he was attentive to the roll call and proceeded to the trucks as directed. On the trucks his conduct was good and the leaders were not reporting him every day

On the work project he found plenty to occupy his mind in the work. He was careful to work safe and not to injure his fellow enrollees or himself. He early grasped the significance of practical soil conservation.

In the class room he endeavored to better himself mentally and did not leave it all to the instructor.

In short he is the man that the Army, Using Service and Educational Personnel regret to see go. However he has made many friends who are very anxious to help him make good. He is the man that makes the Corps.

Rev. U. L. Higgins of Tallassee will hold his regular services at the Baptist Church Sunday morning and evening. Everybody is cordially invited.

IN MEMORY OF MRS. AUKLEE BAKER

Over in the graveyard,
Not far away,
Lies the one we loved so dearly
In her cold and silent grave.
We miss her, oh, we miss her,
For our Savior called her away,
But we are praying to meet her,
In the better world some day.
We know that she is visiting,
In the paradise above.
We hope some day to meet her,
In joy. peace and love.

To Query Women All Over South

Touring Reporters have now asked over 1,200 women and girls of leading Southern Cities the now famous question: "Were you helped by CARDUI?"

Averaging all replies so far shows that 93 out of every 100 users questioned declared CARDUI benefitted them!

Users by thousands are eager to tell how CARDUI has given them appetite; helped them gain strength; has thus relieved them of the symptoms of functional dysmenorrhea due to malnutrition. Many also say that, when symptoms indicate the need, CARDUI in larger doses helps "at the time" to soothe pain.

Maynards Chapel

Saturday night and Sunday were our regular preaching dates. A small crowd attended Saturday night but a large crowd was present Sunday morning. There were forty-five Sunday school members present—an increase over last Sunday. There were lots of parents and older people out for church. We do wish we could get more parents out to B.Y.P.U. It isn't only for young people, but for older folks as well.

There will be a revival campaign here next Saturday night. An old time prayer meeting is expected. All praying people, old and youg, come with a helping hand. We need you and you need us, and we all need Christ.

Rev. Robert Cost spent Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. Major Bolton and Sunday guest of Mr. Almond Brewer.

Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Maynard had as their Sunday dinner guests Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Maynard of Birmingham, Mr and Mrs. A. B. Bradley of Alabaster and Miss Marie Barrett.

Mr. and Mrs. Olen Glass spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Compton.

Mr. Charley Porter and family of Oak Hill spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Major Bolton.

Lurline Bolton had Margaret Glass as her guest Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Steve Pate had dinner with Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Barrett Sunday.

Misses Essie Loyd and Odell Robinson spent Sunday with Mrs. Mamie Atkinson.

Mr. Claud Collins of Birmingham spent the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Collins.

Sterling Robinson had dinner with Mr. Harold Martin Sunday.

Richard Williams visited Junior Robinson over the week end.

Everyone remember to come to prayer meeting Saturday night. Sunday School and B.Y.P.U. at seven o'clock.

TOURNAMENT

Williams.

Although every member of the team did outstanding playing, the individual star of the tournament for Clanton was Earl Melton. He was placed on the Coaches All-State Team as guard. It was Melton's shot in the Ramsay game that decided the winner, and his two ringers in the final minutes of the McGill game, followed by one by Thornton, which broke the tie of 21-21.

A wire from Coach Wallace Wade of Duke University in Durham, N. C., extended the Clanton group an invitation to play in a tournament there to determine the Southeastern Championship. A clause in the State Association rules, prohibits post-season games, however, and the members of the team voted to decline the invitation.

Finals

Clanton (27)—Melton (13) and Armstrong (8), forwards: G. Chambers (3), center; Johnson and Thornton (4), guards.

McGill (23) — Weinacher (9) and Smitherman (7), forwards; P. Balthrop, center; Milton (2) and S. Balthrop (7), guards. Substitutes, Cummings (4).

Semi-Finals

Clanton (24)—Melton (9) and Armstrong (4), forwards; J. Chambers, center; Johnson (1) and Thornton (2), guards. Sub., G. Chambers (8).

Ramsay (23)—Higgenbotham (1) and Bearden (2), forwards; R. Newlett, center; Webb (2), and Fleming (18), guards. Subs., Jones, Edgar, McDavid. (Overtime).

W. O. W. HOLDS MEETING

The regular meeting of Clanton Camp No. 322 was held Monday night, March 13, with a large number of members present. The State manager, J. N. Cochran, gave a very nice address on Woodcraft.

The Woodmen of Alabama are very fortunate to have Sovereign Cochran as State manager.

A campaign has been launched for the months of March and April in honor of the President of the order, We hope to be on the honor roll in this present campaign, and with the assistance of our newly acquired field man, Sovereign L. C. Ross, who will be on the Field at all times, and Sovereign E. N. Shanks of Maplesville, we believe we can go over the top. For further information communicate with one of the above field men.

—Paul Holley.

Arthur, Jr. Johnson, son of Mrs. Arthur Johnson, spent the week end in Clanton.

Church School, 9:45 A.M. each Sunday, L. J. Stewart, General Superintendent.

Morning worship, 11:00 A.M. Sermon by the pastor.

Young peoples' service, 6:15 P.M. Sermon by the pastor.

Children's service, Friday P.M. at 4:00 o'clock at the Church.

The Young Peoples's services are entitled to special mention. The services are good and the attendance is growing splendidly. We believe that great work is beginning to be done by the youth of our Church.

Our Pastor and the Church in general is requesting that all persons interested in the growth of the Kingdom of God spent much time in earnest prayer that the revival beginning at the Methodist Church Sunday, April 2, will be a success from God's viewpoint.

We urge everyone to worship with us at all our services.

WHAT WE DON'T KNOW ABOUT COCOANUTS

Seeing the bunch of cocoanuts in Rockett's window makes us realize how little we really known about cocoanuts.

The above mentioned bunch of cocoanuts was brought from the Keys of Florida, and it consists of nine cocoanuts, weighing 54 pounds, which is considered, generally, a small bunch. The average bunch contains from 12 to 16 cocoanuts and weighs from ninety-five to one hundred pounds.

These cocoanuts swing from the trees a distance 30 to 90 feet above the ground. (Imagine being hit by one). The average yield is 100 cocoanuts a tree per year, however, one tree in this 1000-tree farm has 300 cocoanuts on it.

The cocoanut plant is sprouted from the Cocoanut after being placed in a pan of water. It sprouts very much like a sweet potato plant does. After being set out, it bears after five years. All cocoanut trees lean toward the north wind for some unaccountable reason. The pulp and the hull of the nut is more valuable than the nut itself, as the pulp and hull can be used extensively to make rope.

The bunch of cocoanuts can be seen in Rocket's Dry Goods Store window.

The young people of Clanton are glad to have Miss Thelma White back with them. She has finished high scool, is an accomplished musician, and has completed a business course.

Fishing Time—

This warm sunshine we're enjoying t present is bringing forth the fishng fever and many of the boys around own have fallen victims to this di- ease so prevalent this time of the ear. Was looking at the display of ishing tackle and everything that goes ith it, in the Murray-Bell show win- ow te other afternoon and had o forcefully suppress the urge to sneak way for a few hours' trolling on the ack-water or other places where tall ales have originated about big catches.

n The Market, Mr. Murrah?—

Haven't talked to Deputy George Murrah since the News' story about is mule riding tactics in capturing prohibition law violator, carried last week, but Sheriff W. G. Culp says is office has received several visits rom mule-owners wanting to sell Mr. Murrah a good animal for use in his work. We haven't heard whether or ot he has purchased a mount, but we've certainly got to hand it to him—e "gets his man" on a borrowed mule, ust like the Royal Northwest Mounted Police of Canada.

"Centre—or Center?"

A picture and story in the past Sunday issue of the Birmingham News ells of the controversy that has been waged regarding the spelling of the ame of the town Centre, or Center, Alabama. It appears that City officials f that town are staunch in their contention that the correct way to spell he word is "Centre", and have placed he spelling so on their water tank p where everybody can see. Our friend im Oakley, editor of the Centreville Press, at Centreville, has also had some rouble in convincing the people of Alabama that this town should be pelled "Centreville" instead of "Center- ille." Regardless of the way it's spell- d, nobody has yet denied that either way will produce the same pronouncia- ion.

Returned—

Mayor Jones tells us that within a ew days after the News carried an rticle about the theft of the rubber heels from the pumping engine used n securing water from Blacksnake Creek for the City's supply, a youth rought them to his home. Mr. Jones s convinced that advertising pays when t comes to STOLEN property being eturned.

mportant Election—

Next week we will devote this column o facts and figures about a very im- ortant election coming before the ualified voters of our county on April 1. We speak of the three mill tax evy election. This three mill tax was evied on property twenty years ago nd expires on October first of this ear. Inasmuch as this tax is very im- ortant for the operation of our schools e believe that every voter should familiarize himself or herself with the acts in the case. This is not a new ax but a renewal of the one levied wenty years ago, which requires a majority vote in favor of renewal be- ore it can be applied. The information e will endeavor to pass on to you ext week, in case you are not familiar with this question, will be based n records at the office of the County Board of Education.

lowing Time—

Another thing these spring days are ringing forth is plow tools and old eck. It's time the soil was being turned and one can see farmers coming nto town daily buying new plow points, making arrangements for fertilizer, etc. A drive of the county will convince you that spring is almost here and that Chilton County's chief occupation will soon be in full swing.

Easter Seals—

If you are privileged to attend your Church on Easter morning, keep in mind that there are many in our county who are not able to attend. There are many crippled children who are deserving of the right to walk, and your purchase of Easter seals and hearty support of this cause is earnestly solicited by those in charge of the campaign in this county.

EASTER SEAL SALE IS MAKING PROGRESS

LOCAL COMMITTEE IN CHARGE OF DRIVE URGE PEOPLE TO SUPPORT WORTHY CAUSE

The Committee in charge of the local Easter Seal Sale Campaign has announced that the drive in this county is meeting with good response from the citizens. Most active in this drive is the school children of the county, who are selling the seals distributed to them by the County Board of Education, headquarters for the drive, of which Superintendent Rascoe Maddox is County Committee Chairman.

This campaign is being conducted by the Alabama Crippled Children Society, and for every dollar raised in this county the State and Federal Government will match with funds to carry on the work of aiding unfortunates in their efforts to lead a normal life.

The Chilton County Committee, composed of Supt. Rascoe Maddox, chairman, Dr. S. D. Sturkie, Miss Nolan Meroney and Mrs. Sophia Jones, ask that those wishing seals and have not been contacted, to call by the Board of Education office, County Health office or the County Health office and secure the number desired. They are one cent each.

Missionary Circle Will Sponsor Beauty Contest

Announcement has been made that the Clara Mullins Missionary Circle of the Clanton Methodist Church will sponsor a Beauty Show at the City Hall auditorium on Friday, March 24, at 8:00 o'clock P.M.

Winners in the contest will compete in the State and National contests to be held at a future date, it was announced.. A junior king and queen contest for children between the ages of two and eight years will also be held at the performance. The winner of this will receive a silver loving cup.

Winners of this beauty and amateur contests will receive a trip to the State tests will compete in the National contest in Miami, Fla., at a future date, it was announced.

SCOUT PROGRAM TO BE RENDERED AT KIWANIS

An interesting program on Scouting has been arranged for the gathering of the Clanton Kiwanis Club at the Thomason Hotel tonight. The program is in line with the Club's aim of encouraging Scout work in the county during the coming year.

Last Thursday night the Club had as its guests members of the Chilton County High School basketball team, winners of the State Championship at the recent tournament in Selma. Trophies won by these boys were displayed and high tribute was paid to members of the team by the Club.

Ladies Missionary Society Of Methodist Church Beautify Basement Of Building

The ladies of the Missionary Society of the Clanton Methodist Church are receiving many compliments upon the excellent results they have achieved in re-decorating the basement of the church. In some instances wasted storage space has been turned into cheerful Sunday School classrooms.

The lower auditorium which will eventually be used for Sunday School assembly, has been completely done over. Soft, creamy walls, striped in two shades give light while rich dark red floors, protected by shellac, give the note of warmth needed.

Probably the most marked results have been obtained in the kitchen and dning room. A row of large roomy cabinets painted cream with red striping, line the walls of the kitchen, while a sink adds much to the convenience of this very necessary part of a well organized church.

The dining room is a very cozy, restful room with its cream colored walls and attractive green and cream draperies.

Altogether, the ladies have achieved a most pleasing effect with a small expenditure of money. Those who planned and executed the work feel that the results obtained are well worth the time and effort expended.

Large Crowd Attends Farmers Meeting

A large crowd of farmers of the County and other interested persons attended the county-wide mass meeting held last Saturday afternoon at the courthouse in Clanton.

The general purpose of this meeting, according to a call sent out by Chairman B. L. Cobb, was to discuss the present set-up in this county of the farm program. Dissatisfaction has been voiced among the farmers on this question, and the meeting was called for last Saturday afternoon.

Senator Karl Harrison and Representative Percy Pitts were persent and stated that they were willing to sponsor legislation that would meet with the approval of the majority of the people. The following resolution was drawn up at the meeting:

"Be it resolved by the farmers of Chilton County that our Representative and Senator be called upon to introduce and carry through the Legislature of Alabama a Bill repealing a local bill requiring the Commissioners Court of Chilton County to appropriate $4300.00 to carry on our County Agency work, and be it further resolved that our Representative and Senator take the necessary steps to place our County Agent's office and its personnel under the supervision and control of our Commissioners Court."

The resolution was signed by Gresham Smith.

TWO IN CITY COURT FACE CHARGES OF DRUNKENNESS

Arraigned in Mayors Court last Monday morning, two persons were charged with public drunkenness. One was fined eight twenty-five including cost, and the other was given six days labor on the City streets.

CLANTON METHODIST CHURCH IN MARKET FOR USED PIANOS

The Clanton Methodist Church is in the market for two good used pianos, according to an announcement given the News this week by a leader in the Church. If anybody has a piano they would like to sell, they are asked to see one of the following: L. J. Stewart, Omar Reynolds, or Burton Mullins..

FUNERAL HELD SATURDAY FOR AGED COUNTY RESIDENT

Funeral services were held last Saturady morning at 11:00 o'clock for Elijah Nickolas Minor, age 80, well known resident of the Refuge community, who died at his home Friday morning. Services were conducted by the Rev. M. Lockhart, with J. Mell Martin & Sons in charge of burial, in the nearby cemetery.

He is survived by his widow; two sons, John and Nathan Minor; five daughters, Mrs. Bud Mims, Mrs. Callie Cleckler, Mrs. J. W. Driver, Mrs. Lillie Cleckler and Mrs. Evie Baker.

EIGHT ARRESTS DURING PAST WEEK SHOWS A DECLINE

The Sheriff's Committment Book at the Courthouse shows that there were eight arrests on the following carges during the week of March 13-20:

Burglary and grand larceny, 1; Unlawfully presenting firearms, 1; Carrying concealed pistol, 1; V.P.L., 1; Public drunkenness, 4.

Seniors Will Present 'A Ready-Made Family'

The Senior Class of the Chilton County High School has selected "A Ready-Made Family," a three-act comedy full of laughs and thrills, for their play, which will be presented at the City Hall auditorium for two presentations—April 13 and 14.

A statment from the members of the class is as follows: "You'll miss something if you fail to see Aileen Popwell as one of those mean, pestering brats—always playing practical jokes, like putting pins in dear step-father's chair; and Nell Rockett, who pretends she is crazy about her step-father and almost scares him to death with her cunning baby talk."

The following cast has been selected for the presentation:

Agnes Martyn, a widow, Mildred Maddox; Bob, her son, Virgil Newton; Marilee, her older daughter, Nell Rockett; Gracie, her youngest child, Aileen Popwell; Miss Lydia, her sister-in-law, Nell Jones; Henry Turner, a widower, L. P. Vines; Doris, his daughter, Myrtle Pitts; Sammie, his son, Morris Taylor; Byonia the Martyn's darky cook, Olive Rainer Elmore; Nicodemus, the Martyn's colored handy man, Ed Goodgame. Annie Pearl Honeycutt is prompter and Burnace Powell is stage manager.

There will be two performances at eight o'clock on Thursday, April 13, and Friday, April 14. Admission will be fifteen and twenty-five cents with everybody invited to attend.

Mesdames Oscar A. Davis, J. A. Gowan, J. P. Hayes, W. H. Kliner, T. L. Williams spent three days of last week in Florence, Alabama at the State WM.U. Convention.

400,000-Gallon Water Tank Being Filled

City officials announced the early part of this week that the recently completed 400,000-gallon raw water storage tank is being filled with water this week from Yellowleaf Creek. The new pumping station and water line has recently been completed, and the purpose of filling the tank this week will be to test it for possible leaks.

It was also announced that use of the emergency pipe line to Blacksnake Creek has been discontinued, as there is a sufficient supply of water in the old wells to last until the new filtering plant is completed, and the entire new system is ready for use. Mayor C. Fenn Jones stated that he expected the work on the large filtering plant to be finished by June first.

In the meantime a shipment of two car loads of sanitary sewer pipe was received this week and the work of replacing the old pipes and extending the network is in progress.

Work on the street paving project has been resumed, and will continue at a rapid pace, officials have announced.

M. B. ARANT PASSED AWAY LAST FRIDAY

FORMER CLANTON JEWELER DIED IN BIRMINGHAM HOSPITAL

Miles Benjamin Arant, age 55, for several years a prominent jeweler of Clanton, died in a Birmingham hosital last Friday morning following an illness of several week's duration.

Funeral services were held last Saturday afternoon at two o'clock from the Clanton Baptist Church with the Rev. Oscar Davis in charge. Interment was in the Clanton cemetery with J. Mell Martin & Sons in charge.

Pallbearers were Tom Kemp, H. T. Pipes, T. J. Littlejohn, M. A. Gore, R. R. Sutley, John Gray.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Agnes Arant, Birmingham; one son, Ellis, of Bessemer; one daughter, Mrs. Bill Murphy of Lay Dam; one brother, A. C. Arant of Calera; five sisters, Mrs. J. L. Billingsley, Clanton; Mrs. A. H. Boyer, Mrs Jim Herring, Deatsville; Mrs. T. J. Wadsworth, Eclectic; Mrs. J. H. Shields, Louisiana; three grandchildren and four step-children.

Mr. Arant had resided in Birmingham several months prior to his death. His son, Earnest Arant, who succeeded him in the jeweler business in Clanton, died some time ago.

Mt Pleasant Wins Jr. High Tourney

Mt. Pleasant Jr. High School won the County Junior High Basketball Tournament held at the Chilton County High School gymn last Friday and Saturday.

Mt. Pleasant, which has long been one of the strongest junior high teams in the County, took the deciding game from Collins Chapel on Saturday night, by a safe margin. Three members of the Chilton County High School State Championship team have played with the Mt. Pleasant team in the past.

VERBENA CITIZENS FAVOR DUBOSE AS SCHOOL PRINCIPAL

A large group of Verbena citizens appeared before a meeting of the Chilton County Board of Education last Tuesday morning to voice their approval of Prof. W. C. DuBose as principal of the Verbena Grammar School.

CROWDS HEAR FIRST SERMONS OF CAMPAIGN

BAPTIST LOYALTY DRIVE GETS OFF TO GOOD START SUNDAY; WILL LAST TEN WEEKS

A beautiful Sunday morning greeted the opening of the Clanton Baptist Church's Loyalty and Evangelistic Campaign, and large crowds attended the morning and evening services at the Church last Sunday.

This campaign will continue for ten weeks, according to the Rev. Oscar A. Davis, pastor, coming to a close on May 28th. The primary purpose of this campaign has been set out by Pastor Davis as follows:

(1) Regular church attendance; (2) Daily Bible reading, and (3) Earnest prayer each day for the Holy Spirit's guidance.

The general subject for the morning messages will be "Christ In Human Life," while the general subject for the evening sermons will be "Christianity In The Home." Rev. Davis' opening sermons last Sunday morning and evening were "The Christ of All Nations" and "Training For Love And Courtship."

Attractive calendars have been distributed by church workers, which bears the sermon subjects for each Sunday, and calendars for each month included in the campaign. These church workers are contacting each non-attending member, and the entire membership of the Church has been divided into sev-

Truck Plunges Into Creek Near Here

A pick-up truck driven by James Smith left the highway on the curve near Cordro Mill, about four miles south of Clanton, last Friday morning and landed in a nearby creek. The truck was submerged except a small part of the top of the cab, young Smith stated. He and another occupant of the truck, Edgar Franklin, succeeded in crawling out of the vehicle, without serious injury.

Smith stated that something went wrong with the steering apparatus of the truck, causing it to catapult into the creek. The truck was damaged considerably but about the most painful injury either of the men received was a good soaking in the not too warm creek water.

CIVIL JURY COURT IN SESSION AT COURTHOUSE THIS WEEK

A session of civil court is in session this week and the hearing of these cases was expected to consume the greater part of this week.

Pleas of guilt cases will be called in Circuit Court Saturday of this week—March 25th.

COOKING AND REFRIGERATION DEMONSTRATION AT BIG FOUR

The Big Four Hardware of this City has announced that Miss Edith Hitchcock, Home Economist of the Alabama Power Company will be at their store all day Tuesday, March 28, and will give a cooking demonstartion on the latest model Frigidaire Electric stove, and will also demonstrate the newest type electric refrigerator.

Ladies and men are being extended an invitation to attend the demonstration and favors will be extended those attending, according to Messrs. Lester and Amon Jones, who stated this week that a most interesting program has been arranged for the day. A large advertisement in this issue of the News tells all about this interesting affair.

Mitchell Dam Basketball Team And Invited Guests Enjoy Banquet Last Tuesday Night

One of the most enjoyable social occasions of recent date was a banquet given by members of the Mitchell Dam Baskeball team and their guests at the Nell's Eat Shoppe last Tuesday night at 6:30.

The banquet, presided over by J. L. Hollis, Superintendent of Mitchell Dam, as toastmaster, climaxed a season of games by this team, of which they are rightfully proud. Mr. Hollis, known over the county as an ardent lover of clean sports, in his efficient manner, paid a glowing tribute to members of the team and their manager, A. B. Stanley, as possessing as many sporting qualities which go to make up a real team, of any group to be found in the State. Organized four or five years ago, the team has gained a reputation of clean sportsmanship to be envied.

A bounteous feast was prepared in the usual efficient Nell's Eat Shoppe style, consisting of fried chicken and all hat goes with it. From beginning to end the gathering was one of interest and enjoyment for members of the team, men guests, their wives and lady friends. Mr. Hollis expressed his belief that this team had been an example of clean sportsmansip for high school teams over the county.

This enjoyable affair was arranged by Mr. Stanley, who cited some facts about the team's record during the season just closed. Twenty-eight games have been played; fourteen were won and this record may be considered good due to the fact that they have played four professional teams, and other opponents were rated as the state's strongest teams.

Those attending this affair were as follows: Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Stanley, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mayfield, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Newton, Mr. and Mrs. J.T. Cobb, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Ellison, Mr. and Mrs. Bonnie Hand, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Mims, Dutch Baker Miss Bernice Sharp; Dock Baker (Captain), Miss Ruth Esco; Gabby Tiffin, Miss Loretta Vines; Cecil Jones, Miss Mary Connatser; and Mr. Hollis, toastmaster

CORRECTION!

Due to circumstances over which we have no control, the Formal Opening of the City Grocery, advertised on page 7, in this issue of Chilton County News, has been postponed until March 31 and April 1. The demonstrations planned for these days have also been moved up until Formal Opening Days. However, the bargain prices advertised will prevail.

PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS

Following are the Constitutional Amendments Governor Dixon proposes to submit to the voters of Alabama for acceptance or rejection at an election to be held ninety days after final adjournment of the Special Session of the Legislature which convened March 16th.

1. Creation of a Board of Apportionment composed of the Governor, secretary of State, attorney general, to reapportion legislative representation according to population after every decennial census if the Legislature refuses to discharge its constitutional duty. If the board should fail likewise, any citizen can mandamus the board.

2. Restoring voting rights of those in arrears on poll taxes if the delinquent pays two years back tax, nullifying the present cumulative system.

3. Legislative sessions every two years—instead of four—in order to effect a major savings, facilitate budget-making. This would also hike the pay of legislators to $10 a day with a 10 cent mileage allowance coming and going to the session.

4. County option in the use of voting machines.

5. Creation of a State Board of Pardon and Parole to administer a modern scientific parole system with the aim of relieving "inhuman, impossible over-crowding," cut the 7,300 prison population 25 per cent, circumvent the necessity of building new prisons—and "to bring violent death to the parole racket."

6. Opening new avenues of investment for trust funds.

7. Authority for judges to dispense with grand jury action when a prisoner—charged with felonies not involving capital offenses—desires to plead guilty. Jail cells, Gov. Dixon remarked, are cluttered with prisoners who wish to plead guilty and begin their stretches immediately, but whose confinement period is increased because of the slow processes of the law.

REMOVAL OF FEDERAL OIL TAX SEEN AS BUSINESS AID

Removal of the Federal tax on lubricating oil has been suggested by D. H. Bohler, Chairman, of the Alabama Petroleum Industries Committee, as a direct aid to business recovery and a help to the motorist.

"The Federal Lubricating Oil Tax, about one-half of the cost of which is borne by business and industry, should be removed to give direct aid to business recovery," said Mr. Bohler. "This levy needlessly increases the cost of lubricants used in industry and transportation, and penalizes the operation of every machine used in industry. Also, it further penalizes the motorists, who are already paying gasoline taxes, registration fees, and other levies for the privilege of operating their motor vehicles.

"The Federal Lubricating Oil Tax is more productive of trouble than of revenue. It is difficult and expensive to administer and to collect, and compliance with the tax law means both nuisance and cost to industry and to consumer.

"Historically, this nuisance tax was levied years ago during a Federal 'emergency' and logically should have been classed with similar levies discontinued by the Revenue Act of 1938. Congress would have the appreciation of many industries and their customers were this levy not re-enacted."

"Hurricane Gives Thousands Jobs. New England Still Mopping Up As Result Of Last September's Storm."—Headline in Daily Paper. Soon we may expect to hear the politicians declaring themselves in favor of more, bigger and better hurricanes, because they are good for the country.

REAPPORTIONMENT PROPOSAL

Of all the issues Alabamians have faced in recent years, the clearest and the simplest is reapportionment.

It is easy to debate the question indefinitely, but in the final analysis there is only one fundamental issue. Is, or is not, Alabama going to be governed under a system of democratic, representative government in keeping with the principles of majority rule?

Whether Jefferson, Montgomery and Mobile Counties, whether the Black Belt, the Wiregrass, the Coast or the Tennessee Valley is going to have more or less "power" is beside the point.

What does matter is whether the citizens of this state, regardless of where they may live, are going to have an equal voice in government.

That is the issue which opponents of reapportionment and those who would thwart the explicit purpose of the constition must face inevitably. They must face it either as believers in the fundamental principles of democracy, or as autocrats who insist upon holding to power which is not justly theirs.—Birmingham News.

THE BREWERS LEND A HAND

Every Alabamian, whether an advocate or an opponent of prohibition, will heartily applaud the Brewers Industrial Foundation for its resolution to tighten its grip upon its own business in Alabama and clean up the rotten spots wherever they may be found.

David E. Dunn, former administrator of the ABC board, has been appointed director of the foundation for Alabama. He will be in control of the beer business in a self-regulatory campaign designed to "clean up or close up" scattered offenders.

Mr. Dunn will represent the leading brewing industries. His salary will be paid by a fund provided by them jointly. His duty will be to cooperate with public officials in putting down dealers in beer who do not track the law governing the sale of alcoholic beverages. Brewers will not sell beer to dealers who violate the spirit and letter of the law. The beer business will be cleaned up and Mr. Dunn has been appointed to do it.

Mr. Dunn is quite capable of discharging this high responsibility. He understands the liquor business from the standpoint of a citizen and law-enforcer. He will be hard to fool. Backed by the Brewers' Foundation on the one hand and the ABC Board on the other he should quickly become a powerful factor for civilized living in Alabama. It is a good appointment.

The Advertiser believes that upon the whole the people of Alabama are very well pleased with the present liquor control system. As a rule liquor is sold in an orderly, decent manner. The rules are observed and the behavior of drinkers has undoubtedly improved since legislation. But it is true that there are abuses that have been too long tolerated. Here and there over Alabama are joints licensed to sell beer that are chiseling—they are also bootlegging whiskey. The ABC bord has been deeply provoked by such joints and is resolved to clean them out. The beer industry realizes that it can play a helpful part in cleaning them out by cooperating with public officials. It is determined not to sell beer to joint-keepers that sell whiskey unlawfully or operate joints without beer licenses.

Altogether this is a promising turn of events. It means hard times for the tough babies and outlaws. They will be attacked from two quarters, and these attacks will be heartily supported by public opinion.—Montgomery Advertiser.

—o-o-o—

Alabama's present troubles are largely due to the fact that we Alabamians have been living too much in the past—looking backward instead of forward.

—o-o-o—

"Many states seem to feel that if the Federal government will make a monetary payment for the resources and sovereignty acquired, then all is well. As taxpayers and citizens we are selling our liberty and also furnishing the money to buy it from us, when we make a trade of this nature."—Dr. George D. Akin, Governor of Vermont.

—o-o-o—

The time to have stopped Hitler was when Italy's Il Duce was slaughtering Ethiopia. Great Britian and France both okehed that slaughter. Now they find themselves compelled almost to make war on a nation that has not fired a gun.

—o-o-o—

It looks now like the Special Session is going to strangle the two most important of the proposed Constitutional Amendments—Reapportionment and Poll Tax Reform. They are afraid to trust the people. That isn't democracy.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

When I was a lad I heard my mother say to one of my brothers, "Go to the back porch and take up that sack and carry it to the storage room at the barn." In a few moments we heard him crying and went back there to find out the trouble. There he sat by the bag, crying as though his heart would break. "What is the matter?" inquired my mother. Then the weeping boy said: "Mama, you know that sack is too large for me to carry. I just can't do it." "Have you tried?" we all inquired. "No, but it is just too big." he replied. Then he arose and tried and imagine his suprise as he found the bag to be filled with feathers. He carried it with ease. Many a time do I hear grown up folks saying: "I just cannot do this and that." The main reason is because they never try. We sit down by our obligations and weep like a silly child, saying: "I just can't do that," and if we only tried it would be easy.

* * *

I saw a preacher's wife who came to a new charge with her husband and when she was asked to take a leading part in the church she replied: "Once I tried to do something for the church and I failed. I have decided to just be a bench member and let others do the work." Suppose that a baby should say "I tried once to walk and fell down and therefore I will never try again," that baby would never walk. Show me a person who has never failed. "Fail?" Why certainly all of us fail sometimes. Blessed is that individual who when he fails will try again and then just keep on a trying.

* * *

I am standing by the river bank and pick up a boy and throw him into the water and shout to him: 'Swim!" He replies: "I can't", and goes down. I pick up another boy and throw him in and shout to him: "Swim!" and he says with a scowl: "I won't," and sinks. Then I throw in the third boy and tell him to "Swim." With a smile he replies: "I will," and he swims out. There are only three kinds of people in the world—The "I can'ts," the "I wont's," and the "I wills." That individual who whines "I can't" will never amount to anything. That stubborn Ike who always says "I won't" will never go forward, but that individual who says "I will" is sure to make the landing.

I am standing in the Garden of the Gods near Colorado Springs and before me is a tall, red rock, lifting itself forty feet into the air. Up its side there is a ladder and the brave climber can make the summit. I say to one man: "There is a purse of gold on top that rock. If you will climb to its summit it will be yuors." He says, "I can't," and the gold is left up there. To another man I offer the gold for the climb and he says "I won't," and no wealth comes to him. I make the offer to the third man and he says "I will," and up he climbs and the gold becomes his heritage. Verily, verily I say unto you, that man who says "I can't," and like the man who says "I won't," they shall never merit success, but that man who faces a problem with the "I will" atttude, he shall have the treasures of life. To be an "I will" man is to succeed.

Standing in the square there was a memorial fountain that was very imposing in its appearance. It had four bronze water spouts and each was supposed to be connected with the clear cool stream that was expected to flow, but for some reason the connecion was faulty and no cool water came to cheer the thirsty traveler. The bronze fixture was beautiful, and the water was clear and cool but no refreshing streams did flow. I have seen people who were just like that fountain. They have good looks, good habits, good education, fine family connections, magnificent supplies from which to draw, but there is something lacking. Personality is an illusive thing. Many have much to give and give but little and all because they are lacking in that something that connects them with the supply that should flow through personality. Cultivate your personality and as God blesses you, you will be a blessing to the world.

I observed the men at work on a house. I noticed that they would go to a stack of lumber for what was needed. The plank on top would be turned and inspected by each man and then shoved aside. I went over to the lumber because I was curious to know why that special plank was rejected. I had no difficulty in seeing why when I saw the defect that each man had seen. The plank really looked good but it had a defect that ruined it for a place in the building. One of the most outstanding defects in the life of folk is that they are not able to get along with people. A preacher friend of mine had a stormy pastorate and he was bitter in his condemnation of the people in his church. He did not see that he always rubbed the people the wrong way. If you have an irritable disposition, that may be the defect that keeps you from being selected for the program in life.

Have the young people of today lost their ambition for advancement? I knew a young man who was offered a job at seven dollars a week. He accepted it, but on Monday morning he failed to report for duty. Inquiry was made as to why he had failed to come and here is his reply: "I have thought the matter over and have decided that I am getting almost that much on relief and do not have to work." In the job offered him the sky was the limit for advancement, anl yet he was willing to be little, stay little and die little. Young men, set your eye, fix your jaw and direct your hand and climb. An ambitious young life is God's noblest work. Why sit on the bottom of a pit when you can climb to life and freedom.

March 1st Strawberry Report Given

—o—

In Alabama, strawberry vines are healthy and the stand good except in some sections that suffered somewhat from drought last summer. The winter has been mild generally; a cold spell on February 23rd, however, retarded growth and injured some buds. It is thought that the resulting damage will be slight if good weather prevails. The yield per acre as indicated on March 1st is 80 crates per acre, which compares with 74 crates last year and 75 crates the 10 year average. Based upon an acreage 10 per cent over last year the prospective production is 288,000 crates compared with 244,000 crates in 1938 and 301,000 crates the 10 year (1928-37) average. A few crates of berries from the 1939 crop have already been marketed. The heaviest movement is expected in April.—Alabama Crop Reporting Service.

CITY OF CLANTON

Mineral Springs

We are very sorry to report that we had only twenty-five present at Sunday School Sunday, with 88 on roll. We realize that there are several sick in the community and elsewhere who must be cared for, and kept some who would attended away, but we feel that there are others who were just a little negligent and failed to come. Won't you please make a special effort to come next Sunday morning.

We especially ask all fathers and mothers who see this to come next Sunday and bring your children.

The scripture teaches "to train up a child in the way he should go and when he is old he will not depart from it." They may drift about while they are young but when they are old they will come back again. We urge everyone who sees this who have no other place to go to Sunday School, please come next Sunday morning.

The second Saturday night and Sunday are our regular preaching services. Brother W. T. Davis will preach, so please come and hear him.

We are sory to report some sickness in the community.

M. Lamar Giles' son is very sick. Mr. Luther Headley's son has been very ill with pneumonia but is slowly improving.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Gore's grandchild Joe Douglas Robinson of Oak Grove, is still very sick.

Again please don't forget to come to Sunday School next Sunday.

"Editor, Chilton County News:

"With your kind permission I want to write a few letters on the subject of pensions for our old people. I am especially interested in the pensions for the old people in the poorer states of the South. Under the present law they are suffering a great injustice and it seems that not one of our law makers are thinking of them.

"President Roosevelt said: 'The South is the nation's No. 1 economic problem.' He was referring to the cotton states and the word 'economic' as here used meant 'poverty.' The President meant that the poverty of the South is so appalling that something should be done about it.

"This is how Congress does about it. Congress passed a law, applicable to all the states, approprating money for old age pensions. But the law was so written that very little of the money is paid out in the poorer states of the South. That was easily done. The funds paid from the Federal treasury to the different states are conditioned on the sate's matching dollars until both funds pay as much as fifteen dollars each month. This would make a total of $30.00 a pensioner, where both funds are paid. The richer states are matching funds with the Federal treasury and thereby getting $15.00 monthly from Washington for their old people.

"While in the states like Alabama, that are unable to match dollars with the Federal funds, the poor old people suffer on and do not get their due amount of Federal pension.

"But Alabama is payng her due proportion of Federal taxes. Any cotton picker that can figure his day's earnings at 75 cents a hundred pounds knows that if Alabama pays taxes into the National treasury and it is paid out into the richer states that Alabama will be getting poorer thereby and the richer states getting richer. But no Congressman from Alabama has yet raised his voice against such an injustice. Nor do I know of a Southern Congressman who has tried to persuade the Administration that pensons are not charity. That they are just payments for past services. Therefore what the Federal government owes an old man should be paid him wherever he lives irrespective of whether his home state pays or not.—C. M. Mauldin

NECROLOGICAL

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our friends and neighbors for the sympathy and kindness shown us in the illness and death of our sister and aunt, Lula Littlejohn.—Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Littlejohn and Family and Mildred Littlejohn.

IN MEMORY

It was on one Friday morning,
  Just at the middle of day,
When the angel visited their home,
  And carried Uncle Nickolas away.
We miss him here, we miss him there,
  We miss him about the place,
But some day up in heaven we'll see
  His smiling face.
He smiled at everyone he knew,
  And when you came he smiled at you;
All through the day and all the while,
  He always wore his sunny smile.
We miss him, oh, we miss him,
  There's no human tongue can tell,
We said good night for a little while,
  But we did not say farewell.
To his many friends who now remain,
  We feel our loss is heaven's gain,
Some day we'll meet him over there
  In that home so bright and fair.
So cheer up now, you grieved ones,
  And try to do your best;
Some day God will begin to call,
  And then He'll get the rest.—Written by a Friend, Naomi Mims.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our many friends and relatives for their kindness and sympathy during the illness and death of our dear wife and mother, Mrs. J. C. Edwards, also for the beautiful floral offerings and courtesty shown by the Spigener Funeral Home.—J. C. Edwards and Family.

IN MEMORY OF J. T. CRANE

God had a great gift of love to bestow on all that live. He picked a friend from above. What greater gift could he give. We who have no friend today still feel the warmth of his love. An abiding something to live always, though he is now above.

Dearest and sweetest of beings,
  Loveliest of all I have known,
The most wonderful of life's blessings,
  Is this wonderful friend that has gone
Deep down in our heart, J. T.,
  Is a place for you alone;
A place so dear that no one,
  Can call it his own.
So we remember you, J. T.,
  From all other days set apart;
We will always count it a blessing,
  To have your love in our heart.
There is no one who could take your place;
  There couldn't be another,
No one so dear, so kind, so true;
  No one just lke you, T. J.
  Weep not, dear mother and sisters, for he is now at rest.—Written by ones who dearly loved him, Mr. and Mrs. Hudson Crane.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to thank every person in Isabelal community for being so nice to me during my illness more especially Mr. and Mrs. Span Jones, also Mr. W. F. DeShazo.
F. DeShazo.—P. R. Griffn

IN MEMORY OF WM. R. WILSON

In loving memory of our beloved son, brother, and grandson, William R. Wilson, who passed away one year ago today.

There is a dear face missing,
  A dear voice that is still.
A vacant place in our hearts
  That no one else can fill.
And those who love him best
  Are those who loved him best,
He will never be forgotten,
  Tho on earth he is no more.
But in memory he will be with us as he always was before.
  —Signed: Mother, Brother, Sisters and Grandmother: Mr. and Mrs. N. Otto Roebuck, Gloria Roebuck, Alfred Roebuck, Betty Roebuck, Gayle Roebuck, Mrs. Emma W. Sweet.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our deep gratitude to our neighbors, friends and relatives for their kindness, sympathy, and floral gfts during our recent bereavement in the death of Howard Cooley, our brother and uncle. Especially do we thank Brother Davis, Mr. Underwood and Dr. Gragg for their services.—Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Maddox and Mildred

Admission will be twenty cents.

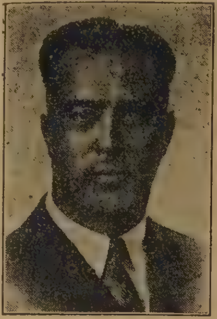
DUNN POLICES BEER INDUSTRY



DAVID E. DUNN

Montgomery, Ala., March 23—David E. Dunn, given the power as regulator of Alabama's $6,500,000 beer business, moved forward on a broad front today to "clean up or close up" the flagrant law violators among the state's 1,600 retail beer outlets.

Dunn, former Administrator of the Alabama Alcoholic Beverage Control Board, was named State Director of the Brewers and Alabama Beer Distributors Committee at its organization meeting here last week, attended by more than 50 shipping brewers and distributors controlling approximately 93 percent of the state's beer supply.

Dunn, who resigned his State Post to assume control of the beer industry which gives employment to more than 5,000, was given two powerful weapons in the industry's self-regulation program—the authority to instruct brewer and distributor members to shut off the supply of beer to law violating beer outlets which refuse to heed warnings, and the right to call on the ABC Board, on behalf of the organized beer industry, to revoke the license of establishments which persist on violating the law.

Regulation of the industry sponsored by the United Brewers Industrial Foundation, will be carried out through ten district "good conduct" committee covering Alabama's 25 wet counties, which will report violations to state headquarters for investigation. Director Dunn wrote the Chairman of these district committees this week asking for a full list of retail beer outlets which have brought complaints from the public because of flagrant law violations.

He stressed that these complaints would be thoroughly investigated and every effort made to obtain the cooperation of owners before drastic steps were taken.

W. P. Rollings of Mobile was named Chairman of the State Executive Committee, and David S. Meyer of Birmingham was elected Secretary-Treasurer. State Headquarters were established at Montgomery, and the following named as Chairmen of District Good Conduct Committees: Henry McGee, Sheffield, C. O. Turner, Huntsville, Roy Nelson, Birmingham, W. H. Burchfield Eutaw, George Donoghue, Mobile, J. O. Temple Atmore, C. C. Bush, Dothan, W. P. Jarrell, Opelika, David Mussafer, Montgomery and J. T. Morgan, Gadsden.

Unique Car Conditioning System at Chevrolet Pla

One of the major accomplishments of the motor industry has been the placing of hundreds of thousands of automobiles in owners' hands the world over in absolutely uniform condition. Chevrolet does this in a unique manner. In a building entirely separate from the production lines, a Car Conditioning department takes the units after final assembly and inspection. Here they are not only inspected but actually conditioned for delivery. Details such as tire pressure, radiator anti-freeze, transmission and rear axle grease, motor oil, and ignition timing are thoroughly checked and adjusted for the locality to which the car is consigned. The photo shows the Car Conditioning department at the Flint plant, where a staff of 70 trained mechanics turns out about 50 cars an hour.

SEEN and HEARD

BY GAD

Why shoudn't we be happy—spring is practically here and I heard that our streets are to be under construction soon. It's nice not having to dodge mud puddles in front of Pitt's, too . . . . They wore: a green sport jacket; a beige spring coat; an aqua angora sweater; a purple and ??? plaid jacket; a rose jiffy sweater—and to top it all, a red band (on a man's hat)—someone really believes in color. Wonder if Jim Wade would blush should I say that I like his green tweed Well, I do . . . . Morgan, Grady, Jr., Melvin, and Bill were in town this past week-end probably resting up from the social whirl of college life. . . . I was born fif—er, several years too soon. Had I been young, spry (and single) I might have taken in the dance given by the young folks at the City Hall last week. They say there were no up-swept coiffures but japonicas were a popular ornament and red dresses seemed to attract the stag line. . . . There's something about a "cut-down" or a racer that attracts the boys. I saw a crowd gathered around one near Popwell's radio shop on last Saturday. . . . The Primary Department of the Methodist Church had "open-house" last Sunday and the decorating recently done was met by the approval of all who saw it. . . Maybe a movie scout will happen along Friday nite at the talent show and one of our own may become a star—maybe. . . We see that the Baptist pastor's subject of last Sunday brought more of the young people out than usual—or was it just my imagination? . . . Julian, that's a keen green sweater combination you're wearing . . . We certainly are fortunate in having such artists as Jeanette McDonald so near that several of us can hear her when she appears in a concert in Selma soon. . . The Music Appreciation Club had an open meeting Tuesday and a program was given by the pupils of our music teachers. . . . And there are plans for A.E.A. vacation at camp—you know, a place where you cook biscuits without an oven. . . Pleated skirts are quite the thing now. Have you seen the pretty white one Mary Ellen Higgins has? . . . We're all sorry to hear about Sunset and Larry's wreck on Monday. Hurry up, you two, so that you can spend your honeymoon properly!

Arthur Taylor and family, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Calloway visited Mrs. A. C. Smith last week end and all drove to Montevallo for a visit Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Renfro Mullins spent last Friday and Saturday in Montgomery attending the W.O.W. meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Popwell of Americus, Ga., visited Mrs. W. L. Popwell and other relatives last week end.

Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Taylor, Mrs. Odell Headley and Miss Elsie Barrett drove down to Mobile and visited Bellingrath Gardens last week end.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Guy spent last Sunday in Clanton.

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. McPherson of Columbus, Ga., visited Mrs McPherson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Bryan, last Sunday.

Mrs. Frank Scott and little daughter, Joanne, spent several days of last week in Montgomery.

Mrs. L. A. Weathers of Birmingham visited her sister, Mrs. W. L. Popwell

Mrs. W. W. Fox is in Birmingham visiting der sister, Mrs. Eddins.

Mrs. Joe Mullins, Mrs. N. S. Johnson and Mrs. Hugh Jones spent last Tuesday in Montgomery.

The following ladies spent three days last week attending the State Baptist W.M.U. conference in Florence: Mrs. J. P. Hayes, Mrs. J. E. Gowan, Mrs. W. H. Klinner, Mrs. T. L. Williams and Mrs. Oscar A. Davis. They reported a very lovely trip and a most inspiring conference

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Rogers and little grandson, Ned, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Rogers and little daughter, Joanne, visited relatives and friends in Clanton last Sunday.

Mrs. Wilson Strain and little daughter, Sue, were guests of Mrs. Earl Gore last Tuesday.

Mrs. Willie P. Jones has returned from her visit with her son in Montgomery.

Mrs. Glennie Evans and Julian Evans drove down to Prattville for a visit last Sunday.

Mrs. Annie Thacker spent last week with her daughter, Mrs. Ed Bialas, in Birmingham.

Among those spending the week end at home from the University were: Helen Roberts, Bill Hodges and Morgan Reynolds.

We are very glad to report that Charles Palmer Bean, who has been seriously ill with pneumonia, is much better. We wish him a speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Mullins and Mr. and Mrs. John Mullins spent last Sunday afternoon in Montgomery.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Fant and children were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Wingard last Sunday.

Dr. and Mrs. W. C. Golden had as their week end guest, Dr. Golden's brother, Zan, of the University of Alabama.

The Clara Mullins Circle of Clanton Methodist Church will meet next Monday night at 7:30 o'clock with Mrs. George Parr and Miss Potsey Polk.

Mrs. L. E. Diefenderfer has returned from a visit with her daughter in Georgia.

Mrs. Horace Popwell's son, Billie, who has been living in Los Angeles, California, for some time, returned home Tuesday night. Welcome home, Billie.

The Worthwhile Sewing Club met last Monday afternoon. Twelve members were present and everyone spent a very enjoyable afternoon. The Easter motif was carried out in the decorations and games.

The W.M.U. of the Clanton Baptist Church met last Monday afternoon for its regular monthly program meeting.

The program was on "Teaching" and Circle Three, with Mrs. W. C. Golden as chairman, had charge of the program. This was a very interesting program.

Following these talks, Mrs. Oscar Daivs, Mrs. Klinner, Mrs. Hayes and Mrs. Gowan, gave reports on what they heard at the convention in Florence. These reports were very good.

There was around one hundred present at this meeting Monday and Circle Four received the W.M.U. pin for having the largest attendance at the Church for three consecutive meetings.

Royal Ambassadors

The Royal Ambassadors met last Friday afternoon at the home of Herbert Newell. There were fourteen members present.

This was the R. A. program meeting and also initiation of their new members. This they enjoyed very much.

These boys are learning to like this work very much and they hope to be of service to their King in lots of ways. If you have a boy between the age of 9 and 16, send him to our R. A. meetings.

The following names are those who were present at this meeting: Jack Thomas, Bobby Atchison, Herbert Newell, Clinton McGhee, Griel Popwell, Ben Popwell, Raymond Popwell, Billie Bean, Jimmie Walker, Vernon Payne, Junior Kennedy, Edward Bowman, Eddie Rice and their Counselor, Mrs. R. M. Tucker.

After the meeting the boys enjoyed ice cream served them by Circle Five of the Baptist W.M.U.

Thimble Club

The Thimble Club met last Thursday at the home of Mrs. Clyde Cleckler. This was a spend-the-day. Lunch was served to the Club members at the noon hour. Everyone spent a very enjoyable day sewing, eating and chatting.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Culpepper.

Baptist Training Union

There was a district meeting of the Baptist Training Union held in Wetumpka last Wednesday. This was an all-day meeting for the purpose of teaching our people how to make the B.T.U. grow. The following attended from Clanton Baptist Church: Annie Cordelia Smith, Dorothy Arnold, Elizabeth Armstrong, Kathleen Armstrong, Sallie Gowan and Rev. and Mrs. Oscar A. Davis.

The Executive Board of the Unity Association of Baptist W. M. U. will meet at Clanton Baptist Church Friday morning, March 24, at ten o'clock.

THORSBY JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL

The Chilton County Teachers Association meets in the auditorium on Saturday morning, April 1, at 9:30 o'clock. The program committee has arranged an interesting program for the occasion.

The P.-T. A. met in the auditorium last Friday afternoon. Mrs. Mims's 3rd and 4th graders presented a lovely program. Her room also won the dollar gift which is awarded the room having the largest representation of parents. The meeting was well attended with several parents present who have been absent the past several meetings.

We notice Miss Jones' Fifth grade Class is working on a project designed in the interest of bird life. Several bird houses are complete, with others in the process of construction. The writer can think of no subject which should merit the attention of the youth of our nation more than that of bird lore. Birds are one of the finest assets mother nature affords us. Their economic and aesthetic value are beyond measure. Let's unite our energy in bringing back these cherry little creatures to our forests, fields, hedge rows. They will well repay us for a small bit of protection.

Messrs. Sam Pate, Ernie Hanson, John Childress, Robert B. Johnson, Astro Wright, Arnold Littleton, and Calvin Pate motored to Selma last Friday and Saturday afternoon to witness the Third District Baskeball Tournament. They reported a safe trip and a jolly good time.

The faculty, under the direction of Mr. Hiten, is sponsoring a movement to beautify our campus. Many varieties of shrubbery are being placed in desirable spots to make our school life a bit more attractive. Any parent or person who is interested in this project and has a cutting or two of some type of shrubbery which you would like to donate, the school will be most grateful if you will get in touch with the committee, and they will send after the plants.

School will dismiss Wednesday of this week for the faculty members to attend the Alabama Educational Association which is being held in Montgomery this year.

These sunny crisp days of spring have caused the baseball fever to rise in the Junor High boys. We note them down on the baseball field swinging with all the gusto of a Ruth or Gherig trying to bust the old horsehide loose from the elusive sphere, which, has been served up to the platter in "the" a la Dizly Dean style. Go it boys! We hope to see you in action against some other Junior High team soon.

The basketball season has bowed out of the picture for this year; but Mr. Johnson has an improvised goal arranged in the auditorium where he is drilling a group of the younger boys and girls in the technique of shooting passing, dribbling and guarding. With the interest being manifested, we say "watch these youngsters" in a couple of years. The board of Trustees, the County Superintendent, the P.-T. A. and the principal have all consented to allow the auditorium to be used as a basketball gymnasium next season on condition that all games and practice sessions will be under rigid supervision, and thus guarding against the abuse and destruction of any of the school property. The writer is confident that this action of those in authority will greatly interest the many basketball fans in and around Thorsby, and with this statement goes the assurance, to those who might not be so enthusiastic over athletics, that all school property will be as reasonably well protected as is humanly possible.

We were glad to have our new Superintendent, Mr. Maddox, visit our school recently.

Next week the sixth grade class will begin shaping plans for their graduation exercises, which will be held at the close of this school year. The names of the class officers will be given in a later write-up of the school news.

Dr. Sturkie and his staff of co-workers gave several of our student body shots of smallpox vaccine last week.

We regret that several of our classmates are out at the present with attacks of colds and flu. We wish you a rapid recovery, that you may soon be back in your classes.

Mrs. Taylor directed a large group of her second and third grade pupils through a very interesting little playlet last Monday morning for Chapel.

Our attendance for the past month has dropped greatly, due to the many colds, sore throats contracted during the recent unfavorable weather.

All things working favorably, we hope to have a picnic at the end of the school term.

✱ CONGRATULATIONS ✱

We wish to express our sincere congratulation and best wishes for success to "Chick" Fiquette, owner of the new City Grocery. And to G.C. Armstrong, manager and to his capable staff.

NOSIN' AROUN' THE KAMPUS

—By Dot—

The Seniors are really busy these days. What with their play, "Ready-Made Family" coming off the 14th; their first attempts at writing autobiographies, and planning for the court scene for graduation—it IS rushin' business.

The Senior Twos still can't understand why anyone should worry when they can't have what they want—take their advice and go after it. When they ran up against opposition in having a class play, then overran it, made a success of the play, and now are preparing to have a big celebration. It will take place in the form of the annual Junior-Senior banquet and Prom. And you can just bet they're looking forward to it—and if you don't think the Seniors are letting their imagination run wild, just ask a few of the boys who expect to really eat at that time.

A large group of the high school set enjoyed a dance last Friday night at the City Hall. Credit is due Wilbur Prince, James Carl Martin, Percy Pitts, Dorothy Arnold, and Mary Roberts, for the good time that all those attending enjoyed.

Just supposin' I'm a fashion editor. (It would be hard—but—JUST SUPPOSE). This is what I'd say about some of the girls who attended the dance. Olive Rainer certainly looked enchanting in that black dress with red bolero . . . red always looks nice with black and especially on Olive. . . . Didn't Sara Nell McCary look sweet and ismple in that American Beauty Color? . . . And WHAT about Boo Hollis? She was a belle if there ever was one—and a jitter-bug too, eh, Boo? Maybe green is a pretty color or could it have been the lights, anyway. Ann Ross really did justice to that lovely shade of green, and that white fur jacket—ummm boy, we were practically dazzled by its whiteness. . . Pearl Henley's hair looked positively ravishing under those colored lights, and speaking of lights, let me tell you that they certainly did enhance the beauty of those lovely satin gowns some of the girls wore. All of the girls looked lovely but space doesn't permit me giving an estimated glance of each and every one. . . . your chance will come next time—by my nosin'.

Headache, Bad Breath Tell of More to Come

Just as Paul Revere's famous ride warned of the Redcoats' coming, so Nature's messengers — headaches, biliousness, bad breath—often warn of faulty elimination.

Neglecting these signs may cause a host of constipation's discomforts: sour stomach, belching; no appetite or energy; mental dullness.

It's so easy to wake up your lazy insides. Just take spicy, all vegetable BLACK-DRAUGHT. Its unusual help comes from its principal ingredient—an intestinal tonic-laxative which imparts tone to lazy bowel muscles.

Millions of packages used testify to BLACK-DRAUGHT'Smerit. Tryit.

F. C. A. CLUB WILL GIVE BANQUET IN NEAR FUTURE

Employers of F.C.A. Club members have been sent the fololwing invitation:

"The F.C.A. Club requests the presence of—— to ther annual Employer-Employee Banquet on Wednesday, March 29th, at seven-thirty o'clock, Mim's Cafe.—R.S.V.P."

The F.C.A. Club has been formed by the members of the Diversified Occupations class of Chilton County High School It is rapidly gaining in importance, and has been recommended by several of the state's leading business men.

F.C.A., meaning Future Craftsmen of Alabama, is really proving itself to be just that. Diversified Occupations gives the student a chance to choose his vocation and to prepare for it and to receive credit for his or her work as a regular school subject.

There are at present, seventeen students taking advantage of this opportunity, each doing a different job, some pharmacists, some mechanics, some painters, clerks, managers, secretaries and so on. This banquet is first of a series but it is sincerely hoped that it will become annual as future members carry out the name "Future Craftsmen of Alabama."

Pneumonia Control Important

The control of pneumonia has become an important phase of local public health service according to a statement by the County Health Officer this week. This familiar disease of which there were 32 cases and 10 deaths in Chilton County during 1938, has until recent years been beyond the reach of any control measures. Now specific treatment of pneumonia with antipneumococcic serum combined with sulfanilamide or its new derivative sulfapyridine bids fair to reduce considerably the number of deaths resulting from pneumonia.

In explaining the new serum treatment, Dr. S. D. Sturkie stated: "Pneumonia is caused by an organism known as the pneumococcus of which there are 32 known types. In order for the serum to be effective, the type of the organism must be determined and the corresponding serum given. Our State laboratory now offers sputum typing as a service to the physicians of the State. The sputum should be collected as soon as the physician is suspicious of pneumonia and sent to the laboratory as the serum must be administered early if the best results are to be obtained. Several local physicians have reported excellent results from using the serum during the past two weeks. The use of sulfapyradine as a preliminary to the administration of serum has received some favorable comment.

Present Outlook Bright For Strawberry Crop

Shipping Is Expected To Begin Within Two Weeks; Bumper Crop Is Expected Barring Natural Damages

Chilton 'County's strawberry crop this season is expected to be one of the st ever harvested, barring unforseen damages beyond the control of man, is the lief of men who have had years of experience in producing berries in this unty.

L. E. Diefenderfer, sales manager for the Clanton Berry Growers Association, stated early this week that the crop is looking good, although a little more rain would speed the berries along. Mr. Diefenderfer stated this Association expects to begin shipping the luscious fruit to the northern markets within two weeks, and that the market as far as he could ascertain, was exceptionally good.

The News was informed by Mr. Diefenderfer that a market for all over-ripe berries has been secured. Alabama canners have agreed to purchase these berries and will net the growers here quite a sum, that has in years past gone to waste.

A season's supply of crates for use by the shippers is on hand, it was stated, and this will be more convenient for the grower than in the past, when these crates had to be ordered individually. The Clanton Association has a large roomy warehouse which facilitates the handling of the berries before shipping.

This cash crop is usually a stimulator for farmers and business men of the county, coming at a time of the year when few other crops are being harvested and sold.

No reports have been received from other berry growing associations of the county, but it is supposed that they will also begin shipping within the next few days.

Roy Roper is President of the Clanton Berry Growers Association; J. N. Dennis is Secretary-Treasurer and L.E. Diefendefer is Sales Manager.

TWO INJURED N FREIGHT TRAIN ACCIDENT

OBERT VIRGIN, ENGINEER, SUFFERS SEVERE INJURIES; FIREMAN INJURED

An accident which occurred on a spur ck of the L&N Railroad just south Clanton last Saturday afternoon, riously injured Robert Virgin, engin- r, whose home is north of Jemison, d the negro fireman Anvi Jones.

Reports reaching the News stated at Mr. Virgin was routing some box rs onto a spur track near South Clan- n, when the accident occurred. Just at caused the accident was not rned, but two box cars and a tank r were thrown from the track which s supported by a bridge. One of the rs landed on a saw mill shed, barely ssing the machinery. The freight en- e was not derailed, but the jolt was violent that both the fireman and gineer were thrown from their places the cab, and landed several feet low the track, underneath the en- ne.

Mr. Virgin suffered a severe back in- y, a broken wrist and other cuts d bruises. Jones received less serious uries, amounting to only bruises and ts about the body. Both were brought the Central Alabama Hopital here a Martin & Sons ambulance. Mr. rgin was transferred to Birmingham esday of this week. Jones was dis- ssed after he was given treatment Mr. Virgin's home in north of Jemi- n, but his headquaraers while em- yed by the L.&N. Railroad Co., is Birmingham. He is well known in s section.

WPA APPROVES FUNDS FOR NEW HIGH SCHOOL

APPLICATION IS NOW ON WAY TO PRESIDENT FOR FINAL SIGNATURE

A communication from Congressman Pete Jarman early this week bore the good news that the application for federal funds for the construction of a new and modern Chilton County High School building has been approved by WPA officials in Washington, and that the project is now on its way to the White House for the President's signature.

The architect's drawing of the proposed new structure to replace the old one destroyed by fire just before last Christmas, shows that it will be fireproof, and one of the most modern and substantial buildings in the State. The County Board of Education has secured the services of E. B. Van Keuren, noted architect of Birmingham for the building which has been estimated to cost approximately $75,000.00.

LOCAL CCC MEMBERS BID FAREWELL TO CLANTON, CHILTON CO.

On April 1, 1939, around one hundred boys of the local CCC camp will go to their homes in the Rural districts and the cities all over Alabama.

We hope that our action while in the camp will leave a favorable impression on the people of Clanton and Chilton County, and feel proud of the camp and its members.

We have appreciated and will always feel grateful for the kindness and the nice way of greeting us in Clanton. We have enjoyed the hospitality shown us while here. In speaking for the majority of the boys leaving, we wish to state that the stay here has been more than a pleasure. We have learned that through our contact with the citizens of the town and county what it means to be a good neighbor.

In behalf of the other members who are going out, we will ever bear in mind that it was an opportunity and a privilege to have been in the midst of the people of Clanton and Chilton County.—Written by Enrollee, Charles Roy.

VINE ON LIMB TRANSFORMED INTO SNAKE AT KLINNER FURN.

A large oval-shaped vine twined around a straight limb, has been trasformed into a huge chicken snake and now can be seen in the E. L. Klinner Furniture show window.

A real live snake coiled around a limb is the first impression a person will get when the eyes rest on this freak of nature, with a bit of added help from a pocket knife and a lady's hair pin. Mr. K. V. Klinner, manager of the E. L. Klinner Furniture Store, tells us this freak was brought to his store by Mr. Roy Dobbs. The hair pin serves as the snake's tongue, and portions of the bark on the vine sliced off, at intervals gives the snake its spots.

DRUM BEATING ECHOES

Profiteering and racketeering (legalized and "wildcat") combined, is the greatest curse to our American civilization, and unless curbed by the Congress, those two evils will continue to entangle us in a politico-economic net from which we are going to find it very hard to extricate ourselves.

Listen to the "echoes" from the "war drums" which have been "booming" so steadily for the past several weeks:

Washington—AP—The War Department wants to defer action by Congress on legislation to curb war profits, wages and prices pending completion of a scientific study of such proposals.

Officials made this clear today in advance of a formal statement to Congress firmly opposing a drastic tax measure submitted by 50 senators and intended to "take the profits out of war."

Aside from the desire to await completion of the study, some officials deem the bill to be in conflict with the army's own plans for mobilizing industry in war time. They said privately the taxes proposed, ranging up to 98.9 per cent, were so "confiscatory" they would paralyze industry in an emergency.

Study of possible legislation to forestall wartime inflation has been undertaken by the Brookings Institution at the suggestion of Louis Johnson, assistant secretary of war.

The Maurice and Laura Falk Foundation, a Pittsburgh philanthropic institution, granted $13,000 for expenses in December. The War Department has given cooperation, among other ways, by making available records of the 1917-18 World War period of high prices, profits and wages.

The study is expected to be completed six months or more hence. Dr. Harold G. Moulton, Brookings Institution president, expressed belief that proper legislation prepared in advance would "head off ill-advised and conflicting statutes."

Johnson said these question, among others, should be answered:

"What commodities should be subject to price control? To what extent can the type of inflation that prevailed in the World War be prevented so that the nation may more effectively finance the conflict and avoid price deflation after the war?

EVERYONE SHOULD COOPERATE

Chilton County School officials received the cheering news a day or so ago that approval of WPA had been given the Chilton County High School project, and as soon as President Roosevelt attaches his signature, we may expect building operations to move right along until the structure is completed.

While the government is furnishing the money to build this modern school plant, there is going to be a lot of work to be done by the citizens of Chilton County, in order that our children may enjoy one of the best equipped, as well as one of the most modern school plants in the State.

To make this so, everyone must be willing and anxious to cooperate with the county officials and supervisors who will be in charge of the project from the breaking of the first shovelfull of dirt to the planting of the last shrub, and the decorating of the last classroom.

Our Congressman, Pete Jarman, advises the Chilton County News publisher of the progress that is being made in Washington in the following letter:

"Mr. Mark Tucker, Publisher
"Chilton County News,

FIGHTING "DISCRIMINATIONS"

Fresh and powerful support was given the National Cotton Council this week in its fight against legislative "discriminations" imposed on cotton and its byproducts when the Southeastern Governors' Conference formally joined the campaign.

The governors, in session in Atlanta, adopted a resolution asking Congress and state legislatures to repeal "uneconomic and un-American" taxes and laws against margarine, now made largely from southern cottonseed oil. This fight will be carried on in connection with the fight for freight rate reductions.

Oscar Johnston, of Scott, Miss., president of the Cotton Council, opened the campaign against these "discriminatory" laws two weeks ago with an initial barrage of telegrams from eight southern governors requesting the Utah legislature to repeal its laws taxing margarine and other cottonseed products.

A spokesman before the governors' conference declared these laws, which act as a definite barrier to the sale of cotton, are a "hangover" from the days when margarine was made chiefly from imported cocoanut oil. He pointed out that margarine is now a cottonseed oil product which deserves consideration because of its American origin.

The thrust at repeal of "discriminatory" laws is one of several the Cotton Council is making on widely-separated fronts in the early stages of its fight to regain cotton's lost markets.

In the fields of research and education, in national and international affairs, the council is making initial moves aimed at increasing markets for cotton not only at home but abroad.

Less than a month after the first meeting of the council's board of directors in Memphis on March 15, a new and encouraging unity of spirit among cotton growers, ginners, warehousemen, merchants and cottonseed crushers is being noted in the south, Council officials pointed out.

Council directors have authorized employed a competent engineer to survey the 658 miles of cotton fabric road construction already in use in the United States. The engineer will head an exhaustive investigation to discover for the first time in history "the truth about cotton roads."

If the survey discloses that this type of road is sound and can be built cheaply with cotton, every facility of the council will be called upon to further the use of cotton for this purpose. Council officials point out that a possible potential market of a million bales a year is the prize at stake.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

Two men mounted a double bicycle that had two peddling seats. Each man was to pull with all his might that the machine might travel with ease and speed. They came to a hill and the man in the front seat peddled with all his strength and on reaching the top he wiped the perspiration from his brow remarking "What a hill and what a pull." The other man was as fresh as a newly dressed babe in the morning. The fact that the man in front pulled the bicycle up the hill while the man in the rear seat rode and did nothing. That tells us the sad situation in our church life. Half of the membership in most churches are riding along doing nothing, while the other half pull the load. Why not learn to peddle where you are. It is the "dead beat" that makes travel in anything to be hard on the working few.

* * *

In company with a guide I was permitted to enter the hull of an ocean vessel in the course of construction. I was astonished to see so many substantial braces everywhere and made inquiry as to why they were in such abundance. The guide replied, "This vessel will have tremendous pressure brought to bear on her from without and there must be substantial braces on teh inside or the hull will split and the ship will sink." That thing is true in reference to our lives. The inner braces of our hearts must equal to the outward pressure of the world, or else we break and go down. What braces, what will power, are you erecting within? As we meet the storms of travel the pressure without will crush us if we do not carry internal strength and resistance.

I read of a woman who lived in one of those small apartments in New York City where the beds are pulled out of a wall and the kitchen sink is pulled out of a drawer when you want to prepare a meal. This woman had a dog—a little snip of a thing, that was about in harmony with the apartment. The trouble however, was that the pup had a bark that was far too loul for the place in which he had to bark. So she carried her dog to a doctor who operated upon him and removed his power to bark. After that the pup barked but it was a feeble bark. That is what people are doing for themselves all the time. Why whittle ourselves down to insignificance. Remember you are rugged soul and that you have it in you to seize fate by the throat and dictate your own terms for barking.

The coach was crowded with college girls. Among them was one who seemed to be a favorite. On her finger she wore a sparkling engagement ring. The girls plied her with questions and the sweet little woman became confused and finally said "O, girls, you will never know what it means to be in love until you experience it." She little thought that she was uttering the real philosophy of life. We never really know anything until we experience it. That lady's statement was true about religion as well as about live. When we experience Christ within we know something that only experience can reveal. If we do not know that we love, we love not. If we do not know that we have Christ, we have Him not. Love wthin, Christ within and we know it.

One of the thrills at the old time circus was a diversion that was called "The Maze." It was named thus because it was a veritable jumble of passageways. The idea of the thing was to find your way out once you had gotten in. This was made difficult for the floor and the walls of the Maze were made of mirrors. It mattered not where you went you bumped into yourself. Those who entered the Maze met with a bewildering erperience, but that very thing is pictured in everyday life. We have no greater problems than ourselves. To keep ourselves out of the way and out of sight is our greatest task. We bump into ourselves at the turn of every road and we face ourselves in every issue of life. If we crave happiness, wealth or power, first of all we bump into ourselves. When we get self out of the way, the gate opens to us.

Cotton Fertilizer In Proper Balance Is Most Profitable

What fertilizers will pay best for cot- on? That is a question many farmers re now giving serious consideration s they make plans for the 1939 crop. he proper balance, or proportions of itrogen, phosphorous and potash, reardless of the amount to be applied er acre, should be given careful hought because fullest returns from ach ingredient are obtained only when ufficient quantities of the others are vailable also.

The three principal methods of supplying plant food to cotton are (1) all at planting; (2) using a mixture low in nitrogen and high in potash, such as 4-10-7, and adding a nitrogen side application; and (3) a mixture with a medium amount of nitrogen and potash, and making a nitrogen-potash side dressing.

In using either method it is important that at least 36 pounds of nitrogen, 48 pounds of phosphorus and 24 pounds of potash be provided for. On the lighter soils and where crops have been harvested by removing the entire plant, it will be advisable to increase the potash application in order to prevent rust and insure a normal, healthy plant.

At current fertilizer quotations the average amount of potash used in mixtures can be doubled for the value of only a few pounds of lint cotton.

A preliminary survey of fertilizer practices to be followed by farmers in 1939 as shown by the demand for the various analyses indicates that the preference is for mixtures high in potash. A grade which is continuing to rise in popularity is 4-10-7 and it appears now that this mixture will again be among the leading analyses for cotton this year.

NECROLOGICAL

OLA MAE BAKER

On March 11, the death angel visited the home of Auklee Baker and carried away his loving wife, Ola Mae Baker. Dear sister has gone to that blessed home on high where no storm clouds ever betide.

We miss her, oh, we miss her. No human tongue can tell. Her life's work on earth is done, but a life crown she has won. All her sorrows have ended. Her dear smiling face we shall see on earth no more. We cannot understand why she had to go so young, and to leave her precious little one. We know the Lord knew best. She bore her pains with a smile. She troubled no one on earth. Her treasure in heaves was great.

She leaves to mourn a husband, Auklee Baker, five children, four girls, Myrle, Frances, Wilmer and Fay; one son Hermon; her father and mother Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Wright; two sisters, Mrs. Lee Rollan, Mrs. Howard Mims; four brothers, Walter, Tommie, Clyde, William.—Written by Elner Mims.

IN MEMORY OF MR. O. D. BONE

It was just only a few days ago,
  We can never forget the day,
When came the silent reaper,
  And took our dear daddy away.
Although unable to speak to us,
  And could not even say goodbye,
We know his thoughts were with us,
  When he was called to die.
We miss him, oh we miss him!
  For our Savior called him away,
But we are praying to meet him,
  In a better world some day.
We know he is waiting,
  With our Savior on high,
He is there ready to greet us,
  Where there is no goodbye.
No more on earth we'll see his face,
  His voice we'll hear no more;
But let us live to meet him,
  On that bright and sunny shore.
We love our dear daddy,
  No human tongue can tell,
We said goodbye for a little while,
  But we didn't say farewell.—A daughter, Mrs. Lera Patterson.

IN MEMORY OF MRS. ADDIE L. DAY PAYTON

Mrs. Addie L. Day Payton departed from her early life to a better home on March 12, at 10 o'clock, shortly after the birth of her infant daughter. She and the infant were laid to rest in the Providence cemetery.

She leaves to mourn her loss her husband, Robert N. Payton, father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Day; three brothers, Gordon, Orbie and Audie C.; thee sisters, Miss Otis Day, Mrs. Eula Mae Melton, Mrs. R. M. Lowery and a host of relatives.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Young, Fred Jr. Lowery, of West Chilton, who have just started out in life. The sermon was enjoyed by a number who attended the service.

We want to thank the many friends for their kindness showed us during the short illness and death of our dear sister, and for the many nice flowers and more especially Mrs. T. A. Haggard. God giveth and God taketh both great and small.

We ask God to bless us all and her husband and pray that we might live a life to meet her again some day, where there will be no more sorrow and sad goodbye.—Writetn by a sister and the Family, Mrs. R. M. Lowery.

Will Conduct Vacation Bible School Clinic Here

REV. EMMETT WILLIAMS

Rev. Emmett Williams of Birmingham will lead a One-Day Vacation Bible School Clinic which will be held at the First Baptist Church of Clanton, Saturday. April 1, 1939. The program will begin at 9:30, and workers from every church in the Chilton County Baptist Association, and also in the Unity Association are urged to come to this meeting. It is a combination meeting for both associations, and it is hoped that a large crowd will attend. The workers are urged to bring their lunch. The Clanton Church will furnish coffee free.

Rev. M. I. McLeod, of Thorsby is Superintendent of Vacation Bible School work for the Chilton County Association, and Rev. W. E. Robinson of Stanton is superintendent of Vacation School work for the Unity Association. Both these men have been working hard to get a good representation from every church in their association to attend this meeting.

Rev. Williams will bring with him Mrs. J. D. Hamrick who will lead a conference for Primary workers, and Miss Mary Ellen Caver, who will lead a conference for Junior workers. Rev. Williams will lead the conference for Intermediate workers.

This is a fine opportunity for all who believe in Sunday School work to learn something about extending the ministry of the Sunday School over into the week, during the Vacation period.

Two Ways To Prevent Typhoid

An increase in the reported cases of typhoid from 317 in 1937 to 403 in 1938 brought a reminder from Dr. J. N. Baker, State Health Officer, that this is a disease to which one may obtain immunity by inoculation with typhoid vaccine.

"This disease is prevented in two ways," he said. "Communities as a whole are protected against infection by careful supervision of public water supplies and certain food-dispensing agencies to be sure that typhoid germs are not spread by what people eat and drink. This protection would be sufficient if it covered all food and water consumed, but many people, especially those living in the rural section and in small towns, drink from private wells that may be infected, and city people often take trips to places where water supplies are not under supervision. All, therefore, should avail themselves of the second form of protection which provides individual immunity. This consists of being inoculated about every two years with typhoid vaccine."

Dr. Baker pointed out that this vaccine, manufactured by the laboratories of the State Department of Health, is furnished free to county health departments and private physicians requesting it.

"SOMEWHERE"

By James Leonard Miles

Somewhere the skies are never gray
  The moonlit nights are bright as day.
Somewhere the birds forever sing,
  As to all days were days of spring.

Somewhere the folks are always gay;
  They greet you in a pleasant way.
Somewhere there is a land of rest;
  A world of joy and happiness.

Somewhere there are no pains and woes
  No unkind words, as you'd suppose.
Somewhere the work of nature's hand,
  Is known and loved by every man.

Somewhere true lovers never part;
  There never is a broken heart.
And that is why, my whole life thru,
  I've longed to be somewhere with you.

Clanton Methodist Church

J. L. Daniel Pastor

The Church is a Divine Institution possessing physical, moral and spiritual values.

Physically it enhances the value of our property, making possible higher standards of living than can be found in heathen countries.

Morally it has a restraining influence that gives us a certain amount of security which would be impossible without it. Mr. Babson, the great statistician, said that he would support it for is police protection if for no other reason.

Spiritually it has a message for all the race. It is a message of redemption through Christ who said, "And if I be lifted up from the earth I will draw all men unto me." This spiritual message is the message that our town, our state, our nation and our world needs today.

If this spiritual message is given to our world today, you and I will have to give it. Can we afford to let humanity, for whom Christ gave His life, live in our town and community without doing anything for them? We must give to them this spiritual message, which is a message of good news. It is good news about God. It tells us that God is our Father by creation, by redemption and by preservation, and that He longs to be our Father by our own personal choice. When we, through Christ, accept Him as our father, then it is that we experience the Warm Heart which brings to us the realization of the fact, that we are "new creatures in Christ Jesus." "That old things have passed away, and behold all things have become new."

Our church, realizing the importance of this message, has set aside the week of April 9th through the sixteenth as a week of special evangelistic services. We ask the prayers and support of all Christian people, to the end that this may be the beginning of a real revival in our church and town.

Services will be held each day at 9:30 A.M. and 7:30 P.M. We will have a young peoples' worker and also a song director. The public is cordially invited to attend all of these services.

J. L. Daniel, Pastor.

POTASH

APPLIED AT CHOPPING MADE THE DIFFERENCE

IF you did not apply enough potash at planting time or if your cotton rusts, it will cost little to apply more potash in a nitrogen-potash top-dresser. The increased yields, control of rust, reduced wilt injury, and improved quality which will result from this extra potash will return the small investment many times. Heavier bolls, more lint per seed, longer staple, stronger fibers, and easier picking also result. An increase of $15 to $25 per acre in the value of the crop due to the extra potash has been secured in practical field tests and experimental work.

Your county agent or experiment station will tell you whether you applied enough potash at planting time. See your fertilizer dealer or manufacturer about adding the equivalent of 50-100 lbs. of muriate of potash in a nitrogen-potash top-dresser. Keep your plants growing vigorously into the profits which you plan to make this year.

REPORT OF HEALTH OFFICER SHOWS FAVORABLE PROGRESS

91.8 Per Cent Of Children Examined Have Physical Defects; Efforts Being Made To Install Vision Charts, Scales In Schools Of County; P.-T.A.'s Cooperating

The work done by the local health department in Chilton County schools during 1938-39 was summarized in a report by the County Health Officer this week.

The total number of children receiving routine health examinations was 1,722. Of this number 91.8 per cent had one or more physical defects. The most outstanding defects according to the percentage of children affected were decayed teeth, 49.5 per cent; underweight, 24 per cent; enlarged or diseased tonsils and adenoids, 20.9 per cent; defective vision, 5.4 per cent; skin disease, 1.4 per cent and poor posture, 1.3 per cent. There were 63 children who had visited the dentist or physician to have a defect corrected.

In addition to routine examinations, 240 stool examinations for hookworms were made and 46 treatments given. A total of 243 children have received diphtheria toxoid and to date 686 children have been vaccinated against smallpox. The immunization program in the schoosl is not yet completed, the Health Officer being now engaged in a vaccination program in the colored schools.

Comment was also made in the report on the result of efforts of the Health Department to have scales and vision charts installed in the schools. Dr. Sturkie reports that Clanton, Baker, and Jemison now have both scales and eye charts; New Cedron has the eye chart and Verbena, Maplesville, and Thorsby have made plans to purchase the scales. The P.-T. A.'s have been largely instrumental in bringing this about, Dr. Sturkie explained.

Dr. Sturkie announced early this week that the branch office in Maplesville would be opened Wednesday of this week with office hours of 9 until 12, in the Nix Building.

CIRCLE NUMBER TWO HOLDS MONTHLY BUSINESS MEETING

Circle Two held its monthly business meeting Monday afternoon, March 27, at the home of Mrs. Spurgeon Calloway. Nine members were present.

Mrs. Horace Popwell acted as chairman and read the devotional from the eleventh chapter of Psalms, after which the members repeated the Lord's Prayer.

A business session was held. Owing to some of the members being absent who have studied the preceding chapters in "Go Forward," the circle agreed to meet Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Alva Mahan at three o'clock. They will study the last chapter of the book and have the examinations.

The meeting was concluded by prayer offered by Mrs. Mahan.

BY GAD

Beauty contests seem to be a fad here. Now "Lump" Pitts is Clanton's crowned beauty; Olive Rainer Elmore and Nell Rockett are next in line toward the cherished title. Of course there weren't enough places to go around but the cream of Clanton's beauty crop was in the contest. . . . Lois Thompson's powder-blue hat makes a good frame for such a lovely "picture." . . . A tan car matches outfits, too. . . . The town is all aglow. Don't tell me you haven't seen or heard Sam Johnson while he was here for the Spring holidays . . . Peggy Page has been here this week, too. . . . Guy Alred couldn't resist Clanton's charm even though he has been exposed to the Miami moon, climate, etc., lately. But we understand he's to be here for only a few weeks. . . . Mr. Warr and little Mr. Warr were visitors here Sunday—"What have we got that gets them " . . . That's a lovely dusty pink hat you have, Mrs. Burnette. . . The teachers are out "in" because of the A.E.A. Now, now, is all the fatigue caused from lectures? . . . Why of course Jeanette MacDonald is as lovely off screen as on," "Such a voice as her's is simply enchanting. She had such a radiating smile"—and so run the reports of all who heard her sing in Selma Monday night. What's this I hear about Clanton turning out to hear the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra last Thursday night. . . . "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," so these sweet young things are turning to tennis and bicycle riding as a pastime. . . . What will the King and Queen think of our version of the English language. Ain't it awful? . . . Mrs. Poole's flowering peach tree is in full bloom—if that means anything to you—and if it doesn't just drive out by there and take a peep at it. . . . All the gratitude I get for searching, listening, thinking and writing is stacks of competition. Now, Dot, you stick to the campus and things will run smoothly—that is, if you stick tight enough. I'll see you again next week.—By GAD.

Alabama's WPA Cut To Be 8,800

Instructions covering a nation-wide reduction of 400,000 in employment of the Works Progress Administration and listing the cuts necessary in each state were issued Monday, March 20 by Colonel F. C. Harrington, Federal Administrator. The orders will become effective during the week beginning April 3 unless additional funds are appropriated by Congress in the meantime.

8,800 Cut In Alabama

In Alabama, according to W. G. Henderson, State Administrator of the Works Progress Administration, the reduction in employment has been set at 8,800 making the quota for April 50,200 employees.

Mr. Henderson stated that the reduction in Alabama will be made as uniformly as possible over the State on a project basis in order to maintain efficiency of operation, according to the methods outlined by the Federal administrator.

There were 776 projects and project units operating in Alabama as of March 20th and employing approximately 59,000 persons, Mr. Henderson stated. On these 776 projects there are 43,237 persons employed in construction work which includes public buildings, roads, bridges, sewers, etc. On non-construction projects there are 14,941 persons employed. In this latter group are included women who have dependents and who cannot find employment in private industry.

"Pending action by Congress on House Joint Resolution 209 which provides additional appropriation of $150,000,000 for WPA and which is now under consideration in committee on appropriations of House of Representatives, it is necessary to plan operation of Works Program for April on basis of funds actually available," Mr. Henderson pointed out. "If additional funds are not appropriated by Congress it will be necessary to reduce employment on Alabama's WPA program by 8,800 during week beginning Monday, April 3.

"We expect to hold such consultations with sponsors as are required to determine projects to be discontinued without delay and that plans for effecting reduction will be completed in detail as soon as possible."

It is estimated that if all the low-income group were to use the same diet as used by the higher-income groups, about 25 to 30 million more acres would probably be required to feed America.

Maple Springs

Sunday School was well attended Sunday. The contest came to a close with the White side winning. Our Superintendent was absent Sunday because of sickness. We hope he will be back soon.

The singing was not so well attended Sunday afternoon because of unfavorable weather, but we had a pretty good singing considering the congregation.

Everyone is invited and urged to attend our prayer meeting service each Thursday night at seven o'clock.

Remember, Sunday School next Sunday morning at ten 'o'clock, and be present.

County 4-H Club Council News

The officers of the Chilton County 4-H Club Council met with Mr. Breedlove and Miss Barber at the home of Miss Mary Pearl Griffin last Wednesday evening at 6:00 o'clock.

Plans for the County Club Rally was the item of business.

The Council wishes to announce that the rally will be held next Friday, March 31, at the Airport, beginning at 9:30 A.M. Everyone is requested to bring his own lunch. We hope all Club members will be present and on time.—Reporter, Cecil Little.

Chilton County Reports Five Tuberculosis Cases

Montgomery, March 16—A total of 201 cases of tuberculosis were reported to the Bureau of Preventable Diseases of the State Department of Health in January, five having been reported from Chilton County, according to a compilation of reports received by the Bureau.

The January total for the State as a whole exceeded the total of 173 cases for the previous month but was less than the total of 209 cases reported in January, 1938.

Alabama's provisional total of 1,604 tuberculosis deaths for 1938 was described by members of the State Health Department staff as the smallest for a single year shown on the records of the Department's Bureau of Vital Statistics, which extend to 1913.

COTTON GINNING REPORT

Census report shows that 10,358 bales of cotton were ginned in Chilton County from the crop of 1938, as compared with 19,944 bales for the crop of 1937. —V. C. McKee, Special Agent.

NOTICE OF THE FILING OF BILL OF COMPLAINT BY STATE OF ALABAMA, COMPLAINANT, VS. ONE PLYMOUTH CAR, 1932 MODEL, RESPONDENT

State of Alabama, Complainant, vs. One Plymouth Car 1932 Model, Respondent.

In the Circuit Court of Chilton County, Alabama, In Equity.

The Bill of Complaint of the State of Alabama, on the relation of G. C. Walker, as Deputy Solicitor of Chilton County, against One Plymouth Car, 1932 Model, being exhibited to me, and it appearing therefrom that on the 26th day of February, 1939, one Eddie Tate, did transport in One Plymouth Car, 1932 Model, certain prohibited liquors and beverages from one point to another in the State of Alabama, and that said automobile was on said day seized by the Sheriff of said County and said Bill of Complaint praying that said automobile be declared forfeited to the State of Alabama, and for an order of condemnation and sale thereof.

It is therefore ordered and decreed that notice of the filing of said Bill of Complaint be given for three successive weeks in The Chilton County News, a newspaper published in the Town of Clanton, Alabama, and that all persons claiming or asserting any right, title or interest in said automobile be required to appear and assert such claim by the 28th day of April, 1939, and that failing so to do, the said right, title or interest will be forever barred.

Given under my hand, this the 14th day of March, 1939.

ARTHUR GLOVER,
Judge of the 19th Judicial Circuit.

MEANING OF "METER-MISER" IS EXPLAINED

Over a period of several summers, there has appeared a great many published advertisements the phrase, Meter-Miser, in connection with one specific make of electric refrigerator. At first, taken to be just an advertising phrase, it has appeared so persistently and has made such a definite impression upon the public mind, that it has stimulated a more complete inquiry as to just what lay behind the idea. Some interesting facts were brought to light as a result.

The term Meter-Miser is the trade marked name of a wholly new design in refrigerator mechanism. The conventional types of electric refrigerators are nearly all equipped with compressors that transform the rotary power of an odinary electric motor to a vertical compression stroke, very much like an automobile engine, except that instead of generating power from gasoline, the refrigerator uses the power from the electric motor to compress the refrigerant gas in the course of providing refrigeration. Mechanically, however, the rompressor is made of cylinder blocks, postons, connecting rods, crank shafts, valves, and other minor items, all quite similar to the automobile engine. In fact it takes a fairly good motor just to keep all the parts moving before any refrigeration work is done at all. This function is comparable to a train without freight.

The Meter-Miser unit is a complete departure from the conventional. There is no transformation of rotary motor power to a vertical power stroke, requiring all the mechanical parts already outlined. In this it is in harmony with the modern trend in building great ocean liners, and also modern electric power stations. There now use the rotary principle directly, and are not exceptionally powerful and smooth in operation, but the power plants themselves are far more compact and even neat looking.

In the new refrigerator design the compression stroke ih not vertical, or straight, but is actually rotary. This means that the entire mechanism which moves is built on the shaft of the motor itself. Instead of working back and forth like an engine piston, the Meter-Miser simply spins with the armature shaft of the motor. Everything is simplified. Many power consuming parts are eliminated altogether. There are no more belts, gears or pulleys.

All of this means that the smaller motor on the Meter-Miser will provide the same refrigeartion as that furnished by its larger predecessor of the conventional type, or the same size motor will furnish a greater amount of refrigeration. In either event, considerable economy is effected and long life is assured, since the entire mechanism including the motor is hermetically sealed forever from outside contact, away from dust, dirt and moisture.

The Meter-Miser is truly an innovation in modern mechanical design.

ASSISTANT CCC CAMP EDUCATIONAL ADVISER LEAVES HERE

Much of the success of the Educational Program at Camp SCS 7, Clanton, Alabama has been due to Erwin Dailey, Assistant Camp Educational Adviser. Dailey enrolled in the CCC in October of 1936 and was appointed Assistant Camp Educational Adviser in February of 1937. In this capacity his work was very satisfactory, and every one regrets that he has left the CCC to return to his home at Camden, Alabama.

Dailey has been one of the outstanding members of Company 3481. Only twenty years of age, he has completed a high school course specializing in vocational agriculture.

A practical knowledge of Soil Conservation coupled with his experience in the Educational Program of the CCC should prove very valuable to Dailey in his future work.

Forrest Castleberry, Conecuh County has been elected to succeed J. E. Kelly, deceased, in the Alabama House of Representatives.

Briars and heavy brush on that cleared new ground do not have to be burned. They will stop one of those gullies on the place, if given the chance.

Attorney General Thomas S. Lawson Advises State Director of Alabama's Beer Industry That Self Regulation Program is Valid and "Beneficial to the Public Interest"

In Alabama, as in other states, laws are sometimes violated by a minority of retail beer outlets.

Shipping brewers and Alabama wholesale distributors—and the great majority of the retailers—operate in the public interest by conforming to the law and to the public sense of decency.

The few flagrant violators in Alabama who flaunt the law cast their reflection upon thousands employed in this scientific industry which pays one million dollars a day in governmental taxes, and upon the progressive leaders in the business.

To assist the Alabama ABC Board in its consistent stand against beer retailers who violate the law or fail to uphold established standards of the beer industry, we, the undersigned committee representing 93% of Alabama's beer supply, have placed the public conduct rules of our industry in the hands of one man with supreme authority. That man is David E. Dunn of Montgomery, who resigned as administrator of the ABC Board to take over the reins of the beer industry.

DAVID E. DUNN
State Director

Approval of our self-regulating program, sponsored by the United Brewers Industrial Foundation, came this week in the form of an official ruling by Attorney General T. S. Lawson, who held that: "the program is valid" and "will be beneficial to the public interest."

Commenting on the ruling of the Attorney General, State Director David E. Dunn said: "This ruling clears the decks for action. It gives the newly organized Brewers and Alabama Beer Distributors Committee full authority to use the two powerful weapons which it commands. These are:

1. —the authority to call on brewer and distributor members of this Committee to refuse to sell beer to law violating outlets.
2. —the right to call on the ABC Board in behalf of the organized beer industry to revoke the license of such establishments.

"We hope it will not be necessary to invoke these measures against law violators. But we feel it only fair to serve official notice now that we will act in the public interest to uphold the standards of our industry against any law violating Alabama retailer."

In addition to the official sanction given the Committee's program by the Attorney General's office, unofficial endorsement came from the press and public throughout the state following announcement of the Committee's organization.

We take this opportunity to voice our deep appreciation of the wide publicity given by the press to the launching of our program.

In all public efforts, much, of course, depends on the cooperation of the public. We hope to perform a public service of genuine importance—and one which merits the understanding support of public minded citizens. We urgently invite your full and sympathetic cooperation.

NOTICE REGARDING CARDS OF THANKS, IN MEMORY, ETC.

Again the News finds it necessary to call the attention of those wishing cards of thanks, in memory, in memoriam, poetry, etc., published in the News, to limit their letters to 150 words or less.

The News has received many letters recently, many of them several pages in length. We have found it necessary to omit a large portion of some of the letters, all of which requires time, and sometimes detracts from the original meaning of the letter.

We are in full sympathy with every family suffering the loss of loved ones, who feel that they, out of respect to their loved one, and as expression of their deep sorrow, desire to voice this sentiment in the paper, but we must insist that the people keep in mind that our space is limited, and that we must carry articles that will be of general interest, insofar as possible.

The News would suggest that articles be as short and decisive as possible: that they be written in a legible hand and on one side of the sheet only. This would tend to assure their publication.

Will Assist Boys In Qualifying For CMTC

Mr. J B Atkinson of Clanton heads this year's Chilton County Committee of public spirited residents who will assist young men to qualify for enrollment in the coming CM.T.C. Camp to be held at Fort McClellan, Alabama, from June 15th to July 14.

Prompt action will be necessary to gain acceptance for the C.M.T.C. Camp because of the large number of early applications being received by Army Headquarters at Fort McClellan. Young ment of good character and sound physique, between 17 and 24 years of age, who may be interested in attending camp, should apply without delay to Mr. Atkinson or to the C.M.T.C. Officer, Fort McClellan, Alabama.

All necessary expenses are paid by the Government, including fare to camp and return, uniforms, wholesome food, athletic equipment, laundry service and medical attention. No obligation for future Military service is incurred by those attending these camps.

Scholarships in schools and colleges are given by institutions to trainees making the best showing in camps.

Discipline in the sense of punishment is unknown at the camps. The camps are run on the honor system. Men go to camp of their own free will for their own good. Their continuance at the camp is contingent on observation of camp regulations and gentlemanly conduct.

ıe School Tax Election—

We believe you will agree with us at the mere mention of more taxes ll bring a scowl to any person's face, r it is daily that we pay taxes and ɔre taxes on everything we buy, evything we own, and yet we hear talk more taxes needed for the support our governments. But there is a cessity for taxes, we all are aware of at, and some we don't mind paying. e are of the opinion that the quesı of whether or not the County threell levy will be renewed will receive e consideration at the polls on April , the date set by the Court of County mmissioners for this special election. ıe three-mill County tax was imposed enty years ago, and since that time e revenue collected has gone directly the support of the schools. This ings in annually approximately $33,-). This levy is scheduled to expire is fall, hence the special election to new or discontinue the levy. This is t a new tax.

Figures show that this thirty cents id on each one hundred dollars of xable property in Chilton County, is a rect fund for the schools. It may also noted that the part paid by utility rporations of the County is 54 per nt—more than half the total amount e levy brings in. The Alabama Pow- Company, Chilton County's biggest xpayer, alone pays 47 per cent, or proximately $15,000 of the amount.

A comparison of Chilton County hool costs ten years ago and today ows that in 1928-29, there was an enllment of 6,260 pupils and 190 teach- were employed, with 1,326 pupils ing transported by bus. Expenditures that period amounted to $219,291.10. e term 1938-39 saw an enrollment of 71 pupils (in February); 225 teachers th the total of 3,475 pupils being ınsported. Expenditures (budget) that period were $203,128.05. By this mparison we see that there was an rease in school population of 711 pu- s; an increase in teachers of 35; inease of pupils transported, 2,149— th a decrease in revenue of $16,163.05 is brings us to the cost per pupil in 28-29, which was $36.05. The cost per pil in 1938-39 was $29.14. In other rds, there has been a steady increase the cost of operating the schools, d a steady decrease in funds from ces.

We can plainly see by the above at a discontinuance of the present y would mean to the financial status the Chilton County Schools. There is o a three-mill District tax levy which ll expire at the same time the threell County tax levy expires. This tax ll have to be submitted to the voters parate from the three-mill county, in der to conform with the law.

These two tax levies, which amount very little to the individual taxpayer, ans much to the schools of this unty—so much that we cannot fail to to the polls on April 11 without rious consideration of the effect this has upon our school system. With ecial donations by the City Governent already necessary to hold the y school doors open for seven onths, the discontinuance of the threell County tax levy would bring on re complications to the the already mplicated condition of the schools.

PIONEER CITY RESIDENT DIES AT HER HOME

MRS. J. P. VAN DERVEER, AGE 83, PASSES FOLLOWING LENGTHY ILLNESS

Mrs. J. P. Van Derveer, pioneer resident of Clanton, passed away at her home here last Friday night. Mrs. Van Derveer, who was 83 years of age, had been in failing health for several years, and passed away in her sleep sometime during the night.

She had been a resident of Clanton for almost half a century, moving here in the early nineties from Jemison, Alabama.

Mrs. Van Derveer was the widow of the late J. P. Van Derveer, long prominent in Masonic circles of the state, and one-time mayor of Clanton. Mr. Van Derveer died some 16 years ago.

Mrs. Van Derveer was a charter member of the Local Chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star, and had only recently been made a life member.

She was a devoted member of the Baptist Church, with which she joined in her early years, and was for years an active worker in the Clanton Baptist Church.

Funeral services were conducted from the First Baptist Church in Clanton, Sunday afternoon at 2:30. The Reverend Oscar A. Davis officiated. Burial was in the local cemetery. Martin & Sons was in charge.

She is survived by one son, J. M. Van Derveer of Clanton; two daughters, Mrs. J. R. Pow of Woodward, Ala., and Mrs. A. S. Richards of Memphis, Tennessee; two brothers, John McMath, of Decatur, Alabama, and S. J. McMath of Columbus, Georgia; and seven grandchildren.

Pallbearers were P. T. Hinkle, H. T. Pipes, Frank Callen, Warren Wingard, C. B. Cox and Earl Parrish.

Child Struck By Auto Last Tuesday

Thomas Mull, age 7, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Mull of near Oak Grove, above Jemison was struck by an auto driven by Charles Mahaffey of Montevallo, last Tuesday afternoon late. The accident occurred on the highway near Oak Grove. The child received a broken right leg and painful cuts and bruses about the body, according to attendants at the Central Alabama Hospital here, where he was carried by Spigener Ambulance.

Just how the accident occurred was not learned, but Mr. Mahaffey stopped and rendered every aid possible in getting the child to the hospital. Local Highway Patrolmen investigated the accident. No charge has been placed against Mahaffey at the time of this writing. Young Mull is resting as well as could be expected, nurses at the hospital reported Wednesday morning of this week.

400,000-GALLON WATER TANK HAS NO LEAKS, TEST PROVES

The City of Clanton's new 400,000-gallon water tank has been given the O.K. mark by city officials, after it was filled with water from Yellowleaf Creek last week for the purpose of testing it for leaks. Mayor Jones stated that a small leak in the pipe line to the tank was all that could be found wrong with the project.

Construction on the new filtering tank is rapidly going forward, and will be completed in the near future, contractors say.

Engineer Succumbs To Injuries

L. Roy Virgin, age 54, died in the St. Vincents Hospital in Birmingham Tuesday morning of this week, from injuries sustained in a freight train accident March 25.

Mr. Virgin, engineer on the freight, was thrown from the cab of his engine while siding cars a short distance below Clanton, Saturday afternoon, March 25. Three of the freight cars were derailed from a spur track which ran out on a bridge. Mr. Virgin fell from the bridge and landed on the ground below, sustaining serious back and side injuries. His wrist was also broken, however, it was thought he would recover. A negro fireman was also injured in the accident. Mr. Virgin's home was on Calera Route 1.

The body was brought to Clanton Tuesday night by J. Mell Martin & Sons and prepared for burial. Funeral services were held from the Boyles Methodist Church, Boyles, Alabama, Wednesday afternoon at 2:30. Burial was in the family cemetery at Minooka, Jemison. The Rev. L. L. Hearne, assisted by Rev. C. M. Tindoll and Rev. George Corey, conducted the services, with J Mell Martin & Sons in charge of burial.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. H. F. Virgin, Calera Route 1; 1 brother, H. S., of Birmingham; 2 sisters, Mrs. Lydia Stockdale, Mrs. Sara Crim, Calera Route 1.

4-H Club Rally Termed Huge Success

The County-wide 4-H Club Rally held at Gragg Field last Friday was termed a huge success by those attending. Approximately 800 boys and girls were on hand to participate in the program arranged by Assistant County Agent C. L. Breedlove and Miss Mattie Jo Barber, Home Demonstration Agent in charge of 4-H Club girls.

Fair skies greeted the members Friday morning, which aided in making the day one of the greatest in 4-H Club history in Chilton County. Many termed the rally the best ever held in the county. Many local leaders were on hand to see that the members enjoyed every minute of the time. Besides talks by prominent people of the City and County, the boys and girls participated in games, contests, races, etc., during the day. The airport afforded ample room for the program of the day.

C.C.H.S. Agriculture Classes Growing

The Agriculture classes of the Chilton County High School are much larger this year than they have been in the past, according to a statement from one of the leaders this week.

In the Farm Crops Class fifty-seven projects have been started and there has been 160 improvements made on the homes and farms by the boys in this class.

The Livestock Class has started 23 projects and has made 49 home improvements.

The Farm Management Class, which is the first Management class that has been taught in this school is accomplishing much. These boys have begun 27 projects and have made 52 home improvements. We think this is going to be one of the best Agricultural courses taught in this school.

Easter Seal Sale Gets Hearty Response

Superintendent of Education Rascoe Maddox stated this week that the people of the Couny have been responding generously to the Easter Seal Sale Campaign conducted by the Alabama Crippled Childrens Society. Mr. Maddox is Chairman of the local committee in charge of the campaign.

Somthing like seventy dollars has been raised so far, it was reported, the seals mailed out from headquarters having met with a fine response. He urges those who have not mailed in their contributions, or the seals to do at an early date so that the committee may make its report. School children of the county have aided wonderfully, Mr. Maddox stated, by selling the seals distributed to them by their teachers.

Miss Fiquette Becomes Bride Of Mr. Towns At Beautiful Ceremony At Baptist Church

A wedding of much beauty in its simplicity was that on last Saturday evening at 8:00 o'clock at the Baptist Church in Clanton, when Miss Gertie Fiquette, attractive daughter of Mrs. W. J. Fiquette, became the bride of Mr. William Paschol Towns.

Standard baskets of spires and Weiglia combined with candelabar, burning white tapers, were arranged at the altar to form an appropriate background for the ceremony.

Peceding the ceremony Miss Mary Sue Porter sang "I Love You Truly" accompanied at the organ by Miss Thelma White.

The candles were lighted by Misses Ethel Mae Jones and Lois Foshee, while Miss White played soft music.

Then in the soft glow of the lighted candles and to the deep tones of Mendelssohn's "Wedding March," the bride with her only attendant, Miss Willie Maude Kelley, met at the altar the groom, who was attended by his broher, Mr. Earl Towns of Birmingham.

The Reverend O. A. Davis, pastor of the Baptist Church, pronounced the marriage vows, using the impressive ring ceremony.

The bride chose for her wedding a traveling costume developed of Japonica in Windsor and powder blue with accessories to match. She carried an arm bouquet of Easter lilies.

Mrs. Towns is one of Clanton's most popular and accomplished young women, being a graduate of both the Chilton County High School and the Alexander School of Business. She is a past president of the Clanton Pilot Club and of Y.W.A. For sometime she has been a valued employee of the Taylor Wholesale Grocery Company.

The groom holds a responsible position with the R. J. Reid Construction Company and though only recently come to Clanton, he has won for himself many close friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Towns, after a short wedding trip, will return to Clanton for a brief stay after which they will leave for Hardy, Arkansas, where his business takes him.

Their many friends wish for this charming couple a long life of much happiness and prosperity.

Youth Seriously Injures Father In Affray

B. Adams, who resides on the Parrish place, about seven miles east of Clanton, is in the Central Alabama Hospital here, suffering from a serious head wound, as the result of an affray in which his son, Grady Adams, is alleged to have struck him over the head with an iron bar. Attendants at the hospital reported that Mr. Adams sustained a badly fractured skull.

The incident occurred last Sunday afternoon about six o'clock at the Adams home. Witnesses stated that young Adams struck his father during a quarrel in front of the house. A J. Mell Martin & Sons ambulance brought the injured man to the hospital. The younger Adams was charged with assault with intent to murder and placed in the County jail here. His bond was set at $300, which was posted and he was released Tuesday of this week.

Latest reports from the hospital were that Mr. Adams was resting uncommonly well considering the extent of his injury.

Missing Child Found After 9-Hour Search

When little Tommie Holcombe, grandson of Mrs. J. B. Denson of Jemison, failed to arrive at a neighbor's house to which he had been sent on an errand, relatives and friends began a wide search for the child which lasted approximately nine hours last Friday.

Reports stated that a large crowd gathered and started the search for the child about 3:30 in the afternoon and lasted until midnight when groans in an old field about three-quarters of a mile from the home brought the searchers to the child, who, when found, was frozen almost to unconsciousness, and suffering from general exposure.

Tommie was placed in the care of a physician and latest reports were that he was doing fine after the harrowing experience.

High School Orators Heard By Kiwanians

A very interesting program was presented at the meeting of the Clanton Kiwanis Club last Thursday night, when four students in the high schools of the county participated in an oratorical contest. This program was arranged by B. E. Evans, Diversified Occupations co-ordinator at the Chilton County High School.

Miss Ann Ross, student at the Chilton County High School, was first speaker in the contest. Her subject was "Conservation of Our Forests." Miss Ross handled this subject in a most interesting manner and brought out many interesting facts about forest conservation and the present destruction of the forests of the Nation. Thurmon Milford, representing the Isabella High School, was second speaker, his subject being "Conservation of Our Human Resources. Young Milford's address was interesting in that it presented facts regarding present day diseases of the human race.

Miss Mary Ruth Gentry, of Verbena High School, ably delivered a most interesting address on "Conservation of Our Natural Resources," and Miss Annie Pearl Honeycutt of the Chilton County High School, who is President of the local Diversified Occupations organization, and also President of the State Future Homemakers of America, was fourth and final speaker in the contest. Her subject was also "Conservation Of Our Human Resources."

Judges for the contest were Kiwanians Mark Tucker, Oscar Davis and Rascoe. Maddox. Miss Ann Ross was awarded first prize, Thurmon Milford, second, Miss Honeycutt, third, and Miss Gentry's address was highly commended by the judges.

To say members of the Kiwanis Club thoroughly enjoyed the addresses of these young people, would be putting it mildly. They received the hearty compliments of the attending Kiwanians.

CHILTON TO GET 49 MILES RURAL ELECTRIC LINES

CENTRAL ALABAMA ELECTRIC MEMBERSHIP CORP. TO GET $384,000 FOR 459 MILES

A progress bulletin of the Rural Electrification Authority released this week gave out the information that the Central Alabama Membership Corp., embodying five counties, Autauga, Elmore, Coosa, Chilton and Bibb, had been allotted $384,000 for the erection of 459 miles of rural electric lines.

This corporation was formed several months ago and is composed of 1,701 members in the five counties. Marion Rushton of Montgomery is attorney for the Corporation.

Following is the release by the Authority:

REA has allotted $384,000 for this project. It is expected that these funds will build about 459 miles of line to serve 1,701 members. The new lines will extend into the following counties: Elmore, 152 miles; Coosa, 123 miles; Chilton, 49 miles, Autauga, 133 miles and Bibb, 2 miles.

The cooperative has been advised of the allotment and supplied with instructions for getting the lines under construction. The money will be available as details are completed.

Construction of these lines will provide nearly 97,000 man hours of employment in direct labor alone.

A schedule for legal and engineering steps will be sent to the project in the immediate future. Strict adherence to this schedule, which is set up to assist in the orderly and efficient handling of the work, will shorten the time before these Alabama farmers can begin using electricity.

As construction progresses and the operating stage approaches, new problems will come up. In addition to furnishing funds, REA wants to be helpful in every possible way. The Division of Operations Supervision is ready to assist with these operating problems an dto act as a clearing house for information as the Legal and Engineering Divisions do during the construction period.

COUNTY THREE-MILL SCHO'L TAX ELECTION MON.

SUPT. MADDOX URGES VOTERS TO RE-LEVY THREE-MILL TAX EXPIRING SOON

The special three-mill County-wide school tax election set for next Tuesday, April 11, is being called to the attention of the voters this week by Superintendent of Education Rascoe Maddox in a letter to the News, as follows:

"Editor, Chilton County News:

"I wish to remind the voters of the importance of the election on the three-mill County school tax next Tuesday. April 11. Let me emphasize the following facts:

"(1) This is not a new tax. The people have never voted it down.

"(2) If the tax is not relevied the school term will be shortened about three months.

"(3) This short term would mean that children would not be promoted or graduated.

"(4) Teachers would be compelled to leave the county to look for better positions.

"(5) No buildings or additions to buildings could be constructed.

"Let us consider these facts and go to the polls on April 11 and vote FOR the county-wide three-mill tax.

"RASCOE MADDOX,
'Superintendent of Education."

EDITORIAL BY MR. ROOSEVELT

The President of the United States often has complained about the treatment he has received at the hands of the American press. But this Monday morning he should have no complaint with The Advertiser, for we are printing as an editorial part of the excellent speech he delivered the other day at Auburn. Incidentally, we repeat what we have said often before: Franklin D. Roosevelt should become editor, or columnist, of a great American daily early in January, 1941.

At Auburn the President said:

"I have been talking with your Governor and the Senator and the Congressman from this district, driving over from Tuskegee, about land. I have been horrified, as I am always horrified, at all that needs to be done in the future to conserve the soil of the South.

"That is one of the great problems that lies with this generation and with you of the coming generation. That is part of the necessary economy if the South is to survive. But it is tied up with other needs as well, and perhaps I can illustrate by telling you of my first experience with the agriculture of the South.

"The first year I went to Warm Springs, fifteen, nearly sixteen years ago, I had a little cottage that was about a thousand feet from the old A.B. and A. tracks. The first night, the second night and the third night I was awakened out of a sound sleep by the sound of a very heavy train going through at a pretty high speed and, as it went through town the whistle blew and woke everybody up.

"So I went down to the station and said to the station master, 'What is that train that makes so much noise and why does it have to whistle at half past one in the morning?' 'Oh,' he said 'the fireman has got a girl in town.'

"I asked him what that train was and he said, 'That is the milk train for Florida.' Well I assumed of course, knowing that the climate of Florida, especially South Florida, is not very conducive to dairy purposes, that this train on the A.B. and A. contained milk and cream from Alabama and Georgia. I was wrong.

"That milk and cream for Florida came from Wisconsin and Minnesota and Iowa and Illinois and was taken through all the intervening States of Indiana and Ohio and Kentucky and Tennessee and Alabama and Georgia in order to supply milk and cream and butter for Florida.

"That gave me a feeling that something was wrong with the agricultural economy of these States of the lower South because you and I know from what we have been taught and from the experiments that have been made that these States can produce perfectly good milk and cream.

"A little while later on I went down to the village to buy some apples. Mind you, this place is only seventy-five miles from here. I knew—I had heard of the magnificent apples raised at the southern end of the Appalachain system. I had tasted them; no apples in the world were better.

"Yet the apples in Meriwether County, Georgia—the only ones I could find—came from Washington and Oregon.

"I went to buy meat—and I know that we can make pastures in these States—and the only meat that I could buy came via Omaha and Kansas City and Chicago.

"I wanted to buy a pair of shoes and the only shoes I could buy had been made in Boston or Binghamton, N.Y., or St. Louis.

"I believe that this country is going somewhere, but it must depend for its future progress and prosperity very largely on the younger generation, the people under thirty, the people who have got American ideals and are not afraid of trying new things.

"I would like to live long enough to see soil erosion completely stopped in this State and a lot of other States. I would like to live long enough to see the products of factories supplying local needs, State needs. I hope to be able to come back to this State and to the State of Georgia before I die and see at least a part of that ideal come true. For the achievement of that ideal you are going to be responsible in large part."—Montgomery Advertiser.

THE PRESENT COTTON SITUATION

1. 11,330,000 bales held in government loans.

2. Prospective carryover of American cotton at the end of the present season—14,500,000 bales.

3. Total world consumption of all cotton in the world third largest in history; consumption of American cotton so far this year smallest in 20 years.

4. Probable exports of American cotton this season around 3,500,000 bales, against a normal average of better than 6 million bales. Average exports last 5 years, 5,918,000; last 10 years, 6,834,000; 10 years before 1933, 7,904,000.

5. In 1932-33, the world consumed 14,385,000 bales of American and 10,266,000 bales of foreign cotton. In 1937-38, the world consumed 10,930,000 bales of American and 16,635,000 bales of foreign cotton. Or, while we furnished 58.4 per cent of world needs in 1932-33, we furnished only 39.7 per cent in 1937-38, despite our 19 million bale crop of that season.

MORAL ECHOES

D W. Haskew

Saint Augustine was a brilliant youth immersed in the sinfulness of Pagan Rome in which he lived. He was distinctly conscious of an inner voice that called him to a higher life, but for some reason he did not find the way to purity. There was one special sin in his life that he hated, but he loved it more than he hated it. One day he cried out, "O Lord, free me from my sins, all save this one." God did not forgive any. He cried many times for salvation from sins, but always put in this parenthesis, "Except this one." Conviction increased and finally in agony of soul he cried out, "O Lord, forgive me my sins, I mean all of them, Lord." and then the blessing came. The shackles fell and Augustine was free. If you seek forgiveness of your sins remember that you are not to hold out on any sin. Give up the one that you love most, give up all of them, and then God will forgive, but not until then.

While I was sitting in an audience watching a play I saw a person walk out on the stage that seemed to be nine feet tall and of tremendous size. He approached a quack doctor who was selling a medicine that could do wonders in every way, and of this doctor he asked that he treat him for his size. He said that he was entirely too large for comfort and he wanted to be reduced o the size of a normal man. The doctor climbed up a ladder and administered a dose of his "cure all" and immediately the size and height of the man began to cave in. In less than a minute he was walking around on the stage an average man, singing the praises of the quack doctor and his wonderful medicine. As I looked at that performance I said to myself: "Things are not as they seem." That looked like a big man and the medicine seemingly reduced him to a normal size and neither one was true. Blessed is that man who is able to detect a deception. A man on tomwalkers and padded with quilts, is not a giant. There are people everywhere who are trying to make believe that they are something when in reality they are not above the average.

When I was a boy I was reading about giants and I decided that I would turn to my dictionary and see what kind of a monster he was. The definition that I saw has been of great help to me along the way of life. This is what Mr. Webster said: "An imaginary thing of great size." While walking with a friend down Fifth Avenue in New York, we saw a very tall man approaching us. He must have been six feet taller than the tallest man on the sidewalk. We stepped to one side to see this giant go by, and we saw that he was a make-up—an ordinary man on stilts. A giant is "an imaginary thing of great size." When you are faced with difficulties in life that seem to be giants, do not become frantic, they are not so large as they seem. Remember that your difficulties in life are not so large as you think they are. Meet them and master them. Many of them are "imaginary."

Learn this lesson from a summer bather who sees that a tremendous wave from the deep is about to break upon him. Does he allow it to crash down upon him? Not at all. He leaps headlong into it and in a moment his sharp, clean strokes have carried him through to calm waters while the wave breaks itself to pieces on the shore. The swimmer was not paralyzed by a picture of disaster. He was master of the situation and dived through to safety. Learn to meet and to master the waves that threaten to crash down upon you. There is always a way through.

We should ever admire the story of a strong minded mother who lived in a log cabin in the wilderness. She was dying and called to her bedside a gangling, lanky lad and to him she said with the dew of heaven in her voice: "Abe, be somebody." As Abraham Lincoln pushed his way to the top he could hear that dying statement of his devoted mother—"Abe, be somebody." The command of that ambitious mother for her son, put iron into the blood of Lincoln. Listen to him later as he speaks with the dew of heaven in his eyes: "All that I am and all that I hope to be I owe it to my angel mother." There is a voice saying to you: "be somebody," and why not rise and win?

Selma Kiwanians Named State's Best

Selma, Ala.—Selma's Kiwanis Club has been chosen State winner of the annual achievement report contest, under which clubs of Alabama are judged for community services, it was announced Thursday by Secretary William Craig. The local organization will compete with other States and Canada for National honors.

The record of accomplishments, compiled at the close of the administration of C. H. Sims, revealed a considerable gain in membership and in attendance records for the entire 12 months, with a consequent increase in strength and effectiveness for the club in its various causes carried forward.

Mr. Craig, in behalf of the club, expressed satisfaction in receiving the award.

SCS COOPERATOR OVERCOMES OBSTACLES IN TERRACING

Heavy spring rains made life miserable for Mr. Aaron Guy, who placed his farm under agreement with the SCS Camp at Clanton, Alabama, recently. This farm is located 2 miles Northwest of Clanton on the old Birmingham and Montgomery Highway.

Camp engineers ran terrace lines for Mr. Guy and he immediately threw up terraces. Almost as soon as he completed terracing a field a heavy downpour would occur. This kept Mr. Guy busy repairing breaks in his terraces.

In spite of these heart and back breaking incidents Mr. Guy succeeded in completing his terracing, and has prepared several acres of land for kudzu and a small field for Black Locust.

Camp Technicians have made up a very desirable cropping plan for Mr. Guy's farm, and he is following the plan 100 per cent.

Before CCC enrollees were sent to clear pasture land he had gone ahead with clearing his portion, and a very poor strip of land producing timber fit only for firewood has been cleared for seeding to pasture grasses.

Included in Mr. Guy's plans are several acres of strip cropping, Lespedeza Sericea for erosion control and hay, Lespedeza Juncea for the same purpose goes in another area. Kudzu for hay production and erosion control has been planted in fields and meadow strips.

The effort made by Mr. Guy to carry out the SCS program is the topic of much favorable comment and the honor is justly due to this cooperator who would not give up when the going got tough.

Five Parks Will Be Opened Soon For Public Recreation

Future expansion and development of Alabama's state park system, comprising 22,163 acres in 14 different locations, was assured this week when Gov. Frank M. Dixon allotted nearly $40,000 for this purpose, according to Dr. Walter B. Jones, director of the State Department of Conservation.

Immediate plans for opening at least five of the state parks this Spring and Summer for public recreation and enjoyment were announced by Dr. Jones, who said that W. G. Lunsford, chief of the parks division, would be in charge of the program, in cooperation with Inspector R. F. Wirsching, of the National Park Service.

The state parks, considered by many as one of Alabama's chief recreational attractions for tourist and native alike, were given the sum of $36,891.77 to inaugurate the new era. This money will be used to complete cabins, lodges, water systems, boathouses, piers, dining rooms and other equipment necessary to put the parks in first-class shape for the Spring openings which will take place between May 15 and June 15.

The five parks that will be open to the public are Monte Sano, in Madison County; Gulf State Park, Baldwin County; Cheaha, in Clay, Cleburne and Talladega Counties; DeSoto Park, in DeKalb and Cherokee Counties; and Chewacla, in Lee County, according to Lunsford. Their total acreage is 14,741 acres, and each park will offer clean cabins and other modern recreational facilities. The charges will be reasonable, he said, and reservations may be made through the parks division at Montgomery or through the park custodians.

The remaining nine parks will be completed and opened as soon as possible, Lunsford said, but resources will be concentrated this Spring and Summer on the above named five parks.

The Civilian Conservation Corps, under direction of the National Park Service, has been busy for several years building the parks, and the Parks Division of the Conservation Department is entrusted with administration and operation of the system. At present there are seven CCC camps cooperating with the State in the parks work.

The chief aim of he parks division is to furnish the people of Alabama and vacationists from out of state with inexpensive and attractive places to rest, relax, swim, and enjoy the outdoors.

Information about any or all of the five state parks to be opened this Spring may be obtained from the parks division. Summary of the faciilties in each follows:

DeSoto—4,649 acres. 14 cabins; dining room; picnic facilities; DeSoto Falls; hiking, volley ball, horse shoe pitching, swimming, many interesting side trips, especially during the Spring flower season.

Cheaha—2,638 acres; seven cabins; swimming, hiking and other activities. View from highest mountain in Alabama. Picnic facilities.

Gulf State Park—4,522 acres. 16 cabins; boathouse for several hundred bathers; beach mile long; dining room; lounge room; three lakes; salt and fresh water fishing; life guard supervision for beach; and other attractions.

Monte Sano—2,110 acres. 11 stone cabins; lodge; dining room; picnic grounds; barbecue pits and fireplaces; nature study, archery, photography and craftsmanship and other activities sponsored by state and federal authorities; horseback riding with 10 miles of bridle paths.

Chewacla—822 acres; five stone cabins, bathhouse, playfeld for games, swimming; picnic facilities.

View of some of the dirt mounds, located near Moundville, Alabama, and from which Moundville gets its name. These huge mounds are believed to have been erected thousands of years ago by an Asiatic race of people, prior to the Indians. They are at present under scientific observation, and excavations are bringing to light interesting facts about this ancient race of people.

Many thousands of years ago, perhaps even before civilization began in Egypt and the Near East, there existed in Alabama a people with an organized culture that was in many ways more highly developed than that of their successors, the American Indians.

Now, ages after their disappearance, they will re-live in a pageant to be presented by the Hale County Historical Society on April 14. The ceremony will take place near the mounds which these ancients constructed where is now Moundville, Alabama, on the Black Warrior River.

Information concerning the life and customs of these people has been gained through scientific excavation in and near the famous mounds. The work wan begun in 1905 by Clarence B. Moore, but his efforts were only preliminary. Greatest amount of progress towards accurate knowledge of the race must be credited to the Alabama Museum of Natural History, with Dr. Walter B. Jones as director.

Scientists believe that the builders of these artificial hills originally came from Asia to this continent by way of the Bering strait. They pushed down the Pacific coast and settled in Mexico and Central America, establishing the Mayan civilization.

Then certain members of the race drifted or traveled eastward around the shores of the Gulf of Mexico. Why they did so, the scientists do not know. Perhaps these individuals were adventurous and wanted to see what lay beyond the eastern horizon. Maybe they were pearl traders who worked toward the Atlantic, ever setting up new colonies as they worked out the old beds.

Moundville was, most likely, the leading colony in this eastern section and was the religious center and capital of the area.

Since 1929 the museum staff has uncovered more than 2500 skeletons. With the bodies were dishes, ear plugs, ornamental objects and other articles that tell us much about the life of the Mound Builders.

These people were not Indians, as white men found Indians. The facial features of the skulls clearly are of Mongoloid character, not American Indian. The mound men either disappeared before the coming of the red men or were destroyed or assimilated by them.

Of a more complex social order than the Indians were they, and they lived less the life of idle wandering. These Alabama mounds were the site of a town, not for a few years, but for centuries. The mounds themselves were not built in one generation. They show at least two periods of occupancy and further excavation may indicate more periods. It would take thousands of men, working for years with the crude-basket method of dirt-carrying, to stack up such huge piles of earth that we find here on the banks of the Warrior river.

In their art the mystic swastika cross was frequently based upon. This fact again ties these men with their probable-Asiatic ancestors, because in Oriental pictures we find frequently that design. Then also we find several images with Oriental characteristics, even to the slanting eyes.

What happened to the Mound Builders, no one knows. Maybe they returned westward toward the sun, their god. Perhaps the red men came and killed them.

Examination of bones here has shown that syphilis was common. It cound have been that this malady wiped out the entire race.

But the scientific work goes on. Almost every day a new discovery is made. Maybe we shall soon know much more about the "First Americans."

Mrs. Celestia Dickinson Colley Becomes Bride Of Mr. Dan Martin At Impressive Ceremony

A wedding of much interest of recent date was that of Mrs. Celestia Dickinson Colley of Birmingham, Alabama, and Mr. Dan Martin, of Tuscaloosa, Alabama, which took place at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Julia M. Dickinson, near Clanton, Alabama, Sunday morning at ten o'clock.

The impressive ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Grady Williams in the presence of relatives and intimate friends.

A pretty setting was effected by an improvised altar of Southern Smilax with large baskets of white Iris and Bridal wreath. The cathedral tapers were lighted by Tom Colley.

The bride wore a Spring model of mauve crepe, accented by a corsage of carnations in shades of bronze.

Dr. and Mrs. Martin left immediately for a wedding trip to points in Florida after which they will be at home in Tuscaloosa, where Dr. Martin is a prominent druggist.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. John Respress, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Moore, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Broadhead, Mr. and Mrs. E. .L Klinner, Mr. and Mrs. Mastin Ellis, Mr. and Mrs. Holland Faught, Mrs. Tillie Lappage, Misses Julia Colley, Mary Virginia Respress, Emogene Broadhead; Messrs. Tom Colley, Joe Ellis, Buddie Hunnicut, Lynn Klinner, Jr., all of Birmingham.

MRS. ANNIE BOSTROM

Mrs. Annie Bostrom, died at her home 1 mile northwest of Thorsby, Thursday, March 29. She was 69 years of age.

Funeral services were held Friday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock from the Thorsby Baptist Church with the Rev. M. I. McLeod, assisted by the Rev. W. P. Lowery, in charge. Burial was i nthe Concordia cemetery with J. Mell Martin & Sons conducting.

She is survived by two sons, John V., Thorsby; Phillip G., Birmingham; one daughter, Mrs. Lille Sansom, Thorsby; two brothers, Phillip Gay, Jemison, and John Gay, Montevallo.

Pallbearers were Leonard Lowery, M. E. Willis, Varney Wyatt, Ernie Hanson, a Mr. Self and Mr. Cleckler.

Grammar School P.-T. A.

The Grammar School P.-T. A. held its last meeting of 1939 last Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the school. The meeting was called to order by the President, Mrs. Christiansen.

Mrs. R. M. Tucker gave the devotional and Mrs. Omar Reynolds gave a very interesting talk on child's health.

As the guest speaker, Dr. Sturkie, gave a good discussion and talk on "How We Can Keep Our Child Healthy", he urged the mothers to do more about a summer round-up of preschool age children.

Reports of the year were given and the group discussed the necessity of having a delegate at the state P.-T. A. Convention in Montgomery. They decided to send the new president, Mrs. Charles Wade, as this delegate.

Mothers of Clanton, let's put every effort forward to help have the best P.-T. A. and school that we have ever had before, this next year.

Alabama G. A. House Party

The following girls, with Mrs. Oscar A. Davis as chaperon, attended the Intermediate G. A. House Party at Judson College: Joan Atkinson, Dorothy Arnold, Bernice Lowe, Doris DeLoach, Juanita Miller, Pearl Henley and Sarah Nell Sessions.

Around four hundred girls from all sections of the State attended this meeting. The girls were entertained graciously and among the speakers at this meeting was Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Carson, Missionaries to Nigeria, Africa; Miss Margaret Chung, a very attarctive Chinese student who is attending the Baptist Bible Institute in New Orleans; Miss Juliette Mather, young peoples leader for the South; Rev. Francis Broyles, one of the State Missionaries in South Alabama; Miss Eva Berry, young peoples leader; Mrs. Ruby McLeod of Montgomery was song leader and Miss Margaret Brooks of Birmingham was recreational leader.

One of the highlights of the meeting was the coronation of the G. A. Queens on Saturday.

Of course the girls had their banquet on Saturday night and Sunday morning they went in a group to Old Siloam Baptist Church for Sunday morning services.

Mrs. Reuben Lowe and Mrs. O. D. DeLoach carried the group that went from Clanton to Selma to catch their bus for Judson and Mr. and Mrs. Sessions, Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Polk, Jr., and Miss Ama Allen met them in Selma Sunday and brought them home.

We are quite sure that these girls received a great blessing from this meeting and we sincerely hope that these and many others might be able to attend the next one.

The many friends of Hayden Lanier, will be interested in the following item taken from the States-Graphic, Brownville, Tenn.:

"Hayden Lanier Wins Second Place In Contest" . . . .

Hayden Lanier, the attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Lanier of this city and pupil of Mrs James Mann, ranked second place in her class in piano contest held in Nashville.

This a very high honor and one well deserved by this talented young pianist."

Her rating was between 90 and 100. In the same issue of this paper there appeared an article in the school column saying that Hayden represented the Brownsville School in the State competitive spelling festival at Nashville, where she did exceedingly well. Hayden is rated as a straight "A" student in all subjects.

Name It, Youth Has It to Sell

Boy Repairs Bikes, Treats Ailing Pets and Goes To School, Too.

CLEVELAND. — Busy Benny Kaufman, 16-year-old business man, goes to school, operates a store, repairs bicycles, sells old magazines, cares for ailing pets, supports himself and gives excess profits to his father.

In his store the young man, who has accepted no money from his parents since he was 10, sells white rats, razor blades, white mice, toothbrushes, statuary, perfume, pigeons, work gloves, wallets and flints for cigar lighters.

"I also have," said Benny, ringing up a sale, "bath salts, furniture polish, lovebirds, dog harness, hair tonic, goldfish—the best, and only 10 cents—bicycles, talcum powder, electric light bulbs, and bird cages."

Benny said that if that doesn't include what the customer wants, he can get it for him.

Expert Cycle Repairer.

His ability to repair bicycles is attested to by all the riders in the neighborhood.

"Why, he can take the worst bike," said one customer, who had dropped in to have a flat tire repaired, "and when he gets it fixed it's better than a new one."

The pet shop has been flourishing since September 30, 1937.

"I started with $5 and two white rats," Benny said, beaming.

Seven months after the opening of the pet shop, he added the bicycle business and operated it in the basement of his home.

Three months later the used-magazine business was incorporated and a little later the specialties were added.

The customers range in age from "4 to 70, not including my little 3-year-old brother Howard. He comes in all the time wanting mice to play with."

Bicycle Business Grows.

The bicycle business also was started with $5 capital.

"Now," Benny said, "it's worth $150."

Benny goes to school until 12:45. He gets to his store at 1 p. m. and remains until 9 in the evening. When he isn't there, his father takes charge.

Young Kaufman was not always in business for himself.

"For years," he said, "I worked for others before I found out how much better it is to work for yourself."

He prefaced his present experience by working in a butcher shop, and after that operated a weight-guessing concession at the Great Lakes exposition.

"I guessed 'em, too," Benny said. "I think my butcher-shop experience helped me there."

Hungarian Domestics Set New Fashion in England

LONDON.—Hungarian girls are the latest fashion in servants for British homes. Three thousand are working in the country and others are arriving daily.

Berlin's officially expressed wish that all German girls in service abroad should return home, due to the shortage of labor, is expected to take full effect here shortly. Of the 20,000 German girls in domestic service in Britain it is estimated 8,000 will give up their jobs speedily.

Hungarians are the most popular candidates for the vacancies. They far exceed in number the newcomers from Czechoslovakia, Jugoslavia and Rumania. An agency now exists in Notting Hill-Gate which deals exclusively in placing Hungarian servants.

Most of the Hungarians coming here are sturdy peasant girls who work hard, cook well, are loyal and truthful and are fine needlewomen.

New Machine Reads Mind In Thought and Relaxed

PASADENA, CALIF. — Suspects who offer the hoary defense of a "brain storm" may be called upon hereafter to present in court a weather map of the disturbance.

Dr. Lee E. Travis, psychology professor of the University of Southern California, after five years of experimentation has perfected a recording machine which shows regular even waves when the mind is relaxed, irregular lines when thought intrudes in the mind, and is expected, in the case of "brain storms"—if there are any—to show at least a big blotch of ink.

Finds 4 Per Cent of Americans Illiterate

BERKELEY, CALIF.—Illiteracy in America is far greater today than in any of the more important European countries, according to Dr. Fletcher Harper Swift, of the University of California.

Illiteracy in America, he said, is in excess of 4 per cent as against .34 in England and practically nothing in the Scandinavian countries.

He said that in Sweden, Norway and Denmark only those who are insane or mentally incompetent are illiterate.

ALL-DAY SINGING AT MACEDONIA CHURCH THIRD SUN.

There will be an all-day singing at Macedonia church on the third Sunday in April, the News has been requested to announce.

Singers an dthose who like to hear good singing are cordially invited to attend. On Friday before the third Sunday there will be a cleaning off of the cemetery. All who will are asked to join in the work.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to take this means of expressing our thanks and deep appreciation for the deeds of kindness and expressions of sympathy during our recent bereavement in the death of our wife, mother, daughter and sister. Especially do we thank Dr. Lawrence, and Mr. Martin for their kindness. May His richest blessings abide with you all. —Ollie Hayes and family.

ANNUAL SPRING SINGING CONVENTION SET FOR APRIL 23RD

Prof. O. L. Devaughn, chairman of the Chilton County singing convention, has announced that the spring session of the convention will meet at the courthouse in Clanton on the fourth Sunday in April, also the Saturday night before.

Singers of the county are asked to bear the date in mind and make arrangements to attend. Some good quartets and visiting singers are expected to be present.

MARINE CORPS TO ACCEPT EIGHTEEN MEN IN APRIL

During April eighteen men will be accepted for enlistment in the United States Marine Corps from this area, of which Macon, Ga., is headquarters, it has been announced by Major J. M. Tildsley, officer in charge.

Full information concerning enlistment may be had from the headquarters in Macon.

LOWER IN 1938 THAN IN 1939

Montgomery, Ala., April 1.—In spite of an increase estimated at about 32,000 in the State's population, 1,118 fewer people died in Alabama last year than in 1937, according to provisional figures prepared by the Bureau of Vital Statistics of the State Department of Health.

These figures show that Alabama deaths reported last year totaled only 29,967, as compared with a 1937 total of 31,085. Last year's total was described as lower also than the totals for 1928, 1929, 1930, and 1936. Nearly 80 per cent of the decrease last year, as compared with 1937, was said to have been among the Negroes of the State.

WINNERS IN 4-H ARCADIAN CONTEST

Making one-acre plots of cotton and corn produce maximum yields and thereby obtaining larger per acre profits will be the theme of the 4-H Arcadian Cotton and Corn Contest in Chilton County this year.

Last year the four winners of the state contest were awarded all-expense trips to the National Club Congress in Chicago. These winners were Hiram Pollard, Semmes, Mobile Couny, who gathered 1800 pounds of seed cotton from one acre; Elwood Hancock, Goodwater, Tallapoosa County, 53.4 bushels of corn; J. R. Weatherford, Vina, Franklin County, 575 pounds of lint cotton; and Hilton Robinson, Spring Hill, Mobile County, who gathered 63 bushels of corn.

A total of 1601 club boys participated in this contest last year, according to C. L. Breedlove, assistant county agent. The average yield of corn was 32.9 bushels per acre and 465 pounds of lint cotton per acre.

While yields play an important part in the contest, Mr. Breedlove points out that activities in the 4-H club are also considered in selecting state winners. Other rules of the contest are:

1. All contestants will be required to use at least 100 pounds Arcadian nitrate per acre, but more may be used if desired.
2. Each contestant must be a bona-fide 4-H Club member enrolled with the county agent, or assistant county agent. Previous winners of out-of-state trips and members under 15 years of age are not eligible for trip prizes.
3. Awards to be made on the following basis:

Yield, 60 per cent; 4-H activities, 40 per cent.

Yield—All cotton yields should be given in pounds of seed cotton per acre. Corn yields should be given in bushels per acre.

4-H activities:—Story of club work, 20 per cent; Participation in 4-H club programs, camps, rallies, community activities, leadership, etc., 20 per cent.

Prizes—Four educational trips will be given by this company to the National Club Congress Chicago, Ill., to be in December, 1939.

Two trip awards will be made in cotton and two in corn; one for each crop to the northern half and one for each crop to the southern half of the State.

High yields, even though not winners according to the above basis of awards, will be turned in together with a story of how the member made his yields.

All reports of contestants must be in the county agent's office on, or before, November 1, and in the State Club Leader's office in Auburn on, or before, November 9, 1939.

MUSIC CLUB PRESENTS JUNIOR AND JUVENILE CLUB IN RECITAL

A splendid program of musical selections was presented in the Baptist Church March 23 at 3:00 P.M. at the recital given by the Junior and Juvenile Club under the sponsorship of the Clanton Music Appreciation Club.

Hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. Edwin Mullins and Miss Elsie Schurter. Before the recital the Club held a short business meeting and elected Mrs. W.M. Polk of Clanton as delegate to the State Convention of Music Clubs to be held in Birmingham April 18, 19, and 20.

Mrs. Barney Roberts, Mrs. Henry Jones, Miss Della Latham and Miss Kathryn Foss were in charge of the program which was opened with the playing of four piano selections by Johnny Fant: "Three Jolly Sailors," "Soldiers At Play," Indian Chief," and "Uncle Ben." A sextette trio, composed of Joe Mullins, Jr., Walter and George McCain, was heard in a rendition of "Soft Music Is Stealing," and "America."

A number of piano offerings were then presented as follows: "Serenade," by Heller, was played by Jean Mullins. Bach's "Arioso," by Irvin Lande; "Rose Fay," by Heins, Bess Hayes; two numbers played by James Duke Heflin were Bethoven's "Fuer Elise," and Braham's "Waltzinak."

Ruby Raybon was then presented in vocal renditions of "Sing Joyous Birds" by Phillips. "Lovely Celia," by Munro, and "The Winds In The South." This was followed with two piano solos: Kamman's "Dance of the Brownies," played by Frances Ellis and Schubert's "March Militare," played by Lawrence Howard.

Miss Kathryn Foss and James Duke Heflin were heard next in a piano duet, "Oriental Fantasy," by Ketelbay. DeBussy's "Clair de Lure" was then played by Helen Parrish and Schumann's "Papillions", by Mae Anniece Polk.

The finis of the program was made with organ solos by Grace Ezell.

The next meeting of the Club will be held with Mrs. J. C. Jones on April 11.

Lightning, Wind Do Queer Stunts In Storm

Bed Struck, Sleeper Unhurt; Auto Overturned, Six Occupants Escape

Never a windstorm without freakish incidents occur, and Sunday's storm in Middle Alabama was no exception.

Most unusual was the narrow escape from injury or death of Miss Katherine Braswell, of Sweetwater, who was visiting at the home of A. A. Hinson, at Actagon, when lightning struck the house.

The bolt hit the chimney and came down it to smack the foot of the iron bed in which Miss Braswell was sleeping, tore it loose from the bed rails and hurled it 10 feet across the guest room. The lightning then struck the radio, tore off some weatherboarding and left the house by way of the drainpipe and kitchen steps, reducing the latter to kindling wood in the process.

Miss Braswell was left a little deaf in one ear but otherwise unhurt, while the 14 other persons in the house merely smelled the smoke left in the lightning's wake.

Over at Goodwater, the windstorm struck the home of Hubert Summers, tore off the front porch, hung it on the roof top, blew the porch swing clear over the house and deposited it some distance away. None of several persons in the house was injured.

About the same time in Goodwater, Paul Sardis, of Sylacauga, was driving on Weogufka Street when the wind overturned his car, hurled it into W.A. Rayfield's yard to smash into John Cardwell's car. Sardis, his wife, and four children, who were in the car with him, escaped uninjured, although both cars were severely damaged.—Birmingham News.

As a result of a forestry movement in Mobile County farmers and 4-H club members have planted 50,000 pine tree seedlings, since January 1.

LIBERTY HILL B.Y.P.U.

Our B.Y.P.U. met Sunday night with a large crowd present. The topic for discussion was Purity in the Personal Life. After the program was carried out officers were elected as follows: President, Mrs. Homer Smith; Vice-President, Jewell Moore; Secretary and Treasurer, Blanche Jones; Reporter, Magaret Lowery; Bible Drill Leader, Tressie Lee Culpepper; Group Captain Number one, W. B. Crowe; Group Captain number two, Mrs. Johnnie Culpepper; Number three, Carl Jones. We invite everyone to come out and support and encourage the new officers in order to have a better B.Y.P.U.

MRS. W. A. BARRETT, AGE 82, DIED AT HER RESIDENCE

Meet At Institute

Teachers Association Holds Interesting

Saturday morning, April 1, Chilton County teachers met at the Thorsby Public School auditorium. After the roll call by Superintendent H. R. Maddox, Mr. J. E. Daniel, Principal at Maplesville and President of the County Association, said a few words. Mr. G. C. Weldon, principal of Thorsby Grammar School, called on the Rev. Hubert Bahr, pastor of the Thorsby Congregational Church, to have charge of the devotions.

Miss Kathryn Fos, music teacher at Thorsby Institute, sang a solo, accompanied by Mae Anniece Polk, a senior at Thorsby Institute. This was followed by group singing under the direction of Mr. Ralph Grant, principal of Collins Chapel School.

A debate then took place, of which Mr. Robert Johnson, Thorsby Public School teacher, was in charge. The debate was in reference to adding one month to our calendar. The affirmative side was upheld by Mr. Hiten, teacher at Thorsby Public School, and Miss Frances Conway, senior at Thorsby Institute. The negative was upheld by Miss Arra Jones, Thorsby Public School teacher and Mr. Marvin Davenport, Thorsby. The judge's decison was a tie.

After the debate section meetings were held for about thirty minutes. This was followed by election of officers. Mr. Ragnor Ekblad, a Thorsby Institute graduate, also a graduate of Piedmont College, Georgia, was elected President of the Teachers' Association. Mr. Grant was chosen Vice-President and Miss Heflin of Jemison School was elected Secretary-Treasurer.

Chevrolets Are Shipped And Not Towed

Atlanta, April 6.—Despite the growing demand for its cars and trucks, Chevrolet will continue to ship its output to its retail destinations, rather than drive or tow them.

This is the assertion of W. E. Holler, general sales manager, who has just conferred here with L. S. Costley, Southeastern regional manager. Mr. Holler is holding a series of meetings with his wholesale organization in various parts of the country.

Mr. Holler said that Chevrolet's adherence to shipping, as against other modes of delivery, is undoubtedly partially responsible for the steady gain in favor recorded by Chevrolet, since it heightens the satisfaction which derive from their purchase. Latest available figures show Chevrolet substantially ahead in this state and throughout the Southeast, as well as in the country at large.

"Chevrolet cars and trucks," said Mr. Holler, "are new when they reach their buyers. They have not been driven nor towed, nor used for towing other units. Prospective purchasers in Florida, Alabama, and other territory supplied by the Atlanta plant may order their new Chevrolets with that important fact in mind."

Passenger Traffic In The Stratosphere

The Associated Press tells of a "flying laboratory" which raced non-stop from Minneapolis to Boston at an average altitude of 20,000 feet in what Mayo Clinic scientists described as a "completely successful" test of a new-type oxygen mask designed to make practicable substratosphere flight and aid flying at normal altitude.

Mal Freeburg, pilot of the commercial passenger plane (Northwest Airlines) which carried 10 other persons, including his wife, said the flight was made at an average speed of 250 miles an hour for 1,140 miles. He described it as a "record" for fully-loaded passenger planes flying at that altitude without "dual-stage super-charged motors."

The plane left Minneapolis at 10:30 A. M. (Central Standard time) and arrved at Boston Airport at 4:29 P.M., E.S.T. (2:30 P.M., Central Standard time), an elapsed tme of four hours and 50 minutes.

The passengers, wearing masks which look like football players' noseguards, with bulb attached, said they were "completely comfortable" as they ate a chicken dinner, drank and talked while the plane hurtled through the substratosphere, some times at a height of 23,000 feet

The four-ounce rubber masks, small enough to be tucked into a handbag, were attached to oxygen feedlines. The wearer breathed the oxygen through his nose. Carbon dioxide was exhaled through the nose into a bladder-like rubber bulb fastened below the mask. When the wearer next inhaled, a quantity of carbon dioxide was returned to the lungs "thus stimulating deep berathing," explained Dr. R. W. Lovelace, one of the three Rochester, Minn., scientists who designed the mask.

Lovelace, one of the group which will exhibit the equipment at two-day at the Harvard fatigue laboratory, declared today's test fortified his contention that the masks will be practicable for use "at an altitude of 35,000 feet."

Mrs. Freeburg, the only woman passenger, declared she was "even able to powder my face" while wearing the mask, but she added with a smile:

"They'd better make it better looking before it will be popular with the well-dressed woman flier."

H. A. WORTHAM ASSUMES COMMAND OF PWA PROGRAM

Acting Regional Director H. A. Wortham today assumed full command of the Public Works Administration's 180 million-dollar program in region three to complete 1,131 projects of all types by July 1940.

Administrator Harold L. Ickes placed Wortham in charge of work in the nine states of: Alabama, Florida, Kentucky, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina Tennessee, and Virginia.

The new director filled the vacancy made by resignation of H. T. Cole, who returned on March 18 to private life and his hobby of flying.

Under the 1938 program in the region, Ickes granted outright $90,769,140 of PWA funds for construction of improvements valued $180,088,102. This work, all underway by the first of the year, must be completed by July 1940.

Wortham's appointment gave him the responsibility of constructing the largest public works program ever attempted in the region.

All told over the last six years, PWA has built or is building 2,832 projects worth $505,088,728 with $310.576,071 of PWA funds, as authorized by the Congress.

Wortham, a native of Texas, is a graduate of Purdue University and 53 years old. His home is Louisville Ky., although his present duty station is Atlanta.

He was associate regional engineer at the time he was advanced to take charge. His first assignment with PWA was in 1934. He became state engineer inspector for Kentucky and Tennessee, a senior engineer in the regional office, a project engineer in Louisville, and returned to Atlanta as associate regional engineer last June.

Before his appointment with PWA, Wortham was assistant to the president of Selden Breck Construction Company of St. Louis, Mo., where he was employed from 1908 to 1922. He was general manager of Gamble Construction Company of Louisville from 1922 to 1924, and headed his own concern in the construction business for 10 years prior to his PWA work.

Farm Roads Cause Erosion

A straight line may be the shortest distance between two points, but that doesn't mean it's the best route for a farm road to follow, according to Henry T. Stanley, Soil Conservation Service engineer in the CCC camp area near Clanton, Alabama.

Farm roads in the past have been the cause of a serious erosion problem, owing to fact that in many cases they have been run up and down hill without regard to the terracing system. This practice has frequently resulted in water from terraces being emptied into unprotected road ditches.

As a part of the erosion control program now being established on cooperating farms, Soil Conservation Service workers are giving farmers technical assistance in solving this problem by indicating proper location of farm roads on a water disposal plan, which shows the location of terrace outlets and the drainage of terraces.

Planning the road and water disposal system together is enabling farmers to locate their roads on the contour or, where it is necessary to run roads up and down hill, to locate them so that the terrace water will drain away from the roads.

Tuberculosis Program Discussed

The anti-tuberculosis program now being carried out in Chilton County was described today by Dr. S. D. Sturkie, County Health Officer, as being the best possible without a sanatorium in the County. Through the cooperation of the local Tuberculosis Association and the County Commissioners with the Health Department, machinery has been set up whereby indigent cases of tuberculosis can be admitted to the Montgomery County Tuberculosis Sanatorium, the treatment started there, and the patient returned home where treatment is continued by a local physician without any cost to the patient.

The Commissioners pay the cost of the stay in the Sanatorium and the local Tuberculosis Association pays the physician fo radministering refills. While this plan of treatment can not be used in all cases, a majority of early cases can be benefitted. The public health value of such a plan lies in the fact that by treating an open case of tuberculosis, one removes a source of infection for the family and contacts.

"Treatment and hospitalization must not be our only weapons," stated Dr. Sturkie, "as we must find cases and find the mearly before treatment can be given. We can find cases by chest x-rays of all persons with suggestive symptoms and persons exposed to open cases of tuberculosis."

Symptoms which suggest early pulmonary tuberculosis, according to Dr. Sturkie, are a rapid loss of weight, spitting of blood, chronic indigestion, being easily fatigued, chronic cough, etc. In many instances the patient will suffer with only one of these symptoms. Any person manifesting any of these symptoms should receive the benefit of a chest x-ray and sputum examination. The Health Department is able to ararnge for the chest x-rays of persons not financially able to pay a private physician.

Prattville's Big Tree

Montgomery has some mammoth trees, the circumference of which has been chronicled in this column during the last few days. But Autauga County has made a bold challenge for the honors. Judge C. A. Thomas, of Prattville, writes of his white oak:

"In my back yard, I have growing a large white oak, measuring twenty-one feet, two inches in circumference, three feet above the ground. This tree is located in the back yard of the residence in which the late Doctor Eugene Smith, state geologist, was reared. Doctor Smith frequently talked with me about this giant white oak and was of the opinion it was the largest tree of its kind in Autauga County.

"On one occasion, a tree specialist—who was cleaning out some of the deadwood from its branches—stated he was of the opinion that this tree was probably 500 years of age. The tree has enormous branches, spreading approximately 119 feet, and is, perhaps from 115 to 120 feet in height. It produces, annually, from twenty to twenty-five bushels of acorns, which are very large in size.

"Someone, I hope, will follow this report and see if they know of a more gigantic white oak than the one described above."—Prattville Progress.

Convicts And The Lash

When Henry Sweet, Jefferson County Commissioner, saw a man "stretched out flat, on his stomach" with one man sitting on his head, and two others holding his feet, while still another applied the lash, he decided to do something about it according to the following story coming out of Birmingham.

Henry W. Sweet, Jefferson County Commissioner, voiced his disapproval of the use of the lash on county convicts. Sweet's opposition to the punishment resulted when he witnessed, as a part of his duties, the whipping of four prisoners for infraction of rules.

The commissioner said he would suggest to the commission that solitary confinement be substituted for the lash.

Jefferson County has approximately 600 convicts. Alabama's other 66 counties turn all their convicts over to the State.

Sweet, describing the whippings, said the men "were stretched out flat on their stomachs with one man sitting on the head of each convict and one or two others holding his feet."

The Jefferson County Commission has since voted to abandon the lash.

Jimmie Mize's Dog "Jack"

Believe it or not, here are two "Believe it or nots" in one:

Mark Tucker, publisher of the Chilton County News, was sitting at his desk last Friday, talking with Commissioner Monroe Parrish, when a gentleman walked in the office, extended his hand to Mark and said: "I know who you are, do you know who I am?" Mark looked at him a moment and replied, "Jimmie Mize," (J. O. Mize of Maplesville), whom he had not seen in more than 50 years, and had no idea where he was living at the present time. As boys they grew up together and naturally talked about "old times," and "J., O."—that's what they call him now around Maplesville—brought the conversation down to date and the second "believe it or not."

Mr. Mize owns a small dog named "Jack," and while he was working in the garden the other day, a hawk sailed into the yard in an attempt to pick up a chicken. In a flash "Jack" was after the hawk, kept him from getting the chicken, and landed Mr. Hawk flat of his back in a shallow pond of water, where "J.O." finished him with a stick —and if anyone doesn't believe it, he says he can prove it by Hill Foshee.

May 15th Is C.M.T.C. Enrollment Time Limit

Collector Gives Advice On How to Talk Antiques

In promoting sprightly conversation about fishing, horses, music, art, relief or aviation, familiarity with the subject is advantageous. In social symposia about antiques ignorance is a negligible detriment. One can put up a creditable front with a modicum of easily acquired patter. Such technical tidbits as "patina," "luster," "hallmark," "sunburst," "salt glaze" and "Americana" are useful as evincing interest and intelligence (whether you possess them or not), but are not necessary as starters.

Upon finding yourself surrounded in an antique household without means of escape, any one of the following leads will prove efficacious.

"Have you been to any auctions lately?"

"Is that portrait your great-grandfather?"

"Isn't it appalling, the fakes that are being put out now!"

After that you may confidently withdraw into the silences, emerging only for an occasional, well-placed murmur of appreciation. The antiquer will do the rest. There is, in a world resonant with chatter, no more prolific, determined and self-sustaining conversationalist than your collector of the residue of the past.—Samuel Hopkins Adams in Coronet.

Novelist Learned English By Heavy Hand of Father

For years, on Sunday night, we sat around the fire and read. My father sat in his armchair on the right. My mother sat facing him in a low rocking chair. Between them was a long wooden backless bench on which we all sat: my sisters, my brother, and I.

It was cozy enough in the kitchen then. There was a lamp hanging to a nail in the wall: a tin lamp, a glass chimney with no shade, a reflector of polished tin. We read "The Pilgrim's Progress" and "Robinson Crusoe," and many another good book, because my father abhorred rubbish. He would read a little; then, one by one, the children would take their turns. If we mispronounced a word once, he would correct us irritably; if twice, he would clout us across the head. So we became acquainted with wholesome English.—Howard Spring in Atlantic Monthly.

Spice Center of the World

Zanzibar is an island 23 miles off the coast of Tanganyika in the Azanian sea, with a population of more than 137,000. Zanzibar is the chief spice center of the world, the bulk of the clove supply being grown there. It is estimated that 48,000 acres, with more than 4,750,000 trees are devoted to this industry. Next to clove growing is the copra industry, with 55,000 acres given over to 2,500,000 coconut trees. The island is governed by a sultan but is administered by a British resident. The British residency is the finest building in the town of Zanzibar, the capital of the island. Fishing gives employment to many natives. The island's only wild animal is the little gazelle. One of Zanzibar's suburban towns is called Bu-Bu-Bu, probbaly the only triple-named town in the world.

Old Iron Works

Reminder of the days when iron working was one of North Carolina's prominent industries is an old chimney, all remaining of the Washington iron furnace located near Bessemer City, N. C. The furnace was active during the late Eighteenth century and during the first part of the Nineteenth, and many hinges, andirons and other wrought iron fixtures were manufactured. During the battle of Kings mountain, which occurred just a few miles away, cannon balls were cast for the American army. None of these could be used, however, as the British had already been put to rout by the time the heavy balls had cooled off sufficiently for use.

'Seven Cities'

Far from the mainland and rarely visited by cruise ships the Azores are known as the "garden spots of the Atlantic," according to Raymond-Whitcomb.

On the principal island of St. Michaels are the Seven Cities, not what the name implies, but two remarkable lakes in a volcanic crater.

One of these lakes, Logoa Grande, is brilliant blue; the other Logoa Pequena, is emerald green. When water in the lakes is high the division between them is not discernable but each retains its distinctive coloring.

Paint Prescriptions

"Industrial paints" are those coatings designed for use in the multifarious products of industry. The range is very wide—from automobile to agricultural machinery and implements—and in each case the paint is designed for its specific purpose, usually under specification of test requirements.

VERBENA ELEMENTARY SCHOOL TO PRESENT A SPRING FESTIVAL

Pupils and teachers of Verbena Elementary School will give as their concluding program of the year "A Spring Festival" which will be held on the athletic field near the High School building on the evening of April 12.

In an outdoor setting, flooded with artistic lighting, the entire school will participate in the festivities. Outstanding features of the program will be the crowning of the Queen of Spring, revelries of the frogs, birds, butterflies, and flowers, and three Maypole dances in traditional style.

There will be no admission charge, and friends and patrons of the school are invited to attend this novel and unique entertainment. The program will begin at 7:30 o'clock. Should the weather on the evening of April 12 prove unsuitable for outdoor presentation, the event will be postponed until the evening of April 13 at the same hour and same place.

NOTICE OF THE FILING OF BILL OF COMPLAINT BY STATE OF ALABAMA, COMPLAINANT, VS. ONE PLYMOUTH CAR, 1932 MODEL, RESPONDENT

State of Alabama, Complainant, vs. One Plymouth Car 1932 Model, Respondent.

In the Circuit Court of Chilton County, Alabama, In Equity.

The Bill of Complaint of the State of Alabama, on the relation of G. C. Walker, as Deputy Solicitor of Chilton County, against One Plymouth Car, 1932 Model, being exhibited to me, and it appearing therefrom that on the 26th day of February, 1939, one Eddie Tate, did transport in One Plymouth Car, 1932 Model, certain prohibited liquors and beverages from one point to another in the State of Alabama, and that said automobile was on said day seized by the Sheriff of said County and said Bill of Complaint praying that said automobile be declared forfeited to the State of Alabama, and for an order of condemnation and sale thereof.

It is therefore ordered and decreed that notice of the filing of said Bill of Complaint be given for three successive weeks in The Chilton County News, a newspaper published in the Town of Clanton, Alabama, and that all persons claiming or asserting any right, title or interest in said automobile be required to appear and assert such claim by the 28th day of April, 1939, and that failing so to do, the said right, title or interest will be forever barred.

Given under my hand, this the 14th day of March, 1939.

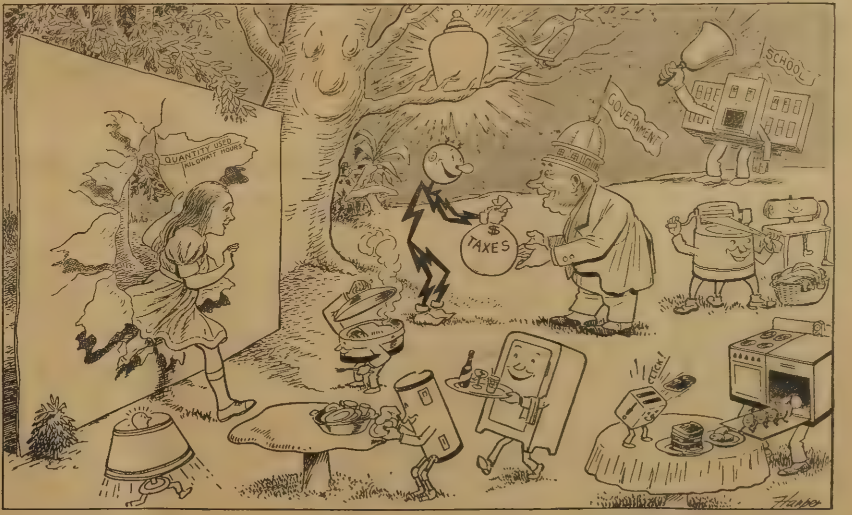
Headache, Bad Breath May Be Your Warning

The sea's thrilling S. O. S. means "Help is needed now!" And, so do most of those headaches, that biliousness, coated tongue, or bad breath which are often signs of constipation.

To disregard these symptoms may bring on a host of other discomforts from sluggish bowels: sour stomach, belching, loss of appetite. See how much better you feel the day after taking spicy, all vegetable BLACK-DRAUGHT. By simple directions, it acts gently, cleanses promptly, thoroughly. Its principal ingredient is an intestinal tonic-laxative; imparts tone to lazy bowel muscles. Next time try BLACK-DRAUGHT!

BE ALICE, BUT STEP THROUGH YOUR ELECTRIC BILL INSTEAD OF A LOOKING GLASS

If You Are A Customer Of Alabama Power Company, Tell What You See, And Perhaps A $5 Check Will Be Yours



WHEN Alice stepped through the looking glass, she saw many things that she hadn't expected to see. And today, when thoughtful persons "step through" their electric bill, they see many things their electric bill represents that they hadn't thought of before.

They see that the modest amount of their electric bill represents numerous benefits—some of which come over the electric wires, and many of which do not. Of the benefits which do not come over the wires, modern schools are one example. Approximately a million and a half dollars of the amounts paid each year on electric bills of privately-owned electric companies are for the upkeep of the schools.

Other millions thought to be paid only for electricity—through taxes—go for law enforcement, fire protection, improvement of farming, forestry; and other governmental activities such as better highways, sanitation, public parks, social betterment, flood control, national defense and others you will see as you "step through" your electric bill.

Of the benefits which come over the wires for such a modest amount, perhaps you'll see light—plenty of it, so the children can get their lessons, or that you can read or sew or play games without eye-strain. Or you may see your electric refrigerator, which for the small amount included in your electric bill, enables your family to live more economically and with fewer health hazards.

Perhaps the cleanliness and convenience of the electric range will be one of the benefits you see; or ample hot water, seeming to come as if by magic at the mere turn of a faucet. Or clean clothes, not as the result of hours of backache over a washboard, but because of the electric motor that washes clothing and linens so clean for the tiny amount included in your electric bill. If you live in a rural community, you may marvel that the conveniences of the city are yours, all as the result of the electric service represented by your electric bill—remarkably small when you "step through" and consider what you get for your money.

Write an Ordinary Letter

Your letter need not be fancy, or a literary gem. Write the same kind of a letter you'd write to a friend telling what you see beyond your electric bill. Don't worry about the kind of paper you have to write on, because your ideas on the subject are what will count. Every letter received will get equal consideration. "Dolled up" and decorated letters will receive no more attention by the judges than the plainest ones. Every customer who writes will receive a 100-watt bulb FREE in appreciation of his effort.

FARMERS ARE RECEIVING AAA CHECKS HERE

TOTAL OF $176,400.00 WILL BE RECEIVED BY CHILTON FARMERS SAYS FANT

Farmers of Chilton County through April 10 had received a total of $19,521.06 in agricultural conservation payments for coopearting in the 1938 AAA farm program, County Agent, J. W. Fant announced this week.

The county agent estimated that the farmers of this county will receive a total of approximately $176,400.00 in agricultural conservation payments under the 1938 program. Bulk of payments are expected to be completed by May 1, Mr. Fant said.

The 1938 agricultural conservation payments which are being made now are in addition to the cotton price adjustment or "subsidy" payments, which were made last fall, the county agent explained. The subsidy payments for this county totaled approximately $163,800.00.

The payments are being made to farmers at a time when they need the money to finance this year's crop and the distribution of AAA payments during the past eight months has had noticeable effect on local business.

Meantime, A. W. Jones, administrative officer in charge AAA, Auburn, announced that Alabama farmers will receive a total of approximately $16,000,000 in 1938 cooperative payments. Of this total, Jones said $5,000,000 has already been paid to farmers.

This sum together with the $10,603,253 in subsidy payments to Alabama farmers during the past eight months. Jones said that the distribution of AAA payments has not only been a big help to farmers but has also been a big boost to business.

MASONS TO HOLD ANNUAL REUNION

BIRMINGHAM TO BE SCENE OF DEGREE WORK BY OUT-OF-STATE TEAMS

Arrangements have been completed at Birmingham for the Fourth Annual Masonic Reunion which will be held there at the Central Masosic Temple, Saturday, April 15, beginning at 3:00 P.M. At this gathering of Alabama Masons a team from Georgia Lodge No. 96, Atlanta, Ga., will exemplify the Entered Apprentice degree and a team from New Orleans, La., will exemplify the Third Degree using the Scottish Rite ritual. The Georgia work will be exemplified in the afternoon and the Louisiana work in the evening.

Between the two exemplifications the Masons will have a banquet at 6:00 o'clock. Tickets for this banquet may be procurred through the secretary of practically all North Alabama Masonic Lodges or by writing E. Lee Crowley, 1715 Sixth Aveneue, North Birmingham. Admittance to the exemplification will be by paid up Blue Lodge cards and the usual vouching and examining procedure used is all Masonic Lodges.

The object of this reunion, which will be the fourth one held by Masons at Birmingham during the past three years, is to bring out-of-state teams to Alabama that Alabama Masons may have an opportunity to observe Masonic Degree work as it is put on in the differest states. Masons from all lodges in the state are invited to come to Birmingham April 15th and witness this very interesting work.

Information concerning the reunion has been sent to some 155 different Masonic Lodges in North and Central Alabama and it is the hope of Birmingham and Jefferson County Masons that all Masons will take advantage of this unusual opportunity to see one of the four teams in the United States which uses the Scottish Rite ritual in conferring the Third Degree.

BILLINGSLEY YOUTH INJURED IN FREAK ACCIDENT MONDAY

Both his legs broken at the ankles, Ronald Surles, was "improving" at Woodlawn Hospital to day after 27,735 pounds of steel girders slid into the cab of his truck Monday and pinned him to the dashboard.

Surles, a Billingsley youth, who drives for a construction company, would have been crushed had his companion not shouted that the load was shifting. The passenger, James Marlar, jumped from the cab in time, but Surles had climbed only part of the way out before the girders caught him.

When a wrecker atempted to haul the load away, a tow chain snapped and flung itself across a 2300-volt line, shutting off power on the Northside for 21 minutes.—Birmingham Post.

Seniors To Present 'A Ready-Made Family'

The Chilton County High School Senior Class is scheduled to present a play entitled "A Ready-Made Family" on the nights of April 14 and 15—which is next Friday and Saturday nights—at the City Hall auditorium. The performances will begin at 8:00 P.M. respectively and admission will be fifteen and twenty-five cents.

Those people taking part in the play are as as follows: Agnes Martyn, a widow, Mildred Maddox; Bob, her son, Virgil Newton; Marilee, her elder daughter, Nell Rockett; Gracie her younger daughter, Aileen Popwell; Miss Lydia, her sister-in-law, Mary Reba Payton; Henry Turner, a widower, L. P. Vines; Doris, his daughter Myrtle Pitts; Sammie his son, Morris Taylor; Begonia, the Martyn's darky cook, Olive Rainer Elmore; Nicodemus, the Martyn's colored handy man, Ed Goodgame. Stage manager, Burnace Powell, and Annie Pearl Honeycutt as Prompter.

KIWANIANS WILL MEET AT BAPTIST CHURCH THURSDAY

Due to the fact that the Methodist revival meeting is in progress this week, the Calnton Kiwanis Club will relinquish their usual meeting hour, so as not to conflict with the services at the Church. Instead of seven-thirty, the Club will meet at six-thirty at the Clanton Methodist Church tonight, with the Circles of the Church serving the lunch.

The program for the evening will be in charge of Dr. S. D. Sturkie, County Health Officer. Kiwanian Sturkie will give a paper prepared by himself on "Sodialized Medicine." This promises to be an interesting program, and members are urged to attend and bear in mind the change of hour and place of meeting.

Officers Nab Negro Chicken Thieves

A series of raids on the chicken houses of this section was expected to come to an end with the arrest of two negroes, Harvey DeJarnett and Johnny Cottingham, by City officers here last Saturday.

Messrs. H. T. Pipes, Earl Williams, and Charley Cox, residents of Clanton or nearby, reported several chickens had disappeared from their chicken houses within the past few days. Reports from Cooper were that the citizens of that section had been missing fowls from their chicken coops. Jemison reported that about twenty chickens were stolen during last week. Mr. Jim Popwell of near Clanton reported six of his feathered flock missing.

City and County officers had been working on the case which terminated with the arrest of the two negroes. They were charged with petit larceny in each case, and placed in the county jail here.

Strawberry Men Meet With Kiwanians

Last Thursday night members of the Clanton Kiwanis Club had as their guests five of the County's leading strawberry growers and officials of two of the three strawberry associations in Chilton County. B. P. Livingston, head of the State Horticulture Department, was guest speaker of the evening. Mr. Livingston spoke on the subject of marketing strawberries and produce, and told the gathering that the services offered by his department were available to the Associations here if they desired this service.

The general subject of the program for the evening, which was arranged by Kiwanian J. W. Fant, was the combining of the three Chilton Strawberry Growers Associations into one Central Marketing Agency. This subject has been discussed here for several months, and has been regarded as being a needed move which will have as its features better marketing and grading facilities—enabling produce of the County to reach the markets in better condition, with more being sold.

Representatives of the Strawberry Growers Associations who were present at the meeting, and who each gave his views on the matter, were as follows: Roy Roper, president of the Clanton Berry Growers Association; L. E. Diefenderfer, sales manager of the Clanton Association; A. A. Langston, of the Jemison Growers Association; Mr. Robinson, president of the Jemison Fruit Growers Association and H. H. Denson, teacher of Vocational Agriculture at the Jemison High School. Unfortunately, representatives of the Thorsby Association were unable to attend.

These gentlemen have expressed themselves as being in favor of such an agency, and the near future may see the establishment of a Central Marketing Agency in Chilton County.

HEALTH DEPT. ANNOUNCES PRE-SCHOOL CLINICS

DATES AND PLACES GIVEN OUT FOR CLINICS BEGINNING TODAY

Arrangements had been completed today for the opening of the annual summer round-up program of pre-school clinics conducted by the local health department under the auspices of the P.-T.A., it was revealed in a statement by Dr. S. D. Sturkie, County Health Officer.

"Every child between the ages of one and six within reach of the schools named below will be invited to attend," he said. "Each one will receive a medical and dental examination. Local dentists are being asked to cooperate by performing the dental inspections." This will afford parents an opportunity to become informed of the presence of serious defects in their children which may later seriously impair health. Children who need to be protected against diphtheira and smallpox may receive these at the Clinics."

County Superintendent Maddox has given permission for pre-school children to be brought in on the buses to the Clinics at the schools, provided that there is room and no interference with the regular bus service for the school.

The schedule with the date, time and place of the clinic are as follows:

ALABAMA DAY AT NEW YORK WORLD'S FAIR

GOVERNOR DIXON PROCLAIMS JUNE 22 AS ALABAMA DAY; PRESS ASS'N WILL BE THERE

Governor Frank M. Dixon has proclaimed June 22, as "Official Alabama Day" at the New York World's Fair and urged all Alabamians to join the Alabama Press Association on the official Alabama tour.

Complete plans for the trip have now been announced by President M. C. Giles and this year the press association is offering the most outstanding trip ever arranged from this section of the South. You'll enjoy special entertainment in Washington as guests of the Alabama State Society at an elaborate banquet and ball at the National Press Club . . . sightseeing of all Washington including the White House, National Capitol, etc. A day and night will be spent at the fashionable Willard Hotel in Washington and five days and five nights in New York in the Pennsylvania Hotel—one of Manhattan's largest and most popular hotels. A complete program that offers you everything of importance in New York and at the New York World's Fair has been arranged in true "Alabama Press Fashion." Those who have enjoyed the press tours in the past are familiar with the extra features always included —this year, even more outstanding events will be enjoyed throughout the trip.

The price of the complete tour is $87.60 from Montgomery or Birmingham and the trip will be made via special trains using the most modern de luxe air-conditioned reclining seat coaches. All meals aboard train and in Washington included as well as everything else for the entire trip. Make your reservations now with the editor of the Chilton County News. The tour is arranged and conducted by Roy Brown Tours, Inc., and leaves on Sunday, June 18.

TWO IN MAYOR'S COURT LAST MONDAY MORNING, APRIL 9TH

Two men were charged with violating the City laws over the past week end, and were subsequently arraigned before Mayor C. Fenn Jones last Monday morning.

One for public drunkenness was fined $8.25. The second person, charged with driving while intoxicated, was fined $57.25, and given a sentence on the City streets to pay fine.

Revival At Methodist And Evangelistic Campaign At Baptist Creating Wide Interest

The citizenship of Clanton has been manifesting a growing interest in the two campaigns now in progress at the Clanton Methodist and Baptist Churches.

The Rev. Oscar A. Davis is leading his church in an Evangelistic and Soul-Winning Campaign, which has been in progress for several weeks. Reports from this campaign are that interest is growing and attendance is increasing each Sunday.

Last Sunday the Clanton Methodist Church opened a one-week revival meeting, and the services, which are being held daily at 9:30 A.M., and 7:30 P.M., are being well attended. The Rev. J. L. Daniel, pastor, in in charge of the services with J. P. Peacock in charge of the song services Eugene Peacock is working with the young people. These services are interesting and inspiring.

Next Sunday the Baptist Church has announced that there will be no evening service at their Church. Members will worship with the Methodists, the Rev. Davis announced this week. The subject sermon for the morning service will be "The Christ Of The Human Struggle, as announced by the Rev. Davis.

Both Churches are extending a cordial invitation to the citizenship of Clanton and surrounding territory, to take advantage of these two campaigns.

SUGAR IS SWEET --- IN COTTON SACKS

Sugar is sweet in the South both for the customer and the merchant when it's packed in cotton sacks, according to the National Cotton Council of America and the Cotton Textile Institute, the organizations jointly sponsoring National Cotton Week.

The statisticians of these organizations have proved that every time a carload of sugar is packed in cotton bags, no less than 16,800 cotton containers are used. And what does this mean?

It means a day's work for 43 cotton farmers, 32 cotton mill employees—a total of a day's work for 83 persons!

Last year, American retail merchants sold to you and me and other consumers more than four and one-half million tons of sugar, amounting to 120 thousand carloads. If every bit of that sugar had been packed in cotton bags, it would have meant a day's work for 9,960,000 people, or a third of a year's work for 100 thousand people.

This is for sugar alone. Flour, salt, feed and other staples packed in cotton bags would add tremendously to the total. These staples, too, regardless of their flavor, would be as sweet as sugar—in an economic way—to cotton farmers.

In the battle for increased markets, King Cotton has the right to ask that the southern seller and purchaser demand cotton wrapping, cotton bagging and cotton containers wherever the use of such articles is feasible and practicable.

Without going into dry detail, it may be pointed out that staples are easier to handle in cotton bags, with less loss through tearing; that cotton bags and their contents do not deteriorate easily, the cotton allowing "natural breathing," preventing caking, minimizing heating and sweating.

If consumers and merchants would voice a vigorous "No!" to staples packed in substitutes, King Cotton would not totter so noticeably on his throne.

City Would Like New Bridge Over Railroad

Mayor C. Fenn Jones stated this week that there was another improvement to the City of Clanton that he would like to see made, and that he had already set the wheels in motion to secure this needed improvement.

Mr. Jones told a repersentative of the News Monday of this week that he had written to C. J. Sherlock, President of the Alabama State Highway Commission, regarding the erection of a new and modern bridge over the L.&N. Railroad on the Selma Highway. This is known as the "Overhead Bridge." The Mayor stated that although the present bridge was not unsafe, it was in need of repair, and did not fit into the picture along with the other improvements being made in the City, and that he woud make a special effort to secure a new and more modern structure at this point.

This road is a State Highway, and would be erected entirely by the State with probably Federal aid.

TWELVE PHYSICIANS ATTEND FIRST OF SERIES OF LECTURES

Twelve doctors of Chilton, Bibb and Shelby counties, were present to hear the first of a series of lectures at the Clanton City Hall last Thursday night. These post graduate lectures on Internal Medicine, are being given by Dr. V. P. Syndenstricker, Professor of Medicine at the University of Georgia, and Dr. J. L. Wilson, Associate Professor of Medicine at the University of Louisiana.

These lectures will be given each Thursday in Clanton for six weeks. They are being sponsored by the Alabama State Board of Health and the Tulane University, Division of Medicine. The number of doctors attending from the three counties is expected to increase later in the series, it was learned.

Voters Re-Levy 3-Mill School Tax

With 24 boxes out of 27 in the county heard from the County-wide three-mill tax appeared renewed by the voters by a six to one majority, as a result of the election here Tuesday

The count Wednesday morning with three boxes out was as follows:

For Tax—631.

Against—109.

A very light vote was cast, due to the fact that this was merely a relevying of the county-wide three-mill tax which has been in effect for twenty year, and which would have expired this foll.

MRS. SARAH GREER, AGE 87, DIED LAST THURSDAY, 4TH

Mrs. Sarah Greer, age 87, died at the home of her daughter Mrs. J.W. Sisk, of near Clanton last Thursday, April 6.

Funeral services were held last Saturday from the Salem Church in Talladega County with Spigener Funeral Home in charge of burial.

DR. AND MRS. RALPH McCARTHY VISITING HERE SEVERAL DAYS

Dr. and Mrs. Ralph McCarthy (Vera Jones) of Lowell, Mass., are visiting her mother, Mrs. G. D. Retherford and family for several days.

Mrs. McCarthy, before he marriage, was employed in Washington, D. C. She was educated in the City schools, here and was for some time employed in the office of Mr. G. C. Walker, before going to Washington. She was one of Clanton's most charming young ladies, and her many friends here are glad to see her here on a vsit.

CITY ISSUES WARNING TO MOTORISTS ABOUT STREETS

City officials are issuing warnings to motorists of the City to keep their cars off the streets to be paved, after he priming substance has been placed on them, or their cars would probably be damaged by this compound.

Mayor Jones stated that if the weather is favorable this priming would be applied to some of the streets this week. Those that are to be paved are being prepared by crews of workmen, who have been sprinkling them, packing, etc., preparatry to surfacing.

It was also announced this week that the new waterworks system is expected to be completed by the middle of next month. The new filtering plant is not yet complete, however, the new tanks, pipe line to the creek, etc., has been finished.

The City has issued a warning to truck drivers to stay off the temporary bridge across Goose Pond on the Lay Dam Road as it is in a very dilapidated condition. and is unsafe for trucks to cross. This bridge gave way one day last week when a truck passed over it, but it has been repaired again. Work on the new bridge is progressing.

Mr. E. B. Hulsemann, local Gulf Products Distributor made a business trip to New Orleans last week.

CAMPAIGN FOR SAFETY BEING PLANNED

BOY SCOUTS OF CITY WILL TAKE LEAD, BACKED BY CLUBS, OFFICERS

Plans are at present underway for the instigation of a City-wide public safety campaign, sponsored by Civic organizations, city and county officers, local highway patrolmen with the Clanton Boy Scouts taking the active lead in the drive for public safety on the hghways and streets of the City and its suburbs

Although definite plans have not been completed by those taking the lead in the undertaking, a meeting was scheduled for last Wednesday night at the Clanton Methodist Church, for the purpose of mapping out the plans of procedure in the campaign. The meeting was expected to be attended by members of the Clanton Boy Scouts Highway Patrolmen Hearne and Pettus, representatives of the two newspapers of the City, representatives of the Clanton Kiwanis, and other citizens interested in the purpose and aims of the campaign

Scoutmaster Burton Mullins, who will lead the Scouts in the undertaking, stated that the troop has received the promise of support in every way from the local officers, and that he expected much benefit would be derived from efforts spent in aiding, cautioning, etc., the motorists and pedestrians of the City in obeying the rules of the streets and highways.

Information given the News was that tentative plans were for the Scouts of the local troop to wear identifying badges, sashes or uniforms, and that they would be stationed at points on the streets and would direct motorists, instruct pedestrians in the proper methods of crossing the streets, the elemination of jay-walking, and any other ways that might be for the general safety of the public.

Recently the Boy Scouts were guests of the Kiwanis Club at which time they rendered a splendid program on safety. Ben E. Evans, local co-ordinator in Vocational guidance, will take a leading part in the coming campaign, it was stated. Eddie Lyons, former Police Inspector of Birmingham and now with the University of Alabama conducting Police Schools over the State, who spoke at the Kiwanis Club some time ago, will be invited to come here and assist in the campaign, Mr. Evans stated. The public in general is invited to cooperate in this all-important work of helping lower the casualty rate of the State, County and City, as a result of carelessness and violation of the rules of safety.

The outcome of the meeting last night could not be learned before the News went to press, but further details will be given next week regarding the plans of the campaign.

SENIOR TWO CLASS, ISABELLA TO PRESENT "BIG BROTHER"

The Senior Two Class of the Isabella High School will present a three-act comedy-drama, "Big Brother," Friday night, April 14, at 7:30 o'clock.

Since there are only two girls in the class it has been necessary for the boys to play several of the feminine roles. Warren Keen is playing the part of the clinging vine mother; Alfred Gilliland is portraying the role of the beautiful Alice.

Come Friday night to see these boys take the show as girls.

Other characters in the play are: John Crews, Bill Traywick; Lyle Crews, Earl Clenner; Janet Laird, Margarette Russell; Hortense Morton, Ozefma Mizzell; Mr. Morton, Carlos Owens; Sidney Chalmers, Renfro Oren.

Admission will be ten and twenty cents.

OUR ONLY HOPE

America's only hope of escaping the apparently approaching world-wide cataclysm is to immediately put our own political house in perfect order; declare for free trade with all civilized nations; stop racketeering and profiteering in essential commodities, and dissolve all trusts and combines now operating in restraint of trade.

Unless this is given serious consideration by the president and the Congress, we may expect chaos right here in our own country before many months have passed.

SOUTH AS A COLONY

"In declaring that the south long has been treated as a colony, Jonathan Daniels, author of 'A Southerner Discovers the South,' and Mark Ethridge, of the Louisville Courier-Journal, repeated a statement that often has been made in this newspaper—and one that is unquestionably true," says the Gadsden Times.

"These distinguished southern speakers, who were heard the other day at Memphis, also are right in asserting that this treatment of the south as a colonial possession has occupied a 'pincer' effect greater than was ever exercised by Sherman's army. Sherman did an immense amount of damage in the south as he followed a 'scortched earth' policy, but the damage was over in a matter of months and then the opportunity was presented for works of rehabilitation. On the other hand, the imposition upon the south through tariff inequalities, rate discriminations and the like, never stopped for a moment and still are in progress after more than three score years. Moreover, the situation is one that will not be overcome until its implications are fully realized in the south and southern leaders are imbued with a relentless determination to put an end to it.

"The beneficiaries of long-standing discriminations have waxed rich and powerful through the years and have no intention of surrendering a single advantage. Thus the obstacles to be overcome are numerous and difficult, yet they must be overcome if the south ever is to enjoy a measure of growth commensurate with the magnitude of its natural resources."—Alabama Journal.

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS

According to the Bureau of Agricultural Economics the per capita consumption of milk and cream in cities and villages throughout the United States is 153 quarts, whereas it is only 114 quarts in the South Central States. we must increase our milk consumption in Alabama.

* * * *

There are 192 milk cows for every 1,000 people in the United States. In Alabama there are only 140. We must increase our dairy cow population if we are to supply our home needs of dairy products.

* * * *

Five good dairy cows will supply the home needs of the family and provide 3 pounds of butterfat for sale each day. At present prices would provide a monthly farm income of about $20 in addition to furnishing enough skim milk for 100 hens or 1 brood sow and pigs.

* * * *

Did your dairy cows have enough roughage last winter? If not, let's plan now to have an ample supply next winter. Two tons of legume hay or 1 ton of hay and 3 tons of ensilage should be provided for every dairy cow on the farm.

* * * *

We must increase the production of Alabama's dairy cows by the more general use of purebred bulls. Remember that it is more economical to get 4 gallons from one high-producing cow than it is to get one gallon from each of 4 cows. There is also less danger of getting kicked!

STATE FHA OPERATIONS

According to information released by Wilbur B. Nolen, State Director of the Federal Housing Administration in Alabama, the month of March, 1939, broke all previous records in the number and amount of applications filed under Title II of the National Housing Act.

The number filed was 246 for $1,005,950. Of this amount 156 for $668,200, or 66 per cent of the total was for the construction of new homes; while 90 for $337,750, was on existing construction.

Mr. Nolen states further that applications were received during the month from 51 different towns and from 39 different financial institutions of the State.

Up to this time the Alabama office has insured 3,625 loans for $12,900,000. Only seven of these mortgages for an amount of $23,000 have been foreclosed.

New homes have been built in 140 different towns in Alabama, and loans have been made by 105 different financial institutions under the terms of the National Housing Act. There is now being constructed 250 new homes in Alabama under the supervision of the Federal Housing Administration.

Under Title II of the National Housing Act the FHA has the authority to insure mortgages to enable citizens to construct new homes, buy homes already built or to refinance mortgages which may already exist. Under certain stipulations a loan may be insured on new construction for a period not exceeding 25 years, at an interest rate of 5¼ per cent. It is also necessary to amortize the loan, taxes and hazard insurance on strictly a monthly basis.

LIVESTOCK HISTORY WRITTEN

(By Tom McCord, Union Stockyards, Montgomery, Ala.)

That Livestock history was written in Alabama on Tuesday, April 4th, is no doubt. This was the date of the First Annual Auction of Angus Cattle as sponsored by the Alabama Aberdeen Angus Breeders Association. This association was organized for the specific purpose of fostering the welfare of their particular breed of cattle and the Livestock Industry in general.

About the sale, the 4th dawned a beautiful day and the crowd of 500 people began to gather early in the day to pre-view the cattle and to check the pedigrees which were packed with some of the best blood of the breed. The sale was opened right on time with an appropriate selection of remarks from the President of the Association, J.C. Harper of Oak Hill and he introduced some out-of state visitors. The sale was turned over to the auctioneer and the first Bull was lead into the ring. Within two minutes the bull had been sold to Mr. U. G. Flowers of Vicksburg at $260.00. It was apparent from the start that it was a buying crowd as bids rang out from every corner on every animal. Within two hours every animal had been sold. A resume of the figures showed that buyers from four States, Alabama, Mississippi, Georgia and Florida had made purchases. The 38 head of Bulls and Heifers sold for a total of $5322.50 or an average of $140.06. The Bulls averaging $160.00 and the Heifers $117.65.

This is conclusive and positive proof that things can be done in Livestock in the South. No better sale has been recorded anywhere than this sale.

The Second Annual Auction was announced by the officials of the Association for about the same time next year.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

The world of today has gone wild over physical pleasure. To gratify a physical sensation has become the chief end of many a life. The desires, the appetites, the passions, the feelings, the sensations must thrill, but men have lost the idea that these things must be stimulated more and more or else the physical pleasure loses its thrill. Epicurus said: "Physical pleasures are like those that come from scratching of the itch. You must first have the itch before you can have the pleasure of scratching it. The longer it is scratched the less the pleasure. The only way to intensify the pleasure is to intensify the itch. Get more itch and then you can get additional pleasure in scratching." It is the truth of that statement that produces people with jaded and worn out pleasure in physical gratification. Better learn the merits and the end of pleasure before you follow them too far. When we have to increase the itch, to be able to keep up the pleasure in scratching, we are going to dig our hearts out.

Here is a story of the East, the land of poetry, parable and prophecy. It tells of a man who cried from the depths of hell, begging the gods to lift him out of his place of torment. The gods asked him if he could recall one good deed in his life. The man thought for some time and he replied: "Yes, one day I was in the woods and saw a spider and did not kill it." With that statement the gods lowered to him a spider's web. The man seized it eagerly and he found himself being lifted out. His comrades saw what was taking place and they, too, laid a firm grip upon his limbs and they, too, were being lifted out. The man fearing that the spider web would not be strong enough to lift out such a load began to kick and cry to his pals to let go. When they let go the spider web broke and all fell back into torment. Here is what I am saying: "Unselfishness is strong enough to lift all, but selfishness has no strength to lift anyone."

Across Connecuh river there is a narrow steel bridge. As one makes the curve and goes up on the bridge he is greeted by a red bill-board not over fifty yards beyond the bridge abuttment. On seeing this the driver is made to think that he is having a headon collision with a big truck. In four years time there were several serious accidents on that bridge. It is a shame that our beautiful highways should be cluttered up with advertising boards that endanger human life. We need laws that would take advertising boards away from all curves at least. A billboard on the highway is like a pig in a parlor—it just does not belong there.

Among the Rocky Mountains there is growing on the rocks a little plant that is known by the name of Saxifrage. After examination it was found that this little plant carried in its roots a chemical that could crush the rocks and create a soil for its own growth. It seems a miracle that this little plant should produce a chemical that will provide growth for itself on the rocks, but it is true. The example of this Saxafrage suggests to us a great lesson for our own life and growth. Some find ready-made soil that will produce success, while others must produce their own. That man who has the chemical within himself that can produce a soil for growth no matter where he lives, that man is bound to succeed. Friends, if you do not find soil beneath you, create some and start a growth.

Some people are like a rippling stream that finds its origin high up on the mountain side. It comes rippling and laughing and sparkling down to the lake in the valley. It is a shining silver thread all the way. Some are like a cool spring that bubbles from beneath a rock at the base of a mountain. They are cool and calm and quietly flows on the lake. Some are like a swamp spring with a pig wallowing in its mire. They muddy and make filthy the stream that flows from their life. I make just this one more comparison. Some folks are like an old rattling squeaking pump. We have to work hard to get anything out of them. Then when we do get small results, we do it after many squeaks and growls and grunts. Blessed is that one who has an overflow of life and who leaps and laughs along the way, making other people to laugh and be happy.

FOR THE THINGS YOU DON'T LIKE TO SEND "OUT"

FEW women like to send "out" for laundering, their hose, undergarments and cherished table linens and covers and ornamental needle work which has a high sentimental value.

For such women, the electric washing machine is indeed a treasure, because with it they can launder these personal items in just a fraction of the time required by the bothersome, tiresome and damaging hand laundry method.

The electric washer does its work so gently, yet so thoroughly, that the most delicate lace work can be washed in it without fear of damage. Surprisingly enough, it'll do an equally good job on the most rugged of work clothing and children's play clothes. So, whether you do all of the laundry at home or only part of it, ask us—or a home furnishing or electrical store—about the easy terms, easy prices and easy payments on the electric washing machines. Ask for a demonstration and see for yourself how convenient doing your laundry can be.

BETTER UNDERSTANDING OF LOCAL HEALTH DEPARTMENT'S PROGRAM NEEDED IN COUNTY

Department Not Allowed To Treat Needy People, Health Officer States; Sole Purpose Is For The Prevention Of Sickness And Disease

A plea for better understanding of the functions of the local Health Department by the citizens of the County was made early this week by Dr. S. D. Sturkie, County Health Officer. Widespread misconception of the real purpose of the local Health Program offers a serious handicap to the Department's progress, he stated. Under the existing health laws of Alabama and according to the policies of the State Department of Health, the County Health Department has as its only purpose, the prevention of sickness and disease.

"The greatest difficulty we have," stated Dr. Sturkie, "is to explain to the many people who come into our office seeking medical care that it is impossible for us to assist them. Not only do we lack the money and the personnel needed to provide treatment for the many needy persons of the County, but we are expressly forbidden to devote any of our time to this problem by our superiors, the local County Board of Health and the State Health Department. Except for diseases which are contagious, the Health Officer is not allowed to diagnose or treat. Nor is it the function of the Health Department to assist people in obtaining admission to the local hospital as a County patient. If the Health Department staff concerns itself with matters of this nature, it will have but little time to devote to the task for which it was set up, that is, of preventing sickness and disease.

"I realize fully that the people are not to be blamed for their misunderstanding. It is but natural for one to consider the health department as a place for the sick to be treated, and we are acutely aware of the plight of many people who are not able to obtain medical care. This problem, however, is too big for any local health department to solve. Neither the State nor local government has the money with which to tackle this very gigantic task of furnishing medical care for the needy. It is probable that the Federal government may sometime in the future provide funds for aiding our local County Government in solving this problem. In the meanwhile the County Health Department must go patiently about its job of preventing sickness and disease with the full support of the people of the County."

CELEBRATES SEVENTY-SEVENTH BIRTHDAY

Mrs. C. L. McDonald celebrated her seventy-seventh birthday anniversary on March 19, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. H. Stange. Her dinner was given by her four daughters and two sons.

This happy occasion was a delight to Mrs. McDonald as there was quite a few old friends there to help her to have a grand time.

The delicious dinner was served out of doors under the trees and was a beautiful sight to see. Mrs. McDonald received several birthday presents from her children and friends..

We are all hoping to see her celebrate her next birthday and wishing her many, many more such years.

The guest list and children there were as follows: Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Waller, Mr. John McDonald and daughter of Montgomery, Ala., Mr. and Mrs. P. K. Boyd of West Point, Ga., Mr and Mrs. Dewey McDonald Robinson Springs, Mr and Mrs. J. H. Stange, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Cox of White City.

Grandchildren present were Mr. and Mrs. Bill Courtney, Messrs. John, Charlie, Mr. and Mrs. Barney Stange, Miss Mabelle Stange, Misses Daisy Pauline, Mary, Margaret, Fannie, Carolyn Cox; Misses Joe and Carolyn McDonald, Forrest Wyatt. Great grandchildren—Frances Stange, Betty June Courtney. Friends were, Mr. Jimmie Deramus, Vida, Miss Jessie Bolton, Montgomery; Mr. Arthur Colley, Verbena; Mr. and Mrs. P. K. Harris, Ollie Bell, Clifton Harris, Verbena; Miss Junnie, Robert Gray; Mr. Albert Parson, Verbena; Mr. and Mrs. Ossie Diver and children, Mr. and Mrs. Irby Burkhalter and baby, Verbesa.

A CORRECTION

In listing the March marriages in last week's issue of the News an error was made that was quite unintentional. Instead of "James Colvin and Gladys Irene Wyatt," the names should have read "James Calvin Williamson and Gladys Irene Wyatt." The News regrets the error and apologizes for any embarrassment it might have cause the parties concerned.

BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION

On Sunday, April 9, friends and relatives gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Smitherman for the purpose of honoring Clyde and Henry Thomas Smitherman's birthdays.

The morning was spent with much zest, with jokes exchanged, and an Easter egg hunt.

At the noon hour a most bountiful dinner was served to the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Smitherman, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Smitherman and son, Eugene; Mr. Henry Thomas Smitherman, Mr. Martin Garner, Miss Buna Garner, Misses Gladys Opal and Jeanette Smitherman and Miss Lovenia Glass, all of Maplesville and Mr. Leroy Keener of Stanton.

When the time came to part each one left wishing Clyde and Henry Thomas many more happy birthdays.

Maynards Chapel

Saturday night and Sunday were our regular preaching days. A large crowd attended. A great message was brought by Brother Cost on the Resurrection of Christ, on Sunday morning.

There was a gain of twenty-five at Sunday School to what there has been in attendance.

The Rev. Cost stayed with Mr. and Mrs. Steven Pate Saturday night and the guest of Mr. and Mrs. William Blankenship Sunday.

There will be preaching at this place next Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night by Rev. Mitchell from Ensley. Everybody come out to hear him.

The good ladies of this community and surrounding communities pieced and quilted our pastor a quilt and presented it to him Saturday night. He was overjoyed to accept it.

Some folks may laugh and have nothing to do but make fun, but in years gone by it was a great privilege to get the chance to go to Church in an oxen cart, but Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Pate of Center Hill came to church here Sunday in an ox cart. May God bless and help them for coming as far as they did in such a manner.

Mr. and Mrs. Steven Pate, Mr. and Mrs. Gaines Cook spent Sunday with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Pate.

Mrs. Ben Baldwin went to Mt. Creek Sunday to visit her mother-in-law.

Mr. and Mrs. Simuel Mims spent Easter with Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Davis.

Mr. Raymond Williams of Northport, Alabama, spent Easter holidays in this community.

Mr. J. V. Gulledge went to Verbena Sunday to see his father.

Mr. and Mrs. Eleanor Thorton spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Price.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Compton were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Olan Glass.

Mrs. C. E. Barrett, Charles, Lawrence, Marie, and Mr Raymond Williams spent Easter wth Mrs. S. A. Blankenship of Clanton.

Willie Mae and Imogene Williams spent Sunday with Mrs. Ruby Maynard and Peggy Ann.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Pruitt of Birmingham spent Easter holidays with his mother, Mrs. A. C. Pruitt.

There will be an old-time singing in the old books here at this place the first Sunday in June. Everyone who loves old singing come and bring your books and lunch. Brother Cox will deliver the eleven o'clock message.

Mr. C. E. Barrett has had a serious attack of flu, some better now, however.

A small crowd attended prayer meeting at Mrs. Pates last Tuesday night. We hope to have a larger crowd this Tuesday night, and the next prayer meeting will be held at Mr. Martin Pruitt's home Thursday night of this week.

It seems that Spring is here. God has created us a grand place to stay for a while to look about seeing the beautiful flowers and trees. Work in the gardens, and picking of strawberries is pretty spring secenery to us.

May the Lord bless and keep us from all danger, is our prayer this week.

Everyone remember Sunday School at ten o'clock—B.Y.P.U. at seven—Come!

Who knows most about Building cars?

Ford has built more than one-third of all the automobiles ever built in the world

THERE are more Ford cars in use today than any other make. And there are more Ford V-8s than any other 8-cylinder car.

The 1939 Ford V-8 represents the broadest experience in building cars any manufacturer ever had. You will find values in it far beyond what any other maker can put into a car at the low Ford price.

Ford performance, traditional for a generation, has reached new heights in the 1939 V-8.

And now Ford style leadership is equally outstanding. "The smartest cars on the road" is the way owners describe their new Fords. Smartest in action. Smartest in appearance. Leaders, as they deserve to be.

Look at these FORD FEATURES
- STYLE LEADERSHIP—The luxury car in the low-price field.
- V-TYPE 8-CYLINDER ENGINE—Eight cylinders give smoothness. Small cylinders give economy.
- HYDRAULIC BRAKES—Easy-acting—quick, straight stops.
- TRIPLE-CUSHIONED COMFORT—New flexible roll-edge seat cushions, soft transverse springs, double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers.
- STABILIZED CHASSIS—No front-end bobbing or dipping. Level starts, level stops, level ride.
- SCIENTIFIC SOUNDPROOFING—Noises hushed for quiet ride.
- LOW PRICES—Advertised prices include many items of desirable equipment.

FORD V·8

APRIL IS FORD INVITATION MONTH! Your Ford dealer invites you to drive America's most modern low-priced car. Make a date for a new experience.

'MOUNTIE' JEERS AT STORIES OF NORTH

Canadian Outpost Feared as Land of Mystery.

EDMONTON, ALTA. — Mystery, legend and superstition no longer contrive to keep the desolate Nahanni country—last northern Canadian outpost—a feared and forbidden region.

Weird tales have drifted "outside" by word of mouth over the 800 miles of trackless wastes separating Nahanni from Edmonton.

Old-timers heard stories of fabulous gold deposits in the rugged mountainous area in the western extremities of the Northwest territories. Gold deposits to tempt those hardy and daring enough to scoff at death ominously connected with rich "strikes."

Several unexplained deaths in the region deepened the air of mystery. The deaths of William and Frank McLeo, whose bones were discovered 30 years ago in the loneliness of Nahanni Death valley, kept many prospectors from searching for the rich vein the two veterans reportedly uncovered.

A former Royal Canadian Mounted police officer was the first to discredit these rumors.

"All mere Indian talk," he said. "To be certain there have been deaths in that section of the country, but no more than would be expected for its sudden storms, its treacherous snowslides and remoteness."

Northern residents denied that Indians refused repeatedly to guide white prospectors into the area.

W. L. Bliss, University of New Mexico archeologist, announced upon returning from the Nahanni country last summer that he had found caves in the mountains. He said the caves apparently were used by ancestors of North American Indians in their migration from Asia centuries ago.

Costliest Road Is Open;

4 Miles Cost $1,000,000

POTTSVILLE, PA.—The Gordon Nagle trail, the most expensive state-constructed stretch of road in history, has been completed.

Thousands of men worked on the four-mile stretch for more than three years. The course of the Schuylkill river was changed three times to make the highway straight. About 85 per cent of the work was on solid rock. Cost of the project, which will connect Pottsville and Cresona and open a new highway between Philadelphia and the hard-coal region of Pennsylvania, was estimated at more than $1,000,000.

Chevrolet Sales Turn Upward

Chevrolet dealers' retail sales in the last 10 days of March turned sharply upward, reaching the highest total for any similar period since the new model introduction, and making March by long odds the highest sales month in that period. The March total was 88,836 units as compared with 50,750 in February and with 62,880 in March of last year.

The per centage of increase over March 1938 was 41.2, and over February 1939, it was 75. There was an increase of 70.1 per cent over the sales for the preceding 10-day period, the records indicate.

At the same time, used car sales showed a substantial gain, both over the previous 10 days and over the same period last year. They reached a total of 141,696 for the month of March, giving Chevrolet dealers a grand aggregate, new and used, of more than 230,000 units.

Taste Turning To Vegetables

Americans Are Eating More, But Less Meat Is Being Consumed.

WASHINGTON. — The average American is gradually becoming more of a vegetarian, a department of agriculture survey of food consumption since 1920 indicates.

The trend toward more vegetables and dairy products and away from meats may have been due in part, it was believed, to higher meat prices resulting from drouths during the 1933-1937 period.

The average per capita consumption of meat and fish declined from 138 pounds in the 1920-1924 period to 126 pounds in the 1934-1937 period. In the same periods average consumption of vegetables increased from 135 to 169 pounds.

The average American eats slightly more now than in the early twenties, the report showed. Total per capita food consumption in the 1934-1937 period was 1,440 pounds, compared with 1,425 pounds in the 1920-1924 period.

1900 Turning Point.

"The trend in the per capita consumption of meat has been downward for a considerable period," the department said. "The trend in consumption was definitely downward from the turn of the century to 1931, but since then the move has been upward. Consumption of pork was downward until 1917, upward until 1934 and downward since, due in part to drouths."

Among the most important community groups over the last 19 years, tendencies to decline were most apparent in cereal products, potatoes and meats. The most marked increases were noted in fresh and canned vegetables, citrus fruits and dairy products.

More than half of the increase in fresh vegetables was accounted for by greater consumption of carrots, celery and lettuce. The sharpest rise among canned vegetables was noted in tomatoes, half of which was due to a marked increase in consumption of tomato juice since 1929.

Industry Little Affected.

Officials said the slight shift away from meats was not enough to affect the live stock industry greatly and probably would not in the near future.

Changes in the annual per capita consumption of principal foods between the 1920-24 and 1934-37 periods were: Cereal products, from 229 to 196 pounds; all potatoes, from 178 to 157 pounds; sugar and syrup, from 106 to 110 pounds; milk and cream, from 315 to 337; manufactured dairy products (principally ice cream, butter and cheese), from 40 to 49 pounds.

Why It Is 'Red Letter Day'

In the early prayerbooks and almanacs the saints' days and church festivals were printed in red ink, a practice which probably originated in the calendar of days in the Book of Common Prayer. Some prayerbooks are printed in this style and many secular calendars have the Sundays and holidays indicated by red letters or figures. From this custom "red letter day" acquired its meaning—any day or holiday that is thought of with pleasure or because of some important event or benefit.

Dr. A. B. Pickering Died Last Sunday

Dr. Alfred Burt Pickering, 52, widely known physician of Plantersville, died at 6 A.M. last Sunday in a Selma hospital of a heart ailment.

Dr. Pickering, who practiced for 28 years, administered his last treatment on Jimmy Walker of Maplesville, who was brought to the Pickering home Saturday morning after he had suffered cuts and bruises in an automobile accident nearby. After dressing the injured man's wounds, Dr. Pickering laid down for a rest. Another patient inquiring for him early in the afternoon caused a member of his family to go to his bedside, when he could not be aroused he was rushed to a hospital in Selma where he never regained consciousness.

Capable and dependable as a physician, Dr. Pickering was possessed of scores of friends, won through his charitable and congenial nature. He always received high praise in his field of duties by Selma physicians.

Dr. Pickering received his medical education at the old Mobile Medical School, then a branch of the University of Alabama; took special X-ray and radium courses in New Orleans, also at St. Elizabeth Hospital, Washington, D. C., and Barnes' School, St. Louis, Mo. Some years ago, he practiced as an X-ray expert in Montgomery, where he remained for only a short time, returning to Plantersville, his home, where he has practiced continuously since. Two years ago he also began a practice at Maplesville.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Nell Suttles Pickering; two sons, Gerald Harper Pickering, age 2, and A. Burt Pickering, Jr., 18, by a former marriage to Miss Maude Peake who died some years ago, also two sisters, Mrs. H. F. Levy, of St. Louis, Mo., and Miss Ruth Pickering Plantersville; five brothers, J. L., H. B., and A. M. of Plantersville; L. G., of Selma and Plantersville, and Samuel M. Pickering a lieutenant in the U. S. Navy, stationed in Panama

The funeral was held at 2:30 P.M. Tuesday from the Plantersville Christian Church, and burial followed in New Hope Cemetery, with Breslin-Service in charge.

Storm Sweeps Over Montevallo

A windstorm struck Montevallo about noon Tuesday injuring a negro and doing much property damage.

The storm struck first on a knoll at the Southeastern edge of the City, flattening three houses and the Negro Baptist Church in its first fury. Leaping a gully, the twisting wind leveled the Episcopal Church and lashed a path one block wide through the residential section.

A score or more houses suffered damage by the vicious winds, some of them suffering almost total loss although left standing.

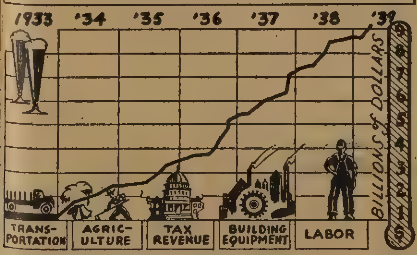
Trees in the path of the storm were uprooted and outbuildings were leveled or whirled away.

The three homes leveled in the first fury of the blow were occupied by the families of Cassey Blankenship, W. M. Davis and J. N. Baker.

NOMINATION URGED

Governor Dixon admonished county governing bodies Monday to "comply with the law" and get in their nominations for members of the county tax equalization boards by April 15.

Beer, Legalized in Alabama Two Years, Brings $16,000,000 Sales



MONTGOMERY, Ala. — Business volume estimated at $16,000,000 has been developed by Alabama's legal beer sales in two years, according to the United Brewers Industrial Foundation. Alabama passed the second anniversary of relegalization on March 22.

Congress legalized beer on April 7, 1933, in response to the President's urgent message "to provide through such manufacture and sale, by substantial taxes, a proper and much-needed revenue for the government."

A million Americans who have participated directly and millions of others who have shared indirectly in the economic benefits of beer and brewing will mark the sixth anniversary of relegalization.

The return of legal beer and ale to the nation has created business, industrial and agricultural returns estimated at nine billion dollars through providing a million new jobs in the brewing and allied industries, contributing nearly two billion dollars in taxes and releasing vast sums for circulation through vital trade channels.

Uncle Sam was among the major beneficiaries, collecting $2,350,000 on the beer consumed in Alabama alone. Federal tax collections throughout the nation exceeded $1,400,000,000. An additional half-billion went to state and local treasuries. Much of the state collection is ear-marked for educational and welfare purposes, while some of the Federal levies have returned to the states in the form of various governmental expenditures.

The nine billion dollar national total was accounted for through the consumption of approximately 275,000,000 barrels of beer. Half of this sum went to local business, with labor, taxes and real estate among major participants in the distribution of economic benefits.

Of the remaining four and a half billions, nearly two billions went to taxes, a half-billion for farm products, about 400 millions for brewery labor and the remainder —after deductions for normal investment returns—for construction, machinery and equipment, transportation, advertising, cooperage, bottles, cans, fuel and services.

The boon to agriculture included brewers' use of 15 billions pounds of farm products in that period and the favorable influence on the markets in those products.

SEEN and HEARD BY GAD

Such a lovely Easter parade! Mary Newell looks ever so nice in purple — maybe not "deep purple" but just purple. . . . Mrs. John Hollis wears black very well, especially with cream colored accessories. Sarah and Deanie were home for Easter, too. . . . Corsages seemed to be in order along with all the new outfits. . . . All the sweet young things like the bright colored straws and believe me, they looked simply fetching. . . So Nell Rockett's the guilty one—she bought the cute little blue wool number we all wanted so much—remember? . . . Say, "Lump", who's the boy friend? Bring him around, will ya' . . . The "Hearts" were here last Sunday, along with Jack Curlee, Dan Smith and family, Dorothy Waites, "Dixie" Johnson, James and Nell Ross. . . . They've joined the union! The League of the Methodist Church entertained out-of-town delegates at a meeting of the District League Union last Friday night. . . . With sewing clubs, bridge clubs, study clubs, music clubs, we wonder why we are tired and like to sleep late on Sunday mornings—and then the preachers wonder why we aren't at church—and by-the-way, have you heard the song conductors at the revival? . . . Now, we won't have to stand up at the Senior play this week if we'll just get together on this thing and not all have a sudden urge to go on the same nite. . . . What about the banquet the members of the F. H. A. enjoyed at the C. C. H. S. vocational building last Friday night? . . . It's Mr. and Mrs. Bill Gray. . . . and I said "I'll assure you that I don't mind—in fact it's quite a pleasure" . . . And did I hear someone say that wedding bells rang for Jane and Jerry Monday nght? . . . And I'll see you again next week.—BY GAD.

EX-CCC ENROLLEE OPERATES TERRACER ON LOCAL PROJECT

A work crew returning to camp one day last week noticed a terracing machine at work. The man on the terracer was Bill Jones. This was a source of much satisfaction to every one on these CCC trucks.

No man achieved any more popularity with his fellows at Camp SCS-7 than Bill. Coming into the company as a local experienced man he was assigned to the Engineering Party where he made good at once, and acquired a great deal of experience running terrace lines.

In order to rate Bill as an assistant leader he was assigned to a work crew and as usual proved to be very valuable to the foremen he worked with.

Then length of servcie caught up with Bill, and he had to leave the C's. Everyone regretted to see him go, and jobs were scarce outside. This explains why we were glad to see Bill Jones operating the terracer, and feel certain that he will prove to be as valuable to the County as he was to the Soil Conservation Service, and as popular with the public as he was with the CCC.

"Dangerous Days" Face Nation; Says Prominent Local Physician

DR. V. J. GRAGG

Ask yourself the question: "Is this a time of danger?" As a world, are we in danger; as a country is the United States in danger; as a state, are we in danger; locally, as a county and town, are we in danger?

As I see it, we are in great danger. And first, I will say a few things about the danger to the world at large. As I see it, the whole world is a seething cauldron of danger. It may well be described as sitting over a pot of boiling nitro-glycerine, or smouldering dynamite, which could explode at any moment.

There is a state of unrest that may be spoken of as world-wide. However, what is termed the Rome-Berlin Axis, (Italy and Germany) is in all probability the active factor that will blow the lid off, and start the whole world on a crazy rampage of war that will make our last World's War look like a mere toy fireworks display.

If we are inclined to look on Italy and Germany as being alone in this matter, then we are fooling ourselves. Japan is in the very heart of the boiling center, and it would be more nearly correct to speak of it as being the Tokyo-Rome-Berlin Axis, and then don't forget that General Franco in Spain was backed up by this organization and furnished soldiers and airplanes by them to carry his rebellion to success.

Further, it is my opinion that these same influences are wide spread on our side of the great oceans. You will recall that a short time ago Mexico seized all those British and American oil properties and would doubtless line up on the side of our enemies. And down in South America, the Argentine is giving us every reason to believe that it is most friendly to Germany and would doubtless take sides with it, if and when, it comes to a show-down.

Was it not for the seriousness of the matter, it would be amusing to think of how the English and French, in September of last year, ordered Hitler to stop when he threatened to invade Czeco-Slovakia, and then when he told them "just were to get off", they showed a "yellow streak" big enough to encircle the globe. And well they might have become "feather legged"—they had good reason. It would have been suicide to have done otherwise.

Some two or three days after Hitler "got his orders" from these English and French dignitaries, he condescended to tell them over the radio, part of what he thougt about it.

It happened that I tuned in just in time to get this broadcast. It was an accident, but it was an ear full for just a common every-day citizen of a democracy to listen to. I wondered how high officials of these countries felt about it.

Hitler spoke of them as "The so-called Democracies," and he proceeded to call them "liars, thieves, robbers, and murderers." He said when their candidates were running for office, they promised every conceivable lie to get votes. He said, when they got in office, they stole votes to stay in office, and robbed the public in every way possible. He said when they were asking for votes from the dear people, that they promised to relieve them of tax burdens and said much about Liberty and Freedom; and then when they got in office, they faced about and heaped the taxes and other burdens higher and higher, adding by way of parenthesis that Germany and Italy were the only two free countries on the globe.

When I heard these charges coming over the radio from far off Germany, across the Atlantic, what could I do about it? Just one thing. Admit to myself that there was more truth than poetry in what he said.

He further told them that he intended doing the very thing they said not do—invade Czecho-Slovakia at once.

What did Mr. Chamberlain do about it He immediately 'phoned Hitler requesting a conference and on being granted a hearing, he took a French delegation together with his own and boarded an American-made transport plane, and flew to Munich to see Hitler.

On arrival at Munich, this delegation, headed by Mr. Chamberlain, were frankly told by Mr. Hitler that he needed no advice or suggestions from them, that he would persue his own course, and that they would better mind their own business. We are told that he informed Mr. Chamberlain that, if necessary, Germany was ready and able to send fifty bombing planes over London every hour for twenty-four hours in the day. Think of one bomber every minute, day and night dropping a ton of explosives that will kill every living thing within an eighth of a mile of where it hits, and will do serious damage a quarter of a mile away.

Altough England and France had promised protection to the Czechs; at this conference, they consented for the Germans to over-run and ravish this helpless, but rich and productive country. Chamberlain said that it was agreed with Hitler that he would stop there and not go further in claiming territory or overrunning small and helpless countries adjacent to Germany. But, no sooner than he had subjugated these defenseless people did Hitler wait. Gloating over his success; both in forceful treating with over-awing the powerful democracies, and the conquest of his helpless little neighboring countries; he immediately demanded that Germany be returned the colonial territory taken from her at the close of the World War.

A little later Italy followed suit, and grabbed Albania without rhyme or reason, and now says that it should have its old territorial holding returned.

And ridiculous as it may seem, Italy goes back in her claims to the time of the Roman Empire, more than two thousand years ago or before the time of Christ.

Now, let's see whether there is any danger of these totalitarian countries combining their powerful forces and carrying out their aims to conquer or destroy the entire world.

Two or three years ago, I wrote a letter to our local papers, pointing out our weakness in the air. I tried to point out that the air forces of some five on six countries were far superior to ours, but my power of suggestion was very limited and this I realized.

Now, our President and Congress are beginning to realize how helpless and insignificant we really are.

Recently, many American authorities have visited Germany and have found that they are no longer trying to hide their power or conceal their aims at conquest of Europe, and ultimately the entire world. It now seems to be the aim of Germany to impress its visitors with the idea of how irresistible their air force is; and how useless and foolish resistance would be.

Among the investigators are such as our Lindbergh, Al Williams, S. Paul Johnson, D. W. Tomlinson, G. G. Mason, Lawrence Bell Glenn L. Martin, Sirkorsky. These and other Americans, all well informed on flying and manufacturing aircraft. They tell us that Germany has between fifteen and twenty thousand fighting planes. That it is manufacturing one thousand to two thousand planes per month. That it has thousands of bombers that are able to carry from one to two tons of explosives one to two thousand miles, drop them and return home without stopping for fuel or supplies. They tell us that Germany has other thousands of fast fighting planes, that are so fast that they can leave the ground, go two miles high, and return and land within a fraction over two minutes.

General Vuillemin, head of the French air forces says "Germany is turning out the most powerful war planes in the world, with speed, range, and bomb-carrying capacity in excess of anything hitherto known."

While the Germans are manufacturing nearly two thousand planes per month, England is putting out about two hundred and France seventy-five per month.

Germany has nearly 500,000 men employed in making airplanes, while the United States has 35,000. Italy is only a little behind Germany in army aircraft. You will recall that away back in 1933 she sent twenty-four planes across the ocean and on to the World's Fair in Chicago. That was easily done six years ago when plans were, I would say, not half as well equipped for trans-oceanic flights as now.

Germany, Italy and Japan have a larger, better, and more effective air force than all the other great powers of the world combined; to say nothing of the other countries aligned with, or friendly to them. True, England has a powerful Navy and Russia could muster a mighty army, but it remains to be seen, and appears to be doubtful, if England, France, Russia and whatever smaller countries may go with them will be able to withstand the powerful air forces of Germany and Italy.

It seems that it is reaching a show-down with European countries. If they stand quietly by, they will be taken over one by one, either by Germany or Italy as those two may see fit, while Japan takes over Asia as it says it will.

So it appears the only hope of other European countries is to get together and fight together as one, in what will be, by far, the greatest war ever known.

Now comes the all consuming queston: What is the United States going to do?

Our experience in 1918 was a great lesson. One that those then living will long remember. A lesson that those unborn will be paying for in generations to come. One would certainly say never again.

Verbena Home Demonstration Club

The Verbena Home Demonstration Club met Thursday afternoon for their regular monthly meeting at the High School Home Economics building. Mr. Fant gave an interesting and helpful talk on "How To Select, Feed And Manage The Dairy Cow." He answered questions that were asked and the members found it to be very useful information.

After the roll call and minutes, and old business were attended to, we were told that the projects selected by the Council for next year were: (1) "Home Improvement"; (2) "Clothing," and (3) "Landscaping."

Miss Burkhalter gave the demonstration on testing fabric by burning to see if it was wool, cotton silk or rayon.

Miss Barber gave an interesting talk on textiles. She showed samples of different kinds of fibers.

We adjourned to meet with Mrs. Mitchell in May.

Three new members were added to our roll since the last meeting, as follows: Mrs. Sam Williams, Verbena, Ala., Route 1; Mrs. Aubrey Robinson, Verbena, Ala., and Mrs. C. W. Willams Verbena, Ala. Route 1.

Friendship Club Meets

The Home Demonstration Club members of the Friendship Club met with Mrs Sara Collins for a spend-the-day meeting on Monday March 27, 1939. During the day Miss Barber taught the ladies to make slip covers for the living room furniture.

Having spent a most pleasant and joyous day the club adjourned and will meet in April.

GIRLS 4-H CLUB NEWS

The Mt. Pleasant 4-H Club girls met Tuesday for their regular 4-H Club meeting.

The club was called to order by the President. The secretary-treasurer called the roll. Every member was present.

Mss Barber took up book reports to check them for us to go to camp this summer, hoping each and every one will go.

We were asked to meet again on May 2, to teach us how to can vegetables and fruits.

We all enjoyed the 4-H Club Rally held Friday, March 31.

We want to thank Mr. Breedlove and Miss Barber for the things they have taught us, and the joys that we have shared in working with them.

We ask the Mt. Pelasant 4-H Club girls to meet with us on our next meeting day.—Reporter, Memore Rush.

EXPRESSES APPRECIATION

Editor, Chilton County News:

We wish to take this means of expressing our gratitude to the many friends who gave us a generous suprise on last Friday afternoon.

This most pleasant suprise was sponsored by the home church (Refuge); and was given in honor of our thirty-sixth birthday. A good job was done in making it a real suprise for the pastor.

Many useful packages were presented. The following families were represented, some sending their presents:

W. A. Ray, W. M. Mims, B. L. Powell, J. S. Easterling, J. D. Wells, Phennie Johnson, E. E. Plier, Odis Sewell T. B. Easterling, J. E. Easterling, A. H. Mims, Ollie Easterling, Henry Minor, Bud Mims, Dewey Cleckler, Miss Lorene Cleckler, Pauline Giles, Andrew Minor

Plenty of cake was enjoyed by all present. No words will express our appreciation to each of you.

M. LOCKHART and Family.

SAVE CANCELED STAMPS

Dear Readers:

Please do not overlook this opportunity nor seglect it. Send all the cancelled stamps you possibly can to Box 1928, Birmingham, Alabama. In cutting them from the letters or packages, cut 1-8 inch from the stamp and they wil lsee to getting them off the paper, and sending them to foreign mission center, where they exchange for small sums to help buy Bibles.

Urge your neighbors in Churches and schools to help in this small, yet noble, work.

LILLIE BELL GLASS.

ABOUT COTTON

Editor, Chilton County News:

I will appreciate your printing the following certificate written by Mr. J.D. Cooper:

"This is to certify that I inspected several fields of cotton last year, and in different counties. I am not interested in selling seed, and to my knowledge of all the different kinds inspected, the cotton known as Spear's Upland Long Staple proved to be the best of all the different kinds I had the privilege of seeing. This field, inspected, was grown by Forrest Williams, one mile north-east of Jemison, Ala.

"J. D. COOPER,
April 8, 1939 "Jemison, Ala., Box 81"

"P. S.:—This cotton proved most perfect—running an average of nine seed to the lock and three to five locks to the boll.—J.D.C."

Yours very truly,
FOREST WILLIAMS,
R.F.D. No. 2, Jemison, Alabama.

DR. GRAGG

On the other hand, if we sit and dream idly over this thing and do nothing about it until these totalitarian countries conquest the rest of Europe, it will then be too late to resist. Only one thing to do—just say "here we are; come get us." It is one of the most momentous problems that has ever confronted us. If we go to war, we are "cannon fodder." If we stay out, we face hard times, economic destruction, and probable servitude to a ruthless conqueror.

But I am rambling too far in talking about our world. I must wait for another time to say something about our country, our state, our county, etc.

V. J. GRAGG.

NEW SALEM

Everyone come to Sunday School and preaching service Sunday. We shall appreciate your presence very much.

Don't forget that Sunday is our regular singing day. Please come out and bring your new books and help us to have a good singing.

Beer Industry Presses "Clean-Up"

Montgomery, Ala., April 12—David E. Dunn, director of the Brewers and Alabama Beer Distributors Committee, moved ahead today with preparations to appear before the ABC Board Friday and ask for revocation of licenses in four establishments he charged had "violated both the state law and the industry's code of public decency."

These establishments were cited by Chairman E. Roy Albright of the ABC Board last week to appear Friday and show cause why their licenses should not be revoked, together with three other establisments which were cited upon recommendation of ABC Board field agents.

Meanwhile, investigators for the Beer Committee continued their work of checking retail establishments in various sections of the state where complaints have been filed by private citizens and officials.

Mr. Dunn, who has just completed a tour of the state for conferences with the wholesale distributors who act as "Good Conduct" Committees under the self-regulatory program, said that he had receved universay commendation on the "clean up or close up" drive.

"People in every walk of life," Mr. Dunn said, "have complimented the beer industry for its far-sighted program of insisting that the small minority of bad spots among the retail outlets improve the conduct of their esablishments.

"We have been in operaion exactly one month and I believe we have shown the public and the bad retail dealer that we mean business. The establishments we have taken action against this week were carefully checked by our own men. Their conduct was bringing unfair criticism upon the whole industry which employs more than 5,000 Alabamians and pays more than $800,000 in state taxes annually.

"I want to repeat—we have no quarrel with the law-abiding retail outlet, I am trying to help him preserve his business by insisting that all establishments be conducted in the public interest."

The 1939 reunion of United Confederate Veterans will be held in Montgomery April 20-21.

1230 white Alabamians and 455 Negroes died of cancer in 1937.

Southern Women Reply to Query

Wherever they go, the "Touring Reporters" find eager answers to their question, "Were you helped by CARDUI?"
Of 1297 users queried among those of 12 states, 1206 stated CARDUI benefitted them. That is 93 out of every 100!
Users everywhere are glad to tell how CARDUI has made them want and enjoy food; how, with its help, they gained strength, energy, were thus relieved of the symptoms of "functional dysmenorrhea" due to malnutrition. Many also say that, when symptoms indicate the need, CARDUI in larger doses helps "at the time" to sooth pain.

Mrs. Annie Thacker has returned home after spending the week end in Birmingham with her daughter, Mrs. Edward Bialas.

Miss Lola Pearl Ray spent the week end with Mae Farnces Bruce.

AND THE CROPS LIKE IT TOO, HUH, UNCLE NATCHEL
NOTHING takes the place of a good side dressing with Natural Chilean Nitrate of Soda. The truth of that statement is demonstrated every year on countless farms throughout the South.

Side dress with Chilean Soda and give your crops a natural lift just when they need it. Weeds and grass can't steal it from the plants. Use it regularly so your crops can have full benefit of its natural fertilizing and soil improving qualities.

Natural Soda costs no more — you can get it anywhere.

Prominent Mt. Creek Citizen Died Suddenly

Craven G. Glenn, age 63, widely known resident of Mt Creek, died suddenly early last Tuesday morning while plowing near his home.

Mr. Glenn was said to have stopped his team to adjust his plow, and when he stooped to make the adjustment, he suffered a heart attack. He died almost suddenly.

Funeral services were held from the Mt. Creek Baptist Church Wednesday afternoon at three o'clock with the Rev. Maurice Hodgens in charge. Burial was in the Chestnut Creek cemetery, Cooper, with Spigener Funeral Home in charge.

Mr. Glenn is survived by his widow, one sister, Mrs. Cuba Miller of Florida; one brother, Houston Glenn; two sons, Baker, of Texas and Pinson of Verbena; seven daughters, Mrs. G. O. Gaylor, Birmingham; Mrs. Tom Puckett, Birmingham; Mrs. Perry Norris, Verbena; Miss Ada Glenn, Verbena; Mrs. Leonard Pridgen, Florida; Miss Margaret Glenn, Verbena; Mrs. Bill Ledbetter, Montgomery. He is also survived by six grandchildren.

Active pallbearers were Hugh Champion, Red Rutland, Hubert Hammell, Arthur Colley, Gene Austin and Johnny Wingard. Honorary pallbearers were George Colley, Raymond Duffey, Jack Dennis, J. H. Johnson, Will Austin, A. A. Culver and H. T. Williams.
